TORNADO

Town of Prentice, Wis., Damaged By Wind.

Swedish Church Totally Destroyed.

Milwaukee, June 5.—An Evening Wisconsin special from Prentice, Wis., says:

A tornado struck this place last night. The wind tore up fences and telegraph poles and totally destroyed the Swedish church and tore out the front of S. W. Pierson's store. Many dwellings were damaged and the property loss will be very heavy.

The tornado came in the form of a funnel-shaped cloud from the southwest. The boarding house of J. E. Huff was moved from its foundation, and the Jump river house was badly damaged. Chimneys and window glass throughout the city were demolished. Van Dusen & Co.'s lumber yard suffered heavy damage, some of the lumber being carried half a mile away. No lives are reported lost. Communication with surrounding villages is cut off.

SIGNS OF IMPROVEMENT

Physicians Give Out Most Encouraging Bulletin Concerning Mrs. McKinley, of Any Since Her Return to Washington.

Washington, June 5.—Doctors Sternberg, Johnston and Rixey were in consultation at the White House about half an hour this forenoon, after which the following bulletin was given out at 11 o'clock:

"Mrs. McKinley's physicians report that she has had a very comfortable night and that her general condition is somewhat improved."

Washington, June 5.—The brightest bulletin issued by the attending physicians regarding Mrs. McKinley's condition, since her return to Washington, was given out today after their consultation. It reported that her "general condition" was somewhat improved, but it was remarked that it held out nothing definite for the future. Mrs. McKinley has been unable as yet to take solid food, although it has not been necessary to resort to powerful heart stimulants like nitro-glycerine since her return to Washington. Brandy is administered. Raw egg and chicken broth are her food. After the physicians had gone this morning, the president, accompanied by Representative Tayler, of Ohio, who represents Mr. McKinley's home district in the lower house, went out for a stroll.

Dr. Rixey was at the White House for about twenty minutes shortly before 1 o'clock this forenoon. He said there was no change in Mrs. McKinley's condition. The physicians will not hold another consultation until tomorrow morning.

DOCTORS REORGANIZE

The American Medical Association In Session at St. Paul Adopts a New Constitution By a Strong Vote.

St. Paul, June 5.—At 9 o'clock the sectional meetings for the discussion of topics of interest to the doctors were resumed in various parts of the city. The general business session of the American Medical association was resumed at 11 o'clock. Governor Van Sant, who had been detained yesterday, was present and cordially welcomed the visitors on behalf of the state. Dr. Walker, of Michigan, presented the report of the joint committee on reorganization. The joint committee had given several hours to hearing arguments on the proposed new constitution, and recommended its adoption with several amendments. The changes suggested apply chiefly to representation, but the general plan of state representation according to membership is retained unchanged.

When Dr. Harris, of New York, moved the adoption of the report and of the new constitution, Dr. Bulkley, of New York, who had been the leader of the opposition, seconded the motion, and it carried by a strong vote, although many negative votes were heard. Dr. John A. Wyeth, of New York city, then delivered the annual address on surgery.

MAGAZINE IS BURNING

Twenty Tons of Smokeless Powder at the Mare Island Navy Yard Ignited By Chemical Action.

Vallejo, Cal., June 5.—A magazine at the Mare island navy yard, containing about twenty tons of smokeless powder, became ignited this morning by chemical action. The powder did not explode, but generated enough gas and smoke to force the top of the magazine. The powder is now slowly burning up. It is far removed from the black powder, and there is no danger of an explosion. The magazine is a fine one, constructed in 1857 at a cost of several hundred thousand dollars. It will be a total loss. It is located on the end of the island, and there seems to be no danger of an explosion or of damage to any of the buildings except the magazine.

DESPERATE.

Three Prisoners Take Wild Chance of Escape and Lose.

Toronto, Ont., June 5.—Frank Rutledge, Frank Rice and Frank Jones, three alleged bank burglars extradited from Chicago and on trial here for robbery of a private bank at Aurora, were being transferred fom the court room to the jail today in a cab with Police Officers Boyd and Stewart. The three prisoners were handcuffed together. When the rig was approaching the jail an unknown person threw three loaded revolvers into the cab. Jones caught one of the weapons and shot Officer Boyd. Officer Stewart opened fire on Jones, shooting him in the arm and groin. The prisoners then leaped from the cab and boarding a passing street car ordered the motorman to proceed faster. The latter removed the arm of the motor and struck Rutledge over the head, while the conductor threw off the trolley pole from the wire, bringing the car to a standstill. The men were then overpowered. Jones is in the hospital and will lose his arm if he recovers.

NUMBER SIXTY.

Cape, Town, June 5.—The garrison of Jamestown, Cape Colony, which surrendered to Kritzinger's command Sunday, June 2, numbered sixty men in all. Kritzinger's force is estimated to have totaled 1000 men. The British killed twelve and wounded fifteen Boers before they were overpowered by numbers.

TO GO HOME.

Moulton Indicted, Released, and Will Be Taken South.

New York, June 5.—It was learned today that Richard Hayden Moulton, the young man who attempted to shoot May Buckley, an actress, about two months ago in a Broadway rathskeller, was indicted on Monday last by the grand jury, under the name of Richard H. Morris, on the complaint of John D. Leffingwell. Yesterday he was discharged on his own recognizance by Judge Cowin. Today Moulton was removed from the prison ward in Bellevue hospital to another ward in the same hospital. He will be taken South in a short time by his mother.

POOR OUTLOOK.

San Francisco, June 5.—The prospects for settling the machinists' strike here are less promising than at any time since May 20. During the past few days employers have refused to listen to suggestions of any sort looking toward a settlement and declare that, in view of the convention of the Metal Trades' association, which will convene at New York June 11, it would be folly for a small number of employers on the Pacific coast to make rates or terms without knowing what the East is going to do.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE

Vain Attempts of Attorneys to Bring Out Its Mysteries.

Mrs. Woodbury Testifies In Her Suit Against Mrs. Eddy.

But Little Learned Owing to Objections of the Lawyers.

Boston, June 5.—Frederick W. Peabody, attorney for the plaintiff, began his argument in the $150,000 libel suit of Mrs. Josephine Curtis Woodbury against Mrs. Mary Baker Eddy today. Taking up the questions as to whether the alleged libel was authorized by Mrs. Eddy, Mr. Peabody said:

"Mrs. Eddy is the autocrat of Christian Science, and has full power over the church and the society. When Mrs. Eddy desired the society to publish and disseminate the doctrines of Christian Science as taught by her, she left it to their discretion as to what should be done with it."

Mr. Elder, in reply, said Mrs. Eddy had relieved herself of all power by conferring it upon the trustees, and the bylaws admit that it is only on very important matters that she is consulted. Judge Bell ruled that the testimony of Mrs. Helen M. Winchester, given on this point yesterday, could not stand. With regard to the letters which Judge Bell took for decision, as to their admission, he announced that they should be admitted as evidence.

Mrs. Woodbury was the first witness today. Mr. Peabody at once plunged into the mysteries of Christian Science, some of which developed in yesterday's evidence, regarding correspondence between Mrs. Woodbury and Mrs. Eddy. Taking up a communication from Mrs. Eddy, in which she said that Mrs. Woodbury should remain outside of the First Church of Christ until she had ceased to be controlled by Mam.—(interpreted malicious animal magnetism)—counsel asked witness if she had ever practiced Mac, which is understood to mean "Malicious animal control." Mrs. Woodbury smiled as she replied, no. At this point a question as to Mrs. Woodbury's children brought out the information that she has three, a daughter of 24, a son of 20 and a son of 11 years.

Mr. Peabody devoted much time to efforts to show the relations existing between the followers of Christian Science and Mrs. Eddy. At every point the lawyers for the respondent interposed objections. Some of these were sustained, some overruled, an exception being taken to each ruling. One question admitted by the court was: "What is the belief of the members of the First church as to Mrs. Eddy, its founder?"

Mrs. Woodbury answered: "The members believe in the infallibility of Mrs. Eddy and of 'Science and Health,' and that Mrs. Eddy is a woman especially designated by God to reveal the work of Christian Science."

There was a protracted battle between the lawyers over a question the apparent purpose of which was to show that the members of the church believed that Mrs. Eddy was an instrument used by God to perform His work.

Mr. Peabody made repeated attempts to formulate a question covering the subject, but each time he met with objections, which the court sustained. At length the lawyer gave up and Mrs. Woodbury retired, as the other side did not desire to ask her any questions.

WILL NOT GO.

President Cannot Make Promised Trip to Buffalo Exposition.

Washington, June 5.—The president will not be able to be at the Pan-American exposition at Buffalo on June 13, which was designated as president's day. After the abandonment of the Northwestern portion of the presidential tour, the improvement in Mrs. McKinley's condition inspired the managers of the exposition to hope that the president would be able to keep his engagement at Buffalo, but since returning to Washington Mrs. McKinley's condition has been so dangerous that it is considered idle to speculate upon the possibility of his leaving her for forty-eight hours.

France Secures £20,000 For Her Armenian Massacre Claim.

Constantinople, June 5.—The French embassy is being felicitated by the officials of the other embassies for securing the settlement of its Armenian massacre claim. The porte has just paid £20,000, the balance of the compensation demanded for French losses.

A LEGAL BATTLE.

The Kennedy Case Will Thus Resolve Itself.

Kansas City, June 5.—It was evident that when the trial of Lulu Prince Kennedy for the murder of her husband, Philip H. Kennedy was resumed today that the case will resolve itself into a legal battle. The defense, according to the statements of Mrs. Kennedy's attorneys, will work for instructions from Judge Wofford that the jury must find the prisoner guilty of murder in the first degree and assess capital punishment, or acquit her. Prosecutor Hadley will, on the other hand, it is stated, plead for instructions for guilt in a lesser degree, making possible a short sentence.

WON DERBY

W. C. Whitney's Colt Took the First Money.

Epsom Downs a Bewildering Spectacle.

London, June 5.—The widespread interest in this year's Derby, owing to the open character of the race, was testified to by the vast numbers that left London throughout the morning for Epsom. From an early hour the roads and railroads southward were densely thronged with a strange medley of race goers. The road, as usual, was favored by everyone able to secure room in any kind of conveyance, and a continuous stream of every conceivable type of vehicle, from the luxurious four-in-hand to the donkey carts, rolled towards the famous Downs. An exceptional number of motors evidenced the growing popularity of automobilism. Huge crowds gathered at the main points along the route to watch the quaint scenes only witnessed on Derby day. The Nadine colt (Maher) won the juvenile plate of 200 sovereigns for 2-year-olds. Distance, five furlongs.

Whitney's Volodyovski won the derby. The conditions of the race were as follows:

The derby stakes of 6000 sovereigns, by subscription of 50 sovereigns each; for 3-year-olds; the nominator of the winner to receive 500 sovereigns, the owner of the second horse 300, and the owner of the third 200 sovereigns out of the stakes; about one mile and a half. There were 279 subscribers. The result in detail was as follows:

William C. Whitney's brown colt, Volodyovski (L. Reiff), Florizel II—La Reine, first; the duke of Portland's bay colt William the Third, St. Simon-Gravitat, second; Douglas Baird's chestnut colt Veroneza, Donovan-Maize, third. Twenty-five horses started.

Epsom, June 5.—Although it was clear that the war in South Africa still keeps many habitues away, today's contest for the British turf was witnessed by much greater crowds than for some years past. The weather was all that could be wished for this, the people's picnic. Vehicles first rolled in by twos and threes and then by dozens and scores until the white road leading to the downs smoked with the dust of the vast heterogeneous cavalcade, and the air was filled with a weird medley from tin trumpets, barrel organs and cornets.

The trains brought thousands of people from all directions and later came the coaches and carriages, dropping their occupants at the entrances of the grounds until they were filled. Such a display of fashion and bright colors had not been seen in England since the outbreak of the war. Many old and well-known patrons of the turf were seen, though such favorites as King Edward and Lord Rosebery were necessarily absent, owing to the official period of morning for Queen Victoria being still unexpired. Khaki was even more conspicuous than last year when the popular victory of the then prince of Wales diamond jubilee was coincident with Lord Roberts' entry into Johannesburg.

Foxhall Keene's Olympian (Henry) led until a quarter of a mile from home when Volodyovski drew to the front, followed by William the Third, and won by three-quarters of a length. Four lengths separated the second and third horses, Floriform was fourth.

The betting was 5 to 2 against Volodyovski, 100 to 7 against William the Third, and 40 to 1 against Veronez. The starters were: Volodyovski (L. Reiff), Floriform (Martin) Revenue, William the Third, Royal Rogue, Veronez, Sang Bleu, Wargrave, Pietermaritzburg, H. R. H., Veles, Indian, Royal George, Cottager Olympian (Henry), Orchid, Tantalus (Maher), Lord Bobs, St. Maclou, Erskin, Handicapper, Doricles, Clague, Prince Charles II (Turner) and Osboch.

Volodyovski won in record time, 2:45.

REVIVAL OF COURAGE

Boers Are Filled With a Determination to Push the Conflict Which Would Seem to Put an End to Peace Rumors.

New York, June 5.—A dispatch to the Tribune from London says: Military men were not surprised when the official story of the battle of Vlakfontein came out yesterday. They had suspected, from the heavy British losses, that the Boer attack was a surprise, but had not guessed that the rear guard of Dixon's force had been rushed and that two guns had been temporarily captured before the main body could be rallied for their recovery. This engagement occurred further west than was at first reported, and communications with Pretoria were interrupted. Delarey fought with desperate energy and was repulsed after he had secured important advantages.

Clearly the war has not yet reached the police stage. The Boers proved once more that they could plan a battle with skill and, while they were driven off, they made an effective demonstration of fighting force, which would seem to put an end to all rumors of peace negotiations. This is the interpretation which Mr. Kruger's corps of advisers in Holland place upon it. An irrepressible conflict goes on with a revival of courage on the Boer side.

SITUATION IS CRITICAL

Grave Crisis Is at Hand For Spain and the Government Must Act With Energy to Retain Its Power.

Madrid, June 5.—The situation throughout Spain remains critical. Nominal tranquility has been restored at Coruna, but the Octroi offices are still occupied by gendarmes and arrests continue to be made. A general strike is threatened owing to the refusal of one factory to employ 300 workmen. The railroad men have struck at Vigo and anarchist excitement is rife in Barcelona, where the "reds" met in defiance of the civil governor's prohibition and passed secret resolutions.

Senor Gamezo, leader of the dissident Liberals, in an interview, characterized the crisis as an exceedingly grave moment for Spain, adding:

"The government must act with great energy with regard to the Catlan and separatist movement to prevent the evil from being irremediable."

FOR THE NAVY

Washington, June 5.—The president today made the following appointments in the navy:

Cluverius, Jonas H. Holden, Earl P. Jessup, Thomas A. Kearney, Arthur MacArthur, Jr., Charles M. Toser. Chaplain, rank of lieutenant—Joseph F. MacGrail. Assistant surgeon, rank of lieutenant, junior grade—George M. Mavers. Chief gallmaker, to rank with, but after ensigns—Joseph T. Bryne. To be a major in the marine corps—George Barnett.

RECEIVED BY EMPEROR.

Berlin, June 5.—Herr Dalen, of the Hamburg-American steamship company took luncheon with Emperor William yesterday and gave his majesty an account of his visit to America. The emperor also received the widow of Baron Von Ketteler.

DIVIDED.

Liberal Party at Loggerheads on Policy of African War.

New York, June 5.—John Morley, says a Tribune dispatch from London, has always been noted as one of the ablest platform speakers in Great Britain and he worthily upheld his reputation in this respect at Montrose. While Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman a few days ago at Edinburgh was content to taunt the government with spending a lot of money in order to bring the hostilities in South Africa to a successful conclusion. Mr. Morley denounced the war and the policy of the British government that led up to it in no uncertain terms. Nothing perhaps serves to illustrate more forcibly the almost hopeless division in this question in the ranks of the Liberal party.

CHANGE IS MADE

Northern Passenger Agent J. G. Mooney Has Been Transferred.

Will Represent the Great Northern Road In Philadelphia.

L. D. Kitchell of Winnipeg Is to Succeed Him Here.

J. G. Mooney, northern passenger agent of the Eastern Minnesota railway, has been transferred to Philadelphia, where he will be in the passenger department of the Great Northern railway. There have been several rumored changes announced, but all were incorrect. Mr. Mooney has been in Duluth in his present capacity for three years and has been a popular official. He regrets leaving the city, but says that the change is in general a very satisfactory one to him. Mrs. Mooney's home is in New York, and this will take her back very close to there. Mr. Mooney himself comes from New York, and enjoys the prospect of getting back again into the effete East. Before coming to Duluth he was at Cincinnati with the Chicago Great Western road, representing its passenger interests in that city. Mr. and Mrs. Mooney will leave for the East in about a week.

L. D. Kitchell, of Winnipeg, will succeed Mr. Mooney at Duluth. He is said to be one of the most popular railroad men in the Northwest. Like Mr. Mooney, he came from Cincinnati. In view of Mr. Kitchell's prospective residence here, it will be interesting to know that the Winnipeg papers announce that he was married this week in Cincinnati.

To Meet Saturday.

The Duluth Historical and Scientific association will hold a meeting next Saturday night in the High School building, and a large attendance is expected. There have been no meetings of the association for two months, and during that time a number of matters have accumulated that are to be attended to at Saturday's meeting. A number of interesting papers are under way, and while none will be ready to be heard Saturday, arrangements for hearing them at future meetings will be made at that time, as well as preparations for papers to continue the meetings and to give them interest. The meeting will be held in the superintendent's office in the High School building.

You know about the dance tonight. Oatka Auditorium.

FABULOUS

Amount Offered Swedish Minister For Mountain of Granite.

Minneapolis, June 5.—In Rev. Gustaf Floden, the chaplain of the royal guard of Sweden, Minneapolis is now entertaining a man who within a very short time may be known as the richest man in the world. Mr. Floden is the owner of a hill of black granite, for which, it is asserted, he has been offered $800,000,000 by a German syndicate. He has not as yet decided to accept this almost fabulous sum, but is biding his time. On his voyage to this country he was interviewed by a representative of an English syndicate, and requested to postpone the acceptance of any bid until an offer had been made by the Englishman. Mr. Floden feels satisfied that his property is worth much more than the German offer.

Mr. Floden is at present a guest of Rev. O. A. Tofteen, rector of St. Angarius Swedish Episcopal church, and is not at all averse to discussing his financial prospects. When seen by a Times reporter last evening he gave an interesting account of the manner in which he came in possession of the property.

Mr. Floden is rector of a parish known ase Lindberg, a few miles south of Gothenburg. He was walking along the road one day a few months ago when he noticed a peculiar rock on the ground. He picked it up, and, being a geologist, he saw that it was black granite. It is a rock that is much harded than the ordinary granite, and consequently it is possible to give it a finer polish. In fact, he says, black granite will receive a finer polish than the finest marble. Among geologists the rick is sometimes referred to as a granite-marble. It is used entirely for ornamental purposes. Mr. Floden traced the piece of granite to the hill, and satisfied himself that the interior was one mass of the precious rock. He went to the owner upon whose property the mountain was located and asked what he would sell it for. The peasant said he would give him the hill if he would only take it off his hands. The owner also said that the immense hill was a home for foxes that came down and killed his stock. Mr. Floden finally gave him an amount equal to $14,000. Since then the hill has been carefully examined, and it has been ascertained that the granite runs to a great depth.

When it was learned what an immense source of wealth was in Mr. Floden's possession an offer of $10,000,000 was made by the Bank of Denmark, but was promptly declined. Later the offer of the German syndicate was made.

Mr. Floden is not in America in the interest of his rich possession, but is here as a representative of the state church of Sweden for the purpose of studying church conditions. As such he is paying attention solely to the Swedish Episcopal church, recognizing it as a sister of the Church of Sweden. Other Swedish churches he looks upon only as sectarian and not within the scope of his investigation. Mr. Floden will attend the meeting of the Episcopal diocesan council in Winona today, a special invitation having been extended to him by Bishop Whipple. He will return to the Twin Cities Saturday and will leave for the East on Sunday.

HOW IT HAPPENED.

Incident Caused Circulation of Fake Story.

La Crosse, Wis., June 5.—The unique method taken by a farmer near Savana to stop and board a limited Chicago, Burlington & Quincy train has been found to be the source of the story spread broadcast that several men had attempted to hold up the train. He wished to go north with a couple of other men, and there being no depot near, put a few railroad torpedoes on the track, and the engineer, hearing the explosions, put on the air brakes and stopped. The story appearing in the papers was to the effect that the engineer, suspecting a robbery was being attempted, opened the throttle wider and dashed past the robbers.

GOOD FEELING.

Revival In England By Visit of the Americans.

New York, June 5.—According to a dispatch to the Tribune on the subject of the presence of the delegates from the New York chamber of commerce in London, some curious calculations have been published respecting the aggregate o fthe wealth of twenty or more of these American visitors including Andrew Carnegie and J. P. Morgan. These figures add weight to their disclaimers that there can be any critical contest between the two countries respecing the control of foreign markets, and support the conclusion that, as there is room enough in Asia for England and Russia, so also Anglo-Saxon energy does not require two worlds in place of one. There is already an evidence of a revival of good feeling in consequence of the visit of American delegates and their sensible comments upon industrial rivalries.

MARCH IS BEGUN

The Third Regiment Is On Its Tramp To Brainerd.

Duluth Companies First To Arrive at the Rendezvous.

Total of 439 Men---The Band Makes Big Hit.

Milaca, June 5.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Duluth companies were the first to reach the point of mobilization. They got into Milaca at 7 o'clock this morning after laying over four hours at Sandstone. The remaining seven companies did not get in till noon.

The march for Brainerd began this afternoon at 3 o'clock and the regiment will probably not cover more than eight miles before going into camp this evening. The Duluth men, and, in fact, the men of the entire regiment, are in excellent health, and look forward enthusiastically to a pleasant and instructive tour of field service.

The town of Milaca is very gaily decorated and the citizens celebrated the arrival of the Third with a holiday.

As soon as the seven companies from the other parts of the state arrived preparations were made for dinner. The commissary department had everything nicely arranged and there was not a single hitch.

The full quota of staff officers is here including: Col. C. A. Van Duzee, St. Paul; Lieut. Col. C. E. Johnson, Mankato; Maj. E. S. Persons, Zumbrota; Maj. F. E. Resche, Duluth; Capt. F. L. Barker, St. Paul, adjutant; Lieut. F. W. Mattson, St. Paul, quartermster; Lieut. R. R. Sigmond, Zumbrota, commissary, and battalion adjutants, Lieut. C. C. Salter, Duluth; Lieut. R. G. Staples, Maple Island and Lieut. W. S. Brisbin, St. Paul.

The various companies report the following number of men ready for the march:

| | |
| Company B, Anoka | 48 |
| Company C, Duluth | 58 |
| Company D, Zumbrota | 51 |
| Company E, St. Paul | 49 |
| Company F, Brainerd | 48 |
| Company G, Princeton | 51 |
| Company H, Oliva | 43 |
| Company I, Morris | 40 |

The band reports 28 men, bringing the total up to 439.

The new Third Regiment band has made a great hit with the regiment. It is by far the best band the regiment has ever had, and that is saying much.

MANY TO SEE THEM OFF.

There was a large crowd out to see the Duluth guardsmen off to Milaca last night. Maj. Bidwell of the first battalion was unable to accompany the regiment, but may join it later. Maj. Resche reported at Milaca, but will have to return to Duluth tomorrow. He, too, may join the regiment again.

Company C will be given two days off during the march, during which time the members will go to St. Paul to present their famous "Military Carnival." The carnival will also be presented at Brainerd for the benefit of the regiment and at the request of Col. Van Duzee.

Governor Van Sant will join the regiment for a day at some point along the line of march, and Adjt. Gen. E. D. Libbey and staff will meet the regiment at Brainerd.

WHEATON

May Be Chosen President of the Medical Association.

St. Paul, June 5.—The most likely candidate for the presidency of the American Medical association is Dr. C. A. Wheaton, of St. Paul.

There are two other candidates, Dr. Frank Billings, of Chicago, and D. Wyeth, of New York, both of whom are most eminent physicians.

Few men, however, stand higher in the profession than Dr. Wheaton, and as St. Paul has a man who could undoubtedly fill the office with honor not only to himself but also to the association, there is a strong sentiment among the delegates in his favor.

Minnesota men, including Minneapolis physicians, and those from other points of the state, as well as the members of the profession in St. Paul, are working hard for him, and a caucus, it is expected, will be held some time today.

Dr. Wheaton was for several years dean of the college of surgery at the state university, and is now consulting surgeon for many of the great railroads that center in the Twin Cities.

Want Early Closing.

Last night a large number attended the lecture by Rev. Olof Bodien, of Minneapolis, at the Swedish Baptist church on Nineteenth avenue west. The lecture was very interesting and instructive. Mr. Bodien expressed his pleasure at meeting old friends here that he had been acquainted with since 1884, when he was missionary for Minnesota. He told some pleasant recollections of his prolonged visit to Duluth that year, when it was a small place and West Superior was not built. It was only swamps where that city now stands. He said he was offered that year a whole block in Duluth if he only paix the taxes, but not being a financier he declined the offer. The subject discussed was the great religious movement in Dolorne, Sweden, in 1840. The grand religious awakening that took place then was a wonderful movement, he said. Many thrilling experiences were related; how those gathered in homes reading their Bibles were arrested and sentenced to heavy punishment. The movement spread rapidly. Hundreds and thousands could not satisfy themselves with cold dogmas, so they studied God's word and tried to lead better lives. As the time went on there came able leaders, and the great revival opened to other parts of the country. These movements had a great bearing on the promotion of religious liberty in Sweden. The public opinion today sustains religious freedom in our old land, he said, and those that prosecuted others for independent religious belief are now better and more intelligent.

Rev. Mr. Bodien left this afternoon for Minneapolis.

SENSATION.

Gov. McSweeny Gives Senator Tillman a Pointer.

Columbia, S. C., June 5.—Decidedly the most sensational development in the senatorial tangle in this state is a letter which Governor McSweeny sent to Senator Tillman today. In his communication the governor informed Senator Tillman that if he "still wishes to resign and will send to this office an unconditional resignation I will exercise the authority and power vested in me by the people." This means that the governor will accept Senator Tillman's resignation if it shall be formulated on that line.

DEEPLY STIRRED

People of Honolulu Astounded at Sensations Recently Developed.

Honolulu, May 28, via San Francisco, June 5.—Sensations that have deeply stirred Honolulu have grown out of the investigations of the grand jury summoned by Circuit Judge Humphreys to investigate charges of bribery in the legislature.

Last Saturday three of the best known lawyers of Honolulu—Gen. A. H. Hartwell, W. A. Kinney and S. M. Ballou—were sentenced to thirty days in jail for contempt of court by Judge Humphreys, but before they reached the prison all were released by pardon by Acting Governor Cooper. The sentences were on account of an affidavit which the attorneys attempted to read and file in Humphreys' court to show, on motion for a change of venue, the judge's personal bias against Editor Smith of the Advertiser, who was indicted by the grand jury for perjury. On the storm raised by these proceedings the grand jury's investigations of the bribery charges have been lost sight of, but the jury is still in session.

STEADY WORK

Woman Suffragists Put In Busy Day at Minneapolis.

Minneapolis, June 5.—The National American Woman's Suffrage association put in the last day of its convention here at seady work. The amendment to the by-laws making the annual conventions movable, instead of in Washington every other year was defeated on the appeal of Susan B. Anthony, who wanted the conventions to be object lessons to congress. Invitations were received for the convention of 1903 from Milwaukee and Atlantic City and from Miss Anthony in behalf of New Orleans. It was decided that a conference should be held in some state capital in the years of Washington conventions and the invitation of the exposition management at Charleston, S. C., for such a conference next year was received.

It was decided that the Banker legacy of $8000 be made a special fund for campaign work.

FOUL PLAY.

Chicago, June 5.—From what at first appeared to be a clear case of suicide, when the body of a man, supposed to be Joseph Ennis, was found lying in the bushes near the Jackson park boat house last Thursday morning, recent developments now point to a possible murder for purpose of robbery.

Walter Adams, of Fairfield, Minn., arrived in Chicago and identified the body as that of his half brother, John Adams, and besides this gave information to the police which has renewed interest in the case. According to Walter Adams' statement his brother came to Chicago with a large sum of money. It has not yet been discovered that he used it in any business enterprise.

Inasmuch as only a few cents in change was found on the body, the motive of killing for robbery is apparent to those working on the case.

John Adams, according to information which his brother Walter gave to the police, was a wealthy rancher and mine owner, living near Butte, Mont. It is believed that he came to Chicago on a vacation and that he brought at least $1000 with him.

At the coroner's inquest it was shown that he registered at the Hotel Veley, 165 Clark street, May 24, under the name of Joseph Ennis. The address given was Simply Anaconda, no state being mentioned on the hotel register.

The hotel clerk testified that he seemed to have plenty of money and in paying any small bill often flashed a large roll of paper money. In spite of this fact and because no friend of the man had been discovered the jury brought in a verdict of suicide on the afternoon of the day the body was found. Now the half-brother of the dead man points out several indications that the case was one of murder and not suicide. Inspector Hunt has offered the brother all possible aid in his attempt to trace out the case.

ASKS INJUNCTION.

Another Attempt to Block Copper Deal.

New York, June 5.—Flavel McGee, attorney, went before Vice Chancellor Stevens, in Jersey City today, and applied for an injunction to prevent the Amalgamated Copper company from carrying out at its meeting tomorrow, the deal for an increase of its capital stock to absorb the Boston and Montana and the Butte and Boston companies.

DR. STANLEY RELEASED.

New York, June 5.—Dr. Kirk Stanley was arraigned before Coroner Baisch today. The coroner said his hope to hear that the dead priest was not poisoned had been realized, and it gave him much pleasure to release Stanley from custody. Stanley shook hands with the coroner and others and left the court room.

Fourth of July Races.

The prospect for successful races at the driving park on the Fourth of July grows brighter every day. The committee, of which Paul Sharvy is chairman, has received assurances that a number of flyers owned in the Northwest will be here. The races have been arranged for and the committee promises that they will be the very finest Duluth has ever had. They are to be strictly on the square or no money paid. A balloon ascension is to be another of the attractions. All this will cost about $650 and the committee is under the necessity of raising considerable money. The general finance committee of the celebration will furnish part of it and in addition the committee will realize what it can out of the sale of the privileges on the grounds. These will be valuable and will undoubtedly be in demand, for the park will undoubtedly be crowded all day.

Hamaker-Pugh.

Jacob G. Hamaker, physical director of the Young Men's Christian association, was married to Miss Lillian Rugh, at Abiline, Kas., this morning at 10 o'clock. The announcement is somewhat of a surprise to Mr. Hamaker's many friends here.

After the wedding this morning Mr. and Mrs. Hamaker left for a short wedding trip South, and are expected in Duluth next Wednesday, where they will be at home at No. 426 First avenue west.

Sheehy Is Mulcted.

Joe Sheehy's chances before a jury seem to be worse than his chances before a body of aldermen. Yesterday afternoon, in the municipal court, a verdict was returned against him for $75.

It was brought by Thomas J. Hamilton, on the ground that Mr. Sheeny had hired himself and two others to work for the Swan River Logging company at Hibbing, and had secured a fee from them. On arriving at Hibbing they found that Mr. Sheehy had no right to hire for that concern. They brought the action through Hamilton, alleging that the employment agent secured their money fraudulently.

The jury was out but a short time and returned the verdict for the entire amount sued for.

Good Work Rewarded.

Here's another compliment to Duluth's fire fighters. Chief Black has received a check of $100 from the Mitchell & McClure company as a token of the company's appreciation of the work at the recent West Duluth fire.

The chief turned the check over to the treasurer of the Firemen's Relief association, where it will be used for the benefit of the firemen or their families in case of accident.

The annual inspection of the fire department will be held at 1:30 tomorrow afternoon.

Many Going to Mankato.

There will be an important meeting of all delegates to the convention of the State Federation of Labor in the office of the Labor World tomorrow evening at 8 o'clock.

Duluth will be represented at Mankato by one of the largest and most representative delegations ever sent from this city. Many questions of importance to organized labor will come before the convention, and the Duluth delegation will play an important part. The delegation will also look after the interests of William E. McEwen, who is candidate for re-election as state secretary.

A number of the delegates will leave here on Friday evening and others on Saturday.

Coming Is Delayed.

ANXIOUS FOR TRADE

Merchants Discuss the Excursion Business Into Duluth.

They Want to Get More Business From Them.

Committee Will Be Named to Take Matter Up.

The meeting of the merchants and business men of the city, at the city hall last evening, to consider the matter of trade excursions, was not as well attended as had been hoped, but the right spirit seemed to prevail. As a result of last night's meeting a committee of three business men will be appointed to act in conjunction with Secretary Hill, of the Duluth Improvement association, and call on the different railroad officials to see what can be done in the way of trade excursions over the roads entering the city, from all the towns and cities that are tributary to the head of the lake.

There has been an undercurrent of feeling among some of the merchants that trade excursions would be far more profitable to them than the excursions bringing people several hundred miles for the purpose of sightseeing and to be entertained with the money put up by the Duluth merchants. There is a difference of opinion as to the practicability of having trade excursions and the discussion was very interesting.

I. Freimuth was chosen chairman of the meeting. Mr. Hill explained his reason for calling the meeting. He said that, according to the newspapers, there was a difference of opinion as to the excursion business and it was the object of the meeting to have an explanation of the difficulty in order that the merchants and the Improvement association might have a better understanding and work together more harmoniously. Mr. Hill outlined the work he has been accomplishing in the way of excursions and the preparations for taking care of the crowds of people that come to the city. He gave the merchants an idea of his way of advertising the excursions in the towns that are reached by low rate fares on the railroads. His plan thus far has been to get the people here without antagonizing anybody. Mr. Hill said that the excursion that will come from Morris next week will probably bring 2000 or more people to the city to remain three days. These people will have to be fed and lodged. This will require food, beds, bedding, carpeting, etc., and the merchants will get the direct benefit of the money that they leave, and Mr. Hill estimates that at about $5 a head.

Mr. Hill said that it had been his experience in an Illinois city, near Chicago, that where the Chicago merchants advertised trade excursions to draw the people away from the home town to trade, the merchants of the latter place sent a delegation to the railroad company and, under the threat of taking away their freight business, put a stop to the excursion business.

Mr. Hill gave the reasons of some of the railroad companies for refusing in previous years to run trade excursions into the city from the nearby towns, the main argument being the lack of cars and the disarrangement that it would cause in some of the great labor centers in Northern Minnesota. He held that excursions from the Wisconsin towns would pass through West Superior and the merchants there would do their best to head off the excursionists from coming to Duluth. The railroads will ask a guarantee of about $150 and some have such an agreement with other roads as to the excursion business that it would require a guarantee of at least $400 to get excursions started from some of the neighboring cities that have been considered by the merchants. Besides this, he holds that the merchants in those towns will do their best to run down Duluth and advise the people that if they must go out of town to trade, to go to St. Paul and Minneapolis.

J. M. Giddings, of the Silberstein & Bondy company, made a very earnest talk from the merchants' point of view. He acknowledged that Mr. Hill might be right in some things, while in others it was as possible that he was wrong. Mr. Giddings believes that it is the sentiment of the business men that if the business men are not to get results from the money they put into the excursion business they will stop putting up their money. Mr. Giddings' idea is that people coming from several hundred miles away, those who are not reached by the local papers, and are not familiar with the Duluth stores and the Duluth business men, will spend very little money in the city, while on the other hand, the people in the nearby towns are more or less familiar with the places of business here, and judicious advertising, leading up to a trade excursion, would bring results. Mr. Giddings cited instances where other merchants in other cities are getting up successful trade excursions from the surrounding country. He does not take much stock in the argument against antagonizing the country merchant. He holds that it is a business proposition, and the merchants are all out for the business, that the Twin City mercantile establishments work as hard as they can to get Duluth trade, yet the merchants here regard such efforts as entirely legitimate. Mr. Giddings further believes that if the Duluth merchants did go into the trade excursion idea, they have enough tact and business sense to know how to go at it without antagonizing anybody. Mr. Giddings paid Mr. Hill a nice compliment for his work, but suggested that from the merchants' standpoint the excursion business has not yet been carried up to the desired point, but he believed the merchants and the Improvement association could work together harmoniously to bring about the desired results.

Mr. Giddings urged the formation of a business men's association, the establishment of a sinking fund to draw from for guarantees to the railroad companies, get business excursions, bring the people to the city, and last, but not least, get the business.

Mr. Freimuth also talked along the lines of trade excursions. He said that if the business men had any kick coming they had nobody to kick but themselves, because they have never turned out when there was a meeting called in their interests. Mr. Ferimuth intimated that some of the people that have received the greatest benefits from the excursion business to the city have been backward in donating money toward keeping up the excursion business, and this view was confirmed by Mr. Hill.

Mr. Freimuth thought some mistakes have been made in the past in getting excursions into the city late on Saturday to remain over Sunday. While the idea was all right for the benefit of the sightseers, the merchants get no return whatever. He believes in getting excursions into the city early in the forenoon, so that the people may have time to shop as well as look around. Mr. Freimuth spoke earnestly for a harmonious movement among the merchants if anything is to be attempted along the line of trade excursions.

Bishop McGolrick, who was an interested listener to the arguments last evening, also made a talk along trade lines that was very well received. Bishop McGolrick said his work had carried him among the towns all over the Northwest that are really tributary to Duluth, but he found on inquiry that with but few exceptions the merchants were getting their supplies from the Twin Cities. He believes that numerous excursions to this city will result in getting people acquainted with Duluth goods, and the demand that they will make will cause their home merchants to patronize Duluth wholesalers. He advised harmony along the line of work between the merchants and the Improvement association.

Messrs. Rice and Moye, representing the Patrick-Granger and Marshall-Wells companies advised against the advertising of trade excursions pure and simple, for the reason that it would antagonize outside merchants, and the local concerns would be the losers in the long run. Mr. Moye held that the experience of other cities has been that trade excursions are not advisable from the trade standpoint; that the best plan is to get the people here and then impress them with the advantages to be derived in trading in Duluth.

One of the features of the meeting was the talk given by Mr. Hill, in which he stated very plainly that the object of the Duluth Improvement association is something more than to help out a few stores in the city. The association is laboring to get people to come here and live, pay taxes, induce manufacturers to locate their factories here, and the many people employed in them will mean more business for the merchant. Mr. Hill spoke very warmly of the action of men connected with large interests in the city that have refused to donate a cent toward supporting the association in its work for the city, yet who will turn over to it all the letters of inquiry received for the secretary to answer. Mr. Hill read letters from some of the officers of the new steel company that are to come to Duluth to live, and who asked for all information possible about the city. He said there were others in view who will come if everything is satisfactory. He has letters from manufacturers who are looking for more suitable locations than they at present occupy. In order to keep up with the expenses entailed in attending to the correspondence and getting out suitable literature, Mr. Hill says that it costs money, and unless the association receives better support, its work will soon be at an end.

EXPENSIVE.

Insurance Commissioner Thinks Companies Spend Too Much.

One of the excuses that have been given for high rents in Duluth is that the insurance companies are not making much money, so they have to charge high premiums. Insurance Commissioner Dearth, in his report to the governor, says a little that is very pertinent in this connection.

He says that the business done by the fire insurance companies licensed in this state shows that they will have to do something to reduce managing expenses and the losses from fires, or an increase in premium rates will result. Increase in the value of investments during the past two years saved the companies from a loss of $8,000,000 and enabled them to increase their reserve by more than $1,000,000, but Commissioner Dearth says that the rate of 42 per cent of expenses to premium receipts is too heavy to give the public the necessary security. He thinks that the companies might easily reduce the expenses of management.

According to his report, from 35 to 40 per cent of the fires in Minnesota last year were of incendiary origin, and the commissioner uses this as an argument in favor of a fire marshall. The loss of 68 per cent of the premium receipts, added to the expense, leaves the companies a heavy loss. An increase of fire losses from $877,487.46 in 1899 to $2,951,536.15 in 1900 is used as an evidence that something must be done to check these losses and avert increases in the premium rates.

GOT OUT.

The Food Cure Brought Her Out With Flying Colors.

A lady in Laurence, Ind., Mrs. M. C. Waring, was a poor judge of food and also a worker in literary and educational lines where she exhausted her vitality because of the bad combination wreck. She says: "I was so reduced of a load of work and poorly selected food to rebuild her.

She was using hot cakes for breakfast, meat, coffee, etc., and gradually lost ground until she became a total wreck. She says: "I was so reduced that the slightest noise brought a cold perspiration all over me. Sleep was out of the question and my appetite was gone. I was apprehensive of all sorts of disaster. I became really very ill. I was on the verge of losing my mind when one day a friend who sat at my bedside remarked that she would bring me something nice to eat.

"Sure enough when she came over she had a dainty luncheon on a tray with pretty decorated china dishes, etc. A cup held some coffee, as I supposed, and a dish held some hard, brown granules, and she told me that was Grape-Nuts Food, whereas the liquid was Postum Coffee.

"I liked the taste of the Grape-Nuts with a little cream and ate all of it. After some persuasion I drank the Postum Coffee and that night was the most peaceful night I had enjoyed in months, and when I awakened in the morning I found the Grape-Nuts package on the table near my bed, and I had some for breakfast with some Postum Coffee.

"I at once began to feel better and discarded all kinds of medicine, stimulants, narcotics, and used only Grape-Nuts four times a day with Postum Coffee. At the end of thirty days I left my bed and after three months building up on Grape-Nuts Food and the famous Postum, I have taken up my literary work, working harder than ever making up for lost time.

"Mental strains have no more terrors for me. I keep my mental faculties clear. All my inner organs have become clear and healthy so I never know I have any, yet I work and study sixteen hours out of the twenty-four on an average. I often wonder what has become of those dreadful nerves. Things that formerly disturbed me now seem trifles.

"A healthy body is a happy body, so I go about singing and happy, come sunshine or rain. Grape-Nuts and Postum lifted me out of a sick bed, and Grape-Nuts Food has since brought my little daughter through a severe case of scarlet fever. Grape-Nuts was the only food she could take and the doctor said she would have died had it not been for the nourishment given her by Grape-Nuts Food. Do you wonder we believe in the famous food?"

There is a reason why the Postum Coffee and Grape-Nuts are towers of strength in times of trouble. Anyone can learn the fact and the reason if they care to make searching inquiry. The company furnishes the details, but it is sufficient to most people to know that whereas they have been poorly treated, and, perhaps, wrecked with disease from improper food, the change to Grape-Nuts and Postum has made them well.

WILL ASK FOR MONEY

Free Employment Bureau Commissioners Want Sum of $1500.

Will Model Duluth Institution After One In Seattle.

To Furnish Employment For Both Women and Men.

The board of labor and employment commissioners, at a meeting held yesterday afternoon, decided to ask the council for annual appropriation of $1500 with which to maintain the new municipal employment bureau.

The board has made a complete study of the systems of the various free labor bureaus throughout the United States. Seattle is acknowledged to have the best organized and most successful bureau, and on a recent business trip to the Pacific coast, President W. E. Magner of the commission made a careful study of Seattle's methods.

It is in the following out of the system that has made Seattle's bureau so successful that the board decided to apply for a $1500 appropriation.

Mr. Magner was told that the appropriation was considered the best investment the city of Seattle had ever made. Last year this free bureau furnished employment to 27,000 men and women, at a cost of from 5 to 10 cents each.

If the appropriation can be secured it is the intention of the board to organize a bureau that will be equal, if not superior, to any similar institution in the country.

It is proposed to secure desirable quarters, presumably in the city hall, where servant girls and other domestic help can be supplied with employment as well as men. The entire appropriation which is to be asked for would be paid out in salary for a suitable woman and a man to take charge of the two departments.

The commissioners are of the opinion that a good, reliable woman can be secured to take charge of the domestic department on a salary of $600 a year, and that there will be little difficulty in securing a competent and experienced man to handle the general labor department on a salary of $900 a year.

The lumber companies and many other large employers of labor are responding favorably to a canvass now being made by the bureau relative to the placing of laborers when the bureau gets under way.

If the council allows the appropriation the bureau will be established in a few weeks, and will be well organized by the time the fall demand for woodsmen is made.

TICKLED THEIR PALATES.

How Yerkes' Agent Captured the Britishers.

New York, June 5.—Harry C. Davis, of this city, who was Charles T. Yerkes' confidential agent in London in two great traction missions, the taking over of the charter of the Charing Cross, Euston and Hamstead railway and the purchase of the control of the Metropolitan and District railway, won the admiration of many Englishmen by administering to the Britons' love of good things to eat.

In fact, it is whispered in London financial circles that the close-mouthed traction king's agent made great headway in clinching these important deals through tickling the palates of guests who had franchises to sell.

Mr. Davis' gastronomic art belongs to the school of the Southern "mammy." That he may always be provided with good old Dixie land dishes, which are hog and hominy, buckwheates, corn fritters, hoe cake, mush and milk and scrapple, he takes along with him wherever he may travel an entire colored family—father, mother and son.

The trio have served him for years. The head of the family is the butler, the son the valet and the mother the cook. She is queen in her line, cooking Southern dishes to perfection, and has crossed the ocean and the American continent several times with her master, who thus is able always to enjoy his home cooked meals.

When "mammy" was interviewed she said briefly: "I lubned to cook foh de wah in de finest house in Varginny. Mah wuhd, but doz folkses suttingly war smaht. Dey ain't no folkses in dis ere kentry as good es dey is."

They made a fine appearance and after the parade adjourned to the Opera hall and dance until the wee small hours of the morning. About 100 couples were on the floor and all had an enjoyable time.

Arrivals from outside points June 3.—At Hotel Northern: G. W. Kane, Superior; W. H. Graves, Duluth; F. P. Falcemiel, St. Paul; C. W. Vanelaus, Brainerd; W. M. Marco and E. G. Simpson, Duluth; E. Archambault, Superior; J. N. Robbins, Duluth; James Flynn, Superior; O. G. Breitung, Ashland. At Hotel McKinnon—J. S. Gordon, West Superior; R. F. Grentzel, Rochester, N. Y.; J. Lambrly, St. Paul; W. # AT CASS LAKE

Contract Let For Extension of the Waterworks System.

Cass Lake, Minn., June 5.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Cass Water, Light and Power company, owners of the Cass Lake waterworks and electric light systems, have let the contract for an extensive extension of the system already installed. New mains will be laid covering twelve blocks of the village on the north side of the railroad track. New fire hydrants will be put in, and the material to be used in the construction will be the best manufactured. When the new mains are completed, Cass Lake will have a system of waterworks that any city of twice as many inhabitants may well be proud.

Word was received here from Superior Monday evening that Nick Wiltzen, a former resident of Cass Lake, had died during the day at the Superior hospital. While working in the woods near Cass Lake two years ago, Wiltzen was the victim of an accident whereby his left hip was badly crushed. He was taken to the hospital at Superior, and since that time several operations have been performed on the injured limb. It was finally decided to amputate Wiltzen's left leg. This was attempted on Monday, but Wiltzen did not survive this last application of the surgeon's knife. The deceased leaves a wife and two children, all of whom have been at Superior for some time. A mother of Mrs. Wiltzen resides in Cass Lake. Wiltzen was a hard-working man and well liked and respected here.

TYSON HEIRS

In Ohio Will Get a Portion of Australian Millions.

Philadelphia, June 5.—Seven members of the Tyson family in Ohio have established their right to participate in the vast fortune of the late John Tyson, who died at Melbourne, Australia, leaving over $40,000,000 and no will.

When John Tyson died solicitors in Scotland made an investigation and found that his heirs had emigrated to America. Lawyer John Dickey, Jr., of this city, was retained to find them, and by means of advertisement has located one near this city and seven in Ohio. As there are 105 Tysons in this city alone the estate will scarcely be closed without the appearance of a swarm of claimants. Three near heirs direct in descent are known to live in this city.

About fifty years ago Tyson emigrated to Australia, then an undeveloped country, and engaged in cattle raising. He amassed considerable wealth, and then found that his land was valuable mining property. He was not married, and never revisited his native land, and seldom wrote home. The Tysons who came to America furnished the money for the Australian venture, and long years ago gave up all hope of ever realizing a cent on their investment.

Tyson never asked any additional favors and never offered to repay any part of his indebtedness. Among his effects was found a number of notes and entries setting forth the items of these debts and comments indicating very clearly that the old man keenly appreciated the kindness of his relatives in the days of his need.

MACCABEES.

Officers' Election and Convention at Mankato Is Ended.

Mankato, Minn., June 5.—The state conventions of the Knights and Ladies' of the Maccabees came to a close last night. The knights elected John B. Ogle, of Mankato, and George S. McKay, of St. Paul, representatives to the supreme tent, and Alex Stewart, of West Duluth, and Louis Runce, of Minneapolis, alternates. The following state officers were elected: Past Commander, John W. Devery, of Faribault; commander, I. N. Chellew, of St. Paul; lieutenant commander, J. P. Wolff, of Moorhead; record keeper, Earl C. Scott, of St. Cloud; finance keeper, Martin Mossefin, of Crookston; physician, Dr. Richardson, of Minneapolis; chaplain, Alex Stewart, of West Duluth; sergeant, F. B. Radabaugh, of Long Prairie; master at arms, George A. Hogoboom, of Two Harbors; first master of guards, F. G. Hamlin, of Northfield; second master of guards, S. S. Sarber, of Rochester; sentinel, Carr, of Manahga tent.

A report on the work accomplished during the past two years showed that the supreme tent had made a gain of over 80,000, of which Minnesota contributed over 3000.

Minnesota has a membership of over 8000, whereas in 1890 there were only nineteen members in the state. The oldest tent is Duluth No. 1, the largest is Modin, of Minneapolis, and the one showing the greatest gain is Unity, of St. Paul. The report was adopted.

The ladies elected Mrs. Anna Welch, of Austin, supreme representative.

Last night Mankato tent No. 42 gave a reception and dancing party in honor of the supreme officers and delegates. Addresses were given by the supreme officers.

Only one remedy in the world that will at once stop itchiness of the skin in any part of the body: Doan's Ointment. At any drug store, 50 cents.

JUMPED FROM BRIDGE.

Man Suicides By Leaping Into East River.

New York, June 5.—A man, who from papers and letters found in his pockets, is supposed to be Robert Gibbens Bidwell, of 1425 East Adams street, Jacksonville, Fla., jumped from the Brooklyn bridge yesterday afternoon and was soon after taken from the East river. A hurry call was at once sent to the Governeur hospital, but when the ambulance arrived the surgeon said that the man had been dead probably an hour. The man was evidently prepared for the jump for he wore a life-preserver, and his body was swatched with towels, which were evidently intended to lessen the impact when he struck the water. A number of newspapers were stuffed between his body and the life preserver. A conductor on a street car, reported at the Brooklyn end of the bridge that the man left his car and waving two American flags, jumped from the bridge.

The Executive Not "Everything."

There is one feature of the action of the supreme court majority regarding the insular cases brought before it that has not received very much attention and yet it is of the very greatest importance. The friends and supporters of the administration who have been sounding the loud timbrel over the court's decision should not lose sight of this feature, particularly as it does not sustain the policy of the administration in one respect at least. It is now settled by the decision of the highest judicial tribunal in the republic that congress cannot rightfully shirk or abdicate its duties either in the interest of a president or of any other citizen. Practically, if not definitely, the supreme court has passed censure on the theory that the executive is practically the whole of the government of the United States—a theory on which both Mr. McKinley and his close advisers have acted more than once. The president's power is limited to what congress says he may do, and thus the imperial tendency is restricted.

Affairs In Santo Domingo.

Late advices from Santo Domingo state that the country is again quiet; the revolution completely crushed; political prisoners released, and confidence generally restored. If financial affairs can now be improved, things will begin to look brighter for the black republic. The government has been conducted in a high-handed manner, the main purpose of the officials seeming to be to get money and have a good time. When the people complained of high taxes and hard times, those in charge have gone out and scattered a few gold pieces among the poor and have created more or less enthusiasm thereby. It is stated that the Santo Domingo Improvement and Furnace company is about to close out its interests there and accept guaranteed bonds drawing 4 per cent interest if the price of the bonds can be agreed upon. Just what effect this will have on the country can be told later. A sample of the way business is done is afforded by the Rothschild loan, amounting to $3,675,000. Of this amount $35,000 or less than 1 per cent found its way into the treasury. The balance was absorbed by those who had the handling of the funds. In 1897 several debts were funded into a consolidated loan of $13,325,000 in 2½ per cent and $7,000,000 4 per cent bonds which were taken by the American Improvement company, which also undertook the completion of several railroads and took a mortgage on the revenues of the island. This company is made up of New York capitalists, who have undoubtedly had trouble enough in securing their pay. The total debt of this republic of 600,000 people is over $20,000,000 and the national currency is about the worst possible excuse for money. When the Mexican dollars began to decline in value and two had to be given for one gold dollar, President Heureaux conceived the brilliant idea of having a Dominican dollar coined in the United States. This dollar was practically an alloy of tin and antimony containing 8 cents worth of silver and it was declared legal tender at the rate of 50 cents on the dollar. When the people found that foreigners would not take them at any price, they refused to take them. The next resort was a paper currency which soon dropped to a value of six for one and later to twenty for one. Something had to be done, but while Heureaux held his power through the influence he exercised over the army it was impossible to unseat him. A young man named Carceres, whose father had been executed by order of the president, murdered Heureaux, under promise of immunity and Jiminez, the wealthiest man in the island, although an exile at that time, became president. Possibly the effort of the government to take over the loan from the Improvement company and redeem the national revenues from pawn may make a decided improvement in affairs. At any rate the experiment will be watched with interest.

A COUNCIL OF PEACE.

The president upon his arrival home called a council of peace to determine, if possible, in what condition the supreme court decisions left the administration. If there was doubt as to what the court would do before the decisions were handed down, there is much more doubt now about where the conflicting decisions left the questions that have been a nightmare to the administration. The whole question of expansion and the government of acquired territory resolved itself to that of tariff. As the question of expansion fifty years ago hinged upon the doctrine and the practice of slavery, so now the same question hinge upon individual interests based upon the tariff schedule. Men who have for years been receiving a gratuity from the government in the shape of protective tariffs imagine they have acquired vested rights in the present status; to disturb which would be taking their property without due process of law. Had it not been for the tariff schedules and a few protected monopolies which might be injured by the admission of Porto Rico, the Philippines, and possibly Cuba, as territory of the United States over which the constitution would extend, we would have had no colonial policy, no question of imperialism, no squabble over the constitution in the supreme court. As the tariff was the mother of trusts, so also was it the mother of "our colonial policy." It is the Jonah that is causing this legal and commerical storm which threatens to overwhelm the good ship Constitution, with her consort, Commerce.

For what is this council of peace called? It is called to devise ways and means to evade a strict compliance with the terms of the constitution and the decision of the supreme court in the De Lima cases. Every effort of the legal department of the government will be exerted to bring the Philippines under the terms of the Downes decision. The learned judge who delivered the opinion of the majority took occasion to leave a "cat hole" in the door for possible emergencies. He asserted that the constitution follows only where there is cession and possession. Cession and possession, then, are necessary as a condition precedent to constitution migration. Now, Mr. Knox will assure the president, when he renders his opinion, that in the case of the Philippines we never have had possession. Cession was obtained direct from Spain, but there has been a rebellion of the natives ever since, which has prevented us from securing possession, and consequently the constitution could not apply, according to Justice Brown. This is a little fishy, inasmuch as the rebellion which defers the possession of a few swamps and a few mountain passes is being conducted by quite another power than that which did the ceding, but a little thing like that will not bother such a conference as that met with the president—Spooner, Platt and Root. Every mother's son of them is interested in devising some scheme to sustain their own blunders.

It will be interesting to follow the serpentine course of the administration until the supreme court meets again and gives some sort of interpretation of its own mysteries.

"O what a tangled web we weave,
When first we practice to deceive."

W. McKINLEY, PROTECTIONIST.

The report sent out a few days ago that President McKinley, in conversation with Jules Seigfried, stated that he had changed his mind in regard to a high tariff, and that he deemed the best policy for the United States to pursue was one of modified free trade based upon reciprocal commercial treaties, is now denied by the men who sit next to the throne at Washington. Whether the original report or the denial be true does not much matter. Whatever the private opinions of President McKinley are, they will not affect the policy of the administration, for the very simple reason that he is not the man to attempt to force anything upon his party which the leaders of his party do not want.

This is the nature of the man—he is a follower and not a leader. What he thinks the managers of the party want, that will he attempt to do, no matter what his private ideas, if he have any, are. There is little question that Mr. McKinley, the man, was in favor of a simple, straightforward course toward our colonial possessions. He recognized the fact that under the constitution they were entitled to the guarantees of the constitution and the blessings of our institutions, including our trade. All this was plain to any man of blunter faculties than Mr. McKinley. He went so far as to express himself on a proposition on which he imagined no sane man could differ from him. The managers of the party, however, did differ, and he at once begged their pardon and promised never more to have an opinion of his own; at least if he had he would never express it in a public document before consulting all the great interests of the country. This promise, which was implied rather than expressed, he has religiously kept. His last message was a masterly piece of what lawyers call negatives pregnant. It was evident that the tour across the country which ended so unfortunately was intended to test the public pulse on the burning question of tariff reform and reciprocity. The turning down of the recommendations in his message to the first session of the Fifty-sixth congress regarding Porto Rico, and the silent contempt with which his recommendations on the subject of reciprocal treaties was received by the senate in the short session of that same congress, has had the effect to make that prince of trimmers so extremely careful that he is afraid to express a view on the most common subjects of national politics, lest it offend some of his barons.

Should the revolt in the party over the tariff question assume such proportions that Mr. McKinley could see a sure way to make a recommendation that would be carried out, he no doubt would make it; but should he be advised that the party, as a party, is in favor of the present conditions, and that the leaders disapprove of any change at present, the chief executive will be mum as an oyster.

Mr. McKinley understands the condition of affairs as well as the best informed man in the nation. He knows that a radical reduction of our tariff laws along the lines of reciprocal trade is the only means of preserving our present dominant position as an exporting nation and to prevent a national combination against us along our own lines, but he has not the backbone to affront the pampered pets of protection by boldly asserting the fact. The student of history—he who cares to analyze character and compare men—will be struck with the close resemblance between the characters of William McKinley and James Buchanan. One led the country along the smooth path of indecision to the brink of a civil war, and there left it to stronger hands and more heroic souls; the other is leading it along similar paths to irretrievable commercial ruin. As the one good-naturedly winked at the machinations of the enemies of the flag, so the other has aided and abetted in a negative way the enemies of the constitution and the welfare of the people. No man ever had a grander opportunity to immortalize himself than did Buchanan, but he failed to rise to the level of his fate. Will the same verdict of history be written of McKinley?

Just about $6,000,000 worth of cable plant and material will be thrown away by the Metropolitan Street Railway company of New York in passing from the cable to the electric trolley system on the Broadway, Lexington avenue and Columbus avenue lines. The huge engines in the power houses, though about as good as new, will be sold practically as junk, since the cost of getting them out will equal what is offered the company for them. Mr. Vreeland, the president of the company, thinks no electrical improvements are in sight which will compel any further radical changes in street railroading "within a reasonable number of years." He says Edison's new storage battery contains no features that have not been tested and found unsuited to heavy street car propulsion.

The officer who succeeds Gen. Bullington as chief of ordnance will serve in that position only four years, in accordance with the new system of detail inaugurated by the army reorganization bill. The Washington Star, besides calling attention to this fact, reports that a "rumor" has been current the past week in the war department to the effect that Cap William Crozier had been practically selected to succeed Gen. Bullington on the retirement of that officer in the fall. Capt. Crozier is recognized as an able officer, his scientific acquirements having led the department to offer him not long ago the chair of natural and experimental philosophy at West Point, which was formerly held by the late Professor Michie. That offer Capt. Crozier declined.

The report of the commissioner of pensions, brought up to date shows that there have been 43,874 claims filed on account of the recent war with Spain. There have been granted 2269 pensions to invalids and 1156 to widows and dependents on account of this war. Such a number of claims seem entirely out of reason. If there was any probability of their being granted it would be as well for the government to provide a pension for every soldier who enlists and save the expense of the pension bureau. It grows more and more evident why the pension attorneys want to see Commissioner Evans removed.

The Farmington, Me., Chronicle says: One of the leading religious journals of New England describes with some detail a wedding, and after telling of decoration, gowns, etc., says: "These were the visible settings of the rare old picture, when true hearts join for life's combat." Doubtless the many friends of this young pair are glad to know they have determined to "fight it out on this line" if it takes a lifetime. Meanwhile we are reminded of the epitaph on the tombstone erected over an aged couple who had lived long years together: "Their warfare is accomplished."

The parents of New York city complain that the system of education in the public schools, which requires so much home study and which is devoted more to producing results for the teachers to point to, rather than to properly educating the children, is ruining the health of the young. There are others who feel that way outside of New York.

DAILY STORY.

A GIRL AND A PONY.

BY CARRIE CARTER BROWN.

(Copyright 1901, William R. Miller).

My uncle John, who still looks after me with paternal eye, although I am 27 years old and have a pretty good opinion of myself, is a blunt, plain-spoken man. On a hundred different occasions in the last five years he said to me:

"Nephew George, you are an ass, and but for my vigilance you would be taken in and done for every week in the year. You think yourself smart, but you would be as dough in the hands of a designing woman."

I had gone over to Paris for a few weeks, and was one day riding in the Bois when I came across a girl in a pony cart. But for the conduct of her pony, which I now believe was brought about intentionally, I should have remembered the girl as one of the most beautiful I had ever seen. Her flaxen hair and blue eyes proved her English, and she was beauty itself. I had passed her, and the spot happened to be a lonely one, when I heard her call for help. Checking and wheeling my horse, I found her pony standing on its hind feet and seemingly about to make a bolt of it. I was beside him in a moment, and though it took very little time to calm him the girl was so unnerved that I had to become her driver for the next half hour. Luck had played into my hands for sure. She was Miss Bessie Fay, of Liverpool, who was enjoying Paris with her old aunt, and she was good enough to say she had heard me well spoken of by friends of hers. I had saved her life, of course, and of course she was grateful and I was a hero in her eyes. It wasn't ten minutes before we were talking away like old friends, and when I finally left the phaeton I had been invited to call on her that very evening and receive still further thanks for my heroic conduct in bringing that obstreperous pony's fore feet down upon the ground.

It is needless to tell you that I was head over heels in love. There was beauty, wit, education, accomplishments—everything, and if I had been a young man of nerve I should have asked her to be mine before we parted. I couldn't get up the courage, however, and put it off until I should call in the evening. I was as determined to marry Miss Fay as I was to live, and had my uncle George been at hand to call me an ass he couldn't have made the slightest impression on my feelings. When evening came and I took a cab to drive to her address, I found the street was two miles from my hotel. When we reached it I further found that it was an unfashionable street, that is, it was a once fashionable street gone to decay, but I excused Miss Fay taking up her lodgings there on the grounds that her old aunt wanted quietness.

The house was in the middle of the block, and my ring at the door was answered by a female servant. I was told that the ladies were expecting me, and was asked to walk up stairs. Upon entering the drawing-room I found it in semi-darkness, the gas being turned low down, and as I advanced a few steps the door closed behind me. I stood there like a fool for a minute, peering around for the ladies, and then the lights were turned up and I beheld two men seated in easy chairs and smoking away with careless puffs. I stepped forward and bowed and asked to be excused for blundering into the wrong room, but one of them drawlingly replied in the tones of an American:

"No apology is required. You are in the right room and we were expecting you. Have a chair and a cigar."

"But I came to call on Miss Fay and her aunt," I protested.

"Yes, we know; but don't get excited over it. Miss Fay and her aunt happen to be out just now, and you can fill up the interval of waiting by shelling out whatever money and valuables you may happen to be possessed of."

The one who did the most talking was an American—the other a Frenchman. It was sometime before I could get through my head that I had been decoyed to the house to be robbed, and my stupidity caused the pair much merriment. When I at last saw the game I began to blustar and threaten, but they did not seem worth a cent. I had a watch, ring, and pin, and about £20 in cash with me. I finally placed this plunder on the table before them and started to bid them good evening, but soon discovered that it was only the first move in the game. They questioned me as to my bank account in both London and Paris, and strange to relate they had blank checks on both banks. I was ordered to fill out two checks for £100 each. I flatly and boldly refused, and the American smoked a third of his cigar before saying:

"Don't be a fool. You see the game. We have had you marked down for some months past, and having got you in the net we are bound to make a haul. You will either give us the checks or be shut up here to starve to death. Don't hope for any outside aid. Even if the house were to be searched ten times over you could not be found in the room where we shall put you."

Well, what could I do? I had been decoyed to the house and was unarmed and helpless. It was a put up job to rob me, and there was no question but what the man meant to carry it through at all hazards. I sat down and signed the checks, hoping that was the end of it, but it wasn't. They must get their money before turning me loose, and I was shoved into a smaller room, a man set to guard me, and held for three days and nights. By that time the checks had been cashed and the gang was far away. I was finally let out of the house at midnight, having been fairly well treated by the guard, and you may guess I did not open my lips to the police. I had been made a fool of in the neatest manner, but I preferred to bear my loss rather than the ridicule of my friends. Had the house been searched, however, nothing would have been found. The guard probably left as soon as I did, while the others had gone before him. While my uncle George is in blissful ignorance of my adventure, yet whenever he greets me with the salutation, "George, you are an ass," I seem to take the words seriously to heart instead of smiling over them as before. In fact, I am more than inclined to agree with him, and I think if I ever marry I will take the girl he has chosen for me.

CABLE FLASHES.

The reception tendered by Mr. Choate to the delegates of the New York chamber of commerce drew a crowd of celebrities to Carlton house terrace. Leaders of the bar, finance, diplomacy and politics attended to do honor to the Americans.

It is proposed to confer the honor of degree of doctor of letters upon Professor Charles A. Briggs and Professor Francis Brown, of Union Theological seminary, at the forthcoming commemoration at Oxford university.

A Malay doctor named Ibrahim ran amuck and killed six people with a spear, seriously injuring nine others at Singapore. He was then knocked down and he died from the effects of a fractured skull.

Many miners at Johannesburg refusing to accept 5 shillings a day, the rate fixed by military order, have gone on strike.

The Marquis Dolur-Saluces, the well known royalist and former member of the chamber of deputies, who unexpectedly returned to Paris about the middle of last month, has been arrested.

Regret, not unmixed with satisfaction, is expressed in London at the accident which has befallen the Constitution and her misfortune is held to prove that yacht designers on both sides of the Atlantic show a tendency to cut matters too fine. "The laugh is on our side now," says the Daily News. "Yacht racing w... soop become a dangerous sport if ships are not allowed a larger margin of safety."

BRIEF TELEGRAMS.

Miss B. E. Pelton, a teacher in the Kenyon schools, was burned to death in a fire at the Transfer hotel at Dodge Center Tuesday. She had come in on the late train and intended taking a train for her home at Reedsburg, Wis. The county attorney and coroner are investigating the matter.

August Mischeke, a farmer living five miles from Oshkosh, was found dead in his barn with a carbolic acid bottle beside him. Deceased came from Fond du Lac county in March and purchased an 80-acre farm, paying $200 down and leaving $1800 yet to pay. Worry over financial troubles is supposed to be the cause.

Rudolph Latta, president of the German American bank at Hastings, Minn., died Tuesday after a protracted illness. He was well known throughout the West.

James Pettit, general manager of the Peavey Elevator company, was suspended by the directors of the Chicago board of trade. The Peavey company was charged with unmerchantable conduct during the corner in May corn, engineered by George H. Phillips, F. H. Peavey, head of the company, and D. F. Johnson secretary, were acquitted.

Hans Colburne, a sheep herder arrived in Gunnison, Col., and reported that twenty masked men attacked the camp where he was employed six miles from Spencer, Gunnison county, made prisoners of the herders and slaughtered 2500 of the 5000 sheep in the herd. The sheep were recently driven over from Utah. The mob is supposed to have been comprised of cattlemen of the vicinity.

PRINCE AUTO.

Tries to Induce the Women to Lead Better Lives.

New York, June 5.—Shortly before 11 o'clock on every fine night there suddenly drops into the Tenderloin—from just where no one seems to know—a handsome Victoria automobile, and after circling around a bit comes to a stand in front of the Haymarket.

The machine is an elaborate affair, easily distinguished from others of its kind by a powerful searchlight in the center of the dashboard, operated by a storage battery under the seat. Suspended between the rear wheels is a red lantern.

The Victoria is operated by a fashionably dressed young man, who is said to be the son of a wealthy Western clergyman. He has been sent East to perfect his education, but he spends more time with the blonde-haired women of the Tenderloin than he does with his books.

The machine hardly comes to a stop before the word is passed through the dance hall that "Prince Auto" has arrived, and the women flock about, begging for a ride.

Picking out a woman the "Prince" will escort her to the Victoria, and off they will go for a half hour in the park, in Chinatown or on Fifth avenue. At the end of 30 minutes the Victoria will slide noiselessly up to the Haymarket, and handing the woman out, the "Prince" will dash in for another companion. This performance will be repeated until the dance hall is closed at 3:30 a. m.

The real name of "Prince Auto" is Wilson Kayne. Little more is known about him. The same girl is never taken twice, and the auto never stops during the ride. As she alights each girl is presented with a box of expensive confectionery, which usually contains a slip bearing a Bible verse.

The "Prince" is jolly and entertaining, and refined in manner. He always urges the women to lead better lives. He declares that he was never made for a bookworm, and that he had much rather study human nature than chemistry.

Smallpox Is Again Prevalent In the Upper Peninsula.

Iron Mountain—A lumberman named William Fox, who has been employed in a lumber camp in Florence county, Wis., arrived at Iron Mountain with a well developed case of smallpox. He went from Marinette to the camp a few days ago. He mingled with people on the streets at Iron Mountain all the morning before he was spotted by a doctor. He was taken to the North Side jail. The council abolished the pest house two months ago.

Manistique—The Manistique Courier says that it looks as though Manistique and Schoolcraft county were in for a protracted siege of the smallpox and that a pest house can not be erected too quickly. The money saved by assembling the victims at one point would soon pay for the building. New cases are breaking out every day and the county board cannot act too promptly.

---

Houghton—Fred Shraeder, of Hancock, was struck by the St. Paul passenger train in the east yards of the South Shore road at Houghton Tuesday morning. Happily, however, he was not hit with enough force to badly injure him, and save for a bruising up he is all right.

---

Ironwood—Peter Laughren was lost for five days in the woods near Lake Superior last week, returning to his home in Ironwood Wednesday noon. He was assisting William Hassett and a number of others in the erection of a homesteader's shanty twenty miles northwest of Ironwood. He lost his way and spent five days and nights in the woods before reaching the Flink road in Ironwood township. Searching parties spent four days looking for him, and Tuesday the council offered a reward for his recovery.

Negaunee—One of Negaunee's oldest residents, Mrs. Caraline Muck, passed away Sunday morning. The cause of her death was paralysis, a stroke of which prostrated her last week. She was 73 years of age and leaves six children, Charles, who is a resident of this city; John and Ida, who live in Chicago; Mrs. George Huber, of Champion; Mrs. Joseph Leffler, of Ishpeming, and Mrs. Dunn, who lives at Hurley. Mrs. Leffler, Mrs. Huber and Charles were at her bedside when she died.

HORRIBLE DREAMS.

Lawyer Who Tried to Digest Insular Decisions.

Washington, June 5.—One of the cleverest lawyers in Washington, with a large practice in the supreme court and court of claims, was among the anxious auditors at the rendering of the decision in the insular cases on Monday, and yesterday was asked what he thought of it:

"It distresses me," he answered solemnly. "I have thought of little else since that day in court. Yesterday I read the full text of all the opinions carefully, trying to solve their intricacies of reasoning. They haunted me even after I went to bed, as if I had eaten something which I could not digest. I dreamed that I saw the court divided into two parties, facing each other with flushed and excited faces. On the one side were the Chief Justice and Justices Peckham, Harlan and Brewer, waving their arms in the air and shouting: 'The constitution follows the flag.' Opposite stood Justices Gray, Shiras, McKenna and White, shaking their fists and vociferating: 'The constitution doesn't follow the flag.' While midway between the two, motioning with his hands in the soothing manner of a peacemaker, stood Justice Brown, urging his colleagues in soft, persuasive tones, to be calm, 'gentlemen,' he was saying, 'pray suspend this noisy contention! Sometimes the constitution follows the flag and sometimes it doesn't. Now, if you will only keep quiet long enough to listen to me, I'll tell just when it does and just when it doesn't.' Then I awoke, but I am sorry to say that my dream has left me more distressed than ever."

SLEPT HALF A YEAR.

Indian Woman Dies After a Mysterious Illness.

Wabash, Ind., June 5.—Mrs. Isaac Beltman, wife of a leading merchant of Wabash, died Monday after a remarkable illness. For six months her case baffled specialists from all parts of the country. She was unconscious all the time, and a post-mortem examination showed all the organs in perfect condition excepting an abscess of the brain, which could not have caused the strange illness. On Dec. 12 she became unconscious. For four weeks, though insensible, she was able to take nourishment. Toward the end of January she lost the power to swallow food, her vitality declined, and she lost flesh. A rubber tube was inserted in her throat and liquid food forced to the stomach. There was immediately a decided gain in strength. This spring a tent was erected in the front lawn, and every bright day for two months she was carried out to the shelter on a cot. Chicago specialists who came to see her pronounced her case one of major hysteria. During the last fortnight of her illness she occasionally moved her lips when the tube for nourishment was placed in position, but she evidenced no sign of life beyond this.

Mr. W. S. Whedon, cashier of the First National Bank of Winterset, Iowa, in a recent letter, gives some experience with a carpenter in his employ that will be of value to other mechanics. I mentioned to him that I had been similarly troubled and that Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy had cured me. He bought a bottle of it from the druggist here and informed me that one dose cured him, and he is again at his work." For sale at Boyce's drug store.

MEAT PRICE.

Wholesale Dealers Say the Price Is Too Low.

The economical housekeepers of Duluth have been dodging every time a report came out that the price of meat was going up in Chicago or the Twin Cities, just as though they had been struck a blow. This is because they fear that an increase in Chicago meant one in Duluth. Up to date, however, there has been no increase, and as a matter of fact, the only changes noted in the wholesale price of meats in several weeks have been reductions. Last week beef was marked off half a cent on the wholesale price, and it has not gone back to its former price as yet.

The prospects are that it will go back, however, although there has been no intimation to that effect as yet. The packing house agents say that prices are very low, and that it is reasonable to suppose that higher prices will follow.

James C. Fling, manager for the Cudahy Packing company's Duluth house, said this morning that he had heard of no advance in Duluth as yet. As a matter of fact, however, he said, "meats are selling at wholesale just now at a full cent less than their actual cash value. The market is in bad shape on that account, and that is a condition that cannot last very long."

"Will there be an increase in prices?"

"I hope so," responded Mr. Fling.

"It is impossible that unless the increase is quite large the consumers will feel it. The retailers have maintained prices pretty well, and there was no report that they reduced prices to the consumer when the wholesale price went off, as it has during the past few weeks. Therefore it would be expecting too much to have the consumer compelled to stand any increase in the wholesale price there may be that does not go very much above where the wholesale price was when the present retail prices were levied.

"I have no antipathy to the butchers," said a man of a scientific bent of mind, "so long as they are reasonable in their demands. But it would be a great deal better for the people if they would take advantage of the high price of meat to stop stocking themselves with that sort of fuel and try more of a vegetable diet for a time. There is no excuse for anyone starving in a country like this. Out in the woods there are mushrooms that have more nourishment pound for pound than beef, and on the lawns there are dandelion greens that used to be considered something of a dainty until they became so common. Beans, though a somewhat heavy food, are full of nourishment, and there are many vegetables that are better than meat for people that do not undergo physical labor. Both for economy's sake and for physical benefit a vegetable diet would be a good thing for most people, though I am not by any means a vegetarian. But as to the mushrooms, I would not advise anybody to go out and pick them for themselves unless they are familiar with them. Some of the daintiest appearing of them are the deadliest poison, and it is death to eat them."

MEANS MUCH.

Rains In Wheat Country of Great Value Here.

In every line of business and in every circle affected by the proportions of the wheat crop of the Northwest there was great rejoicing yesterday when it became known that copious rains had fallen over almost the entire wheat section. It was glorious news to grain men, to wholesale men, to lumber manufacturers, etc., for those are lines of business directly affected by the prosperity of the farmers. A great crop means a great extension of business and a general broadening out in all lines. It means that houses, instead of curtailing their lines of credit, may branch out and look for new business and be under little or no hazard of loss. The entire Northwest is in ripe condition to enter upon the greatest period of prosperity it has ever known. All that is needed is a bountiful harvest to start the ball to rolling, and the rains of the past two or three days have made that certain, barring always, of course, the unlooked-for possibilities such as bugs, etc. These, however, are always looked upon as remote chances. Hail is more feared, but hail is usually only local and does not disturb the great aggregate of the crop.

The price at which the crop is marketed also cuts much figure, of course, but a great crop at fair prices is better than a small crop at high prices. A great crop will be evenly distributed among the agriculturists of the state, while a blighted crop with a high price too often means the prosperity of a few and the practical bankruptcy of a great many.

With the experience of last June so fresh in the memory of everyone interested in the crop outlook, it is natural that there should have been great uneasiness when rain was so long delayed. The law of chance was overwhelmingly against a repetition of last year's unbroken drouth, however. Grain men say that it is at least a five to one shot that there would not be a second successive year of drouth.

A heavy crop in the Northwest will mean a great development in the grain business in Duluth. It will undoubtedly see a number of new grain firms located here, and will bring liberal profits to the men already engaged here, a condition which they have not been experiencing this year.

Can't be perfect health without pure blood. Burdock Blood Bitters makes pure blood. Tones and invigorates the whole system.

AMUSEMENTS.

"NATHAN HALE."

"Nathan Hale," by Clyde Fitch, was presented at the Lyceum last evening by a company headed by Howard Kyle. The play was originally brought out by Nat Goodwin and Maxine Elliott, but did not continue in their repertoire for very long. The play is a patriotic one, and the story is stirring and appeals to the pride of every American. It presumes in a measure to tell the story of the capture and death of Nathan Hale, one of the bravest and most devoted of the patriots of the darkest days of the revolution. There is no more stirring lesson in patriotism in all American history than that furnished by the career and death of young Hale.

The play opens with a story of the courtship of young Hale and Alice Adams, in the school where Hale was teacher; of his enlistment in the cause of the colonies. The opening acts are filled with bright comedy, in marked contrast to the scenes which follow. The third act depicts Hale in the camp of the British, and of his capture and attempt to escape. This act is strongly dramatic. The final act is tragic and decidedly harrowing, presenting Hale the night before his execution, his last interview with his sweet heart, and then the scene of his execution as a spy.

Howard makes a fair Hale, but not a striking one. In the lovemaking scene he is rather heavy and forced, especially vocally, his voice being altogether sepulchral for a young swain in raptures over the idol of his heart. In the tragic parts he was dignified and more pleasing, but the general impersonation did nothing to increase the estimation in which Mr. Kyle was already held here by reason of some of his excellent presentations of Shakespearean characters. Miss Jessie Izett was a pleasing Alice Adams, rather bewitching and very human in the lovemaking scenes, and strongly sympathetic in the trying ordeal through which the devoted sweetheart of the ill-fated young man passes. The balance of the company was fairly good.

A CASE OF SUICIDE

Mrs. J. Irving Walker's Death Was Her Own Work.

Challenged Her Lover and They Both Drank Poison.

Had Known Him But a Month --- He Recovers.

The Herald yesterday announced in its local columns through the medium of a message received here by friends that Mrs. J. Irving Walker, formerly of this city, had died at Lincoln, Neb., rather suddenly. Later the telegraphic reports brought the startling news that she had suicided and under most extraordinary circumstances. The telegram from Lincoln, Neb., read as follows:

"J. Albert Brink, formerly of Milwaukee, and Mrs. Mabel H. Walker, wife of a traveling salesman, took cocaine and wood alcohol in Brink's apartments early this morning. Mrs. Walker died. Brink was hastily taken to a hospital and is now in a fair way to recover. He is in charge of the police. Brink stated that he and Mrs. Walker were hopelessly in love, and that the latter challenged him to end their lives together. He accepted the proposition, he says."

A later message said that Brink had recovered, and added: "Mrs. Walker, with her husband, came to Lincoln a month ago, and has since resided at the hotel. She passed Sunday with her husband in Fremont, but returned to Lincoln Monday morning. Her husband was in Fremont when notified of the tragedy, and he came to the city on a morning train.

"Brink has resided in Lincoln for ten years and has a wide circle of friends. His relatives live in Milwaukee, but he has two aunts in this city, Mrs. S. D. Hyde and Mrs. F. E. Campbell.

Mrs. Walker and Brink have been close companions since the former arrived in the city. The two were together during the afternoon and evening before the tragedy, but both appeared in good spirits when they came into the hotel together at 11 o'clock that night.

"An inquest over the remains of the dead woman was held last evening, but the testimony was not concluded. Brink and the dead woman's husband were both present but displayed no animosity."

The announcement caused great surprise among the friends of Mr. and Mrs. Walker here. They left Duluth about six weeks ago, and so far as known she had never met Brink before that time, and her wild infatuation must have developed very suddenly. Mr. and Mrs. Walker were married at Superior three years ago. She was then only 18 years of age and was Miss Mabel Root, daughter of former General Manager Root of the Northern Pacific railroad. It was a case of love at first sight, and the marriage took place within a very few weeks after their acquaintance.

Before leaving Duluth they had resided in Chester terrace for some time. Mr. Walker is traveling agent of a Chicago house.

FOUND HER FATHER.

Syracuse, N. Y., June 5.—Miss Grace M. Norris, a member of the senior class of the Syracuse Medical college, considers herself a fortunate young woman, having discovered the whereabouts of her father, whose very existence was unknown to her up to a year ago. Some twenty-four years ago William Norris, a railroad engineer, started from Buffalo for Texas, accompanied by his youthful brother-in-law. Somewhere in Missouri the two became separated and the brother-in-law became violently insane. Mr. Norris, unconscious that anything of the kind had happened, went on to Texas, expecting his brother-in-law to join him. He went to Missouri, and reached there just in time to find that the brother-in-law had shot himself.

It is probable that Mr. Norris' wife thought her husband should not have left her brother to travel alone in his delicate state of health. However this may be, an estrangement arose and Mr. Norris did not return to his family. His baby daughter was brought up in ignorance of the fact that she had a father. About a year ago Miss Norris, while looking over some old letters, was made aware that as her father's death had not taken place when she was a baby, as she had always thought. The idea dawned upon her that he might still be living, so she instituted a diligent search.

After writing hundreds of letters and employing a detective she at last discovered her father in Albuquerque, N. M. She has received several valuable gifts from her father and expects to see him in a short time. He has had a career of adventure seldom surpassed. He served in the civil war and was a lieutenant colonel in Maximillian's army when he invaded Mexico. He is now a railroad engineer.

BLAINE-HICHBORN.

Washington, June 4.—Miss Martha Hichborn, daughter of Rear Admiral Hichborn, was married to James G. Blaine, youngest son of the late Maine statesman today, at the residence of her parents. A small gathering of immediate relatives and friends witnessed the ceremony. They included Mrs. Blaine, mother of the groom; Mr. and Mrs. Damrosch and Mrs. Beale, his sisters.

TO CONTROL REDWOOD.

San Francisco, June 4.—It is stated by the Examiner today that there can be no doubt that there is in process of formation of a combination, capitalized at between $15,000,000 and $20,000,000 for the purpose of controlling the redwood interests on the coast. Eastern capital is said to be largely interested in the scheme.

THE DAKOTAS

Unknown Man Taken to Insane Asylum at Jamestown.

NORTH DAKOTA.

Jamestown—Sheriff Collins, of Grand Forks, brought a middle-aged insane man to the state hospital. Since his arrest the man has refused to talk and has put in most of his time in prayer. He has the appearance of being half-starved. Nothing was found on his person to indicate his identity and he was sent to the asylum as John Doe.

Fargo—Mayor Johnson has appointed a committee composed of one alderman from each ward to select a site and take the necessary steps toward the establishment of a public library, in order to benefit by the gift of Andrew Carnegie. Several plans have been discussed and nearly every ward wants the library. One contingent wants the site to be in the public park, entirely away from all other buildings and with more attractive surroundings.

Many Odd Fellows and members of the Rebekahs passed through Fargo on their way to Grand Forks to attend the state meeting of both organizations. R. M. Pollock, of Fargo, was recently elected grand master and will be inducted into office at the annual session.

Grand Forks—A heavy rain has been falling for the last eighteen hours and the fields are thoroughly soaked through in the northern part of the state.

SOUTH DAKOTA.

Parker—Over fifty people are sick, some dangerously, from having eaten pressed chicken at the high school banquet last week. The chickens were boiled in a tin boiler with copper bottom on Wednesday. It was first thought the sickness was due to ice cream or to the beef tongue. Nearly all were taken with chills, fainting spells and severe diarrhoea. The doctors have been kept on a rush since 12 o'clock Saturday night. Professor J. R. Byers and Mrs. Purinton, it is feared, may not recover.

Aberdeen—Rasmus Neilson, a well-known character about town, was found dead in his bed Monday morning. He lived alone and is trought to have sons and other relatives in the southern part of the state. No inquest was held, as death probably resulted from natural causes.

Sioux Falls—A wide circle of acquaintances were shocked by the death of Charlotte Emma Kelley, wife of Roswell W. Kelley, at the family residence in this city. The cause of death was an internal cancer. She had been ill only a few months.

Sheriff Huston has attached the stock of the Hickey & McNamara Mercantile company, local wholesale liquor dealers, at the instance of a Chicago distillery company, on a claim for $2060. Disagreements are said to have existed for some time between members of the firm and the company will now be dissolved.

The annual school census shows that there are in Sioux Falls 1461 males of school age and 1647 females, or a total of 3103—an increase of eighty-eight over the school census of last year.

Mitchell—Judge Smith went to Gann valley, in Buffalo county, Tuesday to hold the first term of court that has been in session there for nearly three years. A term of court now was only necessary to try a murder case, that of a Bohemian named Katnilek, who killed his wife last fall.

Highmore—Highmore is building and otherwise improving more than in many years. Carpenters and painters are in great demand, also gardeners, as there are more trees being set out this spring than ever before in the history of the town.

BROKER SUED.

Interesting to Those Buying and Selling on Margins.

New York, June 5.—Christian B. Hollender has brought action to recover $20,000 from the brokerage firm of Douglas & Jones. Conversion of personal property is alleged. This action is likely to attract attention because it involves the rights of customers buying on margins. When the recent panic came, Mr. Hollender was carrying, among other stocks, 600 shares of Union Pacific common, for a part of which he paid $100.70 per share, and for the other shares $127 each. He also had 100 shares of Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul common, for which he had paid $174.80 per share.

"These stocks," Mr. Hollender's attorney said, "were sold by Douglas & Jones on the day of the panic at almost the bottom prices of the market that day. The Union Pacific shares were sold at $80 and $82 per share, and the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul stock for $155 per share. All of these sales were made without Mr. Hollender's knowledge or consent.

"When Mr. Hollender asked why the 700 shares had been disposed of when the market was low, he was told, it is said, that the stocks were sold for the purpose of protecting the balance of his account. On the day after the panic the Union Pacific shares went up to $112 and the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul shares to $160. The difference between the amount realized for the stocks of Blue Thursday and their value in the market on the following day is figured by Mr. Hollender at $20,800, and it is to recover this amount that suit has been brought."

MYSTERY

Atlanta, Ga., June 5.—The detectives are puzzled over a diamond burglary case which is more mysterious than any they have experienced in months. They believe that the thief, who made away with $1200 worth of diamonds from the residence of Mrs. Carrie Cabaniss in an Atlanta suburb, became either conscience stricken or feared detection and returned the stolen property. The jewel case, with all its contents, was first missed Tuesday morning of last week. Detectives arested a negro who had formerly worked in the house and detained him, although he protested his innocence. They admit now that on Sunday morning the jewels were returned to the house, although the negro in jail had no means of communicating with any confederates. The police think the guilty party was either pricked by conscience or desired to rescue an innocent person from the accusation of the theft.

AT WEST DULUTH

It has been rumored that real estate in the vicinity of Ramsey street and Fifty-fourth avenue west is likely to jump way up in price, since some of the people living in that vicinity have been able to pick five dollar bills out of the street and off the adjoining property just as thought they were picking cherries. When first told, the story savored very much of the pipe, but some of the searchers have the collateral to show for it, and the presumption is that it is true. A few mornings ago several men, among whom was Dr. Confers, stood at the corner of the street, opposite the livery barn, looking over a horse that had just been purchased. Suddenly one of the men espied a greenishlooking piece of paper on the pavement at his feet, and without a word he picked it up, noticing the letter "V" in the corner, and put it in his pocket. The others had noticed the paper, but thought it was an old piece of wall paper. The finder commenced looking further, and the rest were immediately attacked with the desire to gain riches in this easy manner. The result was that after several persons had carefully canvassed the vicinity and figured up their findings, they were about $75 ahead. There is no clue to the former owner of the money, and the theory is that some drunken man must have scattered it there some time before. When found the money was quite wet with dew. This morning there were said to be at least half a dozen persons in West Duluth that suddenly remembered losing a lot of money in the vicinity of that found, but the finders believe in the principle of "finders are owners," and they will keep it.

SPRINKLING WAS ORDERED.

Alderman L. A. Barnes corrects the statement in The Herald of yesterday that the council did nothing further in regard to the street sprinkling matter for West Duluth than to receive the report of the board of public works regarding the petition of the West Duluth merchants. Mr. Barnes moved that the report be received, the recommendations of the board for a street sprinkling district in West Duluth be carried out, and that the board be authorized to call for the sprinkling bids, and this motion carried.

Planting Fish.

The piscatorial population of Lake Superior and north shore streams was increased at least 370,000 today.

The Booth line boat Argo, which left on its regular north shore trip at 10 o'clock this morning, carried trout enough to furnish material for fish stories for several hundred years.

The fishlets came from the Lakeside hatchery and will be planted in the lake as the Argo proceeds up the north shore. There were 360,000 lake trout and 10,000 brook trout. The latter will be dropped in the lake close to trout streams.

Petition Presented.

The Lakeside petition for a fast line street car service morning and evening was presented to the street railway company yesterday afternoon by Arthur Crassweller.

This petition, calling for through cars from Second avenue east, contained the signatures of ninety-six residents of Lakeside and about fifty-five residents of the East End. The street car company will take the matter up in the near future.

Of Ptomaine Poisoning.

The funeral of Lulu Margaret Clark, infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Clark, was held from the family residence 67 East Third street, this afternoon.

The child died suddenly yesterday morning of ptomaine poisoning. The father, who arrived on the steamer Argo from Port Arthur was not aware of the child's illness until he stepped off the boat yesterday and was told of her death. It is supposed that poisoning came from a can of condensed milk.

RECTOR RESIGNS.

Cannot Preach the Truth Without Being Cursed.

Lansing, Mich., June 5.—A sensation has been created by Rev. R. V. Hunt's statement accompanying the announcement of his resignation as rector of St. Paul's Episcopal church and his withdrawal from the ministry. He says that every step of his study since he left the theological seminary has developed an interpretation of facts beyond those laid down in the creeds of the churches, and that a minister cannot today preach a modest account of truth without being cursed to his face for the reason that the conservative element in the church will not tolerate the preaching of religious truths as they are now commonly accepted by modern thinkers and students.

He cites numerous instances to show the alteration modern research is making in the old accepted tenets, and says that the glory and beauty of religion is not lessened, but is infinitely increased. He says:

"It is a question of retreat for the church, and while the church is retreating, it is not doing so rapidly enough. Present changes and shifting will result in a beautiful and more perfect religion, but whether with the aid of the churches or in spite of it cannot yet be told.

Attention, Modern Woodmen!

Tuesday, June 11, the Northern Pacific railway, Duluth Short line, will run a special train from Duluth and West Superior to St. Paul, arriving in St. Paul in plenty of time to permit participating in the parade. Leaving time from Duluth will be announced later.

IS STILL FIGURING

Treasurer's Force Has Not Yet Determined Total Payments.

Half Payment Plan Was Used More Than Ever.

Sheriff Sargent Collects About $3000 of Personal Taxes.

The force in the office of the county treasurer is still busy working up the receipts of taxes up to May 31. It is still too early to tell what the receipts amounted to, though there is no doubt that they will prove very large when they are footed up. One element that must be considered is that more people than ever paid only half their tax this spring, leaving the balance to be paid in the fall. Thus, while the work in the treasurer's office never was so great, the amount collected may not be much larger than last year at this time. Practically everybody came in and paid but it is just as much work to enter up a half-payment as it is to enter a full payment. So while the rush was frightful the spring collections may not turn out to be very much greater than they were last year. Although frequent references to the half-payment system, which has been in operation for several years, have been made, the public did not seem to catch on to it very rapidly, and it was not until this year that a very large proportion of the taxpayers availed themselves of it. This year nearly every taxpayer that had a large amount of taxes to pay took advantage of it. This will make the October collections also very large, because few people pay the first half without paying the second.

At the Friday meeting of the board of county commissioners Sheriff Sargent will make a return of his collections of personal property taxes, showing those that have not yet paid. The collections amounted to about $3000, which is a very good sum and shows the effect of the summary methods adopted this time, by which people who did not pay were compelled to give up property to be sold to satisfy the taxes. About 375 delinquents out of 950 paid up, and a list of the balance will be turned over to the county board. At its Friday meeting the board will go through the list, cutting out those against whom it is believed to be useless to proceed. Citations will be issued to the rest, commanding them to appear before the district court at the September term to show cause why they should not have judgments entered against them. When the judgments are entered the sheriff will go out after them again.

MRS. NATION

Kansas City, Mo., June 5.—Mrs. Nation cut loose here again Monday afternoon. It was "editors' day" at the manufacturers' exhibition of goods made in Kansas City, which has been in progress for a week at Convention hall. Some 200 editors of country papers all over this section were the guests of the management, and among them Mrs. Nation, as "editoress of the Smashers' Mail."

There is an art gallery in one division of the exposition. Mrs. Nation visited it. She had a hatchet in her hand, borne as a sort of "ad" for her paper. About the first work of art she espied was an Apollo statue.

Apollo had no trousers on. With uplifted hatchet and a whoop, Mrs. Nation made a dash for the Apollo. Bystanders saved the marble god. But the next minute Mrs. Nation caught sight of a defenseless water color picture—Psyche in the altogether.

It took two policemen to get the smasher away from this. They arrested her, but recalling the unpleasant experiences of a few weeks ago, did not take her to the station. Directly she was released the indefatigable old woman mounted a platform and addressed a crowd of several thousand on morality and temperance.

EDUCATION.

Des Moines, June 5.—Reading and discussion of the annual report of the board of education occupied the morning session of the general synod, Evangelical Lutheran church. A motion to give Carthage (Ill.) college one-third of the board's apportionment for the ensuing two years was discussed at length. Following is an abstract of the board's report:

The eighth annual report of the board of education showed that the total number of students registered in 1899-1900 was 156 and in 1900-01, 86. The percentage of professing Christians among them was 60.

The amount received for the work has increased from $8709 in 1899 to $26,993 in 1901. For this constant growth in the support the board was grateful, and it was stated that the schools have in them the promise of a larger growth and greater fruitage if faithfully lectured by the church. The limitations occasioned by the payment of so small a part of the apportionment is deeply to be regretted. "Profound is the conviction that unless the church can be aroused to a truer apprehension of the function and force of Christian education, and a greatly increased influence, she must fail in taking the place she is called to occupy among the organized forces of Christendom. The time has passed when our colleges and seminaries can be sustained with the crumbs of our benevolence. Will we make the adequate response or will we loiter along the way. For a quicker, stronger, steady step forward we plead."

It is expected the synod will complete its work tomorrow evening.

Poison Oak Poison Ivy

BOTANICAL REPTILES

Their Sting Sets the Skin on Fire and Fills the Veins with a Violent, Lingering Poison

These plants seem to partake of the nature and character of the serpent; in winter time being comparatively harmless, but when warmed into life by spring and summer heat they become extremely venomous and spiteful, emitting a milky juice that burns and blisters like a fiery acid, producing quick inflammation and painful swelling. Some persons are so susceptible to these vegetable poisons that coming in their vicinity will produce almost as much discomfort and pain as handling them; their thin and sensitive skins seem to absorb from the surrounding atmosphere the acrid juices emanating from these plants. There is seldom a picnic or family gathering in the woods but that some member of the party comes in contact with Poison Ivy, Oak or some other hurtful plant or weed, and through the open pores the poison is carried to the overheated blood. Poison Ivy is found clinging to tree trunks, fences or rocks, sometimes reaching great heights; the leaves are nearly square in shape, smooth and shiny and three on each stem; the flowers are of a greenish white color, and the berries pale green or white. The Oak is a small shrub, seldom more than three feet high, its size depending upon the nature of the soil, location, etc.; the leaves are long and pointed with saw-like edges and a downy appearance underneath. While the two plants are entirely unlike in appearance, the poisonous effects are very similar. After the swelling subsides the skin remains for a long time in a rough and inflamed condition, dotted here and there with bad looking ulcers and little festering sores. It is truly remarkable with what regularity and certainty the disease returns, and always on schedule time, appearing the same month, day and hour, almost, that it did the year before. Don't be deceived should all the signs of the poison vanish soon after the first attack—the acrid juices have been taken through the open skin pores into the blood, and the most persistent and faithful use of external remedies can never dislodge them, and next season, and for years to come, you may expect to endure the same bodily tortures; the blood in the meantime becoming so saturated and charged with the poison that each succeeding attack leaves the body weaker and recovery more uncertain and slow, and thus the once simple malady ends disastrously.

SSS

For every poisonous plant, tree, shrub or flower, nature has wisely provided an antidote or cure. The roots and herbs of which S. S. S. is composed quickly, surely and permanently overcome and drive out of the blood and system the effects of Poison Ivy, Poison Oak, Virginia Creeper, Thunder Weed, Sumac and vegetable poisons of every variety. S. S. S. will be found an invaluable and perfect antidote for poisons of this class. There is never any return of the aggravating symptoms after a course of S. S. S., as it destroys every vestige of the poison.

Don't abandon hope because of repeated failures. State your case to our doctors; we feel sure they can help you. Medical advice will cost you nothing and is strictly confidential. Book on Blood and Skin Diseases free. SWIFT SPECIFIC CO., Atlanta, Ga.

BLOOD SATURATED WITH POISON OAK.

Mr. John Friel, of Bear Station, Del., writes: "I was poisoned with poison oak which went through my blood, and my condition became so serious that the doctors all said I could not get well. I remained in a precarious condition, confined to the house, for six months, when I saw S. S. S. advertised and began its use, soon realizing that it was doing me good. I continued the medicine and was cured entirely. I think it the best blood medicine made."

RETURNED EVERY SPRING FOR 18 YEARS.

Mrs. A. N. Bennett, of Toccoa, Ga., whose case is similar to thousands of others who come in contact with these plants, says: "When eight years old my little brother and I were poisoned by handling poison oak, and it broke out on us every spring for eighteen years. Some one recommended S. S. S., which cured us completely, and we have seen no signs of the eruptions for several seasons.

ABANDONS SOCIETY

Scion of Wealthy Family Is a Third Molder's Helper.

He Works Like a Stevedore In a Steel Factory.

Would Know, Like Tolstoi, the Delights of Labor's Largess.

St. Louis, Mo., June 5.—Tired of society at the age of 25, Arthur Lee Cabanne, college man, athlete and social favorite, son of wealthy J. Charles Cabanne, of 4231 Westminster place, is wheeling pig iron, shoveling coal and performing other tasks at the plant of the Shickle, Harrison & Howard company, in East St. Louis, at $1.80 a day, to acquire a knowledge of the manufacture of steel.

He has entered a five years' course of apprenticeship, and for that period will be literally dead to the world and a recluse from the haunts he was wont to frequent.

In the parlance of the plant, he is a "third molder's helper," the most humble and unremunerative position on the pay-roll. By and by, if his service is faithful, he will be promoted to the rank of "second molder's helper," then to the first helpership, and eventually to the position of molder, the highest honor he can hope to attain in a manual capacity at the works. His wages will be increased until it is possible for him to earn $4 a day.

He works shoulder to shoulder twelve hours each day with hundreds of negroes and grimy faced men. He spreads his noonday or midnight lunch on the same board with the motley throng, and is a boon companion with them in their brief respite from toil.

The dash and polish of this popular young man is not discernible in his Vulcanic environment. He essays the same plane of his plebian comrades, and the fact that he was reared in the atmosphere of affluence and luxury does not interfere with a common fellowship.

Mr. Cabanne attempted to enter the plant incog., but his identity became known the second day of his service, and he was compelled to register by his right name. A former coachman for the senior Cabanne, toiling now in the same capacity with the young man, recognized him, and before night the 1900 operatives of the works know that a scion of the old and distinguished Cabanne family was one of their number.

Mr. Cabanne had read where rich men's sons left palatial homes and luxurious surroundings to join the increasing army of wage earners, and feared that his friends might think he was seeking a similar avenue for publicity. That was the reason he preferred to receive his wages under the name of William Jones.

He is not following another's precedent. He is not emulating another's example simply for the sake of convincing the world that a rich man's son will labor. He is a "third molder's helper" today in the hope that he will be gradually promoted to the most skillful position in the plant, so that he may learn every department of steel making, and finally be able to own and successfully operate a similar industry. That is the ambition of his life. He does not believe that a man can conduct an iron foundry unless he has had some actual experience himself in the mechanical department.

He will serve the five years of irksome apprenticeship, an existence almost as unbearable as the confinement in Russia's great iron works, hoping that the dream of his life will be fulfilled in the end.

Arthur Lee Cabanne is a magnificent type of young manhood. He is about 5 feet 9 inches in height, and prior to his arrival at the plant weighed 220 pounds. Five days' service have already reduced his avoirdupois fifteen pounds. He has classic features, wreathed in a perpetual smile that is almost infectious. He is molded like a model and is erect as a statue. As he walks down the somber corridors of the great manufactory the men unconsciously look at him in admiration.

He is an unscathed hero of the Spanish-American war. He was first lieutenant and battery adjutant of the Forty-eighth infantry, and passed through many brisk skirmishes in the Philippine islands. He wears the yellow canvas uniform and army hat of Uncle Sam while at work, and the garb adds to his striking appearance.

He is a graduate of the Western Military academy at Alton, Ill., and is a fluent linguist.

When the United States became engaged in war with Spain he was among the first of the St. Louis boys to enlist. He won honors in an Eastern college and was full-back in the football team of the Western Military academy.

His parental home is one of the finest in Westminster place. Its furnishings are superb and surroundings luxurious. His father, J. Charles Cabanne, is president of the St. Louis Dairy company, and John Cabanne, another son, is manager of the same company. But Arthur became surfeited with society and the ease of aristocracy.

The transition is forcibly emphatic. His task today is as hard as any stevedore or stoker that ever crossed an ocean. His duties are varied, but none is easier than the other. He wheels pig iron and sellsh to eight roaring furnaces. Each barrow holds 600 pounds, and he estimates that he handles 10,000 pounds every day.

Between the "taking of heats," which means the withdrawal of the metal at the proper stage of the temperature for the molders' ladles, he shovels coal into the furnaces at a rate of speed that makes the veteran hands look on with astonishment.

He stands three feet from the great doors through which belch seething sheets of flame so intensely hot that visitors standing a rod away feel as though they were scorching. Mr. Cabanne has become accustomed to the terrific heat quicker, it is said, than any man who ever accepted employment at the works.

First and second molders' helpers wear blue spectacles of peculiar formation, which permit them to peer into the furnaces more closely and intently to watch the process of melting the metal, but the third helpers are denied this appliance as long as they remain in that humble rank. This is done, it is claimed, to prevent them from acquiring knowledge of the trade too quickly. They must obtain it by degrees, and come to the glasses at stated periods in the five years' service. Mr. Cabanne looks through Nature's lenses alone, and his eyes show the effects of the heat and strain. Barring this and the decrease in weight, which he can stand with becoming effect, he feels no ill results from his first week's experience.

When there is no coal to shovel, no silica or pig iron to wheel and no dolamite or magnesia to spread over the furnace bed to create a new formation, he is assigned to sweeping cinders off the sheet metal floor.

He is never idle. He works from 6 o'clock in the morning until 6 in the evening, or from evening until morning, when he is changed to the night shift. There are no Sundays or holidays for him except of his own selection and at a sacrifice of his wages for the time he loses.

He is prompt at his post of duty. He has not yet been docked and says that he would consider it as much of a disgrace to be tardy to his employers as he would were he recreant to military duty.

When his day's work is done he picks up his dinner pail and boards the first street car for the Diehl hotel, a medium-priced hostelry on North Third street, where he has a little room on the third floor. Here he spends the rest of his time, reading, writing, smoking or sleeping.

He does not mingle with the East Side society people.

"I have no time or thought for anything else now," he said, "I am here to work, learn the business. I am treated like all the other operatives. I do not expect any discrimination to be made in my favor.

"There are many secrets about the manufacture of steel of which the outside world knows but little. It is guarded almost as closely here as in the Russian iron works. I expect to have it unfolded to me by degrees and must expect to endure the hardships.

"I am not a cynic or soured against the social world. I simply concluded that I had reached that period of life when I should select some trade by which I could compete for wealth. As steel business to me seems to offer the greatest inducements. I expect some day to be at the head of an industry like, if not as colossal as this. I am not seeking any advertising in consequence of this sudden change in my station, and here I am. That is all there is to it.

"When my trade shall have been learned and I am in possession of a business of my own, I may again go back to the congenial habits and haunts which I have just quit. There are no vacancies or holidays here for me. All is work, and that, too, of the hardest kind. Comparatively few men are able to stand the heat of the furnaces. Not one out of ten can do it but from the first day I was able to shovel in coal at the four-foot doors with a scoop that has a three-foot handle. Watch me."

Then he gave a demonstration of his ability. He stood by the glowing red iron walls of the furnace until it seemed as if his very clothing was burning.

Mr. Cabanne shares his lunch with his fellow workmen and they have already learned to call him the "Prince."

WHY THE WORK HAS BEEN DELAYED

Directors of St. Luke's Hospital Explain the Reasons That Caused Postponement of Final Construction of New Hospital.

The principal contracts have now been let for the completion of the new St. Luke's hospital, at the corner of First street and Ninth avenue east, the foundation and basement walls of which were satisfactorily completed last fall. The contract for the construction of the superstructure has been let. It is hoped that as the work goes forward to completion it will meet the expectations and approval not only of the many persons who have generously contributed funds for this undertaking, but of the people at large, who can not but feel an interest in an institution carried on as St. Luke's hospital always has been, and as its character requires it to be, not for gain, but to minister at the least possible cost, and even gratuitously, where necessary, to the extent of the ability of the institution, to the needs of those in distress, without regard to religious affiliations or social distinctions.

In view of the fact that so much time has elapsed since the commencement of this undertaking, during which funds have been accumulated by charitable donations, which to a large amount are still unexpended, the trustees desire at this time to briefly explain to the donors of such funds, and to the public generally, the reasons which in their judgment have justified and even compelled the postponement until the present time of the prosecution of the final work of construction. The trustees will at some future time make public a more particular statement as to the funds which may have been placed at their disposal for this purpose, and as to the manner in which these funds shall have been expended. For the present it is desired to explain briefly the reasons which have influenced the trustees in their action taken, as well as in postponing until now the entering into contracts for the completion of the building.

As is well known, institutions of this kind, established and maintained not for the purpose of profit, but to subserve a public need, can acquire funds in considerable amounts for construction of the necessary buildings only by charitable donations. When the pressing need of a new building, which should meet the requirements of modern hospital service, led to the commencement of solicitations for donations for this purpose, it could not be known or anticipated how much money could thus be raised. It was then supposed that the best that could be done was to construct a building on the old hospital site, immediately adjacent to the old building, although there were even then felt to be serious objections to this course, by reason of the fact that the land was insufficient area for the purpose intended (and efforts to extend the grounds by the purchase of adjacent property were made in vain); that the site itself was objectionable because of its street front age being on a steep incline, and the further fact that the construction of the proposed building on that site, and necessarily in immediate proximity, and almost in contact with, the southerly side of the old hospital, would, during the period of construction, render useless for hospital purposes a very large part of the old building, the whole of which has long been of insufficient capacity.

The effort to secure funds met with unexpected encouragement, several of our well-known citizens cheerfully contributing $1000 each, others $500, and donations ranging from that sum downwards.

So generous and so general were the responses to appeals for donations on the part of the people of Duluth, and so strongly did many persons urge upon the trustees the desirability of selecting better and larger grounds for the erection of a hospital which, if the purpose could be accomplished, would be one of the permanent and most necessary institutions of the city for scores of years to come, and which, as the city should grow, would need to be enlarged in future years, that the desirability and possibility of such a change became strongly impressed upon the minds of those chiefly charged with the prosecution of the undertaking. The result was that at length a purchase upon very favorable terms was effected of 200 feet on East First street, immediately east of Ninth avenue, in which purchase was involved also a "donation of $500 of the real purchase price from one of the vendors. No more desirable location could have been found in the whole city; and when it is considered, in addition to the reasons above referred to, that the price which is expected to be realized from a sale of the old hospital site will go far to balance the expenditure for the new location, it may be seen that this course was, upon the whole, most expedient.

The character of the building to be erected has from the beginning received not only the most serious consideration of the board, but they have also sought counsel from various persons not members of the board; and particularly whether the structure should be fire-proof and of such a character in other respects as a modern hospital ought to be, even though the greater expense of such a mode of construction should necessitate the incurring of indebtedness on the part of the association. Viewing the matter from all sides, the board concluded with perfect unanimity that this structure, intended for lasting permanent and constant use in the care of scores of physically helpless patients, should above all things be fire-proof, and of a character in other respects to meet the requirements of modern hospital science, and in this the judgment of the board has been in harmony with that of the medical profession, whose advice has been sought; and, so far as is known, of almost all who have manifested an interest in this enterprise. The plans for the building as proposed and adopted have been in accordance with this purpose. The cost of such a mode of construction has rendered it impossible to give as large dimensions to the building as might have been desirable, with a view to the future, but it is believed to have been expedient that the question of the extent of the structure should be subordinate to that of the character of the structure. The building, however, is to be of four stories above a high basement, and it is hoped that its capacity may be sufficient for years to come. It will accommodate about twice as many patients as the old hospital.

From the time which has elapsed since this enterprise was inaugurated, it may have seemed to those who have not appreciated the difficulty of securing by gift the funds necessary for such purpose, that there had been too little activity on the part of its managers, or that the scheme was being allowed to drift instead of being pushed. From the standpoint of the managers, the disagreeable duty of begging has led them to fear that persons solicited to give may have felt that there was too much activity of that direction. In fact from the commencement of the undertaking until the present hour there has been no cessation of effort, both at home and abroad, to secure funds to construct this building—without a burden of debt, if possible, but if that could not be done, then with the least possible amount of indebtedness. It is nown that in our own city the number of those whose circumstances would justify large donations is more limited than in older communities; and while such persons as well as those of less financial ability, have responded very generously and generally, still the amount of funds at the disposal of the association has always been far short of what was required to construct such a building as a modern hospital ought to be. From time to time new contributions have been received, and within the past three months over $5000 has been placed at the disposal of the managers, including $5000 received from John D. Rockefeller, the largest individual donation that has been made.

When at length the circumstances seemed to justify the hope that the work of construction might be undertaken, competitive bids were invited from contractors. The prices bid so far exceeded expectations, that it was deemed impracticable to go forward until further funds could be secured.

Again, in 1900, proposals were invited from contractors, with separate bids for putting in the foundation and basement walls ready for the superstructure. Again the prices fixed by the contractors for the entire structure so far exceeded expectations that it was deemed impossible to construct the building at that time; but it was deemed best to go forward and complete the foundation and basement walls, so that in the following spring of 1901, if then possible, the work of completing the structure might go forward. The work thus undertaken was completed in the summer of 1900, ready for the superstructure of masonry and steel.

Within the past few weeks the board concluded that although it was certain that the funds on hand would be insufficient to complete the hospital without incurring indebtedness, nevertheless, it was not only expedient, but necessary, that the building should be completed without further delay, the board being impelled thereto chiefly by the following considerations, among others, viz.: The urgent and present need of the proposed new building for actual use; the fact that a large amount of money had been contributed for that express purpose, of which funds the managers were trustees, and bound to apply the same to that end as soon as practicable; and that further delay in the prosecution of the work would discourage further donations, which it was hoped might be secured both at home and abroad, when it should be known that the expectation of securing a new hospital was to be realized. Further than this there had been made some promises of additional donations, both at home and abroad, from persons who, as was believed, were waiting to see that the ends in view were to be actually accomplished.

To go forward with the construction it was necessary that arrangements be made for securing by loan such money as might be necessary, in addition to the money in hand, and such further donations as might be made, so that the association should be able, without default, to meet its obligations to the contractors. Such arrangements were made, and after the receiving of proposals for the third time from several different contractors, a trust deed was executed to Henry F. Greene, of Duluth, as trustee, to secure bonds which it might be found necessary to issue to complete the building. We are spared the necessity of borrowing any money until it shall be actually needed, that is, until the funds in the treasury shall be exhausted. The amount which it will be necessary to thus borrow will depend upon the amount of contributions which may be made within the next two months, or thereabouts.

The work of construction is to be undertaken at once, and is to be completed by Oct 25, unless prevented by unforeseen events.

It is probable that personal solicitations for donations have not been addressed to all persons who may be willing to contribute to accomplish the end in view. It must, however, be generally known that this enterprise is being prosecuted, and can be prosecuted, only by donations, and that what is being done is not for the benefit of the managers, for the time being, of this charitable institution, or even of the corporation itself, but for the public good, and it is hoped that all who are willing to contribute, according to their ability, be the amounts great or small, will voluntarily signify their to some member of the board their willingness to do so. John H. Dight, cashier of the First National bank, is the treasurer of the corporation.

The amount which will have been paid to contractors, on competitive bids, by the time the building is completed, will not fall short of $60,000. It will thus be seen that the task of securing, by charitable donations, the funds necessary to construct a hospital building, as such buildings ought to be constructed, is one of real difficulty, and it should not occasion surprise that so much time has elapsed since this work was undertaken before the managers felt themselves justified in incurring the obligations involved in the contracts which have just been entered into.

That it may be seen that the benefits of this institution are not conferred upon any selected or particular class, or the adherents of any particular creed, the following statement is presented, showing the nationalities and religious affiliations of the patients who have been cared for in the old hospital during the past year, these facts being as stated by the patients themselves:

NO MORE DROUTH

Kansas the Only Spot That Has Not Had Rain.

The September Option Manifests More Strength Than July.

Wheat Prices Declined Under the Bearish Crop Conditions.

Duluth Board of Trade, June 5.—The liberal rainfall in the West and Northwest, which practically ensures good crops this year, was again the chief factor in the wheat market today and under this influence the price declined, with one or two rallies followed by reactions. The only place where there was any chance for damage by drouth that did not get rain was Kansas. It was reported hot and dry in that state. The Ohio crop report gave a condition of 89 against 92 in May. The cables were lower, Liverpool closing unchanged to ½d lower and Antwerp 3c off. Primary receipts of wheat were 675,081 bus, last year 351,448. Shipments 339,695 bus, last year 252,015. Total clearances of wheat and flour were 274,108 bus.

In nearly all of the markets the strength of September as compared with the July option was marked. In Chicago there was a decline of 1¾c in July with September practically unchanged, but in that market the July option has been manipulated. In Minneapolis July declined a cent to less than 5c for September. Duluth showed less of this difference than the other markets.

Receipts at Duluth and Minneapolis, 420 cars, against 149 last week and 331 last year, Chicago receipts, 69 cars, 1 of contract grade.

The Duluth market while not so active as Monday was marked by active trading. July wheat opened ¼c off at 74¼c, sold at 74c at 9:32, rallied to 74⅝c at 9:56, reacted to 74c at 10, advanced again to 74⅝c at 11:35, declined to 74c at 12:30 and to 75⅞c at 12:55 and closed at 73⅞c, a decline of ⅝c. Chicago declined 1¾c and Minneapolis 5⅞-1c.

Cash sales aggregated 35,000 bus at ½c under the July price.

Coarse grains were rather inactive, although there was some trading in flax options. Cash flax was marked up 4c, and September was off 1c and October 4c. There was some talk in Chicago of strong interests again taking the bull side of corn. Primary receipts of corn were 841,-066 bus, last year 608,100. Shipments 582,-273 bus, last year 621,635. Rye showed a decline of 2½c.

Following are the closing prices:

Wheat—No. 1 hard, cash, 76½c; to arrive, 76½c; July, 75⅞c; September, 72c. No. 1 northern, cash, 73½c; to arrive, 73½c; July, 73⅝c; September, 71c. No. 2 northern, 69½c. No. 3 spring, 65½c. Oats, 28¾@28c. Rye, 51c. Flax, cash, $1.65; to arrive, $1.61; September, $1.30; September Northwestern, $1.31; October, $1.28. Corn, 42c.

THE CHICAGO MARKET.

Copious Rains Gave Wheat a Weak Start.

Chicago, June 5.—Wheat was weak at the start today under the influence of copious rains in the West and Northwest, July opening ½@⅝c lower at 70@70¼c declined to 75¼c, rallied to 76c on covering and again fell back to 75¼c. Local receipts were 68 cars, one of contract grade. Minneapolis and Duluth reported 420 cars, against 149 last week and 331 a year ago.

July touched 75⅜@75c and then fell to 74⅜c and closed weak, 1¾c lower at 75c.

Corn was dull. July opened shade to ⅛@¼c lower at 44⅛@44¼c in sympathy with wheat, but reacted to 44⅜@44½c on small purchases for the local account. Receipts were 344 cars, 41 of contract grade.

Corn, July closed steady, shade up at 44⅝c.

Oats were weak on the rains. July opened unchanged to ⅛c lower at 28@28⅛c and declined to 27½@28c. Receipts were 218 cars.

Provisions were steady under an investment demand for lard which alarmed shorts. July pork opened 2½@5c higher at $14.55 and sold to $14.60; July lard unchanged at $8.17½, selling to $8.30, and July ribs shade up at $7.85, advancing to $7.90.

MARKET GOSSIP.

Received over private wire of B. E. Baker, grain and stock broker, 307 Board of Trade, Duluth, Minn.:

Chicago, June 5.—The local wheat market has been much quieter. The July price has dragged off under what has seemed to be moderate liquidation by the principal holders. September wheat has been fairly well bought for local account. In general conditions there is very little change. Good rains have fallen over pretty much the entire wheat belt except in extreme Southwest. Crop prospects are on the whole much improved and are satisfactory. Cash demand is poor, except for local manipulation of the fears of it, we think lower prices will be likely.

The corn market was quiet and steady. Cash demand unsatisfactory and receipts are liberal. Apart from local manipulation, of which there are no signs at present, we think prices are likely to drag off.

The oats market opened weak on general unfavorable weather for the crop, but has been supported by local buying. There is nothing noticeable in the way of demand or movement. Stocks are liberal and although the prospects do not promise an average crop, we would rather sell oats than buy them for the next few weeks.

In provisions, lard was higher on continued large shipments and rather better local buying. The other products are practically unchanged. There seems to be no great selling presure although a large movement of hogs is expected. Cash demand affords the principal support to prices.

THE CROP REPORTS.

Conditions In North Dakota and Minnesota.

The crop report for North Dakota for the week ending Monday last presents the need of rain, but it should be remembered that the state has had a drenching since the report came out. The report says:

"While crops are much in need of moisture, still they have stood the drouth very well, and no great damage has been done, although on high and sandy soil they are beginning to turn color, and there has been no growth of consequence during the past two weeks, but a good heavy rain would bring them forward rapidly, as they are, as a rule, well rooted.

"Some flax yet remains to be sown, but in most sections none will be put in until a rain comes to sprout the seed. Late sown grain, as well as most of the corn, has not germinated yet, or where it has, is coming up very thin and uneven. Grass is suffering more than grain, and in most places, is dying out and turning brown."

The Minnesota report is as follows:

"The days were moderately warm most of the week, and though many correspondents seem to think that the nights were very cool, thermometer readings taken in many parts of the state do not show unseasonably low temperatures. The week was a dry one, the only measurable rainfall reported being .30 of an inch at Worthington, on June 2. Notwithstanding the very dry conditions, most of the wheat and oats are growing well and look healthy, only the grains on light soils, and those seeded late, showing indications of the need of moisture. In some southern counties barley has been affected by cinch bugs, and in small areas by frost. The cool weather of previous weeks had a tendency to cause deep rooting, so that the grain plants are now somewhat independent of surface conditions for their water supply. The dry weather is most severe on late sown grains, the roots of which have not yet reached the moisture of the sub-soil, on the late sown flax which is germinating slowly, on pastures and mowing lands. The spring plowed land in the Red River valley is much drier than that plowed last fall. As usual in dry seasons, the grain sowed with drills and in well prepared soils is better than that broadcasted and sowed on poorly prepared lands."

WEAKNESS IN STOCKS

Close Was Active at About Lowest Point of Day.

Urgent Selling Throughout the List In Last Hour.

Heavy Demand Early For Atchison But It Fell Off.

New York, June 5.—The Denver & Rio Grande stocks were the only ones among the internationals that had any help from the London market this morning. The common rose 1¼ and the preferred 1⅝ at the opening here. The internationals generally were lower in sympathy with London. Union Pacific fell 1⅝ and Rock Island 1¼. There were some sharp gains among the specialties, American Tobacco rising 2⅝, Chicago Terminal 1⅝ and General Electric a point. United States Steel dipped a fraction but rallied strongly.

A heavy demand developed for Atchison which advanced 2⅛ to 89⅝. Dealings in this stock were large. Various other stocks made gains including 3 in Illinois Central and 1¼ in Hicking Coal, Colorado Fuel, United States Steel and American car issues. Leading railroad stocks generally lagged, the conspicuous exception being Union Pacific, which wiped out its opening loss. Tobacco fell off 2 from the highest, Denver common rose to 35, Rock Island fell 2 in all and New York Central lost 1¼. The market continued irregular on large dealings.

Strength was limited to special stocks and realizing continued in the general list. Atchison went to 89⅝ and there were recoveries in other leading stocks which had been weak earlier including Rock Island, which rallied 2¾ and New York Central 1½. Low stocks were in good demand and Wisconsin Central, Peoria & Eastern, Des Moines & Fort Dodge, Iowa Central, South Shore & Atlantic, Pacific Mail and New York, Chicago & St. Louis common and second preferred and Pressed Steel Car were benefited 1@4. Southern Pacific rallied to 62¾, Lackawanna ran off 3⅜ and General Electric 3 points. The active list generally was reactionary, especially Sugar which lost 2 points. Bonds were irregular.

prices to the lowest of the day and affected the whole market. Rock Island was then taken in hand and marked up 8½ over the lowest point. St. Paul, Union Pacific and Atchison rallied 1 to 1½, but the general response was feeble and stocks continued to run off. When Rock Island itself dropped back 3½ points there was urgent selling all through the list. The closing was active and weak.

THE COTTON MARKET.

New York, June 5.—Cotton opened firm and up 4 to 7 points and immediately after the call shot up an additional 6 to 7 points on buying for accounts. After the first hour, the market was strong and at times excited, later, profit-taking broke July from 8c to 7.86, August from 7.51 to 7.43 and October from 7.14 to 7.09. A big rise in near months in Liverpool and the remarkable growth in spot demand. # SURE OF HONESTY

Minister and Insurance Agent Claim the $1000 Reward.

Another Man Has Virtues Touted By a Confiding Wife.

Mrs. Irving Getting Many Letters Telling of Honest Men.

Chicago, June 5.—Three of the most hopeful candidates for the prize of $1000 which Mrs. Nancy B. Irving offers for an honest man are a minister, a life insurance agent, and a woman who knows that her husband never lied. They are the only ones who hope to be rewarded for strictly truthful lives. Mrs. Irving's mail has suddenly increased to such proportions she no longer has any doubt the majority of people at least think themselves honest.

The modesty that accompanies extreme honesty prevents the man whose wife would testify for him from entering the race. The man himself refused to write. His wife wrote as follows:

"I feel sure my husband is and has been for years a thoroughly honest man in his business, professional and social life. I have been trying to persuade him to answer you, but he says that in the first place he would not be willing to accept money as a reward for honesty, and, moreover, would not on any consideration allow his name and life to be given publicity. He is a modest as well as an honest man, and I believe you will find that those two qualities are generally united; so, though there might be many men who would answer your offer as far as honesty is concerned, yet their modesty will still keep them in the background. My husband is a successful teacher in a private school. I wish we might get the benefit of your offer, for, though my husband has done well in many respects, we have not accumulated riches, and I doubt if we ever do."

Fred Drinkwater, whose name has an honest ring, thinks in spite of his business he can fulfill the conditions on which the offer is made. He wrote a long letter to Mrs. Irving, and did not reveal the secret of his occupation to which he made numerous references, until he had carefully worked up to a climax.

"I regard my present profession as peculiarly adapted to my principles in that I do not have to lie about it," he said. "The more of the truth I tell the better for me. I am a life insurance agent."

"One who knows him well" has written to tell Mrs. Irving of an honest man who is an orchestra leader in Chicago. "I can tell you of one," said the writer, "who has every opportunity of being dishonest, but who is called the only honest man in his profession in Chicago. He is the leader of an orchestra and has a good business. No one who has worked for him ever has lost a penny or been underpaid. He often has out six or eight orchestras, and although he could frequently make $5 or $6 more by going to a place other than the one that first engaged him, he always refuses to do so."

One man enters the competition not so much from the certainty that he will get the reward as in the hope that the experience will be of spiritual benefit to himself.

Those who are interesting themselves in framing rules for the contest are somewhat puzzled now to know how to choose the most honest man if any one is deemed worthy the prize. Are there comparative degrees of honesty which would pass Mrs. Irving's definition? is a question.

THE NEEDS OF THE GIRL GRADUATE

A Dash of Color In the Graduate's Gown, But White Leads---She Wears Pearls Like a Bride.

New York, June 3.—The needs of the girl graduate are of rather a dominating interest all along the clothes line just now. Hitherto the damsel who transmits her burning thoughts to a ribbon tied manuscript, to electrify the awe-struck audience, has been pleased to dress in white, like a bride or a baby. This is the century of novelties, however, and fair valedictorians and sweet orateresses may elect to dash in a becoming and not at all unwelcome touch of color. For instance, lots and lots of graduation gowns have been built of cream tinted and embroidered batiste, dropped and fitted over foundation skirts and bodices of green, or rose, or strong hyacinth blue taffeta.

As a matter of fact, the pure white graduating gowns are few and far between, and those that have been seen have been made of glittering louisine, crisp silk muslin or clinging crepe de chine.

In the way of materials, diaphanous textiles, by reason of their girlishness, are preferred to the surahs and wash silks of a year ago. The new method of tucking is a conspicuous feature of the thin confections. Scarcely more than a pinch of the material is caught up in the new tuck, which gives it the appearance of a flat cording. A plainly hemmed skirt shaped over the hips has a pointed tablier effect in front in perpendicular tucking, the ornamentation shortening at the back in cutaway style. A few Directoire bodice effects are seen for girls whose slim figures permit the short, trying waist line. With one of these, which was swathed with a shaped sash of ivory gros grain, drawn through a long buckle at the front and tying in a flat prim bow at the back, went a Directoire bag of the same silk, intended to hold the trifles necessary to the happiness of the graduating maid.

Sleeves are tucked to fit the arm loosely at the top and bulging in bishop puffs at the bottom. Sash, stock and wristbands may be of ivory satin ribbon, the little lace edged turn-over collar and cuffs, now so much in vogue, adding a dainty touch.

Some of the mull and India lawn gowns display pointed and round yokes that are marvels of fine needlework. Airy entredeux in medallions and blocked squares of applied lace appear upon the solider materials, while a mull guimpe may be all of drawn work, cobwebby fine.

These open-work, detachable yokes, being cool and easily renovated, are considered a useful wrinkle for the frocks of smarter materials, china silk, pongee, surah and satin, which, from their very expensiveness, are expected to serve after commencement for summer party gowns.

Many charming little undersleeves are seen, of course, with the bell flowing effect alone, and sometimes a daintily simple frock will be cut slightly square at the neck, to show a girlish throat and a thin neck chain with a turquoise pendant.

The graduating maid may wear, also, pearl or coral stickpins, a small brooch of turquoise matrix, or a luck bracelet, which is no more than a gold wire set with a four-leaf clover in tinted enamel. Coral, which is always the privilege of youth, makes a delightful blot of color against the sheer, white gown.

The most learned young ladies, however, have put their well stored heads together and resolved this year that it will be the most perfectly au fait for a graduate to wear pearls, real ones, if possible. One pretty string, worn up close at the top of the collar is the most seemly way to utilize them, and what every college girl yearns for in her deepest heart of hearts more than she yearns for honors and Greek prizes is a La Vallere, made of a thread-like chain of gold with one single, large, irregularly shaped fresh water pearl pendant from its center. The chain is to be hidden inside the high collar of her graduation gown, but the pearl is to hang out conspicuously just under its owner's round, white chin.

All properly constituted class day gowns are to have elbow sleeves, and a marked partiality is displayed for fichu shoulder draperies and flowing sashes. Two exquisitely fresh and comely little graduation costumes which were seen the other day show to what good styles the cultured mind leans. Both of these are embroidered batistes, in warm cream tones, and one is dropped over a foundation of the tenderest spring green taffeta, while the other shows a faint blue through its soft mesh. Big, becoming bows of white louisine ribbon shine in the simply combed locks, but older girls display a preference for showing themselves in wide, white hats.

One big, fair hat just finished for a Vassar graduate, was made wholly of large white silk popples with golden charts. The huge poppy petals covered brim and crown and the yellow centers showed in a wreath about the crown's base. Hats made completely of daisies and white leghorns garnished with white lilacs, are, among others of striking characteristic, made on special demands that emanate from the seats of feminine learning. One milliner, who speaks with authority, tells of a number of lovely hats, made for wear at the festivities of men's as well as women's colleges; hats they are of tucked tulle with enormous tulle strings. The strings are arranged to knot at one side of the chin and let fall a shower of tulle nearly to the knees. The effect must be distinctly worthy of the occasion for which the fragile headgear is manufactured.

Embroidered eolienne, or eolienne with lace motifs applied to its surfaces, is the latest goods to earn that highest feminine praise of being "perfectly sweet." Eolienne, plain, wrought of a large amount of silk and a little wool, we have had now for two seasons, but eolienne in bayadere ribbed effect and in the newst hyacinthine, shell and cloud tints, with the above mentioned lace applications, is a goods fit to rave over. I saw a beautiful Roman hyacinth blue eolienne in a leading dressmaker's, and, with the unerring French instinct for color combinations, the semi-transparent goods is dropped over a stem-green foundation petticoat. Dust brown Arabian lace points are introduced about the hems of the foot fall and the overdress, and at intervals entre deux of the lace run up from the tops of the tops of the points to meet at the waist line similar lines of lace that run down from the square yoke of the basque. The hat that is worn with this suit deserves special comment, because its like has not been seen before and it is preparing the way for many of the same type soon to arrive from Paris. It is braided of common river and swamp reeds, a growth that affords a fine, becoming tone of green, and, as a rule, these are lavishly garnished with the blossoms of water plants. White and purple iris, marshmallow pinks, yellow swamp lilies and such as are the appropriate flowers, though in this instance blue and purple and white hyacinths are employed.

There is no need to ask "Who's got the button?" or buttons, rather, for every third woman at least wears the order of the button repeated many times on her dress waist. A dress of pale gray heavily corded eolienne shows one at least of the manifold ways in which gowns are again decorated with pretty little knobs of gold and bogus stones. The gown has three flat flounce falls from the knee, with an overdress on top of them all. Every flounce is scalloped and bound with gray liberty satin ribbon and the underskirt, gloaming softly through the goods, is a bright sunset yellow silk. A vest and undersleeves of yellow chiffon, striped in lines of gold, forms a picturesque combination with the gray Silberian lace boleros and the straps, belt and shoulder pieces are of golden brown panne, on which oval buttons of cabochon topaz are set. The buttons are sewed close together and are set in narrow rims of gold.

Wooden buttons are among the show case contents that get a great deal of interested attention from the shoppers. Some of them are very small, but beautifully carved, and come very naturally from Switzerland. Another type of wooden button is decorated first with the pyrographic needle and then artistically colored. Wooden buttons are, of course, but a fancy of the flying day, and yet they are delightfully ornamental when used on the brown grass linen gowns and shirt waists.

LOPER ON TRIAL.

Alleged That He Ruined Late Cashier Hopkins.

Philadelphia, June 4.—The trial of Richard F. Loper, formerly manager of the Guaranteers' Finance company, for conspiracy to defraud the People's bank, which failed in 1898, began today before Judge Mazie. The suicide of John F. Hopkins, cashier of the bank, disclosed the fact that both institutions were insolvent. Hopkins left a letter accusing Loper of having the cause of his ruin and ordering him with wrecking the Guaranteers' company and the People's bank. Loper was arrested and indicted. His trial was postponed six times.

As the district attorney, Finletter, in opening for the commonwealth, reviewed the charge of conspiracy and said he would show that Loper played on the fears of Cashier Hopkins, after he had ruined him, to obtain money from the bank without collateral.

Makes Happy Homes

Lehman, La., July 31, 1900.

We have been married twelve years and have done all we could to make our home happy. We have spent $150.00 with doctors to bring us a child, but have always failed. But on hearing of your Wine of Cardui I decided to try a bottle. I was surprised to find it to be just as it was represented and it was just what I needed. I became pregnant and expect to be confined in two or three months.

Mrs. LINDA LAWRENCE.

Marriage, which does not culminate in motherhood, is a travesty on wedlock. It makes a home barren and desolate that ought to be happy. But careful investigation proves that actual barrenness is rare. Many women are denied the happiness of children in their home on account of some slight derangement of the generative organs which would cure. Instead of enjoying the privilege of motherhood many thousands of good women are languishing on beds of sickness, suffering dragging menstrual pains, the agonies of falling of the womb and the distress of leucorrhoea. Mrs. Lawrence had the same experience, but she was cured by Wine of Cardui, the same great medicine that has made many thousands of barren homes happy. You can be cured. Wine of Cardui regenerates the weakened female organs by building up the worn-out nerves, regulating the menstrual flow and restoring the fallen womb to its proper place. In strengthening the generative organs and reinforcing Nature's functions Wine of Cardui rarely fails to make childbirth possible. Your home can be a happy home. All druggists sell $1.00 bottles of Wine of Cardui. Take no substitute!

AGAINST FORAKER

Mark Hanna Opposed to Ohio Senator Becoming President.

President McKinley Will Use His Influence Against Him.

Yet Foraker May Have the Ohio Delegation In 1904.

From The Herald Washington Bureau.

Washington, June 5.—(Special to The Herald.—Joseph Benson Foraker will not secure the Republican nomination for president in 1904 if Marcus A. Hanna can prevent it. The decision of the supreme court last Monday of the insular cases puts Mr. Foraker to the forefront as a candidate for the Republican presidential nomination in 1901. Maj. McKinley does not desire a third term. His intimate friends here say that he would not accept if the nomination were tendered him unanimously by the next national Republican convention. Two terms in the White House, it is believed, are all that Major McKinley desires at the hands of the people of the United States. It is Major McKinley's idea, however, provided he can prevent it, that Foraker should not secure the nomination at the next Republican national convention. The relations between Maj. McKinley and Senator Foraker have been strained for many years. They have hardly ever worked together in politics in the "Buckeye" state. As a matter of fact they have been opposed to each other for office, and many times disagreed regarding state issues, as well as in dealing with national affairs. The fact that the Foraker law was particularly sustained by the supreme court in the various decisions rendered last Monday makes Mr. Foraker a very prominent figure in national politics, and, as Ohio has recently been the producer of many presidents, it will not surprise the people of the country if Mr. Foraker develops strength sufficient to make him the nominee for the presidency at the next national Republican convention.

It might be well to state in passing, however, that Marcus A. Hanna, his colleague in the United States senate, is not over-anxious to have Mr. Foraker selected to head the Republican national ticket in the next campaign. Realizing as he does that it would be bad form for the present president to seek a third term, his choice for the Republican nomination in 1904 is Senator Fairbanks of Indiana. The candidacy of Mr. Fairbanks was announced by National Committeeman New of Indiana, in Chicago the other day. This announcement foreshadows the support of the administration and of Senator Hanna for Fairbank's candidacy, and if the administration is strong enough to defeat the aspirations of Foraker or Roosevelt, the senior senator from Indiana will be the next Republican presidential candidate.

Mr. Foraker has long sought the position as chief executive of the nation. He has often ben defeated, but comes up smiling, and is by no means a nonentity. As senator from Ohio, he holds a very prominent position in the United States senate, and it would not surprise politicians, with the hold he has on Ohio, if he should go to the next national convention with the solid delegation of the "Buckeye" state behind him and capture the nomination for the presidency, notwithstanding the possible or probable efforts of President McKinley and Senator Hanna to defeat him.

The rural free delivery system, which was established under the management of Postmaster General Charles Emory Smith, has proved a great success. Up to the present time the postoffice department states that 4300 routes have been established, and that tomorrow 400 more will be added. On the first of July an appropriation of $3,500,000 will become available. This is double the amount appropriated for the fiscal year ending July 1 next.

The service has been placed in all except two or three states, and with very few exceptions it is proving very popular with the people. There is only one instance where a route was discontinued at the request of a congressman after it had been established. This was in a Southern state. But within a few months after the service was cut off, at the request of the representative, he was back at the department asking to have it put on again, and two additional routes in his district as well. It is the policy of the department to establish rural free delivery routes where it is practicable, and where there is sufficient population to justify it.

In the far West, the rural free delivery service is considered highly beneficial, not only by farmers, but by miners, sheep-herders and others engaged in legitimate employment in this section. According to the postoffice department, the rural free delivery system is just as successful in the mountainous districts of Utah, Idaho, Nevada, California, Washington and Oregon as on the plains of North and South Dakota, Nebraska and Kansas. There is only one of the intermountain states which has not yet received the benefit of the successful (so considered today) new system established by the postoffice department. The state referred to is Montana. There is only one state in the South in which the department is thinking of discontinuing the rural free delivery service. This state is Florida. It is a well-known fact that Maryland, Virginia, West Virginia, Pennsylvania and nearly all the New England states are gratified over the success of this new departure.

With the increased appropriation which will be available July 1 the postoffice department officials are satisfied that they can establish elsewhere throughout the country an increased service in this direction, which will not only please the farmers, but the suburbanites everywhere. A postoffice department official said to a reporter a few days ago that the alleged charge that the rural free delivery system was in the interest of the Republican party, was without foundation in fact. "The only desire of the department," he said, "is to make this service, already considered valuable in many states, satisfactory to the people everywhere. It would be practically impossible," he added, "for the department, if it were so disposed, to build up a political machine through the rural free delivery service, owing to the fact that the respective congressmen, whether they be Republicans, Democrats or Populists, are permitted to name carriers in their districts. Business principles and efficiency alone govern the management of this service.

The appropriation for the coming fiscal year, $3,500,000, will not be sufficient to carry on this work in future. The postoffice department, however, feels satisfied that in view of the fact that the experiment they have tried, and one which has proved successful, will convince the next congress that more money is needed; that the appropriation will be more liberal than that agreed to at the last session.

An American merchant, writes Consul General Mason, from Berlin, who has, during the past three years, conducted a very successful depot in a German city for the sale of miscellaneous American manufactured goods on commission, writes as follows concerning some of the minor difficulties which he has encountered in the course of his business:

"In the first place, there are so many experiments, hit-or-miss trails of goods, by people who know nothing about conditions here, or the requirements of the German market, that a good deal of stock has come over on trial and is later thrown on the market and sacrificed when the experiment has proved a failure. Secondly, as soon as one has found a line which will sell, and has got a trade established, our American friends will make improvements in that article, until the improved goods hardly look like the originals, while the stock becomes here, as a result, depreciated and often valueless. Then there is the difficulty with the German custom house. One cannot count from one shipment to the next one and know certainly that the latter will be classified as the former, or the samples were. It has happened to me frequently of late that goods which originally came in at 10 marks, ($2.38) duty per 100 kilograms, (220.46 pounds), were found to belong under a much higher classification, viz., 24 marks, ($5.71) per 100 kilograms, as soon as the importations reached any important volume. All these are points concerning which American exporters should be much better informed, and which they should take into account in dealing with their agents or purchasers in Germany."

SOCIAL EVIL

Prevailing In the Army Denounced By Reformed Presbyterians.

Pittsburg, June 4.—There was a full attendance of delegates when Moderator Martin opened the sixth day's session of the Reformed Presbyterian synod. After devotional exercises, Rev. R. C. Allen, of Grove City, Pa., presented the report of the special committee appointed by the synod to inquire into evils of the United States army system. The committee devoted itself more especially to the social evil as it exists in Hawaii and the Philippines. It is alleged that the evil is legalized and protected by military regulations, and the committee demands that this system protected by our military rules be uprooted. The report was adopted unanimously. The committee on Sunday schools and young people's societies reported a resolution which aimed at keeping the societies of the church under its own control, and as far as possible away from the influence of the leaders of the inter-denominational societies, many of whose views on organized labor and secret societies are against those of the members of this synod. The committee appointed to consider the resignation of Elder Walter Miller as treasurer of the literary fund, reported in favor of accepting it, and transferring the effects and publications of the church to Elder J. S. Tibbey, of Pittsburg, who was recommended. The report was adopted unanimously and Mr. Tibbey was declared elected. He will also act as librarian of all the official church literature, both in this country and Europe, and it will be placed in his care in the near future.

Practical Suggestions About What to Eat and How to Prepare Food.

This matter will be found to be entirely different from and superior to the usual run of food articles, in that every item is a nugget of culinary wisdom and eminently practical.

SOME DELICIOUS ICED PUDDING.

These are often a compound of ice cream mixtures with fruit, nuts, cocoanut, rice, tapioca, etc., but they may be made without the addition of the cream mixture and really be what their name indicates, a frozen, instead of a baked or steamed pudding. Of course, in freezing, no flour is used, except the small amount of cornstarch used in thickening the custard preparatory to freezing. The simplest preparation of the kind is the plain, frozen cornstarch pudding, which frequently masquerades for ice cream.

These puddings may be frozen like ice cream, and packed in ice to ripen, or made without stirring and packed in cake-lined molds, which are packed in ice and salt, allowing sufficient length of time for them to harden. From four to six hours, according to the materials used. A sponge cake is often hollowed out and filled with the pudding mixture, and then closely covered, packed and frozen. Served with a decoration of whipped cream and candied or ripe fruits. Frozen puddings may be served plain or with sweetened whipped cream or rich sauce.

A PLAIN FROZEN PUDDING.

Put one pint of milk and one pint of cream over the fire in a double boiler. Beat the yolks of six eggs until light with one and one-half supfuls of sugar. When milk is scalded pour it gradually into the eggs and sugar, and stir until liquid, then return to the double boiler and stir and cook until it will coat the blade of a knife or spoon. Take from the fire, add a teaspoonful of vanilla and set aside to cool. Then turn into a freezer and pack in salt and ice; stir until it begins to thicken, and then add a cupful of currants or chopped nuts. Let stand, closely covered, four hours. When ready to serve, let the mold stand on the kitchen table a few minutes before turning out, to loosen the pudding. Turn out, cover with whipped cream, decorate with strawberries and serve at once.

FROZEN STRAWBERRY PUDDING.

Whip one pint of sweet double cream until thick. Fold in two cupfuls of powdered sugar, add a quart of crushed strawberries and fill a pudding mold having a tube in the center. Pack in salt and ice. Cover with a heavy blanket or old carpet and stand in a cool place for four or five hours, removing ice and salt if necessary. When ready to serve, turn out and fill the hollow center with sweetened berries.

Cover half a cupful of rice, with a quart of cold water. When the water begins to boil drain it off and cover the rice with one quart of milk. Cook until the rice is tender, then remove from the fire and press through a seive. Add a pint of cream to the rice mixture, two cupfuls of sugar and the beaten yolks of six eggs. Return to the fire and stir and cook for a few minutes until it begins to thicken. Take from the fire, add a tablespoonful of vanilla and set aside to cool. When cold turn into a freezer and freeze same as for ice cream. When frozen remove the dasher, stir down; add a pint of whipped cream. Cover, repack and set aside for two hours. Turn out and serve with a compote of oranges, strawberries or apricots heaped around the base.

FROZEN CHOCOLATE PUDDING.

Mix half a cup of sugar with six ounces of grated chocolate. Pour over this one cupful of boiling water and stir until thick and smooth, then let get cold. Stir it into three cupfuls of whipped cream. Turn this into a fancy mold and pack in ice and salt. Let stand for four hours. Serve with strawberry sauce.

ICED CABINET PUDDING.

Wet a melon mold with cold water, sprinkle the bottom and sides thickly with currants and then arrange lady fingers, macaroons and coaconut cakes in the mold. Sprinkles these over with currants. Continue in this way until you have used one dozen macaroons, one and a half dozen lady fingers, one dozen cocoanut cakes and a cupful of currants. Put three cupfuls of milk in a double boiler. Beat four eggs with half a cupful of sugar. When the milk is steaming hot add a third of a package of gelatine softened in half a cupful of milk. Stir until dissolved, then add the eggs and sugar and stir and cook five minutes. Remove from the fire, add a seasoning of salt and a teaspoonful of vanilla or two tablespoonfuls of wine. Pour this cauce while hot, gradually over the cake and fruit, allowing it to soak into the cakes. Let get perfectly cold. Cover the mold with a sheet of thick white paper and put on the cover. Then pack in ice and salt, and let stand for six hours, renewing ice and salt if necessary. Serve with qunice or apricot sauce.

FROZEN PUDDING A LA DUCHESS.

Put a pint of cream in a double boiler. Beat the yolks of six eggs with half a pound of granulated sugar until very light. Pour the hot cream over this and stir until the sugar is dissolved, then return to double boiler and cook and stir until it begins to thicken. Take from the fire, add another pint of cream, a pinch of salt and a tablespoonful of vanilla. Chill and freeze. Then pack into a bombe mold, leaving a hollow center. Fill this with strawberry water ice. Cover over with the frozen pudding and finish same as other puddings. Let stand for four hours. Serve with following sauce: Cover a tablespcon of gelatine with cold water and soak until tender—about ten minutes. Put a pint of cream in a farina boiler to heat. Beat together until light the yolks of two eggs and two tablespoonuls of powdered sugar. Pour the hot cream over this and stir until smooth, then return to double boiler and stir until it thickens. Remove from the fire and add a tablespoonful of vanilla, or, if you use liquor, a small glass of good sherry or brandy.

NESSELRODE PUDDING.

This is the king of frozen puddings and was named for a famous Russian statesman. Shell a pint of large chestnuts, cover with boiling water and cook until tender, from twenty to thirty minutes, then peel off the brown skin and pound the chestnuts to a paste, moistening with a little cream. Add a pinch of salt. Rub this paste through a seive. Have ready a pint of boiled custard and add to the chestnut paste. Add a pint of blanched, chopped almonds, two cupfuls of candied fruits chopped fine and a teaspoonful of vanilla extract or a glass of maraschino. Place in the freezer and work well. When frozen, stir in a pint of whipped cream and freeze again. Then pack in a dome-shaped mold and set in ice and salt. When ready to serve, turn out and decorate around the base with candied fruits.

ANSWERS TO INQUIRIES.

(No attention paid to inquiries not giving name and address of writer, plainly written).

Mrs. H. W. W. writes: What is your opinion of the wholesomeness of coffee when it is taken in moderation it is a mild stimulant, and can do no more harm in stimulating the stomach than does hot water or soup. It is when it is taken very strong and in excess, to excite the body or brain to greater exercise, that it will do harm and the transgressor suffers through the reaction of the nerves after the stimulating effects have passed away. Nervous people usually indulge in strong coffee with the idea that it "steadies" their nerves.

In regard to wholesomeness of foods, it is safe to rely on nature's providing. Coffee and such natural products as are used for food by man seem to be intended for no other discovered purpose, and as all things have their use, we may safely conclude that coffee is a good and proner food, though it may become a hurtful agent in the hands of the ignorant.

THE RATE MOVED UP

Lumbermen Are Asked to Pay $2.50 to Lake Erie.

The Shippers Do Not Take Kindly to the Advance.

Vesselmen Are Confident That They Can Maintain It.

The expected has hapened. Vesselmen are asking a $2.50 lumber rate from the head of the lakes to Lake Erie ports. This is an advance of 25 cents a thousand feet over the rate that has been in effect since the opening of the lumber shipping season this spring. The vessel rate was advanced from $2.25 to $2.50 from Ashland on the first of the week, and it is claimed that charters have been made at that figure. Thus far no charters have been made from the head of the lakes at the advanced rate, though vesselmen claim to have been offered $2.50 for certain cargoes. In the main the shippers are not taking kindly to the 25 cent advance, and are holding off in making shipments. Cargoes that are in the process of clearing at the present time were made at the $2.25 rate, before the advance was made.

There were rumors a week ago that the vessel rate was likely to advance, and there was a difference of opinion among the vesselmen as to the advisability of making the advance so early in the beginning of the season, and some were inclined to hold back for at least a month longer.

It was reported locally that the rate to Chicago would remain at $2.50, at which rate the season was opened, but Associated Pdess dispatches from Chicago state that a charter has been made from the head of the lakes at $2.75. An advance in rates at this time in the season is very likely to be strenuously objected to by shippers, and the indications are that they will hold off as long as possible in the hope of breaking the $2.50 rate asked, but the vesselmen are said to be confident that they have the situation well in hand, and can maintain the advanced rate.

There is still a large amount of lumber to be moved from the head of the lake docks, and the manufacturers are anxious for the dock room. Any prolonged siege of the shippers against the vesselmen will, it is said, work to the disadvantage of the lumber manufacturers that are already being crowded for dock room to take care of their new cut stock.

GASOLINE

Causes Burning of W. A. Putnam's House at Lakeside.

Fire, which caught from a gasoline stove, destroyed the home of Welwine A. Putman, at Fifty-first avenue east and Juanita street, this morning.

The building burned so quickly that Mr. Putman had difficulty in getting the members of his family out in their night clothes. One little girl was so close to the flames that her hair was burned. Neighbors succeeded in saving a piano and two chairs.

The fire occurred shortly after 6 o'clock. Mr. Putman started a fire in a gasoline stove in the kitchen and went out into the yard. He was gone but a few moments, and during that time the stove probably exploded. When he turned toward the house again the kitchen was in flames.

He tried to go through to get his family out, but it was impossible. Mr. Putnam then went to the front of the house and broke in the door. He was none too quick, for the flames went through the house very rapidly, and had he been a few moments later the delay might have resulted in loss of life.

Mr. Putman owned the house and valued it at $1000. He had furniture valued at $700. On this entire amount he carried $1200 insurance.

DANDELIONS.

How the Warfare Is Being Waged In Laramie, Wyoming.

Duluth is afflicted with the dandelion pest, and it will therefore be of interest to learn how they wage warfare against it in Laramie, Wyo. The following articles are from the Laramie Republican:

"W. H. Frazee, the proprietor of the Leader, and a member of the school board, has hit upon a plan that, if followed up, will add to the beauty of the Gem City and rid the town of a very industrious pest. He will offer a valuable prize, the nature of which will be made known later, to the room in the public school whose pupils gather the most dandelion blossoms.

"The dandelions will be turned over to the janitor each day and a record kept of the bulk, and at the end of the blossom season the prize will be awarded.

"This, Mr. Frazee contends, will create a spirit of competition in the various rooms, and the children will soon rid the town of the blossoms. If this is kept up for three years, and he intends to offer a prize each year for three, it will kill out the crop, as three years is said to be the life of the plant.

"The competition begins at once, and no room is barred and no method that will add to the number of dandelion blossoms turned over to the janitors.

"It is hoped parents and teachers will urge the children on in this competition, as the children can easily keep the streets cleared and property owners may have an opportunity to rid their premises of this much detested flower.

"Should this plan succeed, and it is feasible, Mr. Frazee will receive the plaudits of the entire community."

"If Mr. Frazee imagined that he was going to 'start something' when he offered a prize for dandelions as announced in the columns of the Republican, and did not make ample preparations, he has caused the janitors at the schools no end of trouble. The dandelion raid has proven a 'bloomin' success.' The children have fallen to with a will, and promise to make the dandelion crop 'look sick' before they quit.

"Children have gone to school fairly loaded down with dandelions. They have gone with flowers in their hands, in their pockets, in their hats, in gunny sacks, in baskets, and in anything that would hold dandelions. One youngster had the box of his toy wagon loaded with the blossoms.

"At the schools no attempt was made to count the blossoms, but they were weighed as one would weigh hay or coal, and the different rooms given credit for so many pounds of flowers. Old and young children have entered into the spirit of the thing, and it would be surprising could one know the number of school children engaged in this new industry, to say nothing of the number of blossoms plucked and carried to the schools.

"Mr. Frazee has secured the services of Miss Meriam, a talented artist from the Chicago School of Art, who will be here in a short time and will paint a picture of some boy and girl as the prize to be offered. This picture will depict some feature of the dandelion raid, and will be given to the winning room. On the margin of the picture will be the names of the pupils in the room winning the prize, together with the class history, the whole forming a souvenir worthy of the man who has offered it and of the good work he has undertaken.

"In this connection it has been suggested that the parents and property owners generally turn to and help the children in the work in every possible way. Much can be done to further the labors of the children, who are not only working to a selfish end, but to the good of the community, as there is no doubt that the crop of dandelions will be greatly curtailed room this one day's war to say nothing of the days to follow, when the number of children engaged in the raid will be enlarged and their work made more thorough and systematic.

"Arrangements will be made for taking charge of all blooms plucked during vacation, but it is believed that the crop will have been nearly harvested in the three weeks and more that remain of the school year. Access should be accorded the children to the yards and enclosed places wherever they can go without harm to the lawns, to prevent seeds therein from ripening and blowing all over town."

DOCKS FILLING UP.

Coal Is Coming In at Good Rate.

Representatives of the local coal companies are reporting a fairly brisk movement of bituminous coal to the head of the lake and the docks are being stocked up. Shipments of soft coal to Northwestern points are light at this season of the year and the real movement to replenish the country stocks will not begin much before August. But few shipments of anthracite coal have been made to the head of the lakes. The demand for hard coal has, of course, fallen off with the warmer weather and the stocks, though low, will need no imediate replenishing. There is the usual fair demand for soft coal for railroad and factory consumption and no change in prices has been noted in the retail market for the past two months. Although it is early in the season, the indications are that coal stocks in both the hard and soft varieties wil be much heavier at the close of navigation this seasin than in any preceding year. This will be accounted for largely by the increased dock capacity at the head of the lakes. The Ohio Coal company has the superstructure of its new dock extension completed and the flooring laid, but the new portion of the dock will not yet be used, awaiting the arival of steel rails and steam pipes. Today the cribbing is being sunk at the coal dock extension of the St. Paul and Western company.

Mr. Patterson Explains.

Deputy State Boiler Inspector Patterson, who caused the arrest of Fred Ruhde for acting as engineer at the Universal mill without having a license, Ruhde afterward appearing in court with a license, says that Ruhde acted as engineer for two weeks without having a license in his possession. It developed afterward that Ruhde had sent his license in to the state inspector for renewal, but had not yet received it. Mr. Patterson says that it was his business to have had it on hand and that it was a matter of negligence. He says also that had Mr. Ruhde explained matters to him there would have been no trouble, but that instead he showed a disposition to ignore his jurisdiction.

AWFUL DEED

Boy Stabs Sister and Strangles Brother.

Fires Barn and Shoots Himself In Temple.

Toledo, Ohio, June 6.—Leroy Grove, the 16-year-old son of a prosperous farmer, living near Napoleon, stabbed his sister, aged 24, to the heart, killing her instantly. He then strangled his 13-year-old brother to death and, firing the barn, ran in and shot himself through the temple.

The tragedy occurred just after midnight. His charred body was recovered this morning. It is supposed he was insane, made so by reading novels of the Jesse James stripe.

WYETH IS PRESIDENT

American Medical Association at St. Paul Elects Officers and Selects Saratoga as the Next Place of Meeting.

St. Paul, June 6.—When the American Medical association was called to order today a delegation from the Equal Suffrage association, whose convention has just closed in Minneapolis, was present, and time was alloted for the presentation of resolutions on the army canteen and regulation of vice in the army adopted by them. Miss Susan B. Anthony and Rev. Anna Shaw spoke briefly and left the matter with the association. Dr. Seaman, of New York, replied briefly, but no vote was taken at the time. Various reports were presented, that of the general executive committee alone arousing interest. Most of the recommendations were adopted promptly, including that expressing disapproval at the failure of congress to pass the bill to reorganize the medical corps of the army placing it on a higher rank. The proposition for a committee of three to revise the code of ethics roused considerable opposition, led by Drs. Heppel, of Tennessee, and Bishop, of Pennsylvania. A separate vote was demanded, resulting in a nearly equal division. A roll call was then demanded, and the hopelessness of calling over the names of more than 1300 delegates made welcome the motion that the roll call be postponed for one year, which carried easily, thereby postponing for one year any action looking to a revision of the code of ethics. Dr. N. S. Davis, Jr., of Chicago, then read the address on medicine.

The report of the nominating committee was presented and adopted as follows: President, Dr. John A. Wyeth, New York; first vice president, Dr. Alonzo Garcelon, Lewiston, Me.; second vice president, Dr. Alex J. Stone, St. Paul; third vice president, Dr. A. F. Jonas, Omaha; fourth vice president, Dr. J. A. Dibrell, Little Rock; board of trustees, Dr. John E. Fulton, of St. Paul; Dr. T. J. Heppel, of Trenton, Tenn.; Dr. Grant, of Denver; treasurer, Henry P. Newman, Illinois; librarian, George W. Webster, Illinois; judicial council, Dr. George Cook, of New Hampshire; H. H. Grant, of Kentucky; John B. Murphy, of Illinois, Philip Marvin, of New Jersey; Louis H. Taylor, of Pennsylvania; N. Fred Essig, of Wahsington; oration on surgery, Dr. Harry Sherman, California; oration on medicine, Dr. Frank Billings, Illinois; oration on state medicine, Dr. J. M. Emmert, Iowa.

Saratoga, N. Y., was then formally chosen as the next place of meeting.

ARTHUR DIED SUDDENLY

Assistant Army Paymaster, Recently Home From the Philippines, Expired While Sitting In Chair In Cleveland Hotel.

Cleveland, June 6.—Maj. George Arthur, assistant paymaster of the United States army, who recently returned home from the Philippines, died suddenly at the Weddell house in this city early today.

Maj. Arthur arrived at the hotel at a very early hour and sat down in a chair in the lobby. Shortly afterwards an attache of the hotel found him gasping for breath and unconscious. He was at once removed to a room and a physician summoned. Nothing could be done for the dying man, however, and he breathed his last within a few minutes after being placed in the room. Physicians believe death resulted from stomach trouble. An autopsy will be held later.

Maj. Arthur was about 43 years of age and unmarried. Last fall, while in pursuit of his duties as paymaster of the troops attached to a remote post in the Philippines, Maj. Arthur was attacked by a number of drunken soldiers, who attempted to get possession of his cash box. In the fight which followed Maj. Arthur was badly beaten. He was in the hospital at Manila on his return, and when able to leave the hospital came home on a furlough. He had practically recovered from his wounds and had been in good health recently. Deceased was a son of P. M. Arthur, grand chief of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers.

NO JOINT GUARANTEE

Security of Payment of Chinese Indemnity Will Be Made By Powers Severally Although In a Joint Form.

Washington, June 6.—The ambassadors from most of the foreign countries were in conference with Secretary Hay today, mainly because it was diplomatic day, which afforded an opportunity for discussing the state of the Chinese negotiations. It is considered that the middle ground or modus vivendi, as it is being referred to, concerning the form of paying the indemnity, is likely to be settled by a joint and several guaranty. This will be in complete accord with the American view, that there should be no joint guaranty, in the sense of binding each government to securing the payment of the entire $337,000,000. It will be joint, however, in formal aspect of being executed by all of the powers jointly, at the same time and probably by the same instrument. This instrument doubtless will include a provision by which each government is to assume no liability beyond the amount of its own share of the indemnity, which, in the case of the United States, is limited to $25,000,000.

KENNEDY.

Counsel Outlines the Defense In the Murder Case.

Kansas City, June 6.—In the trial of Lulu Prince-Kennedy today, charged with killing her husband, Philip Kennedy, contracting agent of an Eastern transportation company, counsel for defendant outlined the plan of defense. He charged Kennedy with having ruined the defendant, and, after telling of the wedding at the court house, declared that the defendant, brooding over her ill treatment, developed a condition of hysteria bordering on insanity. Insanity, he said, was prevalent in the woman's family and she partook thereof. The application for divorce made by the husband precipitated the shooting, and it will be shown, he declared, that the defendant's father and brother took no part therein.

COL. HANNA.

The Senator Appointed on G. A. R. Staff.

Cleveland, June 6.—Senator M. A. Hanna has been appointed a colonel on the official staff of Gen. Rassieur, commander-in-chief of the Grand Army of the Republic.

Senator Hanna was recently mustered into the Grand Army of the Republic as a member of Memorial post in this city.

TERRIFIC STORM

Did Great Damage Near Ripley, Ohio.

Ripley, Ohio, June 6.—A terrific rain and wind storm visited this section last night, doing great damage to property and probably causing the loss of a number of lives. The wife and daughter of John Hiett, residing near Hiett postoffice, are missing and are supposed to have been lost.

At Eagle Creek a number of people are reported as probably drowned. Three bridges and several buildings were swept away.

DEFAMED HIS WIFE

Mrs. May Van Houten, Formerly of Duluth, Wins Case.

Not Guilty of Conduct Charged By Her Husband.

She Has a Divorce Suit Now Pending In Chicago.

Chicago, June 6.—Mrs. Mary C. Van Houten and Frank Tyler, an advertising solicitor, were exonerated from the statutory charges preferred against them by the woman's husband, William C. Van Houten, when their cases were called in Justice Hall's court. The charges against them were dismissed at the request of Van Houten's attorney for lack of evidence.

Now Mrs. Van Houten charges her husband with cruelty, and says her arrest was due to a plot between her husband and a private detective agency to blacken her character and force her to compromise on the amount of alimony she expects to receive when her divorce suit now pending is decided.

Mrs. Van Houten, formerly Miss May Kennedy, of Duluth, who is a pretty brunette, about 25 years old, was arrested with Tyler in Mrs. Van Houten's room in a boarding house at No. 7 Thirty-third street on the night of May 28. No compromising circumstances were discovered when Detectives Nagle and Flynn of the central station entered the room. Mrs. Van Houten opened the door in response to their knock, and the couple were arrested without further ado. They were taken to the Harrison street station and charged with two statutory offenses. They were arraigned before Justice Hall the following morning, but Van Houten's attorney asked for a continuance in order to bring witnesses to Chicago. It was granted, but no witnesses were produced to impeach the character of Mrs. Van Houten.

"My arrest was the result of a 'game' fixed up by Mr. Van Houten and the detectives," said Mrs. Van Houten. "He had sworn that he would get even with me if I ever left him. He said that he would not stop at anything to see me in the gutter, and he has done his best to blacken my character. He had no grounds whatever for accusing me. Mr. Tyler happened to be in my room because he had come to the house with a message to me from Mr. Walters, my attorney in the divorce suit. He had been in the room only a few minutes when the detectives rapped. I opened the door without a thought of trouble, and the warrants were served on us. I have learned since that the detectives had been shadowing us for several weeks.

"A few days ago my husband's attorney come to me and offered to have the case in the police court nolle prossed if I would agree to a small amount of alimony when I received my divorce. I refused to agree. I intended to stand trial. I began divorce proceedings against Mr. Van Houten on May 20 on the grounds of excessive cruelty. He was insanely jealous of me and choked, struck and pinched me on numerous occasions. I left him on May 1, when I could no longer bear his abuse.

"Mr. Van Houten has treated me brutally ever since I married him four years ago in Hudson, Wis. Several times he has threatened to kill me. He would not take me out or allow any one else to do so. He was even jealous of the poor old janitor, of the milk man, the grocery man and the meat man."

Mae A. Kennedy was a stenographer in Duluth previous to her marriage to William C. Van Houten, who is a traveling man, formerly with headquarters at St. Paul. She is a daughter of Andrew C. Kennedy, contractor, of 420 East Fourth street, and he is now in Chicago to aid her in her trouble with Van Houten. Mrs. Van Houten's young son is at present in Duluth with Mrs. Kennedy, and a sister of Van Houten is also here visiting the family.

SHATTERED.

Big Lick Telescope Mirror Broken While Being Drilled.

Pittsburg, June 6.—A great 36-inch mirror belonging to a Newtonian reflecting telescope at the Lick observatory was shattered into many fragments yesterday in the workshop of Professor John A. Brashear, of this city, while it was being drilled to convert it into a Cassegrain glass. As a result, it is probable that the long projected expedition of the Lick observatory into the Southern hemisphere will have to be postponed. Professor Brashear will make a new glass for the Lick scientists, but the glass for this cannot be obtained from France in less than six months. The great mirror was five inches thick and weighed about 400 pounds. It was valued at $3000, but the greatest loss is in the delay it will cause in the starting of the South American expedition.

FOR MURDER NEXT.

Postoffice Robbers Will Be Arraigned at Toronto.

Toronto, June 6.—Jones, Rio and Rutledge, who were brought here from Chicago, have been found guilty of robbing the Aurora, Ont., postoffice. These are the burglars who made such a desperate attempt to escape Tuesday night, when Constable Boyd was killed and Janes very badly wounded. They will now be tried for murder. Crown Attorney Currin says Jones, who, it is alleged, fired the shot which killed Boyd, is supposed to have killed a man during a robbery in Chicago.

SAILED FOR AUCKLAND.

Sydney, N. S. W., June 6.—The British steamer Ophir, having on board the Duke and Duchess of Cornwall and York, sailed for Auckland, New Zealand at noon today.

BOERS LOSE

Part of Beyer's Force Defeated By British.

Hundred Prisoners and Supplies Taken.

Pretoria, Wednesday, June 5.—Col. Wilson, with 240 of Kitchener's scouts, has surprised and routed 400 Boers belonging to Beyer's command, thirty-four miles west of Warm Baths. The Boers resisted stubbornly, but finally broke and fled, leaving thirty-seven dead, 100 prisoners and all their wagons and supplies, including 8000 cattle, in the hands of the British. The loss of the latter was five men killed and fifteen wounded.

Later—Beyer's main command arrived on the scene soon after the engagement, but failed in an attempt to recapture the supplies.

BRITISH WAR OFFICE

Committee Makes Recommendations Looking to the Simplification and Decentralization of the Department at London.

London, June 6.—Simplification and decentralization are the keynotes of the report issued today by the committee, under the chairmanship of Clinton E. Dawkins, appointed to inquire into the war office organization. The abolition is recommended of the present system of ruling the army by minute and irritating regulations both military and financial. The committee considers the war office ought to be relieved by the decentralization of a mas of routine work now aborbing the energies of the high officials and preventing proper attention to important military questions. Further decentralization should be secured by an enlargement of the powers and responsibilities of the officers commanding districts, and, finally, a permanent war office board ought to be established, which, under the authority of the secretary of state should control the business of the war office, as a whole, without detracting from the individual responsibilities of the commander in chief and heads of departments.

TO FORCE THE POWERS

Withdrawal of Count Von Waldersee and Troops Seems to Show Such a Desire on Germany's Part.

Pekin, June 6.—The ministers have ceased to hold meetings, while making inquiries as to the desires of their respective governments. The majority of the ministers hold that Germany should have told the Chinese that all the powers would agree to an indemnity of 450,000,000 taels at 4 per cent interest. They also think that the withdrawal of Count Von Waldersee and the German troops shows a desire to force the powers to acquiesce to Germany's demands, which they are not inclined to do.

Trouble between British and French soldiers at Tien Tsin continues. Brig. Gen. Lorne Campbell in command of the British troops, and the French commander, will use their utmost endeavors to prevent further friction.

ASSYRIAN IS WRECKED

Leyland Line Steamer Goes Ashore Off Cape Race and Is Likely to Prove a Total Loss.

St. Johns, N. F., June 6.—The Leyland steamer Assyrian, from Antwerp, for Montreal, with 2000 tons of cargo, went ashore off Cape Race at midnight. She has eleven feet of water in her fore hold and is likely to prove a total wreck. Her crew had great difficulty in escaping and reaching shore. No further details are obtainable at present. The steamer Algoine is being dispatched to the scene of the wreck by Lloyd's agents.

A FROST.

Some Very Cold Weather In Several Western Cities.

Boise, Idaho, June 6.—This vicinity was visited by a severe frost the like of which has not been known at this season for fifteen years. The government weather bureau at Boise reports a temperature of 30, while places throughout the valley report temperatures as low as 26 degrees. Fruit is damaged seriously, though the extent of the loss cannot yet be determined. In the Grandon valley in Oregon there was snow.

Baker City, Ore., June 6.—The coldest June weather for a period of twenty years has been recorded in Baker City. The mercury fell 6 degrees below the freezing point. Ice an inch thick was formed in pools of water on the streets. All fruit, such as cherries, apples and pears, prunes and plums, were killed, and all vegetables were destroyed. So far as known, growing grain was not seriously damaged.

PORTE PROMISES.

The Turko-Italian Friction Is Settled.

Constantinople, Wednesday, June 5.—The Turko-Italian friction over the Prevesa affairs, caused by the ill-treatment of Italian subjects by the Turkish authorities has been settled, the porte promising to indemnify victims, apologize to the Italian consul and punish the commandant of the Turkish troops there.

GAVE A LUNCHEON.

London, June 6.—Henry White, secretary of the United States embassy, gave a luncheon today in honor of Morris K. Jesup, Cornelius N. Bliss and others of the delegates of the New York Chamber of Commerce. The guests included Maitre Labori, A. J. Balfour, Ambassador Choate and Mr. Brodrick, the war secretary.

Biennial Report of the National Committee Made Public.

Boston, June 6.—The committee on arrangements for the jubilee Young Men's Christian association convention June 11 to 16 made public today the biennial report of the national committee, R. C. Morse, New York, secretary. In substance it was as follows:

The work in the Philippines has produced excellent results, winning the confidence and esteem of civil officers as well as those of the army and navy in co-operation with the provincial committee of Ontario and Quebec. Three representatives were sent with the detachment of Canadian troops serving in South Africa.

At Cavite, P. I., the authorities have granted the use of a building, and this has been fitted up by the committee, and a very helpful work is being prosecuted.

In the last two years the number of railroad associations has increased from 137 to 161. There are 648 student associations.

The work of the business department committee has greatly enlarged, and the number of donors has increased from 2000 to 6000.

Organizations now extend from the northern border of Mexico to Skagway and Cape Nome, above the Arctic circle.

The colored men's department enters upon its work in the new century with 81 associations, 60 of which are among students and 21 among cities.

The statement of the treasurer shows that the receipts during the last fiscal year were $136,839 for home work; publication account were $31,937; foreign work, $39,320. The number of men in the work officially are 1572.

IS SHE SANE?

Probate Court Will Examine "The Moose's" Mental Condition.

Expectation fluffed frivilously on tiptoe in police court this morning. "The Moose"—she of great weight, ample proportions and weird desires, was to be tried for attempting to wreck the police force.

The crowd tarried long in anticipation of another session of warlike character in which there would be jagged bolts and Jovelike trouble generally. Finally a patrol wagon and three officers were dispatched to the county jail for the woman and only once or twice on the way down the hill did she show signs of having a pugilistic spell.

When the wagon backed up to the Michigan street entrance she refused to get out. One of the officers held a consultation with the court, while two others held her, and it was finally decided to postpone the hearing for two days in order to give the jurkg of probate an opportunity to examine the pedestal of her intellect.

An officer made complaint against her mental condition shortly after the visit to the city jail, and her next appearance will be in the probate court. rarjlafeisodlu taoirdlu taoirdlu taornuu

FINED THEM BOTH.

A Cheap Poker Game Causes Trouble.

Beware of 2½-cent poker games. It was a game of this kind that will deprive James Murphy and Joe Jackson of their freedom for twenty and ten days, respectively.

Until early in the spring, when the police scattered the big mitt men on the Bowery, Murphy was a member of the bunco fraternity. He was sent to the county jail for a few months and when released went up on the range. While working for a contracting firm he met Jackson, and it was in the cards for Jackson to win $15 from Murphy.

Yesterday they came to Duluth and continued to play poker with a 2½-cent ante. Murphy won 85 cents from Jackson, and, notwithstanding the fact that he had separated Murphy from $15 previously, the loss of 85 cents bothered him. He finally told Murphy that if he didn't give back the money he would have him arrested for gambling. Murphy knew his standing with the police and returned his winnings to avoid trouble. Jackson then demanded a $15 watch in addition to the 85 cents. Murphy refused and he had him arrested. The matter was placed before Detective Troyer, who concluded that both were guilty of gambling. Murphy got twenty days and Jackson ten.

Is Doing Good Work.

The board of poor commissioners will ask the board of county commissioners at its meeting this afternoon to direct that the county chain gang be kept at work on the poor farm for a while longer. The petition, which is signed by A. P. Cook, clerk of the board, states that the gang has been and is doing good work in cleaning up the land, and that it will materially increase the value and productiveness of the county's property there.

TALK OF BUILDING

Proposition to Erect Court House Again Being Raised.

Matter Would Have to Be Submitted to People.

May Come Up Before County Board Before Long.

In a quiet sort of a way the members of the board of county commissioners are beginning to talk about a bond issue for the building of a new court house. The talk has not gone very far as yet, and not all of the members of the board are in favor of it. But at some future meeting of the board, at no very distant time, the matter will be brought up and discussed officially.

Of course, the board has no authority to issue bonds for this or any other purpose. That has to be done by a vote of the people. All the board can do is to call an election in order that the people may say their say about it. If the people vote bonds, then the board can issue bonds, sell them and devote the proceeds to the purpose for which they were voted. If the people vote the bonds down, that settles it, and the county will have to put up with the present court house until a different sentiment exists.

If it cost nothing, there could be no question about the desirability of a new court house. The old one is crowded and uncommodious, and for many years it has been far from a beauty spot. Duluth people taking outsiders about the town usually try to take them some way so they will not pass the court house. If it is necessary to pass that ancient institution they try to divert the attention of their guests by talking about the high school and pointing out St. Mary's hospital or some other distant object that may enchain their guests' attention until the court house is safely out of sight.

But a new court house will cost a good deal of money, and the question that will come up will be whether the county is in a position to stand the necessary bond issue. The interest and sinking fund will add somewhat to taxes and the sentiment may be against issuing the bonds.

"If it is concluded to call an election," said County Commissioner Kugler yesterday afternoon, "I am in favor of holding a special election and not joining it on a regular election as is often done. I do not believe that a fair vote can be had at a general election, for at that time the popular mind is all taken up with the election campaign, and it is impossible to get the people interested in such a thing as a bond issue. If a separate election is held nothing is up except the bond issue, and there will be nothing to distract popular attention from the issue. The matter will not come up at the coming meeting of the board, but it may at some nearby meeting."

OFFERS FIVE HUNDRED.

Frank Buell Wants County's Bank Claim.

Frank Buell has filed in the office of the county auditor an offer addressed to the board of county commissioners of $500 for the claim of the county against the bondsmen of the Security bank. These bondsmen are Joseph Sellwood, Franklin Paine, Nels Hall, W. P. Lardner and Henry Lardner. Mr. Buell states that the offer is made in behalf of the bondsmen and with their knowledge, and that it is not a speculation.

CONFINED IN JAIL.

"The Moose's" Case Within the Law.

"The Moose," who was born Wolette and christened Louise, was to be examined for insanity in probate court this afternoon at 4 o'clock. She is the woman who ran amuck on Michigan street a day or two ago with a section of gas pipe. There is little question that she is insane, and the deputy sheriffs on whom will fall the duty of taking her to the insane asylum if she is adjudged insane, are hoping that she will recover her senses before tonight, as she is likely to prove the hardest case to handle they have had in a long time.

Judge Bonham had no hesitancy in making an order confining her to the county jail pending her examination. A recent law prohibits the confinement of insane patients in jail except in case of absolute necessity, and from the description of the time the officers had in getting her into jail there was no doubt that this was one of the cases of necessity.

DOG TURNED ON HIM.

Small Boy Bitten By an Injured Dog.

A small boy whose name could not be learned, was repaid for his kindness to a suffering dog this morning by a severe mutilation of both hands. Near Third avenue east and Fourth street a car ran over a pet belonging to the boy, and crushed its hind legs. The boy ran up and in pity for its terrible suffering began to fondle its head. In its agony the dog caught one of the boy's hands in its teeth, and held on with a death grip. In the struggle the boys' hand was badly injured. He grasped the dog's jaws with the other hand and forced them apart, releasing the injured hand. Before he could get the uninjured hand away the dog's jaws closed on that, and it was mangled worse than the other hand.

HOW TO FIND OUT.

Fill a bottle or common glass with your water and let it stand twenty-four hours; a sediment or settling indicates an unhealthy condition of the kidneys; if it stains the linen it is evidence of kidney trouble; too frequent desire to pass it, or pain in the back is also convincing proof that the kidneys and the bladder are out of order.

WHAT TO DO.

There is comfort in the knowledge so often expressed that Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney and bladder remedy, fulfills every wish in curing rheumatism, pain in the back, kidneys, liver, bladder and every part of the urinary passage. It corrects inability to hold water and scalding pain in passing it, or bad effects following use of liquor, wine or beer, and overcomes that unpleasant necessity of being compelled to go often during the day, and to get up many times during the night. The mild and the extraordinary effect of Swamp-Root is soon realized. It stands the highest for its wonderful cures of the most distressing cases. If you need a medicine you should have the best. Sold by druggists in 50-cent and $1 sizes.

You may have a sample bottle of Swamp-Root and a book that tells more about it, both sent absolutely free by mail. Address Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y. When writing mention that you read this generous offer in The Duluth Evening Herald.

IMPROVING.

Mrs. McKinley Continues to Show a Slight Gain.

Washington, June 6.—Drs. Rixey and Johnston were in consultation at the White House about half an hour this morning. After their departure Secretary Cortelyou gave out the following statement:

"Mrs. McKinley's physicians report that she passed a comfortable night and continues to show slight improvement."

The continuation of the improvement in Mrs. McKinley's condition noted yesterday, has cheered the president somewhat, but his anxiety is such that he remains most of the time in his wife's bedroom and only enters his office to see members of the cabinet or personal friends.

FIRE AT FENNVILLE.

Entire Block on Main Street Destroyed.

Fennville, Mich., June 6.—Just after midnight last night the grocery of Clifford Fosdick was discovered to be on fire. A strong southwest breeze was blowing and before the flames could be controlled, they had destroyed nearly an entire block on Main street. The total loss divided among about a dozen merchants is $35,000, partially insured.

MINIATURE MILL.

Interested Operative Millers at Milwaukee Convention.

Milwaukee, June 6.—Practical wheat reductions with a miniature mill upon exhibit samples of wheat was a feature of the forenoon session of the Fraternity of Operative Millers' convention today. This was followed by an address by David Chidlow upon the flour value off the exhibit samples of wheat, describing color, gluten, flavor and other properties connected with their commercial value, as compared with accepted standards of flour.

In the afternoon, M. A. Carleton, cerealist of the United States department of agriculture, delivered an illustrated address on the wheat industry of the East and South Russia.

ONE KISS

Cost Gay Canvasser In New Jersey Fifty Dollars.

Vineland, N. J., June 6.—It cost George McCarthy, the crayon portrait canvasser, just $50 to kiss pretty Mrs. Andrew J. Stinemyer, of Vineland. Justice of the Peace Jones had accepted cash bail of $50 from him for his appearance before Justice Miller, but when the time for the hearing arrived the accused had disappeared, and, despite a thorough search made for him by the police, he could not be found.

Upon Mrs. Stinemyer's refusal to purchase a crayon portrait McCarthy exclaimed:

"If you don't give me an order for a picture, I will kiss your pretty red lips."

According to the fair complainant's testimony before Justice Jones, when the warrant was issued, the bold canvasser deliberately threw his arms around her and planted a resounding smack on her reluctant lips. Mrs. Stinemyer indignantly ordered the audacious canvasser from her house.

Before going, however, McCarthy ejaculated:

"I've kissed you once, and I'm of a notion to kiss you again," but she succeeded in slamming the door in his face.

THE PROPER THING.

Man Committed Suicide Instead of Murder.

Urichsville, Ohio, June 6.—J. P. Carey, a leading business man, who had been fined for violating an ordinance, today entered the mayor's office and threatened to kill Mayor Reed and Health Officer McCollam. Both fled and Carey turned the revolver on himself with fatal effects.

ATTEMPTED SUICIDE.

Horace Pell, an Actor, Shoots Himself.

Cleveland, June 6.—Horace Pell, a member of the stock company which is playing at the Euclid Avenue Opera house, attempted suicide by shooting himself in the right side in his room at the Wyandotte early today. The bullet went clear through his body and embedded itself in the cast wall. Very little hope is entertained for his recovery.

New York, June 6.—Pell is a son of Mrs. J. Howland Pell, of this city, and it is said was possessed of ample means to embark in business had he not preferred to go on the stage. Long before he joined the dramatic profession Pell showed a fondness for it by dabbling in amateur theatricals. His family opposed his ambition, and when he went abroad early in 1899 it was thought that he had been convinced of the wisdom of their advice. But while he was at Harvard, France, he took the leading role in an amateur play, "My Lord in Irony," scoring so great a hit that his stage ambition was revived.

On his return to New York in the fall he gained his family's reluctant consent and obtained a professional engagement. His appearance thereafter was in "The Surprises of Love," in this city.

RUMOR CONFIRMED

That Great Northern Has Secured Coal Fields.

St. Paul, June 6.—A special to the Dispatch from Great Falls, Mont., says: "The organization of the Montana & Great Northern Railroad company, articles of incorporation of which were filed with the county clerk and recorder today, confirms the rumors of the past six months that the Great Northern had acquired control of the Crows Nest Pass coal fields, across the line, and of vast timber interests in the northwestern part of this state. James N. Hill, T. T. Sawyer and M. D. Grover, of Minnesota, and G. T. Gross and I. Parker Veasey, of Montana, are the incorporators of the new road, which is practically an extension of the Great Northern into its newly acquired possessions. The capital stock is $10,000,000, divided into 100,000 shares of a par value of $100 each, fully paid and non-assessable. The proposed road is to extend from Jennings, Mont., on the Great Northern main line, north in the direction of the Canadian boundary, thence to the Crows Nest country.

New York, June 6.—At the office of the Great Northern railroad today it was specifically denied that the extension of the company's line in Montana bore any special relation to a move toward the coal deposits in the Crows Nest Pass country in Canada. It was stated that there was to be an extension northward from Jennings to the Canadian frontier, but it was added that such was the limit of the present plans.

COMMITTEE REPORTS.

Occupied Attention of Amalgamated Association.

Milwaukee, June 6.—Further discussion on the report of the constitution committee occupied the attention of the Amalgamated Association of Iron, Steel and Tin Workers' today. The changes in this connection pertain chiefly to the internal workings of the association and are not made public. The report of the committee on good of the order, and other minor reports will follow. Officers will probably be elected tomorrow. Wheeling seems to have a long lead in the race for the nexa convention.

AT WEST DULUTH

For the past week there have been evidences about the headquarters of the Dynamite club that point toward the formation of a gold mining company. Such plans, if being made, are being kept quiet and it is impossible to get any information from those supposed to be interested in the matter. A day or so ago there was on exhibition at the club a large number of small pieces of quartz gold bearing rock. The specimens were very good ones and indicated the presence of gold in quite large quantities. But the strangest part of it was that the people in charge of the exhibit positively refused to give any information regarding the rock further than it was found not far from Duluth and that matters pertaining to its find would be made public before long and many people will be surprised to learn of the presence of gold in its native state so near Duluth. The find is creating quite a sensation in mining circles of West Duluth, and many inquiries are now being directed to George W. Thompson, who is believed to be prominently identified with the proposed new company.

GILBERT-WOLLAN.

The marriage of Miss Agnes O. Gilbert and Ingwald Wollan was celebrated last evening at the home of the bride's parents at 24 North Fifty-seventh avenue west. The ceremony took place promptly at 8 o'clock and was performed by Rev. Mr. Wilson. The principals were unattended. A largely attended reception was held immediately following the ceremony and refreshments were served. The house was beautifully decorated for the event with cut flowers and potted plants. Mr. and Mrs. Wollan will leave today on a trip to the Twin Cities and Menominee, Wis., and will, on their return, begin housekeeping at 24 Fifty-seventh avenue west.

WEST DULUTH BRIEFS.

Rev. August Peterson, formerly of Duluth, now of Los Angeles, Cal., will preach at the Norwegian M. E. church at the corner of Twenty-first avenue west and First street, Sunday morning, June 9.

The various industrial and fraternal orders at West Duluth are said to be in line to help in the Fourth of July celebration at Duluth. On previous years West Duluth has had its own celebration and very successful affairs they have been, and would no doubt be the same this year were a celebration held here. The matter has been talked over, however, and the sentiment seems to be in favor of combining forces with the down town organizations and giving the city a celebration that will be a memorable one. West Duluth has a number of large fraternal organizations and these will make a big showing in the parade if all the members turn out.

Mrs. Perry, of Bay City, Mich., has arrived in West Duluth to visit her sister, Mrs. John Foucault, of Gosnold street.

Mrs. L. W. Sparks entertained a number of young people at her apartments at the corner of Bristol and Central avenue last evening. The time was very pleasantly spent in social amusements.

A number of the West Duluth Maccabees are planning to attend the Maccabee convention in West Superior this evening.

Little Vaughan Girl Was Not Kidnaped But Suicided.

Sault Ste. Marie—Mabel, the 14-year-old daughter of J. Vaughan, a prominent merchant of Soo, Canada, mysteriously disapeared on the night of April 30. Tuesday afternoon her body was found in the river near the international dock. It was thought she had been kidnaped, and Vaughan spent a large sum of money in an endeavor to locate her.

Escanaba—Second Lieut. L. W. Oliver, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Oliver, of this city, has been promoted to the rank of first lieutenant of the Eighth United States cavalry. He is at present stationed with the Seventh cavalry at Havana, but under his new commission will be assigned to duty either at Santiago, Cuba, or Fort Riley, Kan. Lieut. Oliver recently spent a furlough at his home in this city.

Houghton—From May 9 to May 31 Porter Bros., who have a contract for government work at the canal—that of putting in the breakwaters—put in 700 feet of crib work, sinking it in position to be in readiness for the overhead work. It is considered the greatest amount of work ever done in the same amount of time on fresh water and that successfully. Porter Bros., who had considerable hard luck with their work last year, are duly making up for lost time this season, and at present the work is progressing better than ever before.

Religion Losing Ground.

The country is becoming agitated over religion. Periodically some one arises and declares that it is decaying. This results in countless discussions until the agitation runs its course, and still religion flourishes. It always will, for it is something the world needs. One of the finest recommendations of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, the great American stomach strengthener, lies in the fact that it has lived for fifty years in spite of hundreds of imitations, and is renowned for its cure of constipation, dyspepsia, biliousness, malaria, fever and ague, and sees to it that the life-giving elemtns of the food are assimilated with the blood. There is nothing "just as good." See that a Private Revenue Stamp covers the neck of the bottle.

PROMINENT SURGEON

Threw Himself From a Third Story Window.

London, June 6.—Dr. Thomas Bond, a well known surgeon and analyist, committed suicide today by throwing himself from a third-story window of his residence. He had been suffering from melancholia for some time. Dr. Bond besides being the late Mr. Gladstone's surgeon, was noted in investigations and discoveries in the cases of several sensational crimes, notably the Lefroy, Lamso and Camp murders.

NO DOUBLE TARIFF.

Berlin, June 6.—As one of the results of yesterday's tariff convocation, the correspondent of the Associated Press learns reliably that Prussia and a number of the larger German states have abandoned the idea of the so-called double tariff, that is to say maximum and minimum, with commercial circles considered the main obstacle in concluding new and mutually satisfactory commercial treaties.

RECORD SMASHED

Great Time Made At the Fire Department Inspection.

"Night Hitch" Made At Central In 9 3-5 Seconds.

No Department In the Country Can Better That.

At the annual inspection of the fire department this afternoon the record for a "night hitch" was broken. Hose company No. 1 and salvage corps No. 1 did it in 9 3-5 seconds.

It is doubtful if any fire department in the country can better this time. All the men were undressed and in bed on the upper floors of the fire hall when the alarm was given. They dressed, slid down the poles, hitched the horses and had the apparatus moving in exactly 9 3-5 seconds. The time was caught by three different watches. Chief Black says that it was the fastest "night hitch" he ever saw.

The hook and ladder company and truck No. 1 did the hitch in fourteen seconds flat, which is also unusually fast for that style of apparatus.

In the straight hitch, men on the apparatus floor, the horses of the salvage corps were harnessed and the apparatus was moving in 5 seconds. Hose company No. 1 got under way in 7 2-5 seconds.

The inspection of the headquarters companies began at 2 o'clock. The following city officers were present: Mayor Hugo, Aldermen Barnes, Swenson and Wing; Commissioners McDowell, Abrahamson and Nitterauer, of the board of fire commissioners; City Comptroller McCormick, City Clerk Cheadle, Commissioners Wallinder, Fider and Nunan, of the civil service board, and Secretary Richardson of the board of fire commissioners.

The board of insurance underwriters was represented by Col. C. H. Graves, R. B. Knox and T. W. Hoopes.

Chief Black first escorted the visitors through the dormitory and offices. Everything was neat and clean and made a very favorable impression. The room in which the electrical apparatus of the fire alarm system is centered was a source of wonder. Since the last inspection storage batteries have been installed, making a great improvement in the system.

OFFICIALS.

Minnesota Iron Company Party to Be Here Tomorrow.

The annual meetings of the Duluth & Iron Range, the Minnesota Iron company and the constituent companies of the latter, will be held here tomorrow, and the directors and party will arrive over the Wisconsin Central shortly before noon. All that is known here is that Judge E. H. Gary and party are coming, but nothing is known about who is to make up the party. J. L. Greatsinger will probably be in the party and F. E. House, who is said to be the head of the two iron range railroad companies, will also probably be here. At tomorrow's meeting it is expected that he will be elected president of the Duluth & Iron Range road.

DECISIONS

In Porto Rican Cases Causes Apprehension In Philippines.

Manila, June 6.—The fragmentary news received here of the Porto Rico decisions has caused apprehension that there will be such a deficit in the Philippine revenues that congress will need to make an appropriation to meet it. Fears are also expressed as to the result of the application of jury trials and other features of the constitution not suited to conditions of the Philippines. Importers are preparing claims for a refunding of the duties paid.

Gen. Chaffee and his staff were conveyed direct to the Malacanang palace today, where a private conference between Gens. Chaffee and MacArthur took place. Gen. Chaffee informed the correspondent of the Associated Press that, while he was not sure of the Orientals general capacity for self-government, he favored the establishment of civil control in the Philippines at the earliest practicable moment. He was in full sympathy with the commission's plan for native education and advancement, because the United States interests and native interests lie in the same line.

It seems certain that under a plain division of the civil and military authority Judge Taft and Gen. Chaffee will collaborate admirably.

TIMBER DEAL.

Tract of Forty Millions at Iron River Sold.

Jacob Mortenson, the Chicago lumberman, is in the city today, a guest of the Spalding. Mr. Mortensen is a member of the Tower Lumber company at Tower, Minn., and is also interested in the Alexander-Edgar Lumber company at Iron River, Wis., whose sawmill plant at Iron River is regarded as one of the largest and most complete in Northern Wisconsin.

Mr. Mortensen says that the Alexander-Edgar company has just closed a deal for about 40,000,000 feet of standing pine in the vicinity of Iron River. It is one of the largest timber deals made in that portion of Northern Wisconsin for some time. The timber lies within eight or nine miles of the company's mill at which it will be cut and will be reached by a logging road to be built later. Until the papers have been filed Mr. Mortensen says that the identity of the parties making the sale or the purchase price will not be made public, though he suggested that it was a good price, adding further that it would be indeed difficult to find a timberman in the Northwest at the present time that did not ask a good price for his pine.

There are rumors afloat of two or three other good-sized deals of Northern Minnesota standing pine that are about to be closed up, but the timbermen are getting very cautious of late of giving out any particulars until everything is closed up and money has been transferred for the pine. Some of them claim that premature publication of intended deals has worked harm from the fact that other men with timber to sell have taken steps to stop negotiations where they were able to do so.

THE MEN NAMED

The Committee To Arrange For the Popular Excursions.

Will Take Up Work at Once and Push It.

It Must Have Co-Operation or Success Is Impossible.

The committee which is to take in hand the popular excursions which it is desired to bring to Duluth from towns in the territory closely adjoining Duluth, was named today. It is as follows: J. M. Gidding, chairman; I. Freimuth, M. Bunnell and T. E. Hill, secretary of the Duluth Improvement association. It was agreed at the meeting Tuesday evening that Mr. Hill was to be one of the members of the committee.

The work of this committee will not be easy nor will it be one whose pathway will be strewn with roses. It will be up-hill work unless there is a lively and enthusiastic co-operation on the part of the merchants and it cannot succeed unless the business men enter into it with the proper spirit. Half-hearted support will not accomplish the objects sought to be obtained and indifference will be the death blow of the scheme. The men who have consented to take up the campaign are all business men whose time is valuable and upon which there are many demands. They have, however, agreed to give their time and earnest efforts to it and are determined that if they cannot make the plan succeed success is impossible for it. Mr. Gidding was reluctant to take the chairmanship of the committee, but was finally prevailed upon to undertake the work, and having done so will enter into it energetically.

Popular excursions of the nature which it is planned to give are somewhat new to Duluth, but other communities have tried them with results that were entirely satisfactory. A representative of one of the large eastern houses was in the city a few days ago and hearing of the plan commended it and told of a large town in Illinois through which he passed recently which was having these excursions and profiting handsomely by them. There was one there while he was in the city and the town was decorated and the merchants had given the day over to it. They were delighted with the idea.

The men interested in the scheme say that all they want is to see it given a fair trial and they are satisfied that the plan will then work itself with very little effort.

BRAID WON.

Defeated Harry Vardon at the Scotch Golf Tournament.

Gullane, Scotland, June 6.—The concluding day's play in the open golf championship started with ideal weather. Yesterday's weeding out process practically left Harry Vardon and James Braid to fight for first place, as they were seven strokes ahead of the next players, Taylor and Laige. The spectators, who included some well-known members of parliament and a few Americans, almost neglected the other matches to watch the favorites. The bad putting noticeable was attributed to the spongy greens. Vardon drew with J. H. Taylor, so he had every incentive to play his best.

Scotland's prospects of winning the championship had not been so bright in many years as when James Braid accomplished the remarkable feat of going around Murfield links in seventy-four, and completed the third round five strokes ahead of Harry Vardon. At the end of the third round Braid, who scored 74, had a total of 229. Vardon scored seventy-nine, making a total of 234, and Taylor scored seventy-four, making a total of 236. Vardon got bunkered several times and his play was generally weak. Finally Braid won with a total of 309. Vardon was second with a total of 312 and Taylor third, with a total of 313. The features of Braid's play were perfect driving and deadly putting. Nearly 1000 spectators followed him and their enthusiasm was great.

The amateur Hilton, played a fine round for seventy-five and took the lead of the amateurs.

THE TARIFF.

Manufacturers Define the Proper Principles of Protection.

Detroit, June 6.—At its closing session today, the National Association of Manufacturers adopted a resolution recommending the calling of a general convention for consideration of reciprocity treaties with foreign countries. The executive committee was charged to call and organize such a convention. The following resolution was adopted with regard to tariff revision:

Resolved, that the National Association of Manufacturers affirms the following principles should govern all legislation. The object of tariff legislation should be to furnish adequate protection to such products only as require it, without providing for monopoly abuses. The tariff on goods of which the cost of production is higher in the United States than in foreign countries should be at least what is necessary to compensate domestic industries for the higher cost of production."

The association re-elected its old officers, as has been the custom since it was organized, and fixed Indianapolis as the place for the next convention.

MANY RIGHTS

Granted a Company Organized to Do a Foreign Business.

New York, June 6.—A special to the Tribune from New Haven, Conn., says: A company with omnibus rights to do a general banking, shipping and mercantile, mining, railroad and manufacturing business in South American republics, Porto Rico, Cuba and Philippines, has secured favorable report on its incorporation in the state senate. The new company is to be known as the International company, with a capital stock of $500,000 which can be increased to $5,000,000 later. The incorporators are Bridgeport and Derby men, including Allan W. Paige, of Bridgeport, and W. Sidney Downes, off Derby. New York interests, however, are behind the company, which are now engaged in large undertakings on the northern coast of South America.

The new company proposes to establish banking houses in all the principal financial centers of South America and the new possessions of the United States. The principal aim of thde company will be to establish banks in order to facilitate trade relations between this country and the countries named. The new company also intends to do a general transportation business and possibly mining and manufacturing besides working natural beds of mineral. The company will be the first to pay the new franchise tax that this state will hereafter charge new corporations, of 50 cents on each $1000 capital stock.

WRIGHT-RENO.

Pretty Wedding Took Place at Woodland Park.

Last night, at 8:30 o'clock, a very pretty wedding was celebrated at the home of Andrew Gibson, of Glen Avon, when Miss Rosamond Wright, of Craggencroft, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Wright, of Minneapolis, and Howard Reno, of Minneapolis, were united in marriage by Rev. R. A. Montgomery, of the Glen Avon church.

The bride was daintily gowned in a lilac-colored organdy with white lace trimmings. She wore lilies of the valley in her hair and at her waist and carried a large bouquet of American beauty roses. Little Jean Gibson was flower girl.

The wedding party was usehered in to the strains of Mendelssohn's wedding march, played by Miss Julia Hunter. The house decorations were very effective, consisting of a profusion of lilacs of all shades from white to deepest purple with a background of ferns.

After the serving of refreshments the bridal party drove away under a shower of rice.

MAYFLOWER SAILS.

Washington, June 6.—The Mayflower sailed yesterday from San Juan for Carupano. She will make stops at Laguayra and Porto Cabello. Navy department officials state that her mission is to keep in touch with the situation growing out of the Venezuelan asphalt troubles.

ALUMNI REUNION.

One Will Be Held By High School Graduates.

The reunion of the high school alumni, which has been planned for June 17, will doubtless be one of the ejoyable affairs of the school year, for then the old graduates will meet their friends of former graduating classes, and will have a chance to become acquainted with the graduating class of 1901, which is one of the largest that has ever left the high school.

The members of the alumni that have been away from Duluth for the past year are returning, and all seem to be looking forward to the pleasant evening which they expect to have at the fifth annual reunion.

The high school has had many ups and downs, and for the first ten years of its existence, starting about twenty years ago, the classes were very small, sometimes only two or three graduating at a time, and one year there was but a single girl to receive the honors of the graduating class, while this year there will be over fifty.

POTTAWATTOMIES

Send Representatives to Determine Their Rights.

Chicago, June 6.—Joseph H. Cushway, Frank Williams and Andrew Rapp, three representatives of the Pottawattomie tribe of Indians, arrived here today from Benton Harbor, Mich., to confer with attorneys as to the alleged rights of the tribe to take possession of the filled-in land along the lake front of Chicago. The Pottawatomies claim the land under an old government grant and in the present case their claims in a measure overlap those of Capt. Streeter who has taken so-called possession through the right of discovery.

WISCONSIN CENTRAL.

Rumors That J. J. Hill Will Soon Control It.

New York, June 6.—Discussing rumors concerning the control of Wisconsin Central, which have been in circulation here for several days, the Commercial Advertiser says:

"Information relative to the future of the Wisconsin Central railroad is of a varied and indefinite character, but there is good reason to believe that negotiations affecting the control of that property are under way. According to advices from St. Paul, James J. Hill has been pursuing Wisconsin Central stock with a view of putting the property under the control of the Great Northern, or the Northern Pacific.

"Another story is in circulation, that either the Harriman syndicate or George J. Gould will buy the Wisconsin Central in order to eliminate a distributing factor in the Western and Southwestern rate situation.

"At the New York headquarters of the Central the statement was made that no change had occurred in control of that property."

INJUNCTION

New York, June 6.—An application for an injunction to restrain George H. Hartford and Theophilus Gilman from selling, assigning, transferring or in any way disposing of the property of the Great Atlantic and Pacific Tea company, was made before Justice Gildersleeve in the supreme court today. The application was made in behalf of Edward L. Norton, the New York administrator of the estate of the late George F. Gilman. Hartford is manager of the tea company and Theophilus Gilman is an administrator of the estate. A receiver for the business pending the trial of the action was also asked for. Counsel for Mr. Norton alleged that the books show Hartford had an interest in the business amounting to $715,204. This entry, counsel said, was placed in the books after the death of Mr. Gilman.

Justice Gildersleeve adjourned the proceedings until some day next week, when further arguments will be heard.

Objecting to the Porto Ricans.

Delegate Wilcox says that the better class of Hawaiians are not pleased with the scheme of the sugar planters of shipping Porto Ricans to Hawaii by the wholesale to work on the sugar plantations. He says that only the cheapest and poorest class of Porto Ricans are being sent over and that they are on a par with the Japs and Chinese who formerly constituted the main labor on the plantations. "What Hawaii wants," he said, "are good, vigorous and enterprising men, who will make farmers and aid in building up the country. The Porto Ricans are good only for laboring purposes and will never amount to anything more." As long as cheap labor is necessary on the plantations and in fact in many enterprises there is no reason why the Porto Ricans should not make as good help as men of any nationality and especially in the warm countries. The Hawaiians are evidently crying before they are hurt.

Trade Relations With Spain.

It is interesting to note that commercial relations between Spain and the United States seem to have been fully restored, and it is not improbable that our exports to that country in the fiscal year 1901 will be greater, with possibly a single exception, than in any preceding year. Exports from the United States to Spain in the nine months ending with March, 1901, were valued at $11,579,319, against $10,081,920 in the corresponding months of last year and $7,661,043 in the corresponding period of the fiscal year 1899. The figures for the year up to this time indicate that the total exports from the United States to Spain in the fiscal year 1901 will be about $16,000,000, while in 1891 the exports to Spain were $14,619,235, in 1880 $14,657,854, and in 1882, the one year in which the fifteen-million dollar line was excepded, $16,931,287. On the import side the figures of the present fiscal year are largely in less than those of 1900, which were the excess of those of 1899, though slightly largest since in 1891. The annual imports from Spain into the United States since 1891 have ranged from $8,500,000 to $6,000,000, averaging about $4,500,000, while for the present fiscal year they seem likely to exceed $5,000,000. In the fiscal year 1899, which felt the full effect of the war between the two countries, the exports from the United States to Spain were $9,077,597; in 1900, they rose to $13,399,650, and in the present fiscal year will closely approximate $15,000,000. Breadstuffs, cotton, oils, and wood manufactures are the principal articles in volume. Fruits, nuts and wines are at present the principal articles imported from Spain, though in earlier years iron ore formed an important item of our importations from Spain.

The government's disbursements last month exceeded those of the same month last year, but revenues rose to $52,629,449, against little more than $45,000,000 in May of 1900. In view of the fact that many internal revenue taxes cease on July 1, this is a remarkable income exhibit, and leaves a surplus for the month of about $10,500,000, bringing the surplus for the fiscal year to date up to $58,588,035. If general business prosperity continues unabated the government will probably experience a revenue surplus after the war revenue reduction law takes full effect.

A WONDERFUL OPINION.

At the cabinet meeting this week it was decided to make no change in the manner of dealing with the Philippines notwithstanding the decision in the De Lima case. This is not news, for every one knew what would be done at that cabinet meeting. The administration is bound to pursue the colonial policy marked out, whether or no. If the decision of the supreme court upsets what has been done, the money collected illegally will be returned. The sugar and tobacco interests must be protected at all hazards.

It is reported that the attorney general and Secretary Root both handed in opinions that the Spooner amendment gave the president power to do as he pleased in the Philippines. True, the supreme court said in the De Lima case that the laws of the United States are extended over all acquired territory as soon as cession and possession are complete. And the court in the Downes case decided that these laws obtained until congress enacted other laws to regulate the matter of taxation. Here the court stopped. Now comes the attorney general with an opinion that the constitution with its laws does not extend over the Philippines and that an act of congress is not necessary to put in force a tariff schedule. This is legislation extraordinary. This wonderful opinion is apparently based on the Spooner amendment giving to the president power to govern the territory, as follows:

"Be it enacted, etc., That when all insurrection against the sovereignty and authority of the United States in the Philippine Islands, acquired from Spain by the treaty concluded at Paris on the 10th day of December, 1898, shall have been completely suppressed by the military and naval forces of the United States, all military, civil and judicial powers necessary to govern the said islands shall, until otherwise provided by congress, be vested in such person and persons and shall be exercised in such manner as the president of the United States shall direct for maintaining and protecting the inhabitants of said islands in the free enjoyment of their liberty, property and religion."

Any power conferred upon the president by congress is supposed to be such powers as can be exercised within the limits of our written constitution. The president is limited in his powers and prerogatives as strictly as is congress by constitutional provisions. There are certain things he may do and certain things that he may not do. He may not legislate, or in any way make laws for the government of any part of the United States. His duties and his powers are executive only, and congress cannot confer upon him legislative authority. Besides not having the power to confer legislative authority upon the president, congress cannot delegate its powers to any other body. An enactment conferring upon a part of the legislative body itself, full power to act for the whole would be worthless. This is essential to the very existence of a democratic form of government. If it were not so, there would be nothing to prevent congress from conferring upon the executive head of the nation dictatorial powers. It could make of him the supreme head of the three branches, legislative, judicial and executive. To hold that the Spooner amendment gave President McKinley power to levy taxes and control the lives, the liberties and the property of the people of the Philippine Islands is to make him absolute dictator of what the supreme court has said is a part of the United States. The acts based upon this opinion of the attorney general will be revolutionary.

During the late campaign the most enthusiastic anti-imperialist never dreamed that the administration would assume to do the things that it has done and the things which it declares it will do. If there ever was a time when the nation was in need of a patriotic supreme court it is today.

WAS IT A WOODEN WEDDING?

The question of how far a man may deceive a woman whom he is about to marry, regarding his physical condition, is about to be adjudicated. Miss Augusta F. Wolff and Leonard Appleman were united in marriage not long ago. Now Mrs. Appleman sues for divorce on the ground that her husband has a wooden leg. There is nothing criminal in the possession of a wooden leg—it is not on that ground that Mrs. Appleman bases her suit. She alleges that she was made the victim of a base deception; that before she consented to become Mrs. Appleman, and while the latter was giving her attentions with matrimonial intent, she noticed that he was not as sprightly on his pins as the ordinary man, and she marveled thereat. After waiting a proper time and after overcoming her maidenly modesty, she asked him what caused his lameness, intimating, by way of a joke, that perhaps someone had been pulling his leg. He, however, assured her that such was not the case, but that he had suffered a severe sprain of the ankle, from which he would in time recover. Having implicit confidence in man in general and this man in particular, the lady believed his statement regarding his leg as she did his other statements regarding his undying love for a beautiful little woman whom she recognized in the mirror as herself. She therefore laid her fears at rest, and consented to and did marry him. It was not until the privacy of the nuptial chamber allowed a closer examination of the prize which she had secured that she discovered that she had been deceived, grossly deceived, and that the man whom she had taken for better or for worse was decidedly worse, being minus one leg."

The question will arise, to what extent the absence of the ordinary members of the human body must be carried to vitiate a matrimonial contract. There is a rule of law that if a purchaser of goods assumes to buy them upon his own judgment, he cannot complain of defects found in the articles after closer examination. But if he depend upon the representations of the other party, and that party warrants the article to be what it appears on the surface, any latent defect vitiates the contract and the deceived party may cancel the contract and recover damages. In this case it would not have been the proper caper for Miss Wolff to have insisted upon further examination after the assurance given her that the lameness was caused by a sprain which time would overcome. The conclusion, therefore, is that Miss Wolff was deceived to her prejudice. But is that prejudice sufficient to warrant the dissolution of the marital contract? Whenever an article is sold under a warranty, the warranty goes only to the adaptation of that article to the use for which it was intended and not for any ulterior purpose. Now, if the absence of a leg renders Mr. Appleman in any way incapable of performing the duties incumbent upon him in his new relation, of furnishing adequate means of support or of offering suitable defense of his household, then, in either of these cases, Miss Wolff was deceived to her prejudice, and the contract should be dissolved. But if, on the contrary, the absence of the leg occasions no material inconvenience and is only an esthetic defect, there is no sufficient reason to excuse Miss Wolff from her undertaking.

On the whole, it is possible that Miss Wolff is guilty of contributory negligence in this matter. By exercising ordinary care she could have ascertained the physical condition of her suitor before the marriage ceremony was performed. To make the principle general, it must be held that any person, man or woman, who allows himself or herself to be deceived by a show of false representations in a matrimonial bargain, is guilty per se of gross negligence and ought to suffer whatever chagrin follows the denouement.

The old principle of caveat emptor should prevail in the matrimonial market as well as in the field of commercial barter.

BRITISH COLONIAL FAILURE.

Governor Allen, of Porto Rico, in his recent report to the administration, after stating that the present government of Porto Rico is a great success, took occasion to recommend to the home government the adoption of the British colonial governments which are in force in the West Indies. This report was evidently required by the administration and given without any investigation of the workings of these West Indian governments. Had Mr. Allen taken the pains to ascertain the facts he would have made very different recommendations. Had the administration investigated the condition of the British colonies it would have suppressed the report. But neither Allen nor the administration thought it necessary to ascertain the facts and consequently blundered in a most surprising manner.

The British colonies of the West Indies have for years been a total failure. The burden of government imposed upon them, the lack of market for their products and the moral effect of a colonial government wherein the workers have no voice has paralyzed every industry and rendered the garden spots of the Western hemisphere a veritable desert.

The London Express, in commenting on the West Indian colonies, admits that the government of those islands has been a failure. In speaking of the causes it names the excessive number of officials and says: "Even worse, however, than the excessive number of officials is the fact that they maintain themselves as a distinct class and have no interest in common with the people they govern." This is the rock on which the American colonial policy will split. Already the people of the Philippines and the Porto Ricans are becoming restless under the rule of the professional carpetbaggers. If Great Britain has made a failure in the West Indies, can we hope to succeed?

MIRTHFUL REMARKS.

Detroit Free Press: "Do you think the acquisition of great wealth is a good thing?"

"I know it. Why, it makes us love our enemies."

Somerville Journal: Bjones—Here's a bottle of whisky that is twenty-two years old.

Bjohnson—Did you forget it?

Detroit Journal: Now that the drama calls a spade a spade, it is fairly up to the provinces to call a hall a hall and not a grand opera house.

Puck: "Well, Carnegie is setting a fine example, isn't he?"

"Splendid! It is a genuine incentive for every man to get two hundred millions before he begins to give any away."

Philadelphia Press: "What do you think of that whisky?" asked the host.

"Well," said the guest, smacking his lips as he laid down his glass, "it reminds me of a good story."

"Let's have it!"

"Oh! You misunderstand me. I merely wish to imply that it's worth repeating."

Catholic Standard: Mr. Timmid—I've decided to speak to your father tonight.

Miss Patience—Oh! who told you?

Mr. Timmid—Told me what?

Miss Patience—That he sprained his ankle today.

Pittsburg Chronicler: "Those dismissed cadets who asked Secretary Root to reverse their sentence were disappointed," remarked Mr. Pitt.

"They suffered another reverse, it appears," added Mr. Penn.

Brooklyn Life: "How did he commit suicide?" inquired the eager reporter of the Yellow Enterprise.

"He went into the bull pasture," growled the life insurance agent, "with one of your art supplements sticking out of his pocket."

"Why not?"

"Because every saloon I visit has the sign, 'No trust here,' over the bar."

Detroit Free Press: "Do you believe the world's federation of clubs can be achieved?"

"Oh, yes. I know woman: she'll keep on federating until there is nothing else left to federate."

Washington Star: "He assumes a great deal of importance as a public official," said one Chinaman.

"Yes," answered the other, "but any one can see he doesn't really amount to much. He has been beheaded only twice in the past six months."

Second Farmer—Great show, I suppose?

First Farmer—Yes; he says you wouldn't believe how many things he seen that ain't controlled by trusts.

Philadelphia Press: Emperor Kwang Tsu frowned darkly.

"The west, forsooth" sneered he. "How do I know that there is any West?"

"Well, Occidents will happen, you know," exclaimed the viceroy, Li Hung Chang.

Yonkers Statesman: Church—Did you ever notice how happy a man looks after he has gotten outside of a good square meal?

Gotham—Yes, and I have noticed how happy a man looks after he has gotten outside of some of those places which advertise a good square meal.

Detroit Journal: "I don't care," whimpered China, "what clause you put in the treaty, so long as you keep your claws out of my territory."

The Health-Food Man.

His eyes are balls of polished steel;
His lungs are sponges dried;
His blood is bouillon-concentrate
In veins of leather hide.

His muscles creak like pully ropes
When hurried into play;
His hair is like piano chords—
Some chords are lost, they say.

His heart's a little globe of punk—
A house of constant gloom,
For love can never burn within,
Because there isn't room.

His appetite has dwindled down
To fit his little food,
The fruit is "water in a poke"
And bread is "so much wood."

Hot apple tarts and pumpkin pies—
He reads of them aghast;
And waffles brown and chicken stew
Are "terrors of the past."

And, smiling, from his vest he slips
A tiny box of tin,
With capsules brown and pellets pink
All rattling within.

Then, with a gulp, he swallows down
His dinner from the can—
This product of the health-food school,
The Concentrated Man!

Still in Politics.

Buffalo Express: John W. Griggs, the former attorney general, says the decision of the United States supreme court takes the question of expansion out of politics. On the contrary, it makes politics the only means of settling that question if the people are not satisfied with it.

Exhibition of Revenge.

Minneapolis Times: Mr. Pingree shot that South African elephant eighteen times after it was dead. Mr. Pingree always was very thorough in his methods, and then he has a little grudge against the party of which the elephant is the symbol.

Washington Times: It would seem to be a poor lawyer who could not find warrant for any possible course of conduct between Brown right side up and Brown upside down.

ISSUE WILL NOT DOWN.

Chicago Inter-Ocean (Rep.): Another stage of the Porto Rico tariff discussion is about to close.

As the decision of the supreme court now stands, congress has full power in matters of Porto Rico legislation. However, the decision of the court does not necessarily impair the validity of the policy declared by President McKinley in his message of Dec. 5, 1899.

There was at that time no constitutional question involved. No one had raised the issue whether the constitution followed the flag or not. The president declared that it was "our plain duty to abolish all customs tariffs between the United States and Porto Rico, and give her products free access to our markets."

There was no intrusion of the constitutional question by the president or by the Republican leaders in congress. It was a question of policy and duty. No one doubted the power of congress to legislate as the president recommended. No one doubts that power now.

After all has been said and done, the people are today face to face with the same issue as in 1899 and 1900. The tariff clause of the Foraker bill expires in less than a year, and then the question whether Porto Rico shall have free trade with the United States or be subject to a new tariff will have to be passed upon. Then the Republican party will still be duty bound to stand where it stood at the outset—before the beet sugar lobby appeared on the scene and raised the constitutional hubbub to cover an act of bad faith.

Free trade with Porto Rico is still a question of justice and plain duty. If the constitution extend our customs laws to the new territory, free trade was and is Porto Rico's organic right. If the revenue clause of the constitution did not extend to the island, then congress had and has the power to enact a law including Porto Rico in our customs system.

This was the original position of the Republican party. It was absolutely unassailable then. It is absolutely unassailable today. It will be absolutely unassailable next winter, when the Porto Rico tariff will again be the question of the hour.

A CINCH ON SUCCESS.

My child, would you achieve success and stand among the great?
Well, I will tell you how to get a fortune while you wait.
First, you must read the papers which espouse that sort of thing;
Subscribe at once for Hustle! Snap! Push! Grab! Shove! Biff! Bang! Bing!
When you have reached five years of age learn Latin, French and Greek.
Sell papers night and morning and make sixteen cents a week;
Invest it in some railroad bonds, as every smart boy does,
And night or day don't stop to play but keep things on the buzz.

While running errands read some book that treats of this or that
"Sure Road to Wealth!" paste lots of business maxims in your hat;
Have hanging up in front of you to study while you eat
Professor Gadgrind's rules on "How to Get There With Both Feet!"
A cyclopaedia by your bed should always find a place
So when you lie awake at night, as sometimes is the case,
You can improve your mind with drafts of learning long and deep.
But don't read trashy story books nor anything that's cheap.

In childhood learn to fix your eye upon the real main chance.
Do thoughts unless it pays and try to get it in advance.
In all that may confront you let your "Business Motto" be
To ask yourself the question: "What is there in this for me?"
Regard that day as worse than lost that sees not some amount,
However meager, added to your savings bank account.
Don't pay too much attention to your conscience or your heart,
But get a lot of money and the world will think you smart.

So mind these rules and you'll outstrip the foolish little boys
Who love to run and laugh and play amid their childish joys.
Their golden hours will all be filled with many a childish prank,
While you'll be putting, day by day, good money in the bank!
The while they read their fairy tales you'll gather vital facts
And cram your head with business till your little noggin cracks,
But when they're poor and living on a farm or in a flat
You'll own a house, a bob-tailed horse, a cart and high silk hat!

THOUGHTS BY PEASE.

Anoka Union: When Van Sant comes up again, he'll be downed.

Any man who has held the position of president of the United States for two terms should be satisfied. The people will not take kindly to the third term idea.

The Republican party of Minnesota needs to look around and find some good man to run for governor next year, or another defeat is inevitable.

Timothy Egotistical Byrnes, down in Washington, talked under his hat when he told a reporter that there was no opposition to Governor Van Sant in his own party. Tim always was an easy prevaricator.

Don't let's call them taxes any longer. Confiscation of property is a more proper name. There is real estate in Anoka today upon which the delinquent taxes greatly exceed the value of the property.

Chief clerk, Jim Martin is getting so poor, worrying over the mistakes of his governor that dime museum proprietors want to exhibit him as a living skeleton. It is hard to serve such a master.

Now I know I'm tackling a delicate subject, and am likely to get my ears pulled, it can't be my hair, you know. Walking up the street a pleasant day recently, not in Anoka you must know, I counted thirteen ladies who had threads on their skirts, two whose shoe strings were dangling, four whose placket hole had become unhooked, three whose waists were unbuttoned, all of 'em blissfully ignorant of their condition, and I thought to myself why don't ladies always submit themselves to examination by some critical eye before they venture out upon the streets and then the nasty men could not make them subjects of criticism.

Growing Costums Revenue.

St. Louis Globe-Democrat: Customs revenues in the Philippines have more than doubled in two years and are now running beyond $1,000,000 a month. No doubt there will be a further increase as peace conditions are restored, for the outside world.

Making Great Progress.

Portland Oregonian: The Hawaiians are catching on to the ways of American politics so swiftly that they ought not to be held in the same class with our other insular possessions. They couldn't continue the session of their legislature, but they have a first-class bribery investigation that is even more diverting.

Real Wealth of the Nation.

Baltimore Sun: The real wealth of nations is not to be computed by statisticians, who can no more than make rows of figures representing what they judge to be the value of its material possessions and resources and foot up the items to a grand total. The character and capacity of a nation, rather than its stores of wealth, whether in one form or another, make and keep it great. The editor of the London Statist a few days ago observed that the natural resources of the United States do not wholly account for its present keen industrial rivalry with European nations. He keenly remarks that the red men had the same country and the same resources, though they never seriously competed for the trade and commerce of Europe.

May Fall off.

Columbus Press-Post: Those do be days when Viceroy Taft is a bit uneasy about the fit of his crown.

Misfits in His Brain.

New York Evening Telegram: Only man who really understands the status of Porto Rico is Joseph B. Foraker, United States senator from Ohio, and author of the Porto Rico act. The more one reads of his explanation of said status the more it dawns upon one that he is really a remarkable man possessed of a great brain.

DAILY STORY.

A TIGER-CAT'S CAGE.

BY FRANKLYN DAVIS WHITE.

(Copyright, 1901, William R. Miller.)

I had cut and run from an American whaler on the coast of Peru at the outbreak of the war with Chile, and it was only natural that the excitement ashore should have carried me into the Peruvian ranks. I did not join the regular army, however. I had been something of a hunter before turning sailor, and when it became known that I was a good shot and used to the woods I was given command of a dozen men and put to the front to do scouting. The country was soon overrun with bands of guerillas, scouts, bushwhackers and outlaws belonging to both nations, and the killing of each other became a regular trade. No prisoners were taken on either side by the regular troops, and I never before realized how men could hate each other.

One day, in scouting over a mountain road, we came across the dead bodies of twenty Peruvians who had been ambushed by a party of Chilean guerillas under the leadership of a man named Cuarto. We took up his trail, followed it for a distance of ten miles, and by a sudden attack on his camp routed him and killed over thirty of his followers. Three weeks later, as we were making a night march, I slipped on a rock and turned my ankle. My men carried me for a mile or so, but when fired upon from ambush they dropped me and fled in a panic. Ten minutes later I was a prisoner of Cuarto, probably the first and last his band took during the war. I expected to be shot down as the fellows came up, but they did not even offer me insult. After the surprise of Cuarto's camp he had offered $500 for my capture, and had given orders that I be spared if taken prisoner. He was not present when I was taken, the detachment being under command of his lieutenant. As soon as daylight appeared, I was mounted on a mule and escorted a distance of six miles to a hamlet where the guerilla had his headquarters. I had heard various stories about him, and expected to see a low-browed ruffian of the worst type. Instead of such a man, I found something so far different that I could only stare at him in amazement. He was under the average height and weight, had a face almost classical, and was a dandy in dress. The idea that such a little whipper-snapper was born a leader of men and a fierce fighter seemed absurd, until I heard his voice and saw the smiles that came and went over his face. Then I knew that he was a human devil in disguise.

As we reached his quarters Cuarto came out with a cigarette in his mouth, and an air of languid interest, and raising his hat to me he gave me a good-morning. He was dressed more for the festival than for the field. He ordered two of his men to lift me down with care and place me on a chair in the shade, and a third one to bring me a generous breakfast. There was a bottle of wine to finish off with, and then Cuarto extended his own cigarette case and sat down beside me and purringly said:

"I am delighted to see the Senor Americano, and will endeavor to entertain him to the best of my poor abilities. The Senor is not unknown to me by name, and I feel greatly honored by this visit."

His voice was as soft as a woman's and yet there was something behind it to make you think of men lying on the lonely roads with their throats cut. I knew that he was toying with me and I determined to cut it short.

"Look here, Senor Cuarto," I said as I looked him full in the face, "let's cut it short. The only entertainment you have for me is death, and why beat around the bush?"

"The Senor is a man of perception," he lazily drawled as he looked at me through half-closed eyes.

"I know the custom of this guerilla warfare at least. If you had fallen into my hands I could not have saved you if I desired. Call out a file of men and have it over with."

"Do not be impatient, Senor. It is an idle day. Your finish will come in good time, but let us enjoy the hour while we may. Help yourself to the wine and cigarettes."

For two hours we conversed on a dozen different topics, and I found him well read and well posted. He was suave, smiling and companionable, but there was a hidden menace in every smile and word, and at length I became so desperate that I interrupted him with:

"Enough of this, Senor Cuarto. You have had your little joke, and now let the end come."

"If the Senor Americano so wishes it I cannot refuse," he replied as the devil showed plain in his eyes. "Ho, there, Pedro, is everything all ready?"

"All is ready," replied one of his guerillas, who had been loafing near by, and his words were the signal for several others to appear.

"Senor Americanos," said the smiling Cuarto as he gave me his soft hand, "you will find that I have honored you above all others by your taking off. I do it on account of your nationality, and because you are a good fighter. Excuse me for not being present, as I have a report to make out. Adios 'till we meet again."

Two men picked me up, four or five others followed, and I was carried around to the rear of a hut and direct to a rude cage, in which there was a large tiger-cat. The animal was bounding back and forth in anger and excitement, and I knew he must be a recent capture. It was not until we were close to the door of the cage that I understood what was intended, and then it was too late to struggle against it. In a trice the door was flung back and I was heaved into the cage, and then a score of men gathered around to see the fun. I say where I had been flung, expecting the cat to attack at once, but to my amazement and the superstitious awe of the natives she crouched down in a corner and made no aggressive movement. When ten minutes had passed, word was sent to Senor Cuarto, and he ordered the men to stir up the cat with poles. She spat and snarled and growled, but she kept away from me. I had been caged up for at least twenty minutes, and they were still trying to excite the animal, when my band came dashing into camp and had full possession in five minutes. Cuarto and half a dozen men got away, but twice as many were left dead. I was pulled out of the cage and the door left open for the cat to make her escape, and that ended the adventure. Only a born devil could have planned such a death for a man, and only the unreasonable pages of Providence can explain why I was spared. The cat, as I afterwards learned, had been trapped several days before, and for the past two days had been given no food, and hunger, added to her native ferocity, ought to have brought about the horrible fate Cuarto had planned for me. A month later when he became my prisoner in turn, I was more merciful. A file of six men—a volley—a fall, and he had the death and burial of a soldier.

AS TO GAMBLING.

Ortonville Herald-Star: It appears that all gambling is not gambling. The kind of gambling that is carried on under certain conditions is not gambling. The poker game in Granite Falls the other day in which one of the participants killed another was gambling, without doubt, while the game of checkers that a New York clergyman played with a young man one day last week, in which the minister put up as a stake his daughter's hand in marriage while the young man agreed to pay off the church debt if he was beaten, was not gambling.

If you drop a nickle in a slot machine, and it stops on yellow, and you hold the handle down long enough you get $2. That is gambling, because the slot machine was in a saloon. But if you pay 10 cents for a chance on a silk quilt and draw it, that is not gambling, because you are at a church fair. If you buy a pool on a horse at a race you're gambling, but if you take a flyer on wheat or pork or stocks you're a speculator. Seven-up at 25 cents a corner is gambling, but progressive cinch with a $2 book for a prize is a society game. At the school and college field day exercises the contestants strive mightily for the purses that are hung up, but that is not gambling, but of those same boys get in a back room somewhere and shoot craps that would be gambling. There are so many other ways in which gambling may be practiced, or may not be, just as you happen to view the subject, that it is no; singular that sometimes you gamble before you think. This comparative view of gambling only proves that there are different grades and degrees of the vice, different stages of the disease as it were, some of which are more sinful and dangerous than others. It is true, but to persist in and to countenance even these milder forms is to encourage and propagate the love of hazard which is common to and inherent in all human kind, without regard to age, sex, color or previous conditions.

Fighting Over Estates.

New York Tribune: Samuel Wood of Long Island, when he died some years ago, left a provision in his will for the establishment of a college of music, and set aside several hundreds of thousands of dollars for that institution. It is now disclosed that extensive and prolonged litigation over the estate has consumed the greater part of the property, and that there is little prospect that the college will ever be founded. At some time in the future the people of this state may perhaps demand that the legislature shall take some action to diminish the excessive cost of legal proceedings in disputes over wills and estates. Rightful heirs are often ill-treated and despoiled in such contests, and the reasonable wishes of testators are sometimes ruthless nullified.

WITHDRAWS.

Tillman Changes His Mind Concerning His Resignation.

Columbia, S. C., June 6.—Senator Tillman, protesting against the governor's right to reject the senatorial resignations last night withdrew his resignation. In his letter to Governor McSweeney, Senator Tillman says:

"I have Senator McLaurin's communication, in which he graciously consents to your request to hold on to his commission as United States senator and continue to serve the state as he has done in the past to the best of his ability.'

"This leaves me one of three alternatives: To appeal to the Democratic Democratic executive committee to take the matter up and determine what the best interest of the party requires to be done; to appeal to the senate itself to determine the question as to whether a resignation from a member of that body to take effect at some future time is binding, or withdraw my own resignation.

"There are no precedents on this subject because in the 125 years of our national life, with more than 200 resignations from the senate, no senator has hitherto been willing to occupy the despicable attitude now assumed by Senator McLaurin and forced on me. I am certain of one thing: That the executive of a state has no authority to decline a resignation that has been tendered, and I am equally certain that had your excellency confined your action within legal bounds your appointees would be seated in the senate when that body meets in December and held their seats until the legislature should act in January. My chief regret is that I am forced by your action to engage in what the outside world will consider a game of opera bouffe, by withdrawing my own resignation after Senator McLaurin's undignified and puerile action, but the purpose for which it was tendered has been thwarted by Senator McLaurin's precipitous acceptance of executive advice. Bob Acres has been outdone for once. I have already said I had no motive or purpose in resigning except to force McLaurin's resignation and there is nothing for me to do but accept the situation and withdraw my own resignation, if it be lawful to do so."

Omaha Papers Tell Story of Mrs. Walker's Suicide.

She and Her Companion Said to Have Been Intoxicated.

Some of Evening's Incidents Disclosed at Coroner's Inquest.

The Omaha papers bring further details of the tragic suicide in that city of Mrs. J. Irving Walker, formerly of Duluth, and the attempt of a traveling salesman in that city to end his life with her. A special from Lincoln to the Daily Bee, after reviewing the facts of the suicide, which are already known here, said:

"After holding two sessions, one in the afternoon and the other tonight, the coroner's jury summoned by Coroner Graham adjourned till tomorrow morning without having brought out any testimony to indicate the immediate cause of the tragedy. That both Brink and Mrs. Walker were under the influence of liquor when they entered the hotel, was admitted by several witnesses, but their condition was such that they attracted only casual attention.

"There was a deep mystery surrounding the entire affair, but many theories as to the probable motive are advanced. While struggling against the influence of the powerful drug he had taken, Brink exclaimed to the physician attending: 'The girl said she was going to take the poison and I beat her to it. I took it to bluff her.'

"Then the man again sank into a comatose condition and as soon as he had recovered sufficiently he was removed to the home of George Clark, his employer, on South Thirteenth street.

"The evidence before the jury this afternoon was to the effect that Brink and the woman left the hotel office early in the evening and walked to the Lindell drug store, which is in the hotel building. There the two passed the evening. After they had been sitting in the store a few minutes Bert Ramsdell and Iva Duncan, the former keeper of the store, came in and joined them, and then all went around behind the prescription case and there drank beer and possibly other beverages.

"About 1:30 the party walked to the entrance of the hotel and the two women went to Mrs. Walker's room, leaving the men standing on the sidewalk. A few minutes later they rejoined their companions and then Ramsdell and his friend left the other two alone. W. W. Cleveland, a traveling man, later appeared on the scene and, according to his testimony, seeing that Brink was intoxicated, he assisted the woman into the hotel, taking her to the room usually occupied by Brink, who came in. On the stand today he said the two quarreled some, but he was unable to repeat any of the conversation. He said he went downstairs to get a cigar and when he returned the woman said that Bert had taken poison and she was going to do likewise. A moment later she drank the contents of a phial and then threw herself on the bed.

"Pale and weak, yet cool and with steady nerves, Brink appeared before the jury tonight in response to a summons. At first he stood upon his constitutional right and refused to answer questions, but finally, after conferring with his attorney, he replied to a few interrogatories. He said the woman had repeatedly talked of committing suicide and once he had found her in her room lying under a sheet saturated with chloroform, and, pointing dramatically to the husband of the dead woman, he said: 'I have watched her every day since then to keep her from carrying out her threats, and her husband there knows that she has been addicted to the use of that drug.'

"Mr. Walker sat calmly through all of the proceedings without once interrupting a witness. He was an attentive listener, but gave no sign of any mental suffering. He said tonight the body would be taken to St. Paul, where it will be cremated, this being in accordance with the expressed wish of the woman.

"Whether it was jealousy or the impossibility of matrimonial union that caused the two young people to attempt their own destruction will probably never be known. The witnesses examined by the jury are all reticent. Perhaps there is another man in the case who has aroused jealousy, but if so his identity is being well guarded."

A dispatch to the World-Herald dated June 4 has the following:

"The tragedy occurred at the Lindell hotel between 1 and 2 o'clock this morning. The man and woman, who had been much in each other's company of late, were out far an hour or two last night, returning to the hotel shortly after 11. Later they were heard quarreling in Mrs. Walker's room.

"The last person who saw them prior to the suicide was W. U. Cleveland, a guest of the hotel, who, after calling at the woman's room, where she and Brink were together, went down to the lobby for a cigar. On returning he met her in the hallway near the room and she said: 'Bert has taken poison and I am going to,' at the same time raising a small vial to her mouth and swallowed its contents.

"She then ran to the room and threw herself on the bed. Cleveland quickly followed, and at once raised the alarm. Mustard and water forced down Brink's throat in copious quantities brought about his recovery. Physical force was necessary, however, to prevent his swallowing another dose.

"For the woman nothing could be done, and she was dead when Coroner Graham arrived at 2:20.

"Mrs. Walker was a small, delicate little woman of refined features.

"Brink is a good-looking young fellow, well known about town.

"Brink this morning is in a dazed and stupid condition, and refuses to discuss or comment on the events of last night.

Retrospect.

It is an evil day for the wife and mother when she scans her worn face in the mirror, and asks the question, "Does it pay? Does it pay to sacrifice health and happiness to wedded love?" But there is another question which rightly takes precedence of Does it pay? It is this: "Is it necessary to sacrifice health and happiness to wedded love?" Half a million women answer, No! They have been weak and have been made strong by Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. They were sick and "Favorite Prescription" made them well. It will do the same for almost every woman who gives it a fair and faithful trial. It stops weakening drains, heals inflammation and ulceration and cures female weakness. It tranqualizes the nerves and encourages the appetite.

"I expected to become a mother, and a threatened mischance greatly weakened me," writes Mrs. E. A. Nations, of Witts Springs, Searcy Co., Ark., "and my old disease returned. My husband got another doctor for me but I seemed to just drag along and get no better. At last I told the doctor that if his medicine did not help me I would go back to Dr. Pierce's medicines. I did so, and by the time I had taken them one month I could do my own housework, except washing, and tended my garden too. I was stouter than I had ever been while waiting baby's coming since my first baby came (this one was the sixth child). She is now eleven months old and is a healthy child. As for me, I feel as young now as I did at eighteen years of age; am thirty now. I can cheerfully recommend Dr. Pierce's medicine to all suffering womankind."

Doctor Pierce's Pleasant Pellets cure biliousness and sick headache.

To a close personal friend, however, he volunteered the information that, while he had been much with Mrs. Walker, there had been no criminal relations between them.

"'I know Brink to be a prince of honor,' said the gentleman to whom this statement was made, 'and, improbable as it seems, I implicitly believe it.'

"Mr. Cleveland, before whose very eyes the suicide of Mrs. Walker was committed, and who called on the couple during the evening, is a traveling man from St. Paul, Minn. He is very reticent concerning the tragedy, but declares that both Brink and Mrs. Walker were pretty well intoxicated when he saw them last night.

"'My acquaintance with either of them is very slight,' he said, 'and I am totally in the dark as to what led up to the suicide. It is my opinion, however, to speak plain, that it was probably the result of a drunken quarrel.'"

WHY IS IT?

Sturgeon Roe Is Sent to Russia and Shipped Back.

Two Duluth business men sat at lunch yesterday noon, and among the eatables on the table between them was some fancy caviare, which the Russians make out of the roe of the sturgeon.

"Say, but that's good," was the comment of one of the business men, as he tasted the foreign dish. "It's queer the Russians have such a monopoly on so excellent a food."

"You don't think it is half so queer as it really is," said the other. "In the first place, I don't agree with your taste, because I can't eat the stuff at all. But it may surprise you to learn that the chances are that that caviare was taken from fish caught within a couple of hundred miles of Duluth. That makes it even queerer than it was before, doesn't it?"

"Do you mean that it doesn't really come from Russia?"

"Not by any means. It comes from Russia all right, but it came from this country first. Up on the Rainy river there are large settlements that are supported almost entirely on the sturgeon roe industry. They are mostly Russians, with some Hollanders and they live by spearing sturgeon for their eggs, which they send to Russia, where the caviare is manufactured with some salt and other processes and ingredients that I am not familiar with. Perhaps if I knew more about this part of it I might like the caviare better; and then again perhaps I might not. But the sturgeon roe industry of the Rainy river country, and all the rivers of that section clear down to Port Arthur is a large one, and it supports quite an extensive population. It has always been a wonder to me that such an institution as the Booth Packing company did not get into this industry. If it has I have never heard of it. But it seems rather foolish to send the eggs clear to Russia and then have them sent back to be sold as caviare at a very high price. I do not see why it could not be prepared in this country just as well as in Russia, so long as there are people here that want to eat it.

The other business man was properly surprised at this information, for like practically all of the rest of the population of Duluth, it was the first he had ever heard of it. The well-informed business man, encouraged by his interest, proceeded to tell other things about the sturgeon. He said that they are not caught with hook or net, but speared, as they will not take a hook and would probably run off with any ordinary net. They can, he said, from fifty pounds up into hundreds. He had heard of one weighing 300 younds, and had seen one weighing 180.

THE GAS RECEIPTS.

Comparison Between This and Last Year's.

With the monthly bills sent out on June 1 by the water and light department, there is enclosed a card that bears a statement of the receipts of the gas plant for the year 1900 and the receipts during the first five months of this year. The comparative statement is a very satisfactory one and shows a gain in the consumption of the city's gas. It is as follows:

|---|---|---|---|
| January | $4,488.33 | $5,265.43 | $ 777.10 |
| February | 3,771.93 | 4,471.60 | 699.67 |
| March | 3,454.68 | 3,926.18 | 471.50 |
| April | 3,071.36 | 3,515.87 | 444.51 |
| May | 2,775.63 | 3,304.59 | 528.96 |
| Gained so far | | | $2,881.74 |

Land Office Receipts.

The receipts of the United States land office at Duluth during the month of May were very heavy, among the largest in the experience of the office, aggregating $25,651.52. This represented a total of 65,613.53 acres of land. Of this 375 entries covered homesteads, aggregating 39,859.64 acres. There were 125 cash entries for 8,795.24 acres and 219 final entries for 16,997.65 acres.

THE DOG CATCHER

His Life Is Not One Merry Round of Pleasure.

Discouraging Experience of One Officer of the Law.

Cheaper to Take Out License Than Pay a Fine.

The lot of a policeman on dog duty is not a happy one. One of the officers reported at headquarters yesterday afternoon with the seat of his trousers badly mangled. He called at a Polander home on the hillside to urge the licensing of a dog. The woman of the house hurled long stretches of foreign profanity at him, and the dog slipped up from behind and—did the rest.

However, the department has settled down in earnest to enforce the licensing of dogs. Dog owners have been more or less coy about taking out licenses this spring, and after a consultation at the city hall it was decided to arrest all persons refusing to take out the license.

The first arrest was made yesterday afternoon, when Harry Kennedy, a well known barber, was taken in custody. He had a female pup on exhibition, when the policeman on dog-watch called. When requested to pay a license of $5, Mr. Kennedy objected, saying that he had been informed that it was not necessary to license a dog under six months of age. He and the policeman argued, but the latter becoming weary of the conversation, went to the city hall and swore out a warrant.

In police court Mr. Kennedy was fined $5 and costs, making $7.50. In addition to this he had to pay $5 for the license and 25 cents fees, making a total expenditure of $12.75.

At another place the dog officer was informed that the owner did not care to pay a license, as he had been told by a member of the department that, after paying a license on one dog for ten consecutive years, he was exempt thereafter.

The officer replied that the only exemption he knew of was in the "hereafter," and another warrant is in sight.

This morning only 654 licenses had been taken out, and something like 1800 should have been taken out on May 1.

The officers say that they are having more difficulty than usual in convincing people that they ought to pay license for their dogs, but they intend to enforce the ordinance if they have to make 100 arrests a day till all the money is in.

For a male dog the owner gets off by paying $1.25 if the license is taken out voluntarily, but if an arrest is necessary the average cost is $8.75.

HOW TO SAVE.

One Large Insurance Company Drain Pointed Out.

Yesterday The Herald printed the substance of a statement in the report of Insurance Commissioner Dearth to the effect that the expenses of the insurance companies doing business in the state are to large as compared with the amount of premiums collected. Yesterday John Rogers, Jr., one of the well-known insurance men of St. Paul, pointed out one way in which he believed the companies could cut down some of their heavy expense. He said:

"If the companies would abolish the middlemen in Chicago and deal directly with their agents, they could make an enormous saving in expense, and do business more satisfactorily. There is a colony of insurance people in Chicago, calling themselves managers and drawing from $10,000 to companies will keep up two sets of general offices instead of one. These so-called managers not only draw big salaries, but the expenses of their establishments are heavy. Their principal function seems to be to make trouble for the local agents. When the company tries to make a cut in expenses, the Chicago manager saddles the burden on the local agents in the West. That causes dissatisfaction among the men who get the business. Often there is more or less of a row. The business could be conducted much more satisfactorily between the agent and the company direct, and the saving in the expense of management would be something enormous."

BRYAN SAYS

Supreme Court Decisions Do Not Settle the Questions.

Kansas City, June 6.—William J. Bryan addressed the Jackson County Democratic club, taking for his subject "The Outlook." The Auditorium, holding 1,500, was not large enough to meet the demands of the occasion.

Mr. Bryan was especially severe in his arraignment of the supreme court because of its decision. In part Mr. Bryan said:

"I stopped off to visit this club because I have heard that it is a harmonizing club, and we need just such clubs all over the country to resist the effort that is being made to convert the Democratic party into a Republican party.

"I believe we have the best government ever conceived by man and that it will remain the best government if the supreme court will leave it alone. In discussing the outlook for our party, I will say that the two things which we must ever advocate are organization and principles. A majority well organized is more effective than a majority unorganized. The organization must have the confidence of its supporters. We were well organized in 1896 and had the confidence of our supporters. I believe that our stand in 1896 saved the Democratic party from absolute annihilation. We were organized in 1900 and our supporters believed us to be honest. There were men, purporting to be Democrats, who did not support us during those two campaigns. Now these men are suggesting reorganization. These so-called reorganizers, who did not represent 20 per cent of our Democratic voters in 1896, and who represented a smaller percentage of our Democratic vote in 1900, would now dominate the party.

"If the supreme court decision on our insular possessions, by which nine men, by a majority of one, decided to convert this republic into an empire, had been given before the election, the result would have been different. The American people have not yet voted on imperialism. We charged it but they denied it. Since election the people have learned that our charge was right.

"We should not resort to expediency. Only principles will win. My philosophy is that I can afford to be in the minority, but I cannot afford to be wrong.

"The decision of the supreme court does not settle the question. As Abraham Lincoln said of the decision in the Dred Scott case, 'that decision was law in that case.' It takes more than five supreme court judges to annul the constitution of the United States. My objection to that decision is that you cannot carry out the logic of it without destroying the liberties of the peoples affected by it. Justice Brown says that the Porto Ricans can trust congress. We would not like to trust congress without our constitution. I do not object to imperialism because an emperor is necessarily bad, but because he denies the people their only source of power.

"The decision of the supreme court strikes at constitutional liberty. Justice Brown says that perhaps the Porto Ricans will have liberty of speech, liberty of the press and other liberties that we enjoy. I don't believe in 'perhaps' rights. Other nations have tried the doctrine of imperialism and none has escaped. There is no reason why this nation should not be perpetual. The wages of sin is death in a nation as in an individual, but when a nation is good it lives. If we abadon the declaration of independence and the constitution, we shall die. We must appeal to the conscience of the people. I want this to be a world power, but a power for good, not for evil. I don't want it to be great because its drumbeat can be heard around the world, but because its civilization can be felt everywhere.

"The time will come when the American people will become aroused and right the wrongs of Republican doctrine. If I were the only opponent of Republicanism in the United States, I should be glad to have the fact written on my tombstone."

OUTLOOK IS GOOD

All Sawmills Are Operating to Good Advantage.

The Cloquet Mills All Running at Full Capacity.

Contracts Soon to Be Let For New Railroad.

Reports from the outside mills show the general conditions among the lumbering manufacturing interests of the Northwest to be good and most of them will make a big cut this season. At Lake Nebegamain, the mill of the Nebagamon Lumber company is running steadily with two shifts of ten men each. The company has quite a large stock on hand and is having a good trade. The lumber company's logging road is being extended north from the Duluth, South Shore & Atlantic road to tap timber that no effort has before been made to reach. Three logging camps will be operated all summer. The company has built a long dock into the lake on which the cars are run to dump the logs. The Weyerhaeusers are making other improvements at their Lake Nebagamain property. A new office building is being erected near the mill with private rooms for the managers of the different departments.

All the mills at Cloquet are busy on what promises to be a prosperous season's run. Cloquet lumbermen say that the demand for white pine lumber is all that can be desired. The Johnson-Wentworth three-band sawmill is run night and day to its full capacity. The railroad companies are changing the location of the mill tracks to give the company more room for loading. The construction of the Brooks-Scanlon Lumber company's mill, three miles east of Cloquet, is under way. A large boarding house and a number of small houses for the employes have been completed. The mill will probably be ready for operation by midsummer.

On the city the Mitchell & McClure, Alger, Smith & Co.'s, Murray & Jones, Duncan & Brewer, Clark & Jackson mills are running day and night to their full capacity. The Merrill & Ring mill is also making night runs, but not to its full capacity. It is understood that the St. Louis Lumber company will also begin night runs as soon as its supply of logs will warrant it. The company has taken a contract to saw 8,000,000 feet of logs for W. H. Gilbert, of Ashland, and the logs are to be towed in from the south shore at once. The Murray & Jones mill is also cutting some of Mr. Gilbert's logs. Logs are being towed in large numbers to Duluth mills from north and south shore points and many tugs are employed in the industry.

The contracts are to be let very soon for the construction of the first fifty miles of the proposed Duluth, Virginia & Rainy Lake road, which is now under survey. An excellent route has been found for the road north of Virginia with a grade of less than 1 per cent and slight curvature. An immense pine timber country will be opened by this new line and of the 1,000,000,000 feet that will be available most of it is said to be controlled by the owners of the road. Minneapolis and Cloquet parties have a claim on some of the timber and the W. T. Bailey Lumber company, of Virginia, controls about 40,000,000 feet.

A pulpwod docks has been constructed at Two Harbors and several shipments have already been made to an Erie, Pa., paper company.

With other logging and lumbering concerns of the Northwest there is much activity manifest. Dowes & Simpson have commenced to haul 10,000,000 feet of logs from their headquarters near Hibbing to the Mississippi river. The work will take all summer. The Sturgeon River Lumber company has reopened one of its camps at Colby, on the Eastern Mesaba, and the Partridge river dam will be rebuilt and improved this summer. Doyle & Armstrong have entered on their contract to log 500,000 feet of pine for the Eddy Lumber company, near Iron River, Wis.

The heavy shipment of logs by rail into Minneapolis is a feature that is new to the people of that city. Two of the prominent lumber firms of that city will have about 60,000,000 feet of logs shipped in there this summer. The log receipts in Minneapolis are said to be about 500 cars a week. The Scanlon-Gipson company has already commenced to send its logs to Minneapolis and will put in a train load of forty-five cars every other day during the next three months.

FURTHER EXPANSION.

Steel Corporation to Absorb Other Interests.

New York, June 6.—The return of J. Pierpont Morgan will be followed by a further enlargement of the capitalization of the United States Steel corporation and also by the absorption of a number of other independent properties.

Negotiations already far advanced, foreshadow the purchase by the steel combine of additional iron and steel properties to the value of half a billion dollars.

According to the best information from inside sources practically all the big concerns outside the combination will be brought in.

The steel and shipbuilding interests now being consolidated will in turn be absorbed by the United States Steel corporation.

The Cambria Iron works and the Pennsylvania Steel works were absorbed today.

During the summer every corporation of consequence throughout the country including the Tennessee Coal and Iron company and the Colorado Fuel and Iron company will be annexed by the combine.

The Opinion of Judge In Ordering Verdict For Defendant.

Boston, June 6.—"I have examined this libel with great care, both while the arguments were going on and during the trial, and think the plaintiff has sustained her case, as I had already intimated on the matter of publication. As regards the publication in the church, there is no evidence that anyone there understood the alleged libel as applying to the plaintiff, so that she could not recover damages upon this count, because she had shown no injury from it.

"Taking the libel itself, I see nothing which can in any way be said to indicate the plaintiff in the first part of the libel. The only thing in the libel, it seems to me, which can by any reasonable interpretation be said to serve as means of identification are the words 'widow' and 'widowhood,' which occur in the latter part of the message. I have come to the conclusion that even that reference does not absolutely identify the plaintiff, and it seems to me that the plaintiff has not made out a case here which I can let go to the jury. I shall therefore be obliged to order a verdict for the defendant."

With these words in the superior court, Judge Charles U. Bell yesterday afternoon brought to a sudden and unexpected end the famous $150,000 libel suit brought by Mrs. Josephine Curtis Woodbury, of Boston, against Rev. Mary Baker Eddy, of Concord, N. H., the founder and present head of the Christian Science church.

A few minutes later a jury which had been excluded while arguments were being made was summoned into the court room. After explaining briefly the cause for this course, Judge Bell ordered the jury to find for the defendant, which it accordingly did in the usual form. Counsel for Mrs. Woodbury filed exceptions on all the questions passed upon. They have not decided upon a definite course of action, but authorized it to be stated that they expect to carry the case to the supreme court.

This far-reaching decision of Judge Bell was given in response to one of two motions offered by Mr. Elder, senior counsel for Mrs. Eddy, asking that a verdict for the defendant be ordered on the evidence as it stood. The other motion, which was not sustained, was that the two counts in the decision referring to the publication in the two Christian Science periodicals be stricken out.

ANOTHER DECLINE

Wheat Started Out Easy and Had an Early Decline.

Heavy Rains In the Northwest Were Chief Factor.

Weak Cables Were Also Conducive to Lower Prices.

Duluth Board of Trade, June 6.—Everything bearing on the growing wheat crop was bearish in its influence today and the price suffered in consequence. There were rains in all parts of the country, the weather was cool and in general the condition almost everywhere was reported to be ideal. The cables also were lower, Liverpool closing unchanged to ¾d lower. The opening was at a decline from yesterday and the market continued downward most of the morning. There was a reaction about noon but the strength was only temporary and the price sagged again. The seaboard reported 10 loads of wheat sold for export today. Primary receipts of wheat were 464,000 bus, last year 525,000 bus. Shipments 338,000 bus, last year 368,000 bus. Clearances of wheat and flour aggregated 610,360 bus.

Receipts at Duluth and Minneapolis, 311 cars, against 428 last year. Chicago receipts, 87 cars, none of contract grade.

Trading in futures was dull on the Duluth board. July wheat opened unchanged at 73⅝c, sold at 73⅞c at 10:35, reacted to 73c at 11:30, touched 74¼c at 12 and then sold steadily downward, closing at 73⅜c, a decline of 1¢.

Chicago July showed a decline of 1⅝c and Minneapolis ⅝-¾c. The declines in September were much the same as those in July.

Cash sales were 35,000 bus at 1¢ under July.

September flax was off 2c and October up the same amount today. Corn in Chicago was weak. The price of oats at Duluth declined 1¢ and rye ½c.

Following are the closing prices:

THE CHICAGO MARKET.

Abundant Rainfall Lowered Prices of Wheat.

Chicago, June 6.—Abundant rainfall all over the Northwest proved conducive to lower prices in the wheat pit today. Trading was light. Prices were easier. There was quite a demand for September, on the Missouri crop report which presented a condition of 83 as against 91 last month. July wheat opened unchanged to ⅛c lower at 74⅜@75c and, on liberal offerings by longs, declined to 74⅛c, rallied to 74⅝c and again sold off to 73⅝c. Minneapolis and Duluth reported 311 cars, against 438 a year ago. Local receipts were 57 cars, none of contract grade.

After touching 74¾c July turned weak on continued liquidation and closed weak, 1⅜c lower at 73⅝c.

Corn was dull. July opened easier on rains 1@1⅛c lower at 44⅜c to 44⅛@44¼c and under a fair outside demand improved to 44⅝c. Local receipts were 416 cars, 40 of contract grade.

On improved weather conditions and lack of demand, July closed 1@1⅛c lower at 43⅜@43½c.

There was a show of firmness in the oat market notwithstanding report of rain. July oats opened ⅛c lower at 28c and advanced to 28⅛c. Local receipts were 206 cars.

In provisions ribs and lard were strong, but pork was weak. Commission houses were good buyers of the former commodities, July pork opened 5@7½c lower at $14.60 and on liberal receipts and lower prices for hogs, declined to $14.55. July lard opened 5c higher at $8.30 and advanced 2½c. July ribs opened 2½c higher at $7.57½ and improved 2½c.

Close: Wheat—June, 72⅝c; July, 73⅝c; September, 70¼@70⅝c. Corn—June, 42c; July, 43⅝@43¾c; September, 44½@44⅝c. Oats—June, 27⅝c; July, 27⅝c; September, 26½c. Pork—June and July, $14.62½; September, $14.70. Lard—June and July, $8.35; September and October, $8.37½. Ribs—June, July and September, $7.92½. Flax—Cash, Northwestern and No. 1, $1.71; September, $1.30; October, $1.26. MARKET GOSSIP.

Received over private wire of B. E. Baker, grain and stock broker, 307 Board of Trade, Duluth, Minn.:

Chicago, June 6.—The Missouri June wheat crop report makes the condition .83 against .97 last month. While the government report of June 10 is expected to reflect something of the same condition, the feeling is that the rains since June 1 have rather improved the prospects. Price Current says that spring and winter wheat are both promising, and that the damage to winter wheat the past month has been about 3 per cent. The tone of the market is soft and the tendency is for prices to drag. Manipulation of July is apparently at an end. Crop prospects are on the whole very favorable, and we see very little to encourage the expectation of higher prices. We think wheat is a sale on the bulges for the time being.

Liberal receipts, good local stocks, favorable weather for the growing crop and a poor cash demand, are the features of the corn situation. Corn has been manipulated so long that a good many people have bough it in the hopes of further liquidation. With favorable crop prospects, receipts are likely to continue at least fair, and there is no manipulation in sight. The tone of the market is weak and the tendency seems to be lower.

The oats market is soft, the weather is favorable. Crop prospects will improve.

In provisions, the principal strength was in lard, in which there has been better speculative buying the last few days on account of large shipments.

The Amalgamated Copper Company Favors Purchase of Stocks.

New York, June 6.—A meeting off shareholders of the Amalgamated Copper company was held in Jersey City today, at which 591,300 shares out of the total of 750,000 shares issued, were represented.

Resolutions to approve the purchase of the Boston and Montana and the Butte and Boston companies, were adopted, only 304 shareholders voting against it. Another resolution makes the carrying out of the plan subject to the approval of the chancery court.

The purchase price mentioned in the resolution is five and one-half shares of Amalgamated stock for one share of Boston and Montana and one and one-third shares of Butte and Boston stock. C. H. Venner, of Boston, opposed the adoption of the resolution. The absorption of the two Montana companies involves the increase of the capital of the Amalgamated Copper company from $75,000,000 to $155,000,000.

ANNUAL MEETING

Of Chicago & Northwestern Held at Chicago.

Chicago, June 6.—The annual meeting of the stockholders of the Chicago & Northwestern Railroad company was held here today and the usual semi-annual dividend of 3 per cent on common and the quarterly dividend of 1¾ per cent on preferred stock were declared.

Eugene Osborn, who for some time has acted as vice president in place of M. L. Sykes ,was formally elected to that position. The following directors were re-elected: Marvin Hughitt, N. K. Fairbank, James Stillman, Oliver Ames and Zenas Crane.

CONSPIRACY ALLEGED.

Bill In Equity Concerning Boston & Montana Stock.

Boston, June 6.—A bill in equity was brought before the Massachusetts supreme court today by J. Forester and John MacGinnis, against A. S. Bigelow, W. J. Lass and J. S. Bigelow, stockholders owning a majority of Boston and Montana stock, and Kidder, Peabody & Co.

The bill alleges conspiracy by the defendants to despoil the interests of the minority stockholders, as represented by MacGinnis and Forester.

The bill that Kidder, Peabody & Co., and the Bigelows and Ladd have entered into an unlawful agreement to acquire all the Montana stock and exchange it for Amalgamated stock 1 to 4. The bill also alleges that the deal is contrary to public policy, forbidden by common and state law, that the value of the Boston and Montana stock will be dissipated and forfeited to the state. A temporary injunction pending a hearing and a permanent injunction stopping the combination, was asked for Judge Knowlton granted an order of notice returnable June 11. The defendants agree not to transfer the Montana stock in their possession to the Amalgamated until after the hearing.

SOLDIER SUICIDES.

Magdalena, N. M., June 6.—John E. Ryan, who served with the First United States volunteer cavalry (Rough Riders) and was wounded in the battle of San Juan has committed suicide. He was hurt recently severely by a fall from his horse.

WEAKNESS IN STOCKS

Pressure to Sell Pronounced and Caused Sharp Losses.

Business Not on as Large Scale as of Late.

United States Steel Rallied Sharply Near the Close.

New York, June 6.—The stock market opened today with Rock Island and the Wisconsin Central stocks 2 points and Southern Pacific and Pacific Mail about a point higher. Otherwise changes were fractional and showed both gains and losses among the leading stocks with the gains predominating. The reduction of the Bank of England rate of discount did not serve to more than rally Americans in London from the early depression, except in the case of Denver & Rio Grande, which rose more than a point there.

Business was not on as large a scale as of late, but trading displayed its recent "spotty" characteristics. Prices rose generally after the opening, but the dealings in various groups were not uniform, some stocks rising a point or more and others merest fractions. Louisville was in demand and improved 2⅛. Atchison, Southern Pacific, Pennsylvania, Ontario & Western, Tobacco, St. Paul and Southern Railway pfd. were from 1 to 2⅜ higher at intervals, but did not maintain their best prices. Rock Island was feverish and after losing its 2 points again, recovered it speedily and dropped back again. Pullman was off 3 and Lake Erie & Western, 1. The market weakened all around before the end of the first hour. St. Paul losing 2½ and stocks amongst Pacifics, trunk lines and Louisvilles, a point or more.

The pressure to sell became more urgent and caused sharp losses compared with last night's prices. STOCK GOSSIP.

Town Topics to Jones & Co.—Traders are contesting the upward movement and the influence of their selling supplemented by profit-taking is sufficient to cause irregularity and for some stocks lower prices. The election of Morgan interests to the Atchison and the rights of the Rock Island stockholders to subscribe to the new issues at par are favorable speculative factors while more favorable crop news continued large railroad earnings, easy money and a small flowing supply of stocks are arguments against any decline of other than a temporary nature. We look for a heavy opening and some decline in the early trading to be followed by improvement before the close. Manipulation of the Tobacco stocks is to be expected and we advise leaving them alone. Amalgamated Copper will vote to increase capital stock today. Keep long of Southern Pacific, Union Pacific, Atchison, Steel and the Coalers. The low-priced shares are attractive for a speculative turn of a few points.

* * *

New York to Baker—The ease with which the market absorbs profit-taking sales encourages the belief entertained by some of the best commission houses that investment demand for securities is again of large volume. While, therefore, there is talk of a moderate reaction, these houses continue bullish and are advising purchase of medium priced stocks on recessions or on a scale, especially Southern Pacific, Erie, Reading, Wabash, Texas, Atchison common, Leather stocks and Steel. Increasing earnings is the great bull argument. That the last named securities are booked for a material rise is the confident belief of men closely identified with Morgan and Standard Oil contingent. Among the big high-priced railroad shares which continue in favor most conspicuous are Illinois Central and Pennsylvania. Heavy earnings and splendid dividend record of these stocks, it is argued by large operators, make them inviting investment propositions, especially Illinois Central, which is said is 15 to 20 points too low compared with other gilt-edge stocks.

New York up-town gossip to Jones & Co.—The action of the stock market yesterday indicated pretty clearly that it was being milked by the strongest financial interests in the country. Keene was the direct representative and has evidently been taking profits all this week on long stocks.

The advance of prices during the last fortnight has been sufficient to make selling of long stocks the proper and logical thing. This was particularly true from the standpoint of the large investor as the market was again rapidly taking on some of the boom features which preceded the May flurry. The volume of sales by the big people was heavier than the market could sustain. Room traders were not long in catching the drift of affairs.

The pressure of these sales and of the profit-taking by longs ultimately caused the execution of stop orders and hastened the declines. It is likely that there will be a gradual but steady reinstatement during the next few days of all the stock recently marketed. This will in time absorb all of the surplus stock and bring about a steady market.

It is expected that the Southern Pacific meeting today will declare a dividend of only 2 per cent per annum on the stock. People who have been enthusiastically bullish on the property for some time are now openly asserting that it is high enough and that they are unwilling to follow the advance any further. Lower Coalers are being absorbed and will do better. Morgan's return next week may possibly be the signal for another upward movement.

Bank statement Saturday will be less favorable, but funds are plentiful and cheap. The Bank of England discount rate was reduced to 3½ per cent this morning.

THE COTTON MARKET.

New York, June 6.—Cotton opened firm and up 1 to 6 points in sympathy with strong English cables and brisk foreign buying. Soon after the call local shorts became aroused to their predicament and in an effort to cover sent July to 8.05, August to 7.55, and October to 7.8. Liverpool continued to make steady gains and was a corstant buyer here all the first hour. Exporters supported July and August, but sold the far months as a hedge. Private cables stated that the covering of big Manchester short interests had caused the general buying movement abroad. Later in the morning, the market was off 4 to 6 points from the top, under sales for profits and some selling by room operators for a turn.

Cotton spot closed quiet and steady. Middling uplands, 8¼c; middling gulf, 8½c; no sales. Cotton futures closed quiet and steady. June, 7.98; July, 8.03; August, 7.93; September, 7.21; October, 7.15; November, 7.13; December, 7.14; January, 7.16; February, 7.17; March, 7.20.

THE IRON SITUATION

Indications Continue to Point to Easier Conditions.

Evidence That Heavy Buying Will Soon Be Resumed.

Short Ore Season Will Have Its Effect Later On.

Cleveland, June 6.—"Indications in the iron trade continue to point to easier conditions," says the Iron Trade Review this week. "That there is likely to be an early resumption of buying, appeals strongly to those who look for a continuance of the present basis and this view is reinforced by perhaps only heavy consumption. Two questions come up in attempting to judge whether the present rate will continue; the effect of the machinists' strike and the size of the year's crops. In certain localities the strike has cut down consumption, though the curtailment is not a large percentage of the material entering foundries and machine shops. There are signs that in these spots the struggle may be drawn out, with possibility of extensions through sympathetic strikes.

"Thus far the molders have kept at work, except as the idleness of connected machine shops compelled to shut down, and at the moment there is less trouble in foundries than for months with both sides disposed to secure an amicable settlement at the wage conference of next week. The crop factor has become more prominent in the week through the publication of less favorable reports.

"Beginning at the foundation of the iron industry, the Lake Superior iron ore situation is dominated by the pending facilities at Lake Erie docks. The backward spring and the engineers' strike have shortened the season by fully 15 per cent and while vessels are plentiful enough the lower lakes are crowded as never before, while cars seem even scarcer than in fact. This factor will not get much attention from the trade at large, but its importance may be more generally recognized as the season advances.

"In pig iron the weaker tendency heretofore noted continues, but business is too limited to reflect the real drift. The principal transaction of the past week was the purchase of 20,000 tons of Bessemer iron from Central Western furnaces for shipment to a Colorado steel works. The bulk of the order went to Central and Southern Ohio producers. In these valleys trade in Bessemer is practically at standstill, pending the placing of contracts by the United States Steel corporation for its supply in the second half. This buying, when it comes, may give the whole market such an impulse as was felt in February when the merchant furnaces in the valley took on so large a tonnage."

CADETS DISMISSED.

Two More Discharged From West Point.

West Point, N. Y., June 6.—Two cadets, members of the coming first class, were summarily dismissed from the United States military academy today. There are Stephen B. Verner, of Syracuse, N. Y., and Charles S. Perry, of Iowa. They were court-martialed upon a charge of having falsely obtained permission to leave the post. This permission having been granted them they were subsequently detected by an officer drinking at a bar in Newburg. They were dismissed without travel pay and started for home immediately.

Fifty-six of the senior young men who were appointed cadets to the military academy since March 1 last reported for their entrance examinations today. Private Calvin P. Titus, made famous by scaling the wall at Pekin, has until July 25 to present himself for examination.

CABLE FLASHES.

A convention of 4000 tenant farmers of Ulster county, held Wednesday afternoon, passed a resolution in favor of compulsory sale of land, after Thomas M. Russell, M. P., parliamentary secretary of the local government board, had made a speech denouncing the system of dual ownership.

The report from St. Petersburg circulated by a news agency in the United States that the inhabitants of the castle village of Irbeisky on the Yenisei river, had been massacred by Russian peasants in revenge for horse stealing, appears to be founded upon an inconsequent affair published a fortnight ago in a Siberian paper.

According to a special dispatch from Pekin dated June 5, Father Pesmie, an Italian priest and fourteen other priests have been massacred at Ning Tio Liang, in Southern Mongolia.

Mrs. Agnes McKay, of 125 Nineteenth avenue, says: "For some years I suffered from kidney complaint, and although I tried different remedies, I did not succeed in getting anything to effectually rid me of the trouble. I had constant heart bearing-down pains across the small of my back so that I could hardly get around, and at night I could not rest well. The kidney secretions were irregular, highly colored, and deposited a heavy sediment. I also suffered from severe and persistent headaches. On being advised to try Doan's Kidney Pills, I procured them at W. A. Abbett's Drug store, and used them. They relieved me of the pains and restored the action of the kidney secretions to their normal state."

When a good physician prescribes beer for a patient it is Schlitz beer. A physician knows the value of purity.

Ask him how germs affect beer and he will tell you that few stomachs can digest them. He will say at once that impure beer is unhealthful.

ALL "MOONSHINE."

Story That Teutonic Was Racing St. Paul.

London, June 5.—The Teutonic reached Queenstown at 2:10 o'clock today, and it was a surprise to her officers and passengers when they heard it reported that she had been racing with the American line steamer, St. Paul, which left New York the same day as the Teutonic, and which passed Hurst Castle at 2:30 p. m. today. John W. Mackay said such a suggestion had never been heard throughout the voyage and that so far as he knew no one on board was trying to reach London in time for the chamber of commerce banquet this evening. They did not see the St. Paul throughout the voyage.

Capt. McKinsley declares that the stories of the alleged race between the two steamers were all "moonshine."

Rich Mrs. Doebler of New York In Sioux Falls.

Architect Mead Was There and Gossips Are Busy.

The Deserted Husband Says His Boy Was Kidnapped.

New York, June 6.—Why has rich Mrs. Doebler left her husband? Is she to be allowed to retain possession of their little son Jack? Are there to be South Dakota divorce proceedings?

These and many other questions are asked in Moorestown, N. J. Mrs. Doebler has left her beautiful home, taking her 6-year-old boy Jack with her. A telegram says that she is in Sioux Falls, S. D., with the boy. Meanwhile, the grave, elderly husband stays alone at his deserted home, morose, gruff and unapproachable.

The Doeblers are wealthy. Mr. Doebler, who is 45, is traffic agent for the Pennsylvania railroad, with offices in the Bourse building, Philadelphia. Mrs. Doebler, beautiful Camille Heulings that was, is the daughter of old Israel Heulings, richest man in Moorestown, who left $50,000 ten years ago, invested in gilt-edged securities that are now worth $250,000. She is 32 years old.

The heiress had a host of admirers, but she would have none of them. In rapid succession she gave the mitten to a rich young Philadelphian, a manufacturer of Burlington, N. J., a nobleman with a long pedigree and a short purse, and a well to do Swedish business man. Her life with horses, dogs, plenty of friends and plenty of money contented her.

But one day she lost her heart to the tall, middle-aged and well-connected railroad official who went to live in Moorestown. The marriage was the social event of the town in 1895.

At first the Doeblers were very happy. They entertained extensively. They went to live in one of the Heulings houses, but as it wasn't big enough for their needs. So Mrs. Doebler commissioned Frank E. Mead, of Keen & Mead, Philadelphia, to build a new home for them and the little baby boy who had come to the couple.

Mead is 32, intellectual and good looking. He was just back from a tour of Egypt and full of lore of the land of the lotus. At first he wanted to model the house after one of the tombs of the Pharaohs, but Mr. Doebler objected. Instead he was allowed to confine his Eastern ideas to the interior. So he built a quaint, old-fashioned exterior, set in a garden of by-gone days, tricked out with diminutive flower beds and brick walks, all running back to a country lane.

Inside the house was a marvel of weird effect. The dining room had no chairs, but low benches fastened to the floor. All the furniture was in Egyptian style. In the drawing room low benches took the place of sofas, and piles of rugs and cusions on the floors played the part of the chairs. Sombre colors and dust-stained rafters made one feel creepy in the place.

But Mrs. Doebler was delighted. When Mead fell ill of a fever, aggravated by a nervous disorder, Mrs. Doebler insisted on having him cared for in her home. For seven weeks Mr. Mead enjoyed the Doebler hospitality, but one night not long ago, when Doebler returned from his day's business in the city, he found the house dark and deserted—the servants discharged and his wife and little boy Jack gone.

Next the husband heard they were in Sioux Falls, with a residence there. After a time he got a letter. It told him Jack was well and in school. Each week he gets a message about the boy. Friends of the wife have received letters telling them that she intends to get a Dakota divorce after six months' residence.

"I shall not make a statement at this time," said Mr. Doebler yesterday, "other than to declare that my boy has been abducted and taken to a foreign state by his mother. I assure you that I insist that I am entitled to become his guardian."

IN SIOUX FALLS ALL RIGHT.

Sioux Falls, S. D., June 6.—Mrs. John H. Doebler, of Moorestown, N. J., is here with her son, a boy of 6. She came here with a Mr. Mead and engaged rooms at the same fashionable boarding place. Mr. Mead left last week. The mother looks sad and worried. It is understood she is here to secure a divorce.

NAVAL GRADUATES.

Wisconsin Boy Leads In This Year's Class.

Annapolis, Md., June 6.—The final standing of the graduating class of naval cadets has been determined. This embraces the marks in every subject for the four year's course. The highest mark obtainable is 76.

Julius A. Furer, of Wisconsin, leads with a mark of 682.38, and William B. Fogarty, of Ohio, is second, with 679.99. Until recently it was thought that Fogarty would lead, but Furer forged ahead.

The first six members are "star" members—that is, they obtained 85 per cent or over of the possible high mark. The remaining four of the "stars" are Clarence A. Conway, of Michigan, 673.74; Ernest J. King, of Ohio, 67.5; Sidney M. Henry, of New York, 665.37, and Isaac Yates, of New York, 617.21. The three next highest were: Seven, Boyd Long, of California; nine, Alfred G. Howe, of Indiana; ten, George C. Westervelt, of Texas.

BRIEF TELEGRAMS.

A gang of section men working below Beloit, Iowa, on the Illinois Central unearthed fourteen human skeletons from an embankment. They had evidently been buried for many years as a number of bones fell to pieces when exposed to the atmosphere. Parties who have resided here for fifty years cannot explain the mystery.

Justice David J. Brewer, of the United States supreme court, and Miss Emma Minor Mott, were married at Burlington, Vt., Wednesday afternoon.

Garry Hermann worked a mile at Hawthorne and pulled up bleeding badly. The colt will probably never face the starter again.

Mrs. Harold Erickson, aged 35, and her sister-in-law, Miss Ella Erickson, were killed by a Northwestern train in Beloit, Wednesday afternoon, while driving over a crossing.

At Cedar Rapids, Iowa, during Wednesday morning's storm a street car was blown out on the main line at the north end of the B. C. R. & N. yards in that city and the Chicago & St. Louis express struck it. The engine, tender and two cars were derailed. Fireman Ralph Price, of Iowa City, was instantly killed. Not a passenger was hurt.

Chief Whiteboy, of the Winnebago Indians, has mysteriously disappeared and it is feared that he has met with foul play. Some time ago Whiteboy's daughter was abducted by a young Indian named John Waukon. Since that time there has been a feud between Whiteboy and John Waukon and his brother, and many threats have been made on both sides.

Oshkosh and surrounding sections was visited Wednesday night by the worst cyclone that it has known in years. The rain fell like a cloudburst and the wind blew a gale. As far as the city is concerned, it escaped with the blowing down of trees and poles and the leaving of some portions of the city in darkness.

The grand lodge of Wisconsin Independent Order of Odd Fellows will meet next year in La Crosse. A. F. Brandt, of Sparta, was elected grand master; Samuel J. Shafer, of Colby, deputy grand master; H. H. Stewart, of West Superior, grand warden; Richard Hoe, of Milwaukee, grand secretary; David Adler, of Milwaukee, grand treasurer; Charles Barker, of Milwaukee, grand chaplain; F. S. Woodworth, of Weyauwega, representative to the sovereign grand lodge, and David Turner, of Milwaukee, trustee for three years.

TOLD BY KIPLING.

Poem on Loneliness of South African Guards.

London, June 6.—Rudyard Kipling, who is spending the winter in South Africa, sends to the Times a poem with the title of "Bridge Guard in the Karroo," which realizes finely the sense of detachment from the world which overcomes the small stationery posts guarding the railway from Cape Town to Kimberley through the vast, untenanted Karroo desert. The following verses picture their feelings nightly as they await the passing of "the wonderful" north-bound train:

"Few, forgotten and lonely, where the white car windows shine;
No, not combatants; only details guarding the line.
Quick, ere the gift escape us, out of the darkness we reach
For a handful of week-old papers and a mouthful of human speech.
And the monstrous heaven rejoices and the earth allows again,
Meetings, greetings, and voices of women talking with men."

DEATH AND REVENGE

Tragic Tale Aired In an Indian Case at Omaha.

An Indian Offers His Own Life as a Sacrifice.

To Relatives of His Victim and Is Promptly Killed.

Omaha, Neb., June 6.—The trial of Adam Forrester now proceeding before the federal court has disclosed a tragic story of death and revenge on the Ponca Indian reservation.

Forrester is accused of having sold liquor to two Indians out of whose drunken revel has arisen a feud dividing the whole tribe.

Among the aborigines vengeance is believed to be the exclusive right of aggrieved humanity.

In the case of Perry Larvier, of the Ponca tribe, this conviction was so faithfully recognized that he deliberately proffered his own life as a sacrifice to the relatives of his victim.

The testimony shows that Forrester operated an ingenious slot machine near Niobrara, Neb., in which an Indian might insert a five dollar bill and receive from the apertures beneath a keg of beer, the landlord being shielded by a wooden partition.

A number of Ponca braves, headed by Perry Larvier, Peter Bird Head and John Running-After-Arrow, had played the ingenious device and had carried off their keg in triumph.

The prize was taken to Bird Head's home, where the contents were drained.

As a result a young buck became intoxicated and ugly. Young Bird Head and Perry Larvier had always been fast friends, but they took sides in the quarrel and Bird Head drew a knife to emphasize his remarks.

In the heat of liquor Larvier responded by shooting Bird Head in the face, killing him instantly.

Shocked into a state of sobriety by the enormity of his crime, Larvier did not flee from the spot but walked into the Bird Head home, where he found the dead man's father and grandmother.

To the latter, known as Takes the Pelts, Larvier handed his revolver, saying: "I have killed my friend. Now kill me so that I may go with him."

The enraged and grief-stricken grandmother did not accept this act as a pretense to win compassion. To her it was the demand of an inexorable law of justice. She took the revolver from Larvier's hand and shot him through the heart.

Takes the Pelts was arrested and has ever since been confined in the Douglas county jail awaiting trial for the murder of her grandson's slayer.

She is an old woman of hard countenance and is credited with having lifted more than one scalp along the overland trail.

Forrester denies any responsibility for the beer delivered through the huge slot machine.

Although he operated a brewery in the neighborhood he claims that the beer was delivered by an outside party with whose business he was in no way identified.

Brings peace, comfort, mental and physical happiness to the whole family, if taken this month. Nothing half so good as Rocky Mountain Tea. 35 cents. Ask your druggist.

at twenty-five; it's a sad story, but oh, too true in the lives of young people everywhere.

Many, born of good parents, with health and prospects at hand, start in life with every advantage for success and happiness. One fails in business; another retires from society; still another ages suddenly and becomes an object of pity, and thus it goes—not many reaching a ripe old age with a sound mind and body. There could be more if proper steps were taken in time to check the deathly gnaw of weakening drains, which sap the strength and good looks of young men and women.

MARKED INCREASE

Shown In Importations of Merchandise Into the Philippines.

A Gain of Seventy-Two Per Cent Shown Over 1899.

Statistics From Insular Department Which Are Highly Suggestive.

Washington, June 6.—Importations of merchandise into the Philippines for the first three quarters of 1900 showed an increase of $658,321, or 72 per cent over the amount for the same period of 1899, according to the statement made public by the division of insular affairs of the war department today. During the period stated of 1900, merchandise to the value of $1,571,972 came into the Philippines from the United States, while in 1899 the figures were $913,651.

The total value of merchandise imported from all countries from January to October of 1900 was $17,187,991 as against $14,163,242 during the same period of the preceding year. This shows an increase of $3,024,749 or 21 per cent. European and Asiatic countries combined sent over $15,000,000 worth of the total importation in 1900. An interesting fact is noted in the shape of an import trade worth $3002 from Africa in 1900, as against an entire absence of this trade the preceding year. The above figures relative to the imports from the United States represent direct shipments only and do not include merchandise from the United States invoiced to Hong Kong and thence reshipped to Manila.

The comparative figures as to exports to the rest of the world show an increase double that noted in the import trade. The merchandise exported from the Philippines to other countries in 1900 was valued at $17,883,200; for 1899 it was valued at $11,993,011, thus showing an increase of $5,890,189 or 49 per cent. The exports to the United States, however, showed a decrease of $726,949 in 1900 as compared with the same period of 1899, while on the other hand the exportations to European, Asiatic, African and South American countries showed material increases in each case, the exports to Europe increasing from $4,437,887 in 1899 to $9,550,103 in 1900. Merchandise to the value of $1467 was exported to South America in 1900 as against no trade of this sort in 1899. The exportation of hemp from the Philippines during the first three quarters of 1900 were valued at $10,243,742 against $6,403,980 during the same period of 1899.

THE DAKOTAS

Pepke Is About Discouraged Concerning His Philippine Diamonds.

Fargo—The failure of the United States supreme court to decide the diamond case of Emil J. Pepke has discouraged that young man and he has practically abandoned hope of recovering his gems. Less than thirty years of age, Pepke enjoys the distinction of being before the United States supreme court in two different actions. Some years ago certain Minnesota and Eastern whisky interests wished to test the validity of the North Dakota prohibitory law and induced young Pepke to act as their representative in opening a blind pig at Grafton. He was arrested and the case carried to the highest court of the land, where it was decided on a technicality. When the war was begun with Spain, Pepke went to the Philippines and accumulated some money which he invested in diamonds. On his return his big display of "sparks" in Chicago led to his arrest as a suspected diamond thief and in establishing his innocence on that charge the fact was developed that he had paid no duty on the gems he brought from Manila. The present suit in the United States supreme court is the result of his efforts to prevent the confiscation of the diamonds.

The heavy downpour of rain Wednesday caused the adandonment of the entire first day's program for the fire festival. The military parade will either be held Thursday afternoon or doubled up in the afternoon with the industrial. All the decorations are ruined. The rain continued for some hours and is general all over the state. The crowds are good natured and are making the best of the situation. The clever manner in which J. F. Jenson of the North Dakota agricultural college won the interstate oratorical honors has greatly elated the students of the college and Fargoans generally.

Jamestown—The city council has made a contract with P. J. Stacy for the deepening of an artesian well drilled over a year ago. The well is now 1450 feet deep. The city voted $10,000 bonds some time since for the purpose and these will be sold. Nearly $10,000 has already been expended on the well.

Minnewaukan—All day rain succeeded by a heavy snow, fell Wednesday. An inch and a quarter of general rain fell Tuesday and Wednesday.

SOUTH DAKOTA.

Millbank—Governor Herreid has made two regimental appointments from Company K of this city in the South Dakota State Guard, as follows: Capt. R. W. Heins to be major, and Sergt. Bertin E. Gamble to be assistant engineer, with the rank of major. Majs. Heins and Gamble have had several years' experience in military life.

Rapid City—Mrs. J. S. Gantz, one of the pioneer women of the Black Hills, has gone to Nome, Alaska, with a large stock of millinery goods. She has made similar trips before. She was accompanied by her two children.

Canton—The new $20,000 hotel to be built by Otto A. Rudolph, a retired capitalist, is now assured. Cashier O. K. Brown of the Lincoln County bank, C. M. Seely of the Hotel Harlan, and Postmaster James Lewis circulated the subscription list and succeeded in raising the $2500 bonus asked. The hotel will be built at Fifth and Lincoln streets. It will have all modern conveniences such as sewerage, waterworks, electric lights, telephone connections, elevators and steam heat.

Aberdeen—David Jumper, a nephew of Postmaster Jumper, writes from the Philippines that the country presents great inducements for young men with brains and small capital and that the climate compares favorably with that of the gulf states. The whole country is in an undeveloped condition, but Europeans seem to appreciate the advantages more than Americans and are getting in on the ground floor. Mr. Jumper tramped all over Luzon with his regiment and is now engaged in the customs department.

Deadwood—Over $3000 has been raised by popular subscription among business men for the quarto-centennial carnival in July. It is expected that the amount will be doubled.

TRUNK BLEW UP.

Boy Had Packed It With Some Explosives.

New York, June 6.—When the steamer Monmouth of the Sandy Hook line discharged its load of shore resort passengers with the great piles of trunks on the long piers at Atlantic Highlands, one of the trunks which had just been thrown into the baggage car of a train for Seabright, suddenly exploded with a terrific crash that jarred the pier and shook the train for half its length. Andrew Keener, the baggagemaster of the train, who was handling the trunk, was hurled half way across the car and badly injured. He was burned more or less from head to foot and among other injuries had a rifle bullet through his leg, which had come from a number of loose cartridges in the trunk.

Two other baggage handlers who had helped lift the trunk in and were standing on the pier with their heads a little above the level of the baggage car door were also badly singed by the great sheet of flame which shot out the car door.

The hair of one of these men was burned completely off below the line where his cap fitted about his head. The hair and whiskers of the other were also singed.

The trunk was torn to bits and dangerous splinters were sent flying from the floor inside the car. The clothing with which the trunk was partly filled was on fire and, with the remains of the trunk was tossed out on the pier, where the fire was put out. It was ascertained that the trunk was the property of some member of the family of C. F. Naething, whose place of business is at 118 Fulton street, and who lives at 267 West Seventy-second street.

Mr. Naething said: "The trunk belonged to my boy, and what on earth he could have put into it I cannot imagine. He was permitted to pack it himself, but none of us dreamed of his putting explosives in it."

It is believed that the boy, in addition to the rifle cartridges, had either loose powder or fireworks in his trunk in preparation for the Fourth of July.

Discussed Philippine and Cuban Affairs For Two Hours.

Washington, June 7.—The cabinet meeting today lasted more than two hours. Although at the conclusion of the meeting those who were present, were unusually reticent, it is known that the time was consumed principally in a discussion of the Philippine and Cuban affairs. The president and his advisers considered an executive order about to be issued with respect to the establishment of civil government in the Philippines. To what extent the executive order goes is not known at this time.

PELL DIED.

The Actor's Shot Proved Fatal to Him.

Cleveland, June 7.—Horace Pell, the actor, who yesterday shot himself at the Wyandotte, died early this morning at Huron street hospital. Pell took a turn for the worse early in the morning, from which attack he never recovered. His relatives and friends have been notified. "I know I'm going to die," moaned Pell, as he lay on a cot at Huron street hospital last night. For a time it was believed the actor would recover from the wound, but it was impossible to tell just to what extent he had been injured internally. For seven hours before his death he was conscious. He had been placed under the influence of an opiate he kept repeating the statement that he was going to die and that nothing could save him. He kept silence as to the cause of his attempt on his life.

Physicians Opposed to Anti-Canteen Law.

Result of Careful Study and Observation.

St. Paul, June 7.—By unanimous vote, although with small attendance, the American Medical association, this afternoon, adopted the report endorsing the movement for the re-establishment of the army post canteen. The committee on legislation, through the chairman, Dr. H. L. E. Johnson, presented a report reciting the resolutions adopted by the military surgeons last week, and continuing:

"We have carefully considered the resolution proposed and declare it to be wise and proper and of importance to every citizen of the republic.

and invalidism among the soldiers of careful study and observation by the medical department of the United States army, is concurred in by the commanding officers at the several posts, and is intended to correct serious abuses under the present law which result in drunkenness, desertion, insubordination, dishonorable discharge, crime, poverty, appalling increase in venereal disease

"The resolution is the outgrowth of the United States army.

"We find that the experience of foreign governments coincides with that of the National Association of Military Surgeons, in the necessity for the army post exchange or canteen.

"We recommend that the American Medical association adopt the resolution proposed, and that you petition the congress of the United States to repeal, at the earliest moment, the objectionable law, which prohibits the army post exchange."

The resolution adopted is as follows:

"Resolved, that this body deplores the action of congress in abolishing the army post exchange or canteen, and in the interests of discipline, morality and sanitation recommends its re-establishment at the earliest possible date."

During today's session, Dr. George M. Kober, of Washington city, read an address on "Hygiene and Sanitation." Dr. Judson Deland, of Philadelphia, was appointed a delegate to represent the American Medical association at the world's congress on tuberculosis at London in July. Resolutions were adopted expressing thanks to John D. Rockefeller for his gift for scientific research of $200,000.

Embassy From Sultan of Morroco Brings Congratulations and a Few Horses, Mules and Sheep to the King.

London, June 7.—A special embassy from the sultan of Morocco, bearing congratulations to King Edward, on his accession to the throne, created considerable interest on its arrival here today. The embassy, which is headed by Kaid El Mehedi El Menebehi, the minister of war, numbers twenty-nine persons, including the ambassador's two wives. When the deputation was officially received at the Portsmouth pier by Admiral Aldrich and Gen. Sir Edward Russell the reception was abruptly suspended to allow the ladies, closely veiled, to pass down the gang plank to the sumptuous special train, all being obliged to retire, meantime. During the drive in royal carriages, from Victoria station, this city, the ladies were also carefully secluded, the attendants and others turning their backs while the ladies entered and left their carriages. The ambassador brings King Edward two rare Atlas mountain sheep, 20 Arab horses and twenty mules. The official reception will take place Monday.

Regis challenged Laberdesque in consequence of an article which the latter wrote in La Petite Republique. There was a second duel, simultaneously, in another part of the park, between a writer on Temps and another newspaper man. It resulted in the former being slightly wounded in the thigh by a pistol shot.

EXCHANGE AMENITIES

The Lord Mayor of London Jollies American Guests.

Morris K. Jessup of New York Returns the Compliment.

Andrew Carnegie Was the Center of Attraction Throughout.

London, June 7.—The lord mayor, Frank Green, and the sheriffs received the delegates of the New York chamber of commerce at the Mansion house today. About twenty of the delegates were presented to the lord mayor and were shown over the Mansion house. A number of members of the London chamber of commerce, including Lord Brassey and Sir Albert K. Rollit, were present.

The lord mayor addressed the Americans, thanking them in the warmest terms for their visit and declaring that nothing could have done more to promote a perfect understanding and unity between the two greatest nations of the world. He alluded to Morris K. Jessup's reference, in his speech at the banquet Wednesday, to the impossibility of jealousy existing between the United States and Great Britain, as one of the truest things ever said.

Lord Brassey spoke in a similar strain.

Mr. Jessup, in replying, said: "Your kindness has captivated our hearts. We are not worthy of it."

Loud cries of "No," in which some of the Americans joined, followed Mr. Jessup's remarks.

Mr. Jessups then referred to his fellow delegates as "children of the great country," and concluded with expressions of fervent thanks for their reception.

The lord mayor proposed the healths of King Edward and President McKinley, coupling with the latter a heartfelt wish for Mrs. McKinley's recovery.

Andrew Carnegie was the center of attraction throughout. After the ceremonies the lord mayor went up to him and said he especially wanted to shake hands with Mr. Carnegie, who said: "In New York, in my young and poor days, when I read about Dick Whittington, I little thought I should stand here shaking the lord mayor's hand."

The lord mayor replied: "We read nothing else today but of Mr. Carnegie's splendid gifts, and in the name of the English people, I want to thank you for your unexampled generosity."

The delegates were then entertained at an informal luncheon, in Salters hall, by the London chamber of commerce.

He was one of the early promoters of the Republican party and an intimate friend of Horace Greely.

Bernhardt will play in English, and after the American tour the two actresses will appear here and on the continent.

Mme. Bernhardt has taken Mr. Frohman's prompt-copy in manuscript and will study the role in English during the summer. It is the desire of both managers to have Mme. Bernhardt appear as Romeo, following her coming production of "Theodora" at the Sarah Bernhardt theater in Paris.

Before Miss Adams returns to America she will meet Mme. Bernhardt in Paris and go over the scenes of the first act.

BIG COMPANY

Organized By Towne, McMillin and Hogg.

Towne Buys Oil Land For Another Syndicate.

Austin, Texas, June 7.—(Special to the Herald.)—It was announced here today that ex-Senator Charles A. Towne, of Minnesota, Governor Benton McMillin of Tennessee and ex-Governor J. S. Hogg are members of a company now being organized which proposes to develop their holdings in the Beaumont oil field on a most extensive scale. The capital stock of the company will probably be $5,000,000, and it proposes to put down a large number of oil wells and to build and operate oil pipe lines and refineries. The men are now at Beaumont.

In addition to his interest in this company, Mr. Towne yesterday purchased for another syndicate in which he is interested one quarter of an acre of land in the proven oil field, paying $25,000 for it.

Speaking of his business today, Mr. Towne said: "I have retired from politics for good and shall devote my time hereafter to making money. I think it is my duty to provide for a competency for myself and family."

An examination of Mrs. McKinley's blood was made under the direction of the physicians and showed negative results, there being no evidence of blood poison. This examination was made to determine the character of her illness. The blood was taken from her arm last Tuesday.

AVAILABLE HARBORS

Surveys of Cuba Show But Few at Most Strategic Points Which Are Suitable For Coaling and Naval Stations.

Washington, June 7.—The naval surveys which have been in progress for some time along the coast of Cuba have disclosed the most available harbors for coaling and naval stations, in case these are established in accordance with the Platt amendment. The Eagle, Yankton and Vixen have been conducting these surveys for many months, and most of the main harbors are now completed. Probably the most important points are Cape San Antonio, at the extreme western extremity of Cuba, and Cape Maysi, at the extreme eastern end. At Cape Maysi it has been found that there is a reef running far out into the water, and that there is no suitable harbor within about fifty miles from the cape. The bay of Nipe appears to afford the most available harbor in that locality. At the other extremity of the island it has been found that Cape San Antonio has no harbors of any kind in its immediate vicinity suitable for a naval or coaling station. This locality is regarded as extremely important from a naval and strategic standpoint, as it commands the Yucatan passage. Most of the large harbors along the northern and southern coast have been surveyed and charted, those of Cienfuegos and Guantanamo apparently being among the best on the southern coast. These surveys have proceeded without any reference to the political questions relating to Cuba, although the work already accomplished will be serviceable when these political relations are finally determined.

WERE ALL AMERICANS

Another of Britain's Great Racing Trophies, Oaks Stakes, Captured By Cap and Bells II, Owned By Foxhall Keene.

London, June 7.—Another of Britain's great racing trophies has been captured by an American, Foxhall P. Keene having won the Oaks with Cap and Bells II. ridden by Milton Henry. The owner, horse and jockey, are all thoroughbred Americans, so the victory was not diluted, as it was in the case of the Derby. Yesterday long odds were obtainable against the American horse, but the odds shortened this morning, until Cap and Bells II stood at the head of the list and started at 9 to 4 against. The hollowness of the victory detracted from the interest in the race.

The conditions of the race were as follows: The Oaks stakes of 4500 sovereigns, by subscription of 50 sovereigns each, for 3-year-old fillies, to carry 126 pounds each, about one mile and a half. The following was the result in detail: Foxhall Keene's bay or brown filly, Cap and Bells II, Domino-Ben, My Chree, first, Lord Ellesmere's brown filly St. Brinetta, Kilwarlin-Sabra, second; Richard Croker's bay filly Minnie Dee, Fitzsimmons-King's daughter, third. Twenty-one horses ran.

Noonday II, the winner's stable companion, ridden by Turner, led to the straight, where Marsh Cress and Arta fell, and Cap and Bells II drew to the front and won in a canter by six lengths. Two lengths separated second and third horses.

The betting was: Cap and Bells II, 9 to 4 against; Sabrinetta, 50 to 1 against; Minnie Dee, 10 to 1 against. C. Jenkins rode Sabrinetta and L. Reiff had the mount on Minnie Dee, another American bred horse, owned by Richard Croker. The race furnished evidence of the superiority of the American horses. Punctillo, a chestnut filly owned by Sir E. Vincent and ridden by Lester Reiff, won the Acorn stakes of 1000 sovereigns for 2-year-old fillies, at five furlongs. Fourteen horses ran.

LIBERAL GIFT.

Rockefeller Thanked For Donation to Medical Association.

St. Paul, June 7.—A gift of $200,000 from John D. Rockefeller for the furtherance of scientific research along medical and surgical lines was gratefully accepted by the executive committee of the American Medical association. This gift, as the committee was informed, has been tendered through Dr. William H. Welch, of Johns Hopkins university, Baltimore, chairman of the association's committee. The details of the benefaction are not known to the committee. At the conclusion of its session the executive committee adjourned sine die. Its place will be taken henceforth, under the plan of reorganization, by the house of delegates, which will be charged with all association business.

VOLUNTEERS ALL STARTED.

DIED ON HONEYMOON.

Hugh Tevis of California Dead at Yokohoma.

Denver, June 7.—Former Governor Baxter of Wyoming received a cablegram today from his daughter, Mrs. Hugh Tevis, now at Yokohoma, announcing that her husband is dead. The cablegram gave no particulars. Miss Cornelia Baxter was married to Hugh Tevis, of San Francisco, a few weeks ago in California. They sailed for Yokohoma on their honeymoon tour.

San Francisco, June 7.—Hugh Tevis was the second son of Lloyd Tevis, of this city, and one of the heirs of the vast estate left by that multi-millionaire. He was 30 years old. During his college days at Harvard, while participating in a mile foot race he exerted himself to such an extent as to injure his heart action. This, it is supposed, was the primary cause of death.

Tevis was a member of the leading clubs here and his romantic marriage to Miss Baxter recently caused a stir in California and Colorado society.

Tevis' first wife died several years ago. A daughter of 9 years survives.

ASSAULTS.

An Unusual Large Number Develop In Police Court Today.

In the matter of committing assault and battery there are certain verdant citizens of this town who seem to be drifting back to the age of barbarism.

A rapier thrust at sunrise, a spot of red upon a satin doublet, a happy widow—an affair among gentlemen—there is some delicacy about that; but when it comes to assaults with beer cans, hammers and long, dark, rakish-looking individuals striking down brunettes and little blonde children—well, it's time for the police to interfere. In fact, the police did interfere in a number of instances last night.

Early last evening Mr. Toots Botts, coffee colored, and Miss Pauline Hawkins, sooty brunette, were gliding down Michigan street toward Paradise alley, Toots Botts carried the beer. During the conversation the sooty brunette mentioned the fact that a friend of hers had married his mother's sister. She asked Toots Botts if he could explain several reason-wrecking intricacies in the complication of this relationship. They first figured out that the groom was his own uncle, and kept on figuring till the interlacing branches of relationship began to look like a piece of Oriental wickerwork. Miss Hawkins finally ventured the assertion that in due course of time her friend might be his own grandfather. Toots Botts considered this for some moments and then for the first time he disagreed with the brunette. A moment later the sidewalk was all awash with trouble. Toots Botts struck Miss Hawkins with the can of beer.

"Police!" she vociferated.

An officer heard the cry and reached the scene just in time to see Botts disappear. He is in West Superior today.

In another assault and battery instance Andrew Jackson thrashed his wife because she insisted on shooting craps. The fight occurred in a Paradise alley boarding house for colored people. Mrs. Jackson had her husband arrested, and this morning he went up to the county jail for ten days' hard labor.

I. S. McAdams, of 813 Fifth avenue east, was arrested on complaint of Mrs. Anna Liebieger, who says that he tapped Joe Liebieger on the back of the neck with a hammer. He said that he was not guilty and the hearing was set for June 11.

Malcolm Brown, employed down on the new government pier, was fined $5 for dangling a left jab in the open countenance of a co-laborer named Simpson.

That was about all the assault cases reported up to noon, but there were still several scattered precincts to hear from.

S. L. Merchant's Funeral.

The body of Stephen L. Merchant, who died last evening, will be taken to Brooklyn, N. Y., for interment. The funeral services will take place tomorrow afternoon at 3 o'clock at the residence, 414 Eighteenth avenue east. The remains will be taken East on the 5 o'clock train.

ADVISES ANOTHER WAY.

Judge Bonham Replies to Eveleth Petition.

Judge Bonham has written to the people of Eveleth that in his opinion it will be best for them to seek cityhood through the county board route rather than through the probate court route. As to the latter there is considerable doubt, and there is likely to be all kinds of mix-ups that might interfere with the legality of the incorporation of the city. There seems to be no trouble about the county board method, as that is a later law and will make Eveleth a city just as completely as the other method. If the people of Eveleth insist on his acting and wish to take the risk, Judge Bonham will probably sign their order of incorporation.

The Well Dressed Man Buys His Clothes at the Great Eastern.

Many men who are considered good dressers pay less for their clothes than others who pay "all kinds of money" yet never look well. This is because one man buys at the right place and has the benefit of the knowlege of expert judges of fabrics and correct styles while the other has his clothes made to order, paying a big price to his tailor, and depends upon the more or less uncertain knowledge and taste of one man, or else buy indiscriminately from clothiers who do not give due consideration to the fit and general stylish appearance of the suit. # THE NEW REGIME

Makes Itself Evident In Minnesota Iron Company Meeting.

T. F. Cole Succeeds C. P. Coffin of Chicago as President.

F. E. House President of Railroad---Secrecy Is Maintained.

The annual meetings of the Minnesota Iron company and the Duluth & Iron Range Railroad company were held in this city this morning. Thomas F. Cole, general manager of the mining interests of the United States Steel corporation, was elected to the presidency of the Minnesota Iron company, succeeding C. P. Coffin, who was elected to the position a few weeks ago. F. E. House was elected president of the Duluth & Iron Range railroad.

For the first time in years there was an air of secrecy about the meeting and its results. In former years the elections of officers were given out at once, but this time it was different. Immediately after the meeting the party of officials left for the range. C. P. Coffin, of Chicago, formerly president of the Minnesota Iron company, and secretary and treasurer of the two companies, remaining here. Inquiries for the outcome of the meetings met with a reference to Mr. Coffin as the individual who could give the report.

Mr. Coffin was found at the Spalding today at noon. When told that he had been referred to as the person who could give information as to the meeting of the morning, he replied very curtly:

"I have no information whatever to give."

When it was told him that it had always been usual in past years to get this information at the office, but that this time the reporter had been referred to him and would like to have the election of officers, if nothing more, he snapped out:

"Get any information you can at the office—if you can get any."

If it is the policy of the new interests to keep such matters secret, and he was acting according to instructions, Mr. Coffin did not have the courtesy or the inclination to explain so. It hardly seems probable that there is any desire to be so secretive as this, and if that is so, there seems to be but one other conclusion to draw—that Mr. Coffin was piqued at his being dropped from the presidency of the company, and at the particular moment when he was approached was sore at things in general.

It is needless to say that under the circumstances it was impossible to get any information at the offices of the companies. It became known through the day, however, that the two elections announced above were made. It is also known that the new regime took entire hold of the two companies, and the old crowd, generally speaking, is out. A. E. Viele is vice president of the Duluth & Iron Range railroad, and goes on the directorate of the two companies. F. H. White and R. Angst also go on the board of directors of the railroad.

The officials of the company who arrived here this morning were: Judge E. H. Gary, chairman of the executive board of the United States Steel corporation and president of the Federal Steel company; Percival Roberts, Jr., William Edenborn and E. C. Converse, members of the board; E. Shearson, auditor of the company; Thomas Murray, assistant secretary and treasurer of the Minnesota Iron company and the railroad; William Nelson Cromwell, of New York, and C. P. Coffin, of Chicago.

With the party were also two English iron manufacturers, Sir Windsor Richards and Arthur Keen.

Immediately after the meeting the party, with the exception of Mr. Coffin, left for the ranges, going over the Duluth, Missabe & Northern railroad. Accompanying them were A. H. Viele, W. J. Olcott, R. Angst, A. B. Wolvin, J. H. Chandler, J. W. Krietter and Thomas Owens.

Thomas F. Cole was not here for the meeting, his train arriving from the Michigan iron country too late. He immediately took a special to catch the party.

The itinerary of the party is not determined. Messrs. Richards and Keen will return this evening and leave at once for Chicago.

HE FOUND MANY LOGS

Secretary Potter of Log Salvage Company Has Evidence.

Can Arrest Almost Whole City of Two Harbors.

Town Officials Use Many Stolen Logs For Bridge.

There is said to be trouble in store for the people of Two Harbors that have been violating the state law regarding the taking of logs found along the shores of the lake or streams of this district which bear the mark of a lumber or logging firm. The Duluth Log Salvage association comprised of numerous local concerns, for mutual protection, has received reports of wholesale violation of the law at Two Harbors and Secretary G. A. Potter of the association has returned from Two Harbors, after a two days' visit with evidence of a surprisingly large number of citizens of that town that he says have laid themselves liable to fine and imprisonment for the violation of the law. Mr. Potter says that he was astonished to discover the wholesale manner in which people have been appropriating the logs along the lake shore, to build houses, culverts, bridges, repair roads and even cut up into firewood.

We gave the matter very thorough investigation and found that the people in every instance claim ignorance of the law and supposed that it was all right to take the logs because they saw everybody else doing so without protest. Mr. Potter says that he has evidence that will convict members of the town board and highway commissioners that have taken logs from the lake shore and built culverts and bridges or the town roads. In one place on the lake shore he found a pile of about fifteen logs that had been gathered by a highway commissioner, some of which had already been squared off at the end to use in bridges. It was reported to the secretary that hardly a day passes but that several loads of these saw logs may be seen coming into the village to be put to various uses.

Secretary Potter says that the work of the Log Salvage association has been published in the papers frequently and mention made of the prosecution of the violators of the law, and that there would seem to be little excuse for such general ignorance of the law, but in order to give the people of Two Harbors and vicinity an idea of what they may expect, he has arranged for a publication of the law and a warning in the local paper at Two Harbors. He has also arranged for a watchman who is to patrol the beach in the vicinity of Two Harbors and watch for violators of the law.

Secretary Potter says that since the active campaign was instituted by the association against violators of the law in the vicinity of Duluth, there have been very few instances where people have meddled with the logs found along the lake and bay shores near Duluth. The salving contract has been given this year, to James O. Smith, who will with his tug, Mary Smith, pick up all the logs on both the north and south shores, that belong to members of the association. The Peyton, Kinnel & Barber Lumber company, of West Superior, has the contract for the sawing.

THE NEW REGIME

Makes Itself Evident In Minnesota Iron Company Meeting.

T. F. Cole Succeeds C. P. Coffin of Chicago as President.

F. E. House President of Railroad---Secrecy Is Maintained.

The annual meetings of the Minnesota Iron company and the Duluth & Iron Range Railroad company were held in this city this morning. Thomas F. Cole, general manager of the mining interests of the United States Steel corporation, was elected to the presidency of the Minnesota Iron company, succeeding C. P. Coffin, who was elected to the position a few weeks ago. F. E. House was elected president of the Duluth & Iron Range railroad.

For the first time in years there was an air of secrecy about the meeting and its results. In former years the elections of officers were given out at once, but this time it was different. Immediately after the meeting the party of officials left for the range. C. P. Coffin, of Chicago, formerly president of the Minnesota Iron company, and secretary and treasurer of the two companies, remaining here. Inquiries for the outcome of the meetings met with a reference to Mr. Coffin as the individual who could give the report.

Mr. Coffin was found at the Spalding today at noon. When told that he had been referred to as the person who could give information as to the meeting of the morning, he replied very curtly:

"I have no information whatever to give."

When it was told him that it had always been usual in past years to get this information at the office, but that this time the reporter had been referred to him and would like to have the election of officers, if nothing more, he snapped out:

"Get any information you can at the office—if you can get any."

If it is the policy of the new interests to keep such matters secret, and he was acting according to instructions, Mr. Coffin did not have the courtesy or the inclination to explain so. It hardly seems probable that there is any desire to be so secretive as this, and if that is so, there seems to be but one other conclusion to draw—that Mr. Coffin was piqued at his being dropped from the presidency of the company, and at the particular moment when he was approached was sore at things in general.

It is needless to say that under the circumstances it was impossible to get any information at the offices of the companies. It became known through the day, however, that the two elections announced above were made. It is also known that the new regime took entire hold of the two companies, and the old crowd, generally speaking, is out. A. H. Viele is vice president of the Duluth & Iron Range railroad, and goes on the directorate of the two companies. F. H. White and R. Angst also go on the board of directors of the railroad.

The officials of the company who arrived here this morning were: Judge E. H. Gary, chairman of the executive board of the United States Steel corporation and president of the Federal Steel company; Percival Roberts, Jr., William Edenborn and E. C. Converse, members of the board; E. Shearson, auditor of the company; Thomas Murray, assistant secretary and treasurer of the Minnesota Iron company and the railroad; William Nelson Cromwell, of New York, and C. P. Coffin, of Chicago.

With the party were also two English iron manufacturers, Sir Windsor Richards and Arthur Keen.

Immediately after the meeting the party, with the exception of Mr. Coffin, left for the ranges, going over the Duluth, Missabe & Northern railroad. Accompanying them were A. H. Viele, W. J. Olcott, R. Angst, A. B. Wolvin, J. H. Chandler, J. W. Krletter and Thomas Owens.

Thomas F. Cole was not here for the meeting, his train arriving from the Michigan iron country too late. He immediately took a special to catch the party.

The itinerary of the party is not determined. Messrs. Richards and Keen will return this evening and leave at once for Chicago.

HE FOUND MANY LOGS

Secretary Potter of Log Salvage Company Has Evidence.

Can Arrest Almost Whole City of Two Harbors.

Town Officials Use Many Stolen Logs For Bridge.

There is said to be trouble in store for the people of Two Harbors that have been violating the state law regarding the taking of logs found along the shores of the lake or streams of this district which bear the mark of a lumber or logging firm. The Duluth Lof Salvage association comprised of numerous local concerns, for mutual protection, has received reports of wholesale violation of the law at Two Harbors and Secretary G. A. Potter of the association has returned from Two Harbors, after a two days' visit with evidence of a surprisingly large number of citizens of that town that he says have laid themselves liable to fine and imprisonment for the violation of the law. Mr. Potter says that he was astonished to discover the wholesale manner in which people have been appropriating the logs along the lake shore, to build houses, culverts, bridges, repair roads and even cut up into firewood.

We gave the matter very thorough investigation and found that the people in every instance claim ignorance of the law and supposed that it was all right to take the logs because they saw everybody else doing so without protest. Mr. Potter says that he has evidence that will convict members of the town board and highway commissioners that have taken logs from the lake shore and built culverts and bridges or the town roads. In one place on the lake shore he found a pile of about fifteen logs that had been gathered by a highway commissioner, some of which had already been squared off at the end to use in bridges. It was reported to the secretary that hardly a day passes but that several loads of these saw logs may be seen coming into the village to be put to various uses.

Secretary Potter says that the work of the Log Salvage association has been published in the papers frequently and mention made of the prosecution of the violators of the law, and that there would seem to be little excuse for such general ignorance of the law, but in order to give the people of Two Harbors and vicinity an idea of what they may expect, he has arranged for a publication of the law and a warning in the local paper at Two Harbors. He has also arranged for a watchman who is to patrol the beach in the vicinity of Two Harbors and watch for violators of the law.

Secretary Potter says that since the active campaign was instituted by the association against violators of the law in the vicinity of Duluth, there have been very few instances where people have meddled with the logs found along the lake and bay shores near Duluth. The salving contract has been given, this year, to James O. Smith, who will with his tug, Mary Smith, pick up all the logs on both the north and south shores, that belong to members of the association. The Peyton, Kimball & Barber Lumber company, of West Superior, has the contract for the sawing.

Coroner's Jury Report as to Mrs. Walker's Suicide.

Brink Tells Story of His Part In the Tragedy.

Several Poisons and a Razor Found In Her Effects.

A Lincoln, Neb., special to the Omaha Bee gives the verdict of the jury in the inquest over the remains of Mrs. J. Irving Walker. It says:

"We, the jury, duly empaneled and sworn, find that Mabel H. Walker came to her death by poison, and, from the best information obtainable by the jury, administered by her own hands and for causes unknown to the jury."

This is the verdict reached today by the coroner's jury in the inquest resulting from the suicide of Mrs. Walker and the attempted suicide of J. Albert Brink. The decision was reached after much argument among the jurors, caused by the refusal of Juryman S. S. Bell to agree that the woman had come to her death by poison self-administered. He said he had a conscience to still and that impelled him to decline to say positively on the evidence presented to the jury that she administered the poison herself. Brink did not know; he had already taken it. Cleveland was the only man who swore that he had seen her take the poison, argued Mr. Bell, and he seemed to think that there was a lot of mystery attached to the relations between this woman and the male boarders about the hotel.

As a compromise the saving phrase, "and from the best information obtainable by the jury," was inserted, and Mr. Bell signed after all the others had affixed their signatures.

During the morning Miss Ivy Duncan was examined. She was in the Lindell pharmacy when Brink and Mrs. Walker were there, and she related her observations of the two. She said the two acted as if they were good friends.

Brink was again called to the stand and rehearsed the conversation between himself and the woman previous to the taking of cocaine by both.

"Mr. Brink," asked County Attorney Caldwell, "what led you to take the poison? Was it infatuation or desperation?"

"Desperation, sir," he said, with dramatic emphasis. "I don't suppose I can make you men, who have never been through a thing like this, understand just how I was wrought up, just how I felt. For days she had been talking of killing herself, telling of poison she had and ways open to ending it all. All this had its impression upon me; it worked me up. I had been watching her for days; I had sent her once or twice to see her husband out of town; I had hoped that he would come and take her away; I wanted to go away myself; I wanted to avoid her killing herself.

"I don't know why I swallowed the poison when I did. I seemed just then to care for nothing. I had become convinced she was going to kill herself, and I thought that if she was bound to do it, I would get away first.

"When I took the cocaine off the drug store shelf I had then no intention of taking my life. I thought that if I could give her the impression that if she would not stop talking suicide I would follow her example that it would make her see the seriousness of it and stop it.

"It was desperation that at last drove me to take the stuff. She had told me that she had poison, both liquid and dry, in her room, and a razor so sharp that at one sweep of her arm she could cut her throat."

"What motive, Mr. Brink," he was asked, "did she give for her acts and her talk?"

"She never gave me any reason why. She would never tell why. She told me a hundred times if she has told me once, 'You don't understand, you couldn't understand.'"

"Was it infatuation for you, do you think?" asked Mr. Caldwell.

"No," he replied slowly. "I don't think it was infatuation for me. She was not despondent. In fact she had often told me that the sun had never set on the day that knew her despondent. The second day after I met her we were out driving past the asylum. Looking up at the building, she said: 'Inside of a year I'll either be in my grave or in a place like that.'"

"When you found out her disposition why didn't you just step away, release yourself, get away?" asked Caldwell.

"It did no good," replied Brink. "Every time I spoke of going away she told me that would only bring her end the quicker."

"What do you know of her relations with her husband?" he was asked.

"She told me little. She said she had known Walker only twenty days when she had married him. They had parted several times during their married life and she had gone back to him. The last time they were reunited was in Sioux City, on their anniversary, the 29th of the previous month. She was with her mother at the time, and traveled half way across the continent to be with him again."

"What do you know of her relations with other men?" was the next question.

"I don't think there was anything wrong in them. She traveled with Pillinghorst, who is now with Walker, but their relations were simply those of a business character.

W. W. Cleveland told of saving Brink's life by administering antidotes. He said Brink was very drunk that night, and that the woman was also intoxicated. That ended the testimony.

Walker took his wife's body to St. Paul this afternoon. A delegation of Elks escorted the casket to the Elkhorn depot.

The World-Herald, in reviewing the inquest, said: Dr. Giffen, who was summoned, testified that he found in Mrs. Walker's room vials of cocaine, wood alcohol and some fluid of an unknown nature, a box of corrosive sublimate tablets and a razor under her pillow. The woman was too far gone to recover, but Brink's life was saved. Brink then told Dr. Giffen of his attempt to "bluff" Mrs. Walker, as related above.

J. Irving Walker, the dead woman's husband, testified that she had spent Sunday with him at Fremont, and left him in the best possible humor. The razor found under her pillow, he said, she had borrowed from him 'to pare her corns with." He testified that she was 21 years of age, that they had been married three years and that their married life had been marred by no cloud of unhappiness. Walker was dry-eyed, but spoke in low tones and his hand trembled violently as it rested on the table before him.

The coroner's jury convened again tonight and heard the testimony of Brink, R. H. McDonald, night clerk at the Lindell hotel and Mary Yahns, chambermaid. Ramsdell, the druggist, who with a young woman named Ivy Duncan, was with Brink and Mrs. Walker last night, had departed on a sudden trip to Chicago and Miss Duncan could not be found.

Brink was accompanied by his attorney, H. H. Wilson, and was exceedingly reticent in his replies. He said he had not the slightest idea why Mrs. Walker had committed suicide, though she had frequently threatened to do so. When he asked her why, he said, she only answered "you do not understand." Only once did he volunteer any information.

"Let me tell them something, can I?" he exclaimed impulsively turning to his attorney.

"You may, if you wish," replied Mr. Wilson.

Then Brink said, speaking brokenly and with evidences of deep feeling:

"A week ago the girl threatened suicide one night, when I bid her good night and she started to her room. I went to my room and sat down, and in a short time I got worried. I went to her room and entered. She was in bed and about her head was a towel saturated with chloroform. I snatched it away and saved her life.

"And ever since then," he continued, his voice trembling, while his hands twitched convulsively, "I have watched her every minute, almost, to prevent her from committing suicide."

Then he almost yelled, pointing his finger to the dead woman's husband, who sat calmly smoking a cigar, "and you know yourself she was a morphine fiend."

The bereaved man smoked on unconcernedly. Brink denied that either he or the woman were drunk, though admitting that they had drank some beer at the Lindell pharmacy. In this he was corroborated by Night Clerk McDonald, who said both parties appeared perfectly sober when they came into the hotel.

An Important Ore Discovery on the Marquette Range.

Champion—The most important discovery of ore on the Marquette range for some years has just been made here near the old Parsons mine, the place of the original discovery of the Champion mine. The ore is magnetic and a trifle over 70 per cent in iron and similar to the better ore produced in the old mine. The vein outcrops within six feet of the surface and increases in width as followed eastward. The vein uncovered is eight feet in width and twenty inches in length. Superintendent Walter Fitch said that a shaft would be sunk in the ore immediately and drifting will be done east and west from the shaft as soon as a sufficient depth is attained. Indications point to a big deposit.

Menominee—Patrick Devine, one of Menominee's pioneer citizens, died Monday at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Mary Hamilton, after a long illness. Mr. Devine was one of those men whose association with lumbermen made him popular, and whose name and fame is familiar to all the old citizens. Mr. Devine was born in 1816, and came to this city in 1855. In 1837 occurred his marriage to Miss Anna Murray, eight children being their offspring, of whom four survive him.

Iron Mountain—When Fox, the lumberman infected with smallpox, was riscovered at Iron Mountain the health officer rented an old, deserted dwelling on West Hughitt street, which he proceeded to repair for use as a temporary pest house. That evening some one, who did not like the idea of the proximity of the pest house, attempted to destroy it by fire. The blaze was put out without particular difficulty, and now a guard is regularly patrolling the premises to prevent a repetition of the incendiarism.

Pembine—Pembine was visited early Monday morning by a serious fire, two hotels, the Commercial and the American, being destroyed. The blaze started in the buggy house at the rear of the Commercial, and it had already made considerable headway when it was discovered. Nothing effective could be done to stay the progress of the flames. The loss on the two buildings aggregated about $6000, with practically no insurance. The fire is supposed to have had an incendiary origin.

THE TESTS.

Remarkable Results of the Fire Department Inspection.

The phenomenal time for the "night hitch," made by two headquarters companies at the annual inspection of the fire department yesterday afternoon, has caused quite a good deal of talk about town. As stated in last night's Herald, the time, caught by three stop watches, was 9 3-5 seconds. The men being undressed and in bed when the alarm was given, and jumping out, dressing, sliding down to the first floor, hitching the horses and having the apparatus moving in less than a sixth of a minute.

Even in the face of official time there are some inclined to doubt the new record.

"Why," said one man last evening, "I don't see how it is possible for men to get out of bed in 9 3-5 seconds, let alone dress, and hitch up a team of horses."

However, the time is absolutely correct. It was a wonderful performance and the members of the No. 1 hose and the salvage company are receiving many compliments.

Out at West Duluth fire hall, hose company No. 8 made a night hitch in 10 2-5 seconds, which was the second best time made during the inspection. The West Duluth hook and ladder companies were just two-fifths of a second shy of equaling the best time made in the day hitch. This time was 5 seconds flat, made by the headquarters salvage corps, and No. 2 truck company.

A feature of the inspection was the water throwing test at West Duluth. The No. 8 firemen laid 150 feet of hose and had water through it in 14 4-5 seconds.

It was then demonstrated that the hydrant water power at West Duluth was sufficient to throw a stream of water over a 5-story building.

The fire commissioners have contended that it was a useless expense to keep an engine at West Duluth on account of the force of water from the hydrants. It is claimed that if an engine should be put on with that force it would break the hose. Yesterday it was clearly demonstrated that the fire commissioners knew what they were talking about for the water from the hydrants was thrown clear over the flag pole on top of the fire hall.

The commissioners, however, deem it advisable to keep the engine there to be used in case of fires at the mills.

No. 4 hose company made the best time yesterday for putting down 150 feet of hose and getting a stream of water through it. The time was 13 seconds flat.

The following is a tabulated statement of the official time at all fire halls inspected:

| | Day | Night |

BRIEF TELEGRAMS.

George Kruckeberg, a prominent farmer near Bixby, ten miles south of Owatonna, was almost instantly killed by a windmill. He climbed to the top of the mill to repair the gearing and while there his clothes caught in the wheel, and the life was literally squeezed out of the man.

Cyrus C. Hines, who was for many years a prominent lawyer in Indianapolis, and at one time judge of the circuit court, died at the Deaconess hospital Thursday. He had a brillian war record. For several years Mr. Hines resided in New York.

G. B. Dunton, a yard conductor in the employ of the Southern railway, was bound over without ball to the superior court on the charge of murder. Evidence heard at the preliminary trial tended to show that Dunton was on the switch engine which on Tuesday ran into the Macon passenger train on the Southern, killing three people.

During a hail storm Wednesday night near Littleton, Iowa, lightning struck the school house and, fatally injured Paul Roberts, a pupil, and the teacher, Miss Jane Harvey. Seven other pupils were burned, but not fatally.

Two hundred infuriated farmers are scouring the timber twenty miles northeast of St Joseph, Mo., in an effort to capture an unknown negro, who waylaid the 14-year-old daughter of D. Dixon, a farmer, bound and gagged her and carried her off in the woods. Other school children spread the alarm and farmers were soon in pursuit. The negro became alarmed and fled. A lynching is expected in the event of his capture.

Fire at North Milwaukee Thursday night caused a loss of $75,000, of which $20,000 is on the plant and lumber yard of the Wisconsin Furniture company; $4000 the Wisconsin Furniture company; $4000 on the American Bicycle company's shops and $1000 on Meisbach's electric lighting plant. The losses are partially covered by insurance.

Curtis Roberts, superintendent of schools at Fair Haven, was accidentally killed Thursday afternoon at target practice. He, with his sweetheart, Mary Alferton, and a party of young people had gone into the woods to practice with a target revolver. Miss Alferton fired the first shot and the ball, striking the side of a stump, bounded off and struck Roberts in the side inflicting a wound from which he died in a few hours.

ENJOINING A LOVER.

Toledo Girl Says Lawyer Is Too Attentive.

Toledo, Ohio, June 7.—The courts have been applied to by a pretty girl to prevent a man from making love to her. Miss Marie Aletta Cent, a musician and elocutionist, is the plaintiff in such an action here. John P. Delphy, a lawyer, is the defendant. Miss Cent represents that she has been bothered by the lawyer's ardent love-making and that she has been obliged to bring action to protect herself. The court is asked to enjoin the attorney from sending Miss Cent letters by mail or messengers, from hanging around her house at night, from following her on the street or communicating in any manner.

Miss Cent recites in her petition that Delpry refuses to be turned down, that he knocks at the doors and windows of her house and that he tries to embrace her whenever and wherever he meets her. All of this she wants the court to prohibit. Delphy's friends say he has fallen desperately in love with the girl and he cannot control his passion.

Mothers lose their dread for "that terrible second summer" when they have Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry in the house. Nature's specific for bowel complaint of every sort.

TO HAVE A TIME BALL

Duluth to Get One About the First of July.

To Be Located on the Roof of Torrey Building.

It Will Drop Thirty Feet Every Day Except Sunday.

Beginning shortly after July 1 Duluth will have a time ball, and anybody desiring to get the exact time within a small fraction of a second will need only to stand almost any place in town when noon draws near, take out his watch and set it at noon when the time ball takes its drop.

The ball will be located on the roof of the Torrey building, above the offices of the hydrographic office, which is in charge of Capt. Frank Henrich. It will thus be in a position where it can be seen from all parts of the city and harbor, and where everybody will have a chance to partake of its benefits. The pole on which the ball will be placed will be thirty feet high, so the ball will take a drop of that length promptly at noon, Central time, every day except Sunday.

Most of the prominent cities of the country have time balls, so the granting of one to Duluth places this city in that category. The fact that one is to come here is the result of the work of Capt. Henrich, Congressman Morris and a strong petition of about 200 business men gathered by Capt. Henrich in response to the apparent need of a time ball here.

The hydrographic office is now in the Palladio building, where it has been for about a year, but to provide for the time ball it will be moved back to the Torrey building, where a better elevation can be had and the ball placed in view of a larger area of the head of the lakes. The old quarters on the tenth floor of the Torrey will be resumed, and the time ball will be placed over the offices, which are in the rear of the building.

The time ball is of great service, particularly to transportation interests, both lake and rail. The ordinary citizen does not mind if his time is a fraction of a second out of the way, but for railroad and steamboat men the nearer correct their timepieces are the better, and with a time ball system they will be enabled to get the time exactly every week day noon. The navigators may then determine with accuracy the rates and errors of their chronometers. The system will also be acceptable to the general public. The time comes from the government observatory at Washington, which regulates the time for railways, whose officials within a few years have realized the importance of a uniform standard time as an element of safety in the operation of their roads. Financial questions of great magnitude often hinge on questions of time. This is especially the case with time contracts in stock, grain, produce and other exchanges.

The system comes from the naval observatory, and the local time ball will be in charge of the hydrographic office, which is a part of the navy department. It will cost about $600 to instal the system, and this expense will be paid by the government. The department has promised the service as soon after July 1 as the quarters in the Torrey building are ready, and they will be ready very shortly.

FIR TIMBER.

Something of the Remarkable Stick Received Here.

The immense pieces of Washington fir timber that the Duluth Dredge and Dock company received from the Pacific coast last winter, to be used as spuds, or anchor posts, on the new dredge Napoleon, that the company built during the winter, are being dressed down and the iron work put on preparatory to placing the big timbers in place on the dredge. There will be three anchor posts, two forward and one aft, and these will be placed about next Tuesday. The dredge is practically completed for business, with the exception of placing the anchor posts. The Napoleon is one of the largest dipper dredges on the great lakes and the timbers used to hold the big machine steady must necessarily be long, stiff and heavy. Washington fir timber has been found the most available timber for this purpose because of the possibility of getting it in great lengths and diameter, and free from blemishes. The heavy structure of the balance of the dredge is built of this same timber. It is said to be stiffer than oak. The powerful hoisting apparatus of the Napoleon will be used to hoist the heavy timbers into place.

When received in the city these three sticks of timber, the largest ever received at the head of the lake, attracted much attention from timber men who are not familiar with the size of Pacific coast timber. They came from the state of Washington loaded on two cars. Each piece was 58 feet long and 40 inches square on the ends, weighed about 30,000 pounds and contained nearly 8000 feet of lumber. By way of comparison with Minnesota logs it might be added that it requires about twelve or thirteen of them to constitute 1000 feet. The trees from which such timber is obtained grow only on the coast and on the highest elevations in Eastern Washington and Oregon where the fire risk is at a minimum. In the more exposed country, which is reached by fires, the timber does not nearly grow so large. To cut timbers of this size would be a proposition that the head of the lake sawmills would not care to go up against, in fact, there is only about one mill in fifty that can saw them out, as the original weight of the logs is over twenty tons. When the trees are cut the logs are skidded out of the woods by huge yarding engines to the initial point of the railroad. At this point, if a log is too large to be placed on the cars, it is hitched to a standard logging engine and hauled between the rails to the mill. Such a process would undoubtedly play havoc with the logging roads that have been built in this district.

Particular pieces of timber like those that will be placed on the dredge Napoleon are secured after cutting down from thirty to forty trees. They are absolutely free from shake, wane or any defect that would materially affect their strength or durability. The largest pieces of fir timber on exhibition at the Buffalo Pan-American exposition are 34 inches square and 74 feet long.

There has been received in Minneapolis within the past few days, en-route for Grand Haven, Mich., for dredge construction, three other pieces of fir timber from Washington, that are each 55 feet long and 40 inches square. So novel a sight were these timbers to the lumbermen, architects and contractors at Minneapolis, that large delegations of them vistied the freight yards to inspect the timber. The freight on each piece of timber from Washington to its destination in Michigan is $165, and the approximate cost of each piece of timber is $1000.

DULUTH MEN JOIN.

Commission Houses Enter Twin City Association.

The Duluth Fruit and Produce Exchange has associated itself with the Twin City Protective association, which is composed of fruit and produce dealers. All of the large commission houses of the Twin Cities have belonged to this association for some time, and as all the Duluth commission houses are now members of the Fruit and Produce Exchange, practically all of the wholesale commission houses of the state are now connected with the Protective association. The association has for its object the protection of its members against poor credits and unfair and unjust dealers, who show tendencies toward making complaints that are unreasonable and asking for rebates which good business policy does not warrant.

An Example of Enterprise.

The enterprise of the true American is proverbial, and when he is not in the lead in the way of originality or improvement there is something wrong. On the day following the announcement of the decision of the supreme court in the insular cases, Commissioner of Internal Revenue Yerkes found in his morning mail an application for a permit for cigar factory No. 1 in Porto Rico. The application came from a Western man who was evidently convinced that the court was going to decide that the constitution followed the flag without conditions and that free trade was to follow with Porto Rico. If this was to be the case he wanted to get on the ground early and manufacture cigars in Porto Rico for consumption in the United States. He argued that with the duty on Porto Rican exports lifted he could pay the internal revenue taxes on cigars and do a big business from San Juan or Ponce. He timed the mailing of his application for a permit so that it would be received at the department in the first mail after the announcement of the decision, thus insuring him permit No. 1. His calculations were all right except on the important point of duties, for the customs authorities will continue to collect a stiff duty on all cigars and tobacco sent up from Porto Rico.

Surveying the Boundary Line.

The new survey of the boundary line between Canada and the United States, when completed will settle the question of ownership of a number of valuable mining claims bordering on the Northwest boundary and in dispute. The Northwest boundary was established by a commission in 1856, but much of the country was so wild and impenetrable that it was impossible to carry the line through to the coast. Consequently many large gaps were left between Puget Sound and the east base of the Rockies. It is estimated that altogether there are between fifty and seventy-five miles of territory where there is nothing to indicate the boundary. In recent years there have been many valuable mines located in that region. Disputes have frequently arisen as to whether a certain property was located in Canadian or American territory. It has happened that an American miner has entered claim for mining land under the laws of the United States, supposing that the property was on this side of the boundary. Other people investigated the matter and found that it was in British Columbia, whereupon by entering a claim for it according to the laws of the Dominion of Canada, they secured possession. These cases have occurred a number of times in the past few years and have caused much friction. Finally the controversies became so serious as to threaten international trouble and Secretary Hay decided that the line ought to be laid out clearly from one end to the other. He accordingly appealed to Secretary Hitchcock of the interior department to take up the work. The latter was succeeded in having Secretary Gage of the treasury department detail an expert from the coast survey, who with Mr. Barnard of the geological survey, will prepare the line. It is possible that the Canadian government may appoint men to aid in the work. So far as is now known nothing has been done by the Canadian authorities toward assisting in the undertaking, but as the matter is one in which both governments are equally interested it is thought that some one will be named to represent Canada in the surveying. There will be no great difficulty in establishing the true boundary. It runs along the forty-ninth parallel, and all that will be required is to run this line out by astronomical observations. Secretary Hay also requested that a geological survey be made of a strip of land ten or fifteen miles wide bordering on the American side of the boundary. The state department wishes to determine the character of the mineral deposits of that territory, and as this survey would not be made for a number of years in the ordinary progress of the work of the interior department, special experts have been assigned to the task of collecting the needed information this summer. They will cover a strip of land about 40 miles in length. This time the boundary will be clearly defined and marked by permanent monuments which will settle disputes for all time.

IN SOUTH AFRICA.

Hardly had the echoes of the Sir Alfred Milner celebration died, upon the ear when London was shocked by the news of another unexpected Boer victory. The carefully laid plans of Lord Kitchener have utterly failed, and the war is once more carried into Cape Colony. A whole detachment of British troops were ambushed and cut to pieces, their guns taken, and they were only saved from utter annihilation by the timely arrival of reinforcements. Following close upon the heels of this news comes the more startling report of the fall of Jamestown, with a large amount of military stores, into the hands of the Boers.

One can imagine the feelings of the British public, which has no heart in this war, when such news comes, after the people have been assured, upon what they have reason to believe is good authority, that the war is about at an end. This last event is the hardest blow yet struck by the Boers. It is of special importance, because it has opened the British eyes to the real state of affairs in South Africa. At last the British public realizes that it has been fooled by garbled reports from the South, that press censors have kept back the bad news and reported only victories. Two months ago John Bull took upon his broad back the burden of the war, then almost too heavy to bear, with the distinct understanding that the days of fighting were about over, and that six months would end the struggle. He now sees that the colonial and the war offices have basely deceived him. He realized that the end is as far off as it was in the beginning. There is nothing to gain by prolonging the struggle, and much to lose. He might be inclined to call up his old-time pluck and struggle on, but for the fact that a worse enemy threatens him from the rear. While England has for centuries successfully defied the nations to invade her shores, she now finds an enemy within her gates against whom her navy and her army are powerless. What is the loss of South Africa, the whole of it, to the loss of her commerce? What will the glory of England be worth if she can no longer hold her own in the markets of the world?

Take up any English paper and but one theme is discussed beside the war, and that is the industrial and commercial invasion by the United States. To the average British mind the presence of J. Pierpont Morgan and his like on British soil is more dangerous than an armed force led by a Napoleon. The purchase of the Leyland steamship line, and the control of her railways by American capital, are now of more consequence than the rights of the Uitlanders in the Transvaal. There lives not a British subject on the island today, not excluding Joseph Chamberlain, who does not regret to the bottom of his heart the incidents that led up to the Boer war. To salve their sore conscience they may assert the fact that the Boers declared war and invaded British territory, but they know full well that it was the only thing left for the Boers to do. Had they not taken time by the forelock and precipitated the war when England was in a state of unreadiness, they would soon have been bound hand and foot.

One noticeable feature of the present discussion of the South African situation by the British press is the universal demand for the facts. No more juggling with the situation will be allowed. The war must be brought to a close with honor to the British arms, if possible, but brought to a close at any cost. It matters not where the ax may fall, in this sifting of deeds. If Mr. Chamberlain is the guilty party, if he brought upon his country this humiliation, off with his official head. This tone bodes no good to the cabal that has managed this war and brought England to the verge of ruin. The Boers will succeed. Their tenacity has brought them allies from the uttermost ends of the earth. As the European complications wrought for American freedom, so the industrial and commercial complications in which England finds herself make for South African freedom. England must make peace that she may meet her new foes in the commercial world—Germany and the United States.

THE CANTEEN QUESTION.

That the old fight on the army canteen will be resumed with the next session of congress is a certainty. A senator who is well posted on the matter says that bills to repeal the present anti-canteen law will in all probability be introduced in both houses the first day of the session. These will go to the military committees, and then the battle will be on. The temperance people will be out in force to lobby against the repeal, and it is known that they are now hard at work collecting evidence which they hope will act as an offset to the report and recommendations of the secretary of war, who, it is assumed, will ask congress to repeal the law, basing this request upon official statements from post commanders from all parts of the country.

The law abolishing the canteen has been faithfully enforced, and it is a part of the secretary's duty to note the effect of that enforcement and report on it to congress, just as he reports on other matters of timely importance. Personal letters from post commanders to department officials indicate that the abolition of the canteen has, in the opinion of the writers, had an injurious effect upon the enlisted men, and should this judgment be reflected in the official reports of the year, the secretary will be called upon to show congress what the argument is in favor of the repeal of the law. Formal reports of the post commanders will be in the hands of the secretary shortly after July. These reports are required from the commanders in answer to circulars sent out by the department for an exhaustive treatment of the subject. In them comparisons will be made between the conditions before and after the law went into effect. Unofficial communications will not enter into the secretary's report.

It seems to be the general opinion of those who have followed the matter that the law will be repealed at an early stage of the session. As a matter of fact, it should never have been passed. The members of congress did not act on their own judgment, but deferred to the appeals of the misguided advocates of temperance, who did not know what they were talking about. They have worked great mischief, and the sooner the mistake is rectified the better for all concerned.

Through the discovery of a new process for making cement Mr. Edison promises to place it within the reach of the builder of the humblest cottage. It will be as cheap as common salt, and when mixed with sand and broken stone in the proportion of one part of cement to three parts of sand and five parts of broken stone it will supply a concrete mixture so cheap and so durable that it is certain to supplant pine, brick or stone in all building operations. Houses, in fact, according to Mr. Edison, will simply be "poured" instead of being built. A form, patterned after a design furnished by an architect, will be made of wood or steel and into this will be poured the concrete mixture. After the concrete solidifies the owner has a dwelling in which he can defy the elements and the tooth of Time.

The leading feature of the suffrage clause offered to the Alabama constitutional convention by ex-Governor Jones is that which denies the right to vote to "any person who shall hereafter be guilty and convicted of selling his own vote or buying or bartering the vote of another * * * or who shall make or aid in making any false count, certificates or returns as to the result of such election, primary, caucus, or shall hereafter carry concealed weapons and be convicted thereof." This would disfranchise practically all the residents of the state.

It will take fifteen more votes to elect the next president of the United States than it took last fall. The re-apportionment increases the membership of the house of representatives and of course of the electoral college. There will be 476 members of the next electoral college. These figures are based on the supposition that no new states will be admitted in time to have a voice in the election, but there is a strong probability that Oklahoma will be admitted. The territory has sufficient population and wealth to entitle it to statehood.

HIS LIFE IS ENDED

Death Closes the Career of Stephen L. Merchant.

Has Been In Poor Health For More Than a Year.

An Active Life, Full of Incident and Experiences.

Death has mercifully relieved the sufferings of Stephen L. Merchant. For a year he has been an invalid and his condition was recognized as practically hopeless. During the past two or three months he has suffered intensely, improving temporarily now and then but failing again. The end came last evening at 10:15 o'clock at his home, 414 Eighteenth avenue east.

The announcement of the death of Mr. Merchant will bring sadness to a large circle of friends. He was a man of warm nature, excellent good fellowship, and great energy and enthusiasm, and these qualities attracted to him, as they will to every man of similar nature, a great number of personal friends. He was earnestly interested in the welfare and future prosperity of Duluth, and every project that in his opinion would tend toward the upbuilding of the city found in him a most active supporter. He was a great optimist, looking invariably on the bright side of things and believing always in better things to come. At the same time, his optimism did not blind him to faults and mistakes, and no one was more fearless than he in the expression of his disapproval of the existing course of things when he once made up his mind that it was wrong. Socially he was extremely popular, and although not one of the oldest settlers of Duluth, he was an especial favorite with the men who had been here from the early days. He was the life of any company in which he mingled, having a fund of interesting story and anecdote, and the knack of telling his experiences in a fascinating way. Altogether Mr. Merchant was a man of marked characteristics—characteristics of the positive nature, too, and a man who will be sincerely missed.

Stephen L. Merchant was born at Augusta Arsenal, at Savannah, Ga., Sept. 3, 1834, and is therefore a little less than 67 years of age. He was the son of Gen. Charles T. Merchant of the United States army. Gen. Merchant was a distinguished military man, being at the time of his death president of the West Point association, composed of graduates of the West Point academy, he being the oldest graduate then living. He was at one time in command of Governor's island at New York, and held many posts of more or less importance. His mother before marriage was Miss Lufkin, of Newburyport, Mass.

Mr. Merchant's start in active life began at an early age, and his career has been full of incident and extraordinary experience. A synopsis can give but a bare outline of it, and no one but himself could tell of the multitude of interesting experiences through which he has passed and the times he has witnessed. At 14 years of age he went to Detroit with his brother Anderson, and there entered the employ of a man named Eaton as clerk in a store. Detroit then was little more than a fair-sized village. He remained there a year or more, and at 16 years of age, in 1850, went to San Francisco with his father, who was ordered there to take command of the garrison at the Presidio. They made the journey by way of the isthmus of Panama, crossing there and then up to California. Passages to California in those days were very expensive, costing something like $500 or more. It was just after the discovery of gold in that state and the rush to the new fields was on.

For nine years Mr. Merchant was identified with California, and these were the most interesting years of that state's history. Part of the time he resided at the Presidio and part of the time at Alcatraz island, where the garrisons were situated. For four years he was clerk in the United States branch mint at San Francisco, and this brought him in direct contact with the gold mining industry of the state and some of the most interesting characters of that eventful period.

Mr. Merchant was a witness of the first execution under the regime of the vigilance committee in California. Everyone is more or less familiar with the stirring times of those days, when law and order were but little respected and human life was worth but little more than a man's own ability to defend it. Then came the vigilantes, and a new order of things set in. Mr. Merchant's recollections of that period have always been very keen, and his relations of different experiences were exceptionally interesting.

In 1859 he returned to New York and was appointed secretary of the Pacific Mail Steamship company, having influential friends among the members of the board of directors, such men as William H. Aspinwall and Frederick H. Wolcott. Subsequently he was made charter agent of the same company and was prominent as a ship broker for a number of years, having his office at 76 South street. During his career in that business he formed the acquaintance of Capt. Ray T. Lewis, who was then sailing on the ocean, and after their removal to Duluth this acquaintance was renewed, both coming here at about the same time.

Later Mr. Merchant entered into the cement business in New York, and his success there was conspicuous. He became an authority on cement, probably having no superior in the country. He finally removed to Broadway to accommodate his growing trade, and in the early '70s added to his cement business that of tiles, and was the first to import to this country the famous English art tiles.

In 1887 he visited Duluth, and in 1889 came here to reside. He came here as the administrator and trustee of the estate of Frederick H. Wolcott, with whom he had been associated for many years and who left large landed interests here. He platted Merchant's Park, from the Wolcott properties, and also named one of the other tracts, not yet platted, Wolcott park.

In the spring of 1899 Mr. Merchant's health gave signs of failing, and he left for California in the hope of recuperating, remaining there for a year. He failed to find the relief sought, however, and since his return has been an invalid most of the time, suffering from heart trouble and other complications.

The connection of his father with the army brought Mr. Merchant into close contact with army men, and he has always maintained the associations which he formed, and numbered among his personal acquaintances many of the men who have taken stirring parts in the history of the nation. Few men in private life had so wide an acquaintance with the older army officers.

Mr. Merchant was one of a number of children. Charles S. Merchant, an older brother, was in the Mexican war, and died of wounds subsequently received in that conflict. Another older brother, Anderson, was in the Confederate army. He died three or four years ago. Clarke, a younger brother, is a graduate of the Annapolis naval academy, and was there at the same time with Admiral Dewey. He is now in the wholesale metal business in Philadelphia. His firm, Merchant & Co., is one of the largest in the country in that line of trade, and is known to every builder and supply house. Clarke is the only brother living now, but there are several sisters, Mrs. V. M. Penrose and Mrs. George Bowman, of Carlisle, Pa.; Mrs. J. C. Maben, of New York. Another sister, Mrs. F. H. Wolcott, of New York, is dead.

Mrs. Merchant survives her husband, and there is one son, Huntington W. Merchant, attorney, of this city.

New Jersey Seeress Dies as She Foretold.

New York, June 7.—As the self-styled seeress died according to her own prophecy, there is nobody in Plainfield, N. J., who will now gainsay that Miss Laura Giddings could read the future. She was celebrated in that part of New Jersey for her knowledge of the occult.

Miss Giddings read the lines on the palms of all who would know what the future held in store. After looking into the faces of those whom she met, she would tell whether their lives were happy or were likely to be. Her power of analysis was remarkable, and in many cases her judgments of men and women were wonderfully accurate.

There were scores of persons there who believed implicitly that Miss Giddings could tell when death would invade households and when happiness would fall to the portion of the sons of toil. She was a mind reader, a palmist and a reader of horoscopes. The parlors of the house where she dwelt were often thronged by those who were anxious to consult her about the stock market, their infirmities or their prospects of living to a green old age.

It was noticed several weeks ago that the seeress was in a gloomy state of mind. She complained of being ill, and told some of her intimate friends that she felt sure she would die June 5. Miss Giddings was taken to Muhlenburg hospital, where it was found that she was suffering from appendicitis. An operation was performed successfully and the surgeons said that they thought Miss Giddings would recover. The seeress said, however, that she knew the stars decreed otherwise. Wednesday she died.

DAILY STORY.

THE STORY OF A NOSE

(Copyright, 1901, William R. Miller.)

It happened at a masquerade ball given at the opera house six years ago. I was young, unmarried and impressionable.

Weary with dancing, I fell into a seat and settled down to a brief rest. With closed eyes I listened to the dreamy music of a Strauss waltz. Suddenly I became aware of the existence of a companion at my side. A pretty hand accidentally touched mine. I looked up in surprise. "I beg your pardon, sir, I did not mean to touch you."

It was a fairy that spoke, a dainty little elf, as charming, for all I knew, as Titania herself. A velvet mask hid her features from view, but I thought I could detect the sparkle of a pair of dark eyes behind the curtain.

"The pardon is granted," I said, smiling. I had taken off my mask on account of the oppressive heat, and did not object to revealing my identity to the charming person at my side.

"Are you enjoying the ball?" I asked after a pause.

"Very much. It is the first masquerade I ever attended. How do you like it, Mr. Soby?"

I was surprised that she knew my name, and I searched in my memory for a clue to her identity.

"So you know me?" I asked.

"Oh, yes. We met one evening long ago. You are the gentleman who writes such beautiful poetry. Is it not so?"

I admitted that I was that same individual, though it was difficult to surmise how my fame had preceded me. The only poems I had ever written were entitled "Spring" and "Beautiful Snow," and they were both rejected by the editors to whom I had sent them. My fairy was evidently laboring under a mistake, but fame is so pleasant that I did not care to undeceive her.

"How I love poetry," she exclaimed, toying with her fan (fancy Titania with a fan). Will you make me the subject of a sonnet?"

The question came so coquettishly, those eyes gazed into mine so beseechingly, that I involuntarily said: "Yes, certainly, but, I must first know your name."

"My name?" she repeated. "How stupid? Can't you invent one which will suit your fancy? Call me Verona or Jessica."

"Or Titania," I suggested. "But know, gentle fairy, that a poet must have some inspiration before launching out into the regions of the ideal. Imagination does not always suffice to kindle our poetic fire. Lift up that mask, therefore, and show me your beautiful features, but for a moment.

Titania drew back hastily. "This from a poet?" she said. "For shame, sir. The imagination of a poet should not be so sterile. Take it for granted that I am beautiful, that I love you, and that you love me. And now, sir, begin the poem."

What was it that made my heart beat when she spoke? The desire to see her face grew with every moment.

"Dear Titania," I murmured, "Lift that hideous mask and let me gaze into your countenance? Let me know who it is that honors me with her society?"

"No, Mr. Soby, you will not thank me for showing my features. I assure you I am very ugly."

"Impossible," I cried. "Were a man to venture such an assertion, I swear I would punch his head. You ugly? It cannot be."

"Believe me sir, I am a sight to behold. If you saw my face you would flee from my presence. I value your company too highly to drive you from my side."

"What consummate cruelty," I exclaimed. "I am sure you are beautiful. I have seen all your features but your nose. Well, I ask in the name of all the powers, is it possible for a nose to destroy the combined effects of so many charms? Please remove the mask."

"Well," said the fairy, with a merry laugh, "I shall do as you desire. Receive as your just punishment, the task of untying my mask."

I was aware of a surprising nervousness, as I bent over that delicate head and untied the strings. Then for the next few moments I stood trasfixed.

What a nose! It was a wonderful freak of nature. The height of our Bunker Hill monument, the immensity of our Niagara falls, the magnitude of our last river and harbor bill, all dwindled down into insignificance when compared with that nose! It was a sphynx, a pyramid, a monster of such hideous aspect, that I shuddered.

I felt discomfited, and suddenly recollecting an engagement with a friend, I muttered some incoherent words, and hastened off, without daring to gaze upon my enchantress, who in the meantime was laughing in the most unconcerned manner possible. This female Cyrano de Bergerac had evidently become reconciled to her misfortune. On reaching the foyer I fell into a seat and tried to reflect. "Is the government powerless," I thought, "to prevent such outrages, such terrorism?"

A waiter approached me and asked me if I would have something to eat. Mechanically I gave him an order, which was soon served. While eating I tried to forget the monster I had encircled. Good heavens! It approached me, the nose faithfully backed by Titania, leaning upon the arm of a man disguised like an Indian. It was too late to slip under the table, for she had already seen me, and approaching me with a bewildering smile, which took in all her features except her nose, she said:

"How quickly you deserted me. I feared something had happened to you."

She laughed. Oh, if the Indian had but laughed. I should have vented my feelings on him, but he was as solemn as an owl.

After the first shock was over, I felt sorry for the unfortunate creature, and rather ashamed of my abrupt conduct.

"Will you forgive me?" I asked, "for deserting you so unceremoniously?"

"Certainly," she replied, "did I not predict it? You will admit at all events, that I am hideous."

"I will admit nothing of the kind," I replied gallantly, as I caught a glance of her bright eyes, "but I would suggest an operation."

"Oh, that is simple," she said merrily. "You see, it is a detachable nose. I have merely to pull, see, and off it comes."

Titania gave a gentle pull, and the nose remained in her hand, revealing her true features, as pretty as the rest of her face.

Before I had time to recover from my astonishment, she had taken the Indian's arm, and had disappeared.

I sought for her in vain during the entire night, but every trace of her was lost. I returned home disconsolate, chiding myself for a fool, and all night I followed her in my dreams, a fleeting vision of loveliness with a perfect nose.

How we met again might form the subject of another and more romantic story, for Titania is now quite happy as Mrs. Soby.

MACCABEES.

Wisconsin State Convention In Session at Superior.

The city of West Superior is entertaining a large crowd of Maccabees from every part of Wisconsin, assembled in state convention. The convention opened yesterday and will be brought to a close this evening with a grand ball at the West Superior hotel. Besides the state officers of the organization a number of the supreme officers of both the Maccabees and the lady Maccabees are present. Last evening a parade was given and it is estimated that about 500 Maccabees were in line. A large delegation of Duluth Maccabees went over by boat early last evening and contributed their share in the celebration. The supreme officers of the lodge reviewed the parade from the Grand Opera house. There is said to be a hot contest on between the delegates from Madison and Eau Claire to secure the next state convention. The important sessions will be held today, when the state officers will be elected and the next convention place decided on. The visitors are being given a trolley ride this morning, followed by a steamer ride about the harbor. The business meeting occurs this afternoon.

Make an Excellent Showing at Glasgow.

New York, June 7.—A dispatch to the Tribune from London says: Sydney Fisher, Canadian minister of agriculture, is directing attention to the fine exhibits of the food and forestry products of the Dominion at Glasgow, and to the experimental farms conducted on the Ottawa and elsewhere. He asserts that Canadian farmers are more flexible in their methods than English farmers. He is laying stress on the fact the Dominion is no longer losing population through emigration across the border, but it attracting setlers from the United States.

MAKING FAIR TIME

Third Regiment Made Thirteen Miles In Two Marches.

Expected to Reach Lake Mille Lacs This Evening.

Company C to Push on Ahead---Going to St. Paul.

Page, Minn., June 7.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Third infantry has settled down to field duty in earnest. Leaving Milaca at 3 o'clock Wednesday afternoon the regiment made eight miles before going into camp, and this morning at 9 o'clock reached this place, just thirteen miles from Milaca.

This is considered very good time, owing to the condition of the road. In several places the wagon train only succeeded in getting through with great difficulty.

The regiment is traveling at the rate of 2½ miles an hour, and the present plans are to reach Lake Mille Lacs Friday evening. The regiment will be transported across the lake and will then push on to Brainerd. If the boat is ready, two companies can be carried over Lake Mille Lacs every few hours.

Every man in the regiment seems to be enjoying robust health. All the Duluth boys are feeling fine. In the matter of health the practice march sems to be far superior to the ordinary tour of camp duty at Lakeview.

Company C will push on ahead of the regiment as soon as Lake Mille Lacs is crossed. Members of the company are to reach Brainerd in time to make connections for St. Paul, where they present their celebrated "Historical Military Pagent" next Tuesday.

Company A was chosen for the first tour of guard duty at "Camp Cowslip," as the boys called it.

Maj. Resche has been drilling the crack team of the Imperial camp of Woodmen for the competition in St. Paul next week. The team of the Imperial camp are all members of Company C, and they are working hard to land the $500 prize offered for the best team at the Woodmen's encampment.

Eaton Section Thirty Case Coming Up In October.

Supreme Court of United States to Pass On It.

New York Herald Says Millions Hinge on Decision.

The New York Herald today has a story of the legal battle for the possession of the tract of land in section 30, the ownership of which is being disputed between A. M. Miller and Frank Eaton. It is not entirely new to Duluthians, but will be of interest, nevertheless. The Herald says:

"Eight million dollars in cash and possibly a much larger sum in profits, which are now only prospective, hang upon the United States supreme court's dispostion of the title to that tract of land known as section 30 in the famous Vermilion range, in Northern Minnesota. This suit, after long litigation, has now been brought to a final issue before the tribunal of last resort. Argument has been ordered for October. The case involves a tract which is generally believed to contain the richest deposit of Bessomer iron ore in the world. It is so valuable that the United States Steel corporation, it is said, stands ready to pay $8,000,000 for the rights which will be awarded to the victor in the long struggle for ownership. Of all who have hoped to draw riches from the mine since its discovery, only two interests have survived the winnowing process of the law. One of the contestants is the discoverer, a man who is practically without a dollar in the world. The other is A. M. Miller, who built the Savoy hotel in this city, and who held a controlling interest in it until he sold it to Judge Grow, of the New York supreme court. Mr. Miller is accounted a wealthy man.

Frank Eaton, a wandering prospector, in 1884 located the section under scrip issued by the government to Orillie Stram, a halfbreed Sioux Indian woman. She subsequently gave a deed of the section to Eaton. Examination of the claim showed an outcrop of exceedingly high grade ore etxending for a mile and estimated to be worth from $5,000,000 to $10,000,000.

"This discovery caused keen competition for the property, and Eaton's title was subjected to close scrutiny. Various interests sought to acquire it and in 1899 the Midway company, which is controlled by Mr. Miller, obtained title from the secretary of the interior, through Frank Hicks, on the ground that Eaton's location was illegal.

"Other claims were made, but the Midway company defeated them all, taking the case twice to the United States supreme court. Finally Eaton remained the only obstacle to its complete control and it began proceedings to have this title, founded on the half-breed woman's scrip, declared void.

"Judge Samuel H. Moer, of the Eleventh judicial district, who is now a member of the law firm of Moer & Edson, of this city, heard the case, and, much to the surprise of the Midway company, decided in favor of Eaton. The case was taken to the highest court in Minnesota, which sustained Judge Moer. It has now been carried to the supreme court of the United States.

"Thought the surface indications point to the conclusion that the mine is one of the richest in the country, not a cent has been expended in working it, while thousands of dollars have been paid in litigation. It is looked upon by experts as the best property in the range which has been made famous by the Chandler, the Soudan, the Tower and the Ely mines. The Vermillon mines are chiefly owned by the Minnesota Iron company, in which J. L. Greatsinger, now president of the Brooklyn Rapid Transit company, was formerly interested. In the Mesaba range, about thirty miles away, are the Rockefeller iron mines, which have already been acquired by the United States Steel corporation. Eaton, whose title hitherto has been upheld and who will be raised from poverty to wealth should the decisions stand which have been given, lives in Duluth. There is widespread interest among iron men in the final judgment."

The statement that $8,000,000 in cash hangs on the decision is news to the parties concerned in the suit here. So far as is generally supposed, no one knows the value of the land. It is supposed to contain a fine deposit of iron ore and if it does it will be of great value for Vermilion range ore is none to plentiful, but there have been no explorations as yet which give any idea of the value of the property. It may turn out to be worth no more than the money that has been spent in fighting the lawsuits. It is generally supposed, however, that the large interests fighting for the property know that there is good value there or they would not be contesting so stubbornly and expensively for it.

THE DAKOTAS

A June Snow Storm a Surprise to Old Settlers.

NORTH DAKOTA.

Jamestown—A June snow storm is an unusual thing, but one occurred Thursday throughout the Central and Northern portions of North Dakota. At Jamestown snow fell for two hours in the morning. A similar state of affairs was reported in towns on the Jamestown & Northern railroad. The snow quickly melted. Snow fell late in May in 1894, but the oldest settler fails to recall a similar occurrence in June.

Fargo—In the wrestling match Thursday night between J. J. Rooney, the giant gripman, of Chicago, and the Terrible Turk, No. 2, Rooney was given the decision. The Turk secured the first fall in eighteen minutes on a half Nelson. Rooney won the second fall with a similar hold in nine minutes. In the third the Turk repeatedly violated the agreement barring the strangle, and after frequent admonitions, which were disregarded, Referee Frenette gave Rooney the decision. The men had been on the mat fifteen minutes. The Turk challenged Rooney to wrestle, no holds barred, which was accepted and arrangements will be made for another match.

After a trial of several days in the United States court the jury decided in favor of the defendant in the case of the Great Western Elevator company vs. W. H. White, of Fargo. The later owns a line of lumber yards in this state and at Leonard William Clemens was the agent for both the elevator people and the lumber company. He committed suicide and is said to hafe been short in his accounts. The shortage is alleged to have all appeared on the accounts of the elevator company, which brought suit against Mr. White for an equal distribution.

It is reported that Attorney Tilly will institute habeas corpus proceedings in the case of Madame Massey, the notorious colored woman of Fargo. The supreme court recently decided against her on an appeal from a sentence of a year in the penitentiary by Judge Pollock. Her attorney will seek a rehearing.

SOUTH DAKOTA.

Sioux Falls—Capt. C. H. Van Slyke, an old and prominent resident of Sioux Falls, and a leading member of the G. A. R., dropped dead Wednesday night, after returning from the campfire on the island. As he alighted from his carriage he complained of feeling sick. His wife alighted just in time to prevent him from falling to the ground. He leaves a widow, two sons and a daughter. One son resides in Omaha and the other in New York city.

Yankton—A horse attached to a buggy in which were two little children of Mr. and Mrs. James Flannagan, one 4 and the other 2 years old, ran away and headed for the Missouri river. In turning, the older girl was thrown out, but the other lay in the bottom of the buggy helpless. The horse made a mad rush for the river and succeeded in gaining the bank, where fortunately it was caught and the little ones saved.

Deadwood—The famous perjury case of Peter C. Carberry is again on trial before Judge Moore. This is a case that was started over a year ago, when Carberry is alleged to have perjured himself in the trial of Caddy, who was said to have held up M. R. Russell in his saloon. This is the third trial Carberry has had.

The court fined C. J. Braun $150 or seventy-five days in jail. He is the man who obtained money on a false draft on an Iowa bank. He is believed to be insane on some things. He negotiated for a lease on a store building in this city and ran several extravagant bills, saying he was a wealthy man from Iowa. He will probably serve his time in the Lawrence county jail.

Lead—The Lawrence County Association for the Protection of Fish and Game is the name of an association of people who will attempt to stop the wholesale killing of fish and game in this part of the Black Hills. Congressman E. W. Martin was elected president, R. N. Ogden secretary and William Selbie treasurer. The membership will be extended to Spearfish and other cities in the county. The organization was effected primarily to stop the killing of fish in Black Hills streams by dynamite.

TO SEND REPRESENTATIVE.

Western Passenger Association Man at Duluth.

From Minneapolis comes the report that the Western Passenger association has decided to appoint joint agents for the Duluth and the Twin Cities, and as soon as the appointments are made the agencies will be opened and continued until fall, probably Oct. 2 or 25. The association is said to have deemed this action necessary because of the application of special excursion rates to this territory during this summer, which would naturally afford opportunity for ticket manipulation if precautions were not taken. The offices are to be self sustaining, a fee of 25 cents being charged for the execution of return portions of tickets at destination. In this way, it is said, the manipulation of ticket scalpers will be circumvented.

ORGANIZES ANOTHER.

M. C. French Projects a New Oil Company.

Owing to the striking of a good well on the Blue Grass properties said to be worth at least $50,000, considerable interest is now being manifested in the Kentucky oil fields. This interest reached such a heighth that M. C. French, who returned from there Sunday, organized the Daniel Boone Oil company by Tuesday night and without any charter being granted and only trustees' receipts being issued the first issue decided upon by the organizers, was over-subscribed by noon the next day, and part of the second issue has been taken at a 50 per cent advance. Said Mr. French:

"The stock of the Blue Grass Oil company has been taken off the market and the company expects to be in the ranks of producers as soon as the pipe line can be built. The Mountaineer Oil company has let a contract for three wells, the work to be completed as fast as night and day crews can drill them."

In Defenbach Case Are Being Made.

Chicago, June 7.—Today's session of court in the hearing of the Defanbach insurance conspiracy cases was occupied by counsel in their closing arguments. It is doubtful if the jury will retire before tomorrow. Counsel for F. Wayland Brown, one of the three defendants in the course of his address, declared Brown to have been the innocent victim of circumstances.

IN FAST COMPANY

Hansell Will Try Cummings, High School Pitcher.

Has Made a Great Record Thus Far This Season.

Glenney and Augustine to Pitch In Sunday's Game.

Al Cummings, the young student pitcher of the school of geometrical curves, will seek to demonstrate the utility of his speed and slants, in fast company, at Oneota Park tomorrow afternoon. Manager Hansell calculates that this experiment on Superior's academy of batting science will prove extremely interesting.

Many ball fans will rejoice that Cummings is to be given a trial. He is a wonderful young pitcher and with a fast team supporting him, there seems to be no reason why he should not hold Superior down to a few hits. At Aitkin recently he pitched against a team of hard hitters, and succeeded in striking out thirteen men. Aitkin only got five safe hits off his delivery. At Cloquet he made a killing by striking out about twenty in one game.

Cummings also has a way of sending in twisters with his left arm when his right gets tired. As many of the Superior men face third base when at the bat, his double-action system of twirling may prove extremely puzzling.

There will be another change in the Duluth team tomorrow. Si Bennett, the clever shortstop of the Big Duluth team, has been signed to play right field. He is as fast in the outfield as he is in the infield and the change should strengthen the team. Bennett is also extremely fast between bases.

In Sunday's game Glenney will pitch for Duluth and Augustine for Superior. That looks easy enough.

Tomorrow the teams will play as follows:

| Duluth. | | Superior. |
|---|---|---|
| Sturgeon.. | Catcher.. | Scott |
| Cummings.. | Pitcher.. | Hanley |
| Gardner, or Hansell.. | First base.. | Morgan |
| Cameron.. | Second base.. | Porter |
| Shepard.. | Shortstop.. | Duff |
| Connors.. | Third base.. | Riches |
| Randall.. | Left field.. | Hurley |
| Lambert.. | Center field.. | Mullaney |
| Bennett.. | Right field.. | Augustine |

Expressed By Brazilians In Call on the President.

Washington, June 7.—A number of officers of the Brazilian navy, in full uniform and accompanied by the Brazilian minister, Mr. Assis-Brazil, called at the White House today and had a pleasant exchange with the president. Later they called on Secretary Long at the navy department, and on other cabinet members. They also visited the navy yard and went to Mt. Vernon, where they deposited a beautiful wreath of immortelles on the tomb of Washington. The visits were expressive of the good will existing between Brazil and the United States, and were in return for the courtesy shown by the United States when President Campos-Salles was inaugurated, in having the Iowa and Oregon in Brazilian waters.

FOOD FOR SOLDIERS

Chief Commissary Tells of Rations In the Philippines.

Frozen Beef Is Found to Be Highly Satisfactory.

Health of Americans Depends Largely on Their Food.

Washington, June 7.—Maj. G. W. Ruthers, chief commissary of the department of Northern Luzon, in a letter to Commissary General Westen, dated April 15, says there are 338 stations in that department with about 25,000 troops, and that the supplying of an army of this size, divided into so many stations, is much more difficult than if it was an army in one body. Besides the troops, there were at that time several thousand prisoners, who were being fed by the government. The subsistence department, he says, is in superb condition, and many gratifying statements and reports are received from all the officers. Gen. Wheaton, in command of the department, has taken occasion, several times, to speak in the highest terms of the commissary department.

Maj. Ruthers devotes considerable space in his letter to the subject of beef supply. For the most part the meat ration served the troops is the refrigerated or frozen beef, although in some of the interior points, where there is neither rail or water transportation, this supply is necessarily curtailed. He had sent beef sixty miles into the interior with bull carts. He notes as a remarkable fact that this beef was transported through a country infested with Ladrones and small bands of insurgents, yet the cart drivers and supplies were not molested. He says they must have paid toll to the tribal chiefs, for had the supplies been accompanied by escorts there would have been a daily ambush.

He says there is need of more water transportation, and if he had it he would use more frozen beef, as the influence on the sick report is quite marked. The more fresh beef used the better the health of the troops. The native beef, from which the animal heat has not entirely departed, is not healthy.

Speaking of a particular feature of the army ration, Maj. Ruthers says:

"The beef stew with vegetables is the finest component of the ration ever put into the hands of troops. It will take the place of fresh beef, and the latter can be supplied for some time and with the addition of some hard tack, coffee, sugar, salt and baked beans, you could cut an army loose from its transportation for some time. It is the finest ration for 'hikes' ever put into the hands of a soldier and is highly praised by them."

Maj. Ruthers says for some time he used the English army rations (beef stew and potatoes) in 2-pound cans, which gave satisfaction, but does not compare to the beef stew issue of the United States army rations.

He also says that the standard emergency ration has given very good satisfaction. At the same time he adds:

"A ration of beef stew and vegetables, one pound of hard bread in tin and a tablet of chocolate, I would put against any so-called emergency ration ever manufactured, and it would not cause intestinal irritation, of which some complaint is made."

Another fact he states: "Experience shows that the American soldier serving in these islands needs the full army ration, including the full allowance of fresh beef; his health cannot be maintained without it. In addition his appetite apparently craves sweets and acids."

In this connection he mentions the demand for sauerkraut. Without abundance of nutritious food, he says, the health of Americans cannot be maintained in this climate. The health of Filipinos living on American foods, he says, is much better than those living on native foods.

Dyspeptics cannot be long lived because to live requires nourishment. Food is not nourishing until it is digested. A disordered stomach cannot digest food, it must have assistance. Kodol Dyspepsia Cure digests all kinds of food without aid from the stomach, allowing it to rest and regain its natural functions. Its elements are exactly the same as the natural digestive fluids and it simply can't help but do you good. Max Wirth.

Only one remedy in the world that will at once stop itchiness of the skin in any part of the body: Doan's Ointment. At any drug store, 50 cents.

ENGLISH REGATTA

Many Big Yachts Sail In Glasgow Exhibition Races.

Former Cup Challenger Shamrock II One of Participants.

Made Good Showing But Was Later Hopelessly Becalmed.

Rothesay, Firth of Clyde, June 7.—The Glasgow exhibition regatta opened today. The yachts started in a brisk, northwest breeze over a course in the form of a square, lying between the island of Bute and Ayrshire, giving a fair trial on all points of sailing. Twice around the course and a "distance" to Largs and back made a total of fifty miles sailed. The race was divided into two classes, both having special points of interest to Americans. In the first division the Shamrock I was pitted against the best single stickers in British waters. She was heavily handicapped under the British racing rules, giving the Meteor 45 minutes, 39 seconds, the Sybarita 42 minutes, 34 seconds and the Kariad 47 minutes, 4 seconds.

Interest in the second race centered in Charles F. Herreshoff Jr.'s new cutter Nevada. She was designed with little regard for the restrictions of the British racing rules and if successful will either set the fashion for British designing or force the racing association to materially modify the rules. Her competitors, the Lais, Carina and Tutty, were fairly representative of the work of British builders two seasons ago.

The four big yachts were sent off with full light weather canvas to a capital start. The Kariad, Meteor and Sybarita were beam and beam with the Shamrock I half a length astern. They had an easy five mile reach to the first mark. When the former cup challenger turned the first mark she led the Meteor and the Kariad by half a minute and the Sybarita by one minute twenty-four seconds. When the next leg was finished the Shamrock I led the Sybarita by one minute forty-four seconds, the Meteor by four minutes and the Kariad by over ten minutes. The wind then softened and the pace slackened.

In the other class the Nevada was well placed at the start, and in the softening wind ran ahead and passed the second mark one minute and thirty seconds ahead of the Carina, two minutes ahead of the Tutty and nearly three minutes ahead of the Lais.

On the last leg of the first round the Shamrock I showed well, and she passed the mark nine minutes fifty seconds before the Sybarita, which was two minutes thirty-eight seconds ahead of Meteor. On the second leg of the second round the Shamrock I was hopelessly becalmed off Cumbrae island, and all three of her rivals passed her there. After having sailed half of the first round in fine style, the Nevada was passed by the Tutty and the Carina and was third to finish the round five minutes after the Tutty.

AFTER NEGRO.

Mob Breaks Into Jail But Fail to Get Man.

Carrollton, Ga., June 7.—A mob of 300 white men broke into the jail here this afternoon in an attempt to secure a negro, named Williams. In front of the negro's cell the mob was confronted by Sheriff Merill, revolver in hand.

A fight ensued in which the sheriff shot and wounded two men, one of them, it is believed, fatally.

The mob fired on the sheriff, but he was not hit, although one bullet passed through his hat.

The mob dispersed without getting the negro.

Williams was to have been hanged today for the murder of John Ward, but the execution was postponed owing to an appeal made this morning.

Atlanta, Ga., June 7.—Governor Candler, at 2 p. m., ordered one company of militia to Carrollton by special train.

It is feared another attempt will be made to lynch Williams tonight.

FOUND.

Missing Package For Columbian Leader on the Philadelphia.

San Juan de Porto Rico, June 7.—The steamer Philadelphia arrived here yesterday evening and the missing package intended for Gen. Uribe-Uribe, the Colombian leader now in New York city, was found in the room formerly occupied by Luis Moret Munoz, a relative of the former president of the Federal party. Moret Munoz, as cabled to the Associated Press June 4, was placed in detention awaiting the location of the package. The package was found sealed and intact and addressed to Abel Mourilla. The captain of the Philadelphia was handed the package off Sandy Hook and wrote a letter to the company giving the facts in the case and sent it ashore by the pilot. The police here are now awaiting an order from New York police for the release of Moret Munoz, as it was upon their request that he was held. It is believed the package contains valuable Colombian documents besides currency. Munoz received the package in Caracs to deliver to Gen. Uribe-Uribe, but unintentionally left it in his stateroom, as already detailed, instead of delivering it to the person to whom it was addressed.

ADDED TO THE ROLL

Thousands of Names Are Placed on the Pension Lists.

Last Year's Figures Will Be Exceeded During This Year.

Extensive Fleet Maneuvers By the North Atlantic Squadron.

From The Herald Washington Bureau.

Washington, June 7.—(Special to The Herald.)—More names will be added to the pension roll the present fiscal year, which ends June 30, than were added the last year, when 45,344 names were entered. For the first eleven months of the present year the additions number 43,399. By the end of the month last year's figures will doubtless be passed.

There were 43,344 names dropped from the roll by reason of deaths and other causes last year, and the net increase was 2010. This year's net increase will be about the same. Of the names added this year 266 are on account of service prior to the civil war, 35,308 are on account of the civil war, 3525 are on account of the Spanish-American war, and the remainder, 4100, are restorations. In addition to this great army, 619 pensions have been granted, involving the payment of $927,314.40, an average of $1514.24 in each case. These cases are known as "old minors," and for the most part appear on the roll for only one payment.

The ttoal number of claims filed thus far on account of service in the war with Spain is 43,874. Under the act of March 3, 1901, providing for the reensioning of widows who remarried and again became widows, 1950 claims have been filed. There are now about 150,000 pensioners who, under the act of 1890, receive the maximum rate of $12 a month. In addition to 43,399 new pensions thus far granted, 50,680 certificates for increases, re-rating and accrued pensions have been issued, making the grand aggregate of certificates for all classes written during the eleven months 94,079.

Of the 466 new pensioners on account of services prior to the civil war, 2 are widows of veterans of the war of 1812, 112 are widows of soldiers, and 7 are survivors of the Indian wars from 1832 to 1842, and 325 are widows of soldiers and 14 are survivors of the Mexican war. Of the total pensions allowed on account of the Spanish war, 2369 are to invalids and 1196 to widows and dependents.

Plans have been completed by the navy department for the most extended series of fleet maneuvers by the North Atlantic squadron during the summer ever attempted by the navy and on a scale which will approximate some of the work cut out for the famous red and blue fleets operating by the British and English waters. While there will be fewer vessels included in the operations, they will have ample opportunity to demonstrate by practical test the feasibility or impracticability of the many problems which the ships will be expected to work out under direction of the naval war college.

Two important features never before attempted will be undertaken by the squadron, and aside from these there will be important evolutions in squadron formation to test the maneuvering qualities of ships singly and in squadron formation. The establishment of an outlying base for supplies and for the first trials with mines are to be included in the forthcoming program, which is to cover other questions as well. Nantucket, Martha's Vineyard, or some of the islands near the New England coast will be selected for the scene of operations. Near one of these the entire squadron will undertake to simulate the work that might be required in time of war when operating away from a base of supplies or in waters controlled by the enemy.

It is an accepted fact among naval strategists that no fleet is self-sustaining, and that for every battleship costing $5,000,000, auxiliaries in the form of supply vessels, colliers and scouts representing four times that sum are required to support ships acting away from home waters. It is to determine the expedition, facility and readiness of the fleet to establish such a base of supplies on shore that the fleet will attempt this summer to provide a thoroughly equipped base such as is required in war time. It is expected that any weakness in the present system of handling guns, men and ammunition between ships and shore will be thoroughly ventilated during the summer exercises.

Precisely the same rules will apply as though the squadron were at war and in some distant waters. Marines and sailors will be landed, the light guns taken on shore, ammunition and supplies landed and a large supply of coal, sufficient for the whole fleet, stored away. There will be sham battles, the landing of men under cover of the ships' guns, their embarkation under similar conditions and the protection of the approaches by submarine mines. The use of mines by the navy will be tested for the first time in the development of the new navy, and the extent to which they can be used to cover a retreat or pursuit.

Mines have never been employed in any of the taetical exercises of the navy, owing to the inability to perfect the mechanism necessary to work them successfully. Mines are believed to be essential to a fleet when in foreign waters, and if properly applied would have a deterrent effect upon an enemy attempting to enter harbors not controlled by the coast defense system. Orders directing the fleet to assemble at Newport for the exercises will shortly be issued by the navy department. About the same time the squadron begins its evolutions the general board, of which Admiral Dewey is president, will meet at Newport for the consideration of important policies relating to the navy which congress may be called upon to consider next session.

An interesting sketch of the agricultural schools of France and their work has been prepared by C. B. Smith for the year-book of the department of agriculture, which has just ben issued.

The sketch states that France has a much more comprehensive system than the United States, and that it is closer to the people. The system begins in the rural primary schools with the simplest facts of agriculture, extends through every phase of practice and theory in special schools, and culminates in a national institute where the highest forms of agricultural instruction are given by a staff of the first men of science of France.

France has in all twelve institutions for teaching agriculture in the first and second degrees, 43 for teaching the third degree, 34 for the pure practice of apprenticeship, 3362 fields of demonstration, 77 establishments for analysis and agricultural research and 214 departmental and special professors of agriculture, who give instruction yearly to 300,000 adult farmers and conduct agricultural classes in the normal schools for men in the rural primary schools.

The rural primary schools reach the masses. Their aim is to create in the pupils a love of nature and to give them a knowledge of the simplest facts in agriculture. The farmers themselves are taught by special professors, who conduct short courses specially adapted to the needs of the community and at the same time manage fields of demonstration, manifesting to the eye the theories presented and the value of scientific methods of cultivation.

The semi-private farm and practical schools for the training of the sons of farm laborers, peasant proprietors and the small farmer class ground them in the basic principles of agriculture and train the men who do the actual work on the farms. Above these come the schools for the sons of the large landed proprietors, together with the more advanced pupils from the lower schools. Here are taught the principles of the management of estates, together with instruction in agriculture, horticulture, forestry and veterinary science. At the top is the National Agronomic institute of Paris, where the latest facts in scientific agriculture in France and elsewhere are compiled and studied and where the teachers are trained. Students are also prepared there to take positions as managers of agricultural industries.

In response to a request to the state department concerning the cement trade, the two following reports have been received from our consuls:

Consul General Turner writes from Ottawa that the imports of Portland cement into the Dominion of Canada for the fiscal year ended June 30, 1900, were 1,313,170 cwts., of which the United States sent 55,668 cwts. The preferential duty in favor of England is 33 1-3 per cent, but, notwithstanding this fact, very litle strictly English cement is consumed in Canada. From all information, Mr. Turner says that more Belgian cement is sold than any other. It is said that greater quantities of Portland cement would be purchased from the United States were it not for the high railway rates. Foreign cement is brought entirely by vessels, and the rates are much cheaper, it can be landed in Ottawa for about one-third less than cement brought from the United States. The long duration of winter is a great drawback to a larger consumption of Portland cement in Canada. For five or six months of each year, cement cannot be used for outdoor work.

Consul Smith, of Victoria, says: "The imports of Portland cement into this district have increased largely during the nast few years, having risen since 1897 from 1000 barrels to 10,000 barrels. During the present year, the receipts were somewhat over that amount. In addition, there have been about 2500 barrels brought here by British naval vessels, for use at the Esquimalt naval station, which do not appear in the custom house returns. The value of the registered imports of Portland cement into this district during the year ended June 30, 1900, was $14,718.

"The cement used here is almost exclusively of English manufacture. It is brought around Cape Horn in sailing vessels as ballast at nominal rates of freight, largely by ships which have carried salmon from this port to England and would otherwise return to Victoria without cargoes. For this reason much of the cement used in Seattle and other nearby American cities is supplied from Victoria. Shipping facilities are good. There are two daily boats from Puget sound and a triweekly service via Port Angeles. There is also direct connection with San Francisco every fifth day. The matter of introducting Portland cement into Vancouver island is largely one of freights, which are nearly prohibitive. The rate from St. Paul to Victoria is 80 cents per 100 pounds, which would be $5.20 per barrel. To this must be added the cost of transportation to St. Paul from any interior point in the United States and the Canadian duty of 12½ cents per 100 pounds.

"An American syndicate, composed largely of owners of cement works in Chicago and New York, has recently bought land in the vicinity of Sidney, on Vancouver island, where arrangements are being made to start a large Portland cement factory. It is said that an abundance of clay, containing the necessary properties for the manufacture of this article, has been discovered at that point.

"In view of contemplated city improvements, the use of Portland cement will, no doubt, be largely increased during the coming year. It is believed the consumption in 1901 will reach nearly 20,000 barrels. I regret to say that until reduced freight rates are obtained, the prospect is not favorable for building up a trade in this district for cement manufactured in the United States." J. S. VAN ANTWERP.

MANY REPLIES

Received to Questions Put to Prominent People.

Chicago, June 7.—Replies of approximately 1100 prominent men to the questions of electing United States senators by direct vote and making a president ineligible for a second term have been put in form by an expert and will be submitted to the sub-committee of the advisory committee of the National Civic Federation late today. Seven men comprise the sub-committee. Their names never have been made public.

While great secrecy is being observed, it is believed the 1100 answers are about evenly divided, and that the sub-committee will turn the replies over to the advisory committee without recommendations. In connection with the question of making the president ineligible for a second term, opinions of the length of a single term were requested. It is believed a term of six or eight years is favored.

Wheat Started Out at Small Advance But Lost It.

Predictions of Killing Frosts In Northwest Caused Firmness.

Snow Estimates Crop of Country at 785,000,000 Bushels.

Duluth Board of Trade, June 7.—The wheat market started out firm and slightly higher this morning, the strength being due to the low temperatures in the Northwest, accompanied by frosts in some localities and predictions of killing frosts, but the price soon broke under the influence of heavy liquidation of long lines. The cables reported the close at Liverpool unchanged to 1d lower. The Argentine shipments were liberal, amounting during the week to 1,052,000 bus against 624,000 bus last week and 1,224,000 bus last year. Snow estimates the crop of the United States at 785,000,000 according to the present outlook. This is an enormous amount and added to the bearish feeling. The Modern Miller reported the crop as showing improvement. Harvesting has begun in Southern Illinois and Missouri. Primary receipts were 840,000 bus, last year 1,000 bus. Shipments 264,000, last year 856,000. Bradstreet reported exports of wheat and flour for the week at 6,334,000 bus, against 4,230,000 last year. Clearances of wheat and flour aggregated 460,917 bus. New York reported 61 loads of wheat worked for export at the seaboard today. A few loads were worked in Duluth. Effect of what at Duluth are expected to show no change this week.

Receipts at Duluth and Minneapolis, 341 cars, against 659 last week and 450 last year. Chicago receipts, 66 cars, 2 of contract grade.

Trading was fairly active on the Duluth board. July wheat opened 1c up at 73⅝c, declined to 73¼c at 9:36, sold at 73c at 9:37, touched 72⅞c at 10:40 at 72¼c at 12:10 and closed at 73c, a decline of ⅜c. Chicago declined ⅜@¾c and Minneapolis ½c.

Cash sales were 50,000 bus at ½c under July.

Coarse grains showed little activity. September flax advanced 2c, but otherwise coarse grains were unchanged in price.

Following are the closing prices:

Wheat—No. 1 hard, cash, 76c; to arrive, 76c; July, 76c; September, 71¼@¾c. No. 1 northern, cash, 73c; to arrive, 73c; July, 73c; September, 70¼@¾c. No. 2 northern, 69c. No. 3 spring, 65c. ## THE CHICAGO MARKET.

Weather Reports Created Firmness In Wheat.

Chicago, June 7.—Low temperatures in the Northwest with predictions of killing frosts proved conducive to marked firmness in the early part of today's wheat market; but heavy local liquidation of lines accumulated on the recent bulge quickly wiped out the advance. July opened ¼@⅜c higher at 73⅝@¾c, advanced to 74⅛c and fell to 73c. Argentine shipments were 1,052,000 bus against 624,000 bus last week and 1,224,000 bus a year ago.

After a further decline to 72⅝c on assertions that the damage in the Northwest was of an insignificant nature, the market rallied on covering to 73¼@⅜c. The close was easy, ⅛@¼c lower, at 73⅛@¼c.

Minneapolis and Duluth reported 341 cars against 650 last week and 450 a year ago. Local receipts were 66 cars, 2 of contract grade.

Corn was dull and influenced largely by wheat. July opened a shade to ¼@¼c higher at 43⅜@⅝c, rose to 43⅝c and reacted to 43¼c. Local receipts were 359 cars, 32 of contract grade.

July corn rallied to 44c, and closed steady, ¼@⅜c higher, at 43¾c.

Oats were slightly firmer. July opened unchanged to ⅛c higher at 27⅝@⅞c on weather conditions, improved to 27⅞c and reacted to 27¾c under liquidation. Local receipts were 201 cars.

Lard again was the feature of the provision market. There was fair demand, however, for all other commodities. July pork opened 5c higher at $14.67½ and improved 2½c; July lard opened 2½c to 5c higher at $8.37½@8.40, and sold up to $8.42½; July ribs opened 2½c higher at $7.95 and gained 2½c.

Close: Wheat—June, 72⅝c; July, 73¼@¾c; September, 70⅝@⅞c. Corn—June, 42⅝c; July, 43¾c; September, 44⅜c. Oats—June, 27½c; July, 25¾c; September, 26⅝c. MARKET GOSSIP.

Received over private wire of B. E. Baker, grain and stock broker, 307 Board of Trade, Duluth, Minn.:

Chicago, June 7.—Wheat—With the exception of frosts in Dakota, from which no damage is expected, the weather is generally favorable. Snow's estimate of the condition on June 1 indicates a yield of 785,000,000 bus, being 450,000,000 winter and 335,000,000 spring. The Modern Miller says general rains have improved the prospects, harvesting progressing southward and has begun in Missouri and Illinois. The tone of the local market is dull and dragging. The Kansas state report, while reducing the condition materially from the May report, estimates the acreage at 24 per cent over that harvested last year and the crop at 80,000,000 bus. With favorable conditions for the growing crop we see very little to make a bull market and advise selling wheat on the hard spots.

Corn—Cool weather throughout the West was the cause of local strength. Snow's report was rather bullish, saying the plant condition was feeble and likely to result badly unless June conditions are perfect. The market was quiet and the buying mainly in the way of covering shorts. Cash demand continues disappointing.

Oats—Snow makes the conditions of the crop 84.9 and is said this is the lowest June condition on record. This was the cause of the local strength. It induced covering of shorts.

The provision market opened a shade higher, but has lost part of the advance.

There was a much better general speculative trade, particularly in lard. Packers were the sellers of the product.

A SAGGING TENDENCY

Was Shown In Stocks at the Opening Hour.

Undertone Became Better and Some Stocks Advanced Sharply.

Closing Was Dull and Irregular---Bonds Were Quiet.

New York, June 7.—Notwithstanding sharp advances in tobacco stocks and one or two of the Southwesterns, the market generally showed a sagging tendency. Declines reached about a point in Pennsylvania and St. Louis & San Francisco. Three thousand shares of American Tobacco sold at 142½ to 143 compared with 140⅝ last night. Continental Tobacco was up 1¾. The stocks were affected by the organization of the new Consolidated Tobacco company to combine them. Kansas & Texas rose 1¾ and Missouri Pacific a point. Sugar, after opening unchanged, ran up over a point, allowing for the dividend off.

There was a somewhat abrupt uplift to prices of a few stocks which created unnecessary among the shorts and they covered heavily in the railroads and highpriced specialties. Rock Island made the most extensive rise of 3 points, but some of the Southwesterns and Southern railroads and coalers were more active and held smaller advances more tenaciously. Louisville improved 2 points and Pennsylvania, Erie, Ontario & Western, St. Paul, Denver preferred, American Car, Minneapolis & St. Louis, Union Pacific, Texas Pacific and Amalgamated Copper ruled 1@1¼ higher. Tobacco lost about all its rise but hardened again, and a rapid fall of 1¾ in Chicago & Alton was followed by a rally of 3. Union Pacific was offered freely when it crossed 110 and reacted 1¾. Other stocks weakened sympathetically. Rock Island's loss reaching 2. At 11 o'clock support was manifest in all spots, Brooklyn Transit and Metropolitan Street Railway rising 2¼, but the general tendency was lower.

Speculative interest shifted into various stocks which are ordinarily neglected. There were no new developments to account for the large advances some of them made. Leaders in this class were Pittsburg, Cincinnati & St. Louis, which rose 5, Iowa Central preferred 2⅝; Chicago & Eastern Illinois 2⅜, and Standard Rope. Rock Island & San Francisco second preferred, Iowa Central common, Pittsburg, Cincinnati, Cleveland & St. Louis, St. Louis & San Francisco common Hocking Coal, Delaware & Hudson and Pacific Coast were 1@2¼ higher. Movements in the active stocks were narrow, but the undertone became better when Louisville sold up to 110¾. American Tobacco fell off to 140 and Continental Tobacco receded below the opening. American Snuff issues, on the other hand, advanced 1 to 3 for preferred and common respectively. Bonds were quiet and irregular.

There was some selling of Union Pacific, Atchison and United States Steel, but the general list was sluggish and indifferent. American Snuff rose 1, the preferred 2⅞ and American Linseed preferred 3¼. St. Joe & Grand Island first preferred was marked up a point on the dividend declaration and Continental Tobacco preferred rose to about 121. The closing was dull and irregular.

STOCK GOSSIP.

Waldorf to Edwards, Wood & Co.—Among leading operators the theory obtained this evening that the reaction in the stock market, which is considered so freely natural was the result of profit taking and the efforts of important interests represent prices from skyrocketing. Good opinion is that the speculative situation is much improved by reactions and that purchases are in order on all recessions. The indications are that the heavy speculators and substantial interests are buying their specialties on a scale. The latter includes Southern Pacific, Union Pacific, the Atchisons, United States Steel, United States Leather and American Car Foundry stocks. The quieting down of speculation is welcomed by the largest houses in the street as the buoyancy of the first half of the week tended to encourage pyramiding and overtrading. The stocks sold on the reaction have lodged in strong hands and are expected to again become scarce. It will be disappointing to those who have been in touch with the market for some weeks if there is any further pronounced pressure to sell at least until prices have had a sharp advance. There is no question but that the short interest has heavily increased both in the railway and industrial lists. At the same time absorption of securities by investors continues in striking evidence. This is attributed to many signs of easy money, the absence of reaction in general trade and the presence of potent factors making for large earnings. In point of fact the heavy increase reported for standard railroad systems for the fourth week in May in gross earnings has fairly staggered the rank and file of skeptical traders. At the same time much stress is laid on the marked improvement that has made in the wheat crop prospects. All these considerations add to the weight of the argument that set backs in the stock market are purely speculative, that the legitimate side of the argument is the bullish one, particularly for traders who have courage to buy when prices look sick or heavy.

New York up town gossip to Jones & Co.—It was generally conceded last night that the stock market had shown the effect during the day of Keene's heavy liquidation of long stocks. Pending Mr. Morgan's return the market is likely to be feverish with the general public mystified as to its future and the insiders steadily absorbing on weak spots such securities as they most desire. United States Steel and low-priced coalers will come in for a very large share of their attention. It is expected that the bank statement tomorrow will not make as good a showing as last week. Nevertheless the liquidation of yesterday and the day before will tend to help it out in the matter of the loan item.

THE COTTON MARKET.

New York, June 7.—Cotton opened firm and up 5 to 10 points. Europe and the South were active buyers. All the foreign shorts were uneasy and bought enormously on every sign of stiffness in the market. In addition to the cables, the bulls were aided by drouth accounts from the Western belt, and reports of improvement in the condition of goods trade. The bears were harrassed by fears of manipulation in August as well as in July throughout the morning.

JESUS APPEARS TO PAUL.

International Sunday School Lesson For June 9, 1901.

Acts xxii, 6-16: "And it came to pass, that, as I made my journey, and drew nigh unto Damascus, about noon, suddenly there shone from heaven a great light round about me. And I fell unto the ground, and heard a voice saying unto me, Saul, Saul, why persecutest thou me? And I answered, Who art thou, Lord? And he said unto me, I am Jesus of Nazareth, whom thou persecutest. And they that were with me beheld indeed the light, but they heard not the voice of him that spake to me. And I said, What shall I do, Lord? And the Lord said unto me, Arise, and go into Damascus; and there it shall be told thee of all things which are appointed for thee to do. And when I could not see for the glory of that light, being led by the hand of them that were with me, I came into Damascus. And one Ananias, a devout man according to the law, well reported of by all the Jews that dwelt there, came unto me, and standing by me said unto me, Brother Saul, receive thy sight. And in that very hour I looked up on him. And he said, The God of our fathers hath appointed thee to know his will, and to see the Righteous One, and to hear a voice from his mouth. For thou shalt be a witness for him unto all men of what thou hast seen and heard. And now by tarriest thou? arise, and be baptized, and wash away thy sins, calling on his name."

Golden Text: "I was not disobedient unto the heavenly vision." Acts xxvi, 19.

SAUL THE PHARISEE.

Saul the Pharisee was a Jew of the most intense spirit in all things pertaining to his nation. He was especially zealous about his religion. He was born a Jew, up in the city of Tarsus, where his father had become a Roman citizen. Hence he was not only a Jew, but also a Roman citizen of a city in which he took great pride. But his parents did not permit his gentile affiliations to overshadow his hereditary faith. As a child he received his education, first in the home, and then at the Jewish synagogue. When he was from 13 to 15 years of age he was sent up to Jerusalem to sit under the tutelage of the great Gamaliel; for he had proven himself a bright pupil at home and in the Synagogue, and his parents entertained high hopes for his future as a Rabbi who might become one of the Sons of Light among the teachers of the nation. At the feet of Gamaliel Saul studied for many years, and grew to manhood under the spell of the high national hopes that were nurtured in the school of his distinguished teacher. He studied about the Messiah's coming as well as the things of the law, and no doubt yearned with every pious Jew for the appearance of the long expected One, at whose coming the nation's trials were expected to vanish away with the disappearance of the Roman yoke.

A new sect of the Jews was gradually rising under the leadership of the disciples of Jesus the Nazarene, who had been crucified at the order of Pilate on charges preferred by the Sanhedrin. The teaching of this new sect was inimical to the leadership of Pharisaism, for it taught that Jesus was the real Messiah, and yet he had not done the things which the Rabbis had said were to be expected from the Messiah at his appearance. Further, these leaders of the new sect taught strange and incredible things, to the effect that Jesus had arisen from the dead and ascended into heaven. Such teachings were not to be permitted. The idea of a crucified Messiah was unacceptable to the Pharisees, and the Sadducees objected strenuously to the doctrine of Jesus' resurrection. With the first appearance of an inclination on the part of the disciples to neglect the formalities of the law in the interest of the spiritual service of Jesus Christ, the disposition to persecute made its appearance and grew with alarming speed. The Sanhedrin itself took up the matter of stamping out the pernicious and hated sect. Saul, as a rising young devotee of the law, was used a great deal in the execution of the will of the leaders. He was so zealous in his efforts that he himself became a recognized leader in the movement. He arrested men and women and caused them to be imprisoned and beaten, and even put to death, because they confessed the name of Jesus. He did this in Jerusalem as long as he could find disciples of the Nazarene there to prosecute; then he went outside of the city wherever he could find objects of his religious hatred. The strangest thing about it all is the fact that he tells us that he thought he was thus doing God a service. He identified service of God with devotion to the law, and his conduct was the natural result of that error. After all, how easy is it for one to let his idea of the service of God become a narrow thing, synonymous with the whims or fancies of some man-made scheme of thought or life. The natural sequel to such a blunder is for one to try to force other people, or even adjust their wills, to walk with him the same narrow way of formal belief or life.

PAUL THE APOSTLE.

The contrast between Saul of Tarsus and Paul the apostle is very great if viewed from the point of the object of his enthusiasm. On the other hand, it redneces itself to a minimum when looked at from the standpoint of his personal enthusiasm and zeal for the performance of his duty as he conceived it. As a Pharisee he was assiduous in doing what his law of life required of him. As a believer in the risen Christ his attitude toward religious questions was entirely changed, but he was still the man of cultured intelligence and acumen, ready to do with all his might whatever he conceived to be the call of God upon him.

The story of Paul the apostle is the most heroic of any New Testament story save only that of Jesus. Had Paul continued to live as Saul the Pharisee, he would no doubt have become eminent as a Rabbi, but his influence on the world at large could never have become a thousandth part of what it is. His life and writings are too well known by every one who reads Christian literature to demand even a cursory notice here, and this fact of itself is sufficient to testify unmistakably to the greatness of his position in the Church. It was his missionary zeal and wise pastoral care that established Christianity firmly in Europe and that gave it a leading place in the ancient cities of Asia Minor. It was his judicious and yet fiery determination and leadership that saved Christianity from becoming a mere sect of Judaism, when even Peter seemed about to be carried away by the flood of Jewish influence in the church. The Epistle to the Galatians stands as a monument to the influence and spirit of Paul at that period. The mould of doctrine in the church through all the centuries of her history has been the writings of Paul more than any other one part of the Christian heritage of sacred literature. This is especially true of the days since the reformation. Aside from his ministry in the ways just spoken of, Paul has exerted an untold influence on the lives of men through his personal character, whose strength and courage have inspired many men of lesser light to do their utmost in the cause of truth and righteousness.

WHAT MADE THE DIFFERENCE.

The force of the passage of Scripture under present study can be appreciated only by studying it, as throwing light upon the question of what made the change in Saul. He had disbelieved the story that Jesus was risen from the dead, or else he would never have persecuted the disciples. A study of this and the other two passages in Acts, where the same story is recorded, and a study of Galatians, will reveal the fact that the great change came over Saul in response to the conviction that Jesus had actually risen from the dead. "Why persecutest thou me?" But one does not persecute the dead, neither do the dead speak such questions, or any other, for that matter. For him to be convinced that Jesus was risen from the dead was for him to yield the claim that Jesus was indeed the Messiah. And Saul was a man who did not hesitate to stand up for his convictions, let them lead him where they would. But when he began to preach, his theme was not the Messiaship of Jesus, but that he is the Son of God (Acts ix, 20). Of course he must break with his old associations. He knew that from the very beginning. But his heart was changed, and with it his desires for life and activity. He knew the call of Christ at once, and responded to it, "What shall I do, Lord?"

The experience which Saul had is not very different from that which each real believer in Christ has. Of course Saul received an objective manifestation of Jesus, but the spiritual experience was the same as that which comes to each person who knows that Jesus lives as his own personal Savior. Many a man has heard the statement of the facts of Jesus' life and death and resurrection, and has paid no especial attention to them, for they had no personal interest to him; but the day came when those same facts were presented to his mind, and, at once, there was a ready response. Call it the action of the Spirit of God on his heart, or a special revelation of Christ to him, or some favorable personal condition on his part, or whatever you will, it is really the moment when he perceives the spiritual reality of the Christian truth, and that that truth has its bearing on his personal life.

This story of Saul's conversion is put into the Sunday School lesson studies at this time because it adds one further evidence, to the many recently studied, of the fact that Jesus is really risen from the dead. Paul, like Thomas, was not easy to persuade of the facts. But he was persuaded even against his will, and he thereupon yielded himself, soul and body, to the service of the Nazarene. He became a witness of the facts, saying, "Am I not an apostle? have I not seen the Lord?"

KNOWING, SEEING, HEARING.

The noon-tide sun in Syria is so fiercely hot that travelers seldom continue their journey through the middle of the day, but, except in cases of great urgency, stop beneath some sheltering shade or by some cooling water. But Saul could not loiter along his way to Damascus for any reason whatever. His was business that required haste, for every hour permitted the hated disciples of Jesus to prosecute further their work of making converts. He was trying not only to cripple, but also to crush, stamp out, annihilate the new faith. The sun was in the zenith while Saul's company was pressing on to Damascus. He tells, specifically, that a light suddenly burst about him above the brightness of the sun. A voice spoke to him, and he answered it. The men who were with him saw the light and heard a sound as of a voice, but did not understand what it said. The glory of the light was so great that Saul could not see. The voice directed him to go into the city, telling him that there it should be made known to him what things he should do. A devout man, held in honor by all the resident Jews, Annanias by name, came to Saul and told him to look up and see, which he did. Then Annanias made known to the zealous servant of the Sanhedrin the message which God had sent unto him.

That message is all summed up in the fourteenth verse. God wanted Saul to know his will. It is well to note the fact that the expression "God of our fathers" meant, in the ears of Saul, the God whose service he had thought he was doing in persecuting the church. He had thought that he knew the will of God, but had been grievously mistaken. The Pharisaic legalists of Jerusalem had long since contravened that will. A new epoch was inaugurated in Saul's life by the revelation of the will of God concerning him. That will could never have been intelligible to him, however, unless he had first been persuaded of the resurrection of Jesus.

God had also appointed Saul as one who should see the "Righteous One." To accomplish that end, Jesus had appeared to Saul on the way. Paul afterwards spoke of himself as one born out of due time. But, nevertheless, he got his commission as an apostle as directly from Jesus as did any one of the twelve. On this fact he rests all his argument for personal independency, in the Epistle to the Galatians. He claimed there that no one of the apostles at Jerusalem had ever given him anything that he had not previously gotten from Christ; and, furthermore, no one of them had any right to dictate to him since he possessed as much apostolic authority as any of them, and had gotten it as directly from Christ as they had.

In receiving this direct communication from Christ, Saul heard his voice, as well as saw him. He was not disobedient unto the heavenly voice any more than he was to the vision. It was a voice that spoke in the conscience and will as well as in the ear, and Saul knew that it was the voice of God. It reached his heart; he arose, was baptized calling on the name of Jesus as a mark of belief in him, and went out at once to bear the tidings of the righteousness that is of faith in Jesus the Son of God who loved us and gave himself for us.

YERKES WINS.

Will Equip the London Street Railways With Electricity.

London, June 6.—A special meeting of the District Railway today sanctioned Charles T. Yerkes plan for the introduction of electricity as the motive power of the road. L. S. Forbes, the president, said the work would occupy two years. He had full confidence of the ability of Mr. Yerkes and his associates, who had already granted their good faith in buying up half the common stock. The Americans undertook to find the necessary money and do the work themselves. The president thought such a simple proposition did not need much argument to recommend itself to the stockholders.

The agreement with Mr. Yerkes provided for the formation of an electric traction company, to electrify the road. Mr. Yerkes, who represented sixteen of the most influential firms, bankers and capitalists, was ready to issue £1,000,000 to help the railroad relieve its position. The syndicate had already bought shares to the value of £1,250,000 and was ready to buy as many more. It had to construct a generating station at Chelsea, make the necessary alterations in the permanent way and construct fresh rolling stock. The traction company undertook to convert the line without interfering with a single train. Half a million of ordinary stock paid to the traction company was taken at the nominal price of £25 and £16. Five per cent interest was to be paid the Americans on the outlay. A syndicate of bankers had undertaken to put up £1,000,000 as security for carrying out the contract. Mr. Yerkes was present at the meeting, but did not speak.

THE THIRD TERM TALK

No One Close to President Takes Stock In It.

Originated With Class of People With Axes to Grind.

Fight For Nomination Three Years Hence Will Be Memorable.

From The Herald Washington Bureau.

Washington, June 6.—(Special to The Herald.)—No one who is close to William McKinley takes any stock in the undercurrent of third term talk that has recently been circulating in the atmosphere to a limited extent. It has been made plain to the politician of average intelligence that Mr. McKinley has no sympathy with the idea and will under no circumstances permit his name to go before the Republican national convention of 1904 as a candidate for a third term in the White House. It is a safe bet that the third term talk originated with a class of people with axes to grind and who wished to curry favor with the administration and help along their particular interests. It may not be out of place in this connection to recall the fact that President McKinley in 1880 was one of the conspicuous leaders in the fight against a third term for Gen. Grant.

The fight for the Republican presidential nomination three years hence promises to be a memorable and history-making contest. The impression obtained in Republican circles is that the nominee of the Republican national convention of 1904 will be Mr. McKinley's successor in the White House. The Republican leaders appear to think that the Democratic party is so badly divided and demoralized from its two recent national defeats that it will be practically impossible for its two leaders to pull it together and put up a really serious contest in 1904. All Republicans, however, at the national capital do not, it must be confessed, share this view. Here and there one will encounter a Republican of national reputation who will shake his head and say:

"Do not be too sure that the Democratic party will not be able to put up a stiff fight and give us a good fight for our money in 1904. I have read a great many obituaries of the Democratic party in my day and generation, but I have observed that it is a mighty hard critter to kill; that it has a very uncomfortable habit of coming up very fresh for a new round in the battle of politics."

But the great mass of Republicans in Washington, high, low and middle, firmly believe that their party will win with ease in 1904; hence the prediction that the next Republican national convention will not be either a ratification meeting or a love feast.

There are already fully a dozen prominent Republicans who may be said to have put up presidential lightning rods, and each one has friends quietly at work doing missionary work in his behalf. Before 1904 is ushered in it is safe to say that their number will be increased very materially. An opportunity will be offered for the playing of some very skillful politics on the Republican side during the next three years.

President McKinley's probable attitude is being discussed. The question is asked, perhaps somewhat anxiously in some quarters, will Mr. McKinley exert his personal influence in favor of the nomination of any particular man to be his successor? While no one has apparently been commissioned to speak authoritatively on this subject, the impression has gone abroad that the president has decided to maintain an attitude of strict neutrality in this matter. Beyond desiring that his successor shall be a member of his own party, Mr. McKinley, it is understood, has expressed no preference for any one. Whether he will maintain this attitude to the end of the chapter is, of course, merely a matter of conjecture. It might be natural for him to have a preference, but his close friends stoutly insist that under no circumstances will he attempt to interfere. Should he do so, they say it might result in a split in the party which would endanger the election of a Republican president, which is the one thing Maj. McKinley wishes to avoid.

The gentlemen who have had the distinction of being mentioned in connection with the next Republican presidential nomination up to date include the names of Theodore Roosevelt, Charles W. Fairbanks, John C. Spooner, Marcus A. Hanna, Joseph B. Foraker, Elihu Root, John W. Griggs, Henry Cabot Lodge, John M. Thurston, Benjamin B. O'Dell, Thomas B. Reed, Shelby M. Cullom and Chauncey M. Depew.

Not one of the above named statesmen would (with the exception of Senator Fairbanks and the possible exception of Roosevelt) admit except in the strictest confidence, and then not on any account for publication, that he had any serious designs on the office of president. At the same time, it is generally recognized that they are all in the field in the sense that they would not refuse to accept the nomination if it should light in their immediate neighborhood. And later on it is more than probable that they will come out into the open and make a square fight for the nomination. There is no good reason why they should not do so. They are all eligible from a constitutional viewpoint, and the old-fashioned theory that it was undignified for a man to openly and frankly seek the office of president of the United States has been pretty well exploded.

Col. Roosevelt has never made any concealment of the fact that he would like to be president. He has apparently had it in mind for a good many years, but whether he will capture the nomination of his party in 1904 is a very open question indeed. Many people seem to think that Col. Roosevelt was sidetracked, so far as his political future is concerned, when he was elected to the vice presidency, and it is also hinted in certain semi-official quarters that the administration would prefer almost any other man to Roosevelt as the Republican standard-bearer in 1904, all of which is highly important, if true. In the meantime it should not be forgotten that Roosevelt is rather an irrepressible personage, and that he has been leading the so-called strenuous life so long that it will be extremely difficult to keep him long suppressed, no matter if there should be a disposition to do so in high official quarters.

STRICTURE

"I cure Stricture without Cutting or Dilating. Thus avoiding the horrors of surgery."

MASTER SPECIALIST.

My original and strictly modern treatment for Stricture cures the disease without cutting or dilating, thus avoiding the horrors of surgery. It is the only treatment that should ever be used, and the only one recommended by the legions of men who have recently been cured by it. It acts immediately and directly upon the Stricture, dissolving it completely, and dislodging all diseased tissue, which comes away in strips or shred-like fiber, allaying all irritation and inflammation, and leaving the canal entirely free from obstruction and in a sound, healthy condition.

I cure also to stay cured Varicocele, Contagious Blood Poison, Nervo-Sexual Debility, Rupture, Kidney and Urinary Diseases and all reflex complications and associate diseases and weaknesses of men. To these maladies alone I have earnestly devoted the best years of my life. I make no charge for private counsel, and give to each patient a legal contract to hold for our promises. Is it not worth your while to investigate a cure that has made life anew to multitudes of men?

If you cannot call at our offices, write your symptoms fully.

AT WEST DULUTH

The annual inspection of the West Duluth fire department took place yesterday afternoon. The inspection began early in the afternoon at the fire departments down town, and among those present were the mayor, a number of the other city officers and representatives of the Underwriters' association. The exhibition put up by the West Duluth department was an especially fine one, and so perfect and exact were the movements of the men in making the hitch that they were heartily applauded by the crowd of spectators. Not a false move was made nor a strap misplaced to mar the clock-like work of the firemen, and the city officials were very well pleased with the inspection. An exhibition of the water pressure at the hydrants was made with three streams each thrown about ninety feet in the air. It was said that this was for the purpose of convincing people that ordinary conflagrations could be taken care of without the much-discussed engine, but some of the West Duluth citizens suggest that there has never been any doubt but that the hydrant pressure was sufficient for the protection of the frame buildings in the central part of the business portion of the town, but it has been the milling and manufacturing interests that have not received the proper amount of protection.

FOURTH OF JULY.

There is said to be a difference of opinion among the West Duluth merchants as to the Fourth of July celebration, whether one should be attempted in West Duluth, or the West Duluthians join in the celebration in other parts of the city. As was said in yesterday's Herald, the West Duluth business men have always been successful in a celebration for their part of the city, and it is merely a matter of unanimity whether another is held this year. There will be a meeting of those interested at Charles Boerner's store this afternoon to determine the sentiment of the majority of the business men.

PROWLERS

Are Still at Work, Robbing Two Places Yesterday.

House prowlers are again busy, separating Duluthians and their personal property. Yesterday they took $15 from a clairvoyant and $150 worth of valuables from a house on West Second street. The seeress does not know who prowled her room, and the police are as much in the dark regarding the other robbery as if they were clairvoyants.

Last evening between 5 and 6 o'clock, Mrs. W. F. Gladson, locked up her house at 704 West Second street and went down town. When she and Mr. Gladson returned at 6, they found that the house had been prowled in a most disorderly, and at the same time, a very expert manner.

A diamond solitaire, a smaller diamond, and a gold watch were missing. In the drawer in which the jewelry was found the prowler left two plain gold rings, a revolver and some other valuables.

The work resembled that of a man who recently prowled the house of Frederick Eva on Jefferson street. There was not the slightest sign of force having been used in gaining entrance to the house, and the supposition is that the prowler is equipped with a beautiful assortment of skeleton keys. He was seen loafing around the neighborhood when the Eva house was prowled, but no person seems to have seen him last evening.

Any person seeing a strange looking man snooping around the neighborhood all day would do well to quietly communicate with the police. The prowler's scheme is to watch as many houses as possible and when he sees a woman go out of a house and lock the doors its a pretty sure sign that the house is unprotected.

The prowling of the clairvoyant's room took place in the North Star hotel, on the Bowery. She left a pocketbook in her room while she was out for a moment. When she returned her pocketbook containing $15 was gone.

A guest at the Scandia hotel called at police headquarters long enough this morning to say that he got up and went to work this morning without removing a $75 check and $5 from underneath his pillow. When he went for the money it was gone. No trace.

FINE BERRIES.

Oregon Strawberries Are In the Market This Week.

The strawberries on the market are vastly improving in quality, and as a result prices are a bit firmer. Strawberries are now coming from all the way from the gulf up to Wisconsin, the berries from the latter state being the latest to ripen and seek the market. During the week the famous Hood River berries, from Oregon, came into the market, and they found a ready sale at somewhat higher prices than the others. As a commission man expressed it, they are "as nice as they can be painted." They are large, succulent and sweet, and they are colored a most temptingly rich red. They are selling at $3 to $3.25 per case, while the other berries are selling at $2.25 to $2.50, which is an advance of 25 cents per case on the latter berries within a week.

The orange stocks are getting pretty well cleaned up, and the prices are firmer, an increase of 50 cents a case having been noted. Potatoes are still scarce and high, a further increase in the price of old stock being noted. Old potatoes are now selling for 90 cents a bushel on Michigan street, while the new ones are firm at $2.25 to $2.50 per bushel. This is the only change in old vegetables, but there are a number in the new stocks. Lettuce is cheaper, while green peas by the bushel come 25 cents higher. Radishes are cheaper, while tomatoes are higher. Turnips are much cheaper, but wax beans are higher, while califlower is lower.

Asparagus has but a short time longer to stay with us, and those who wish to avail themselves of its supposed properties as a diuretic should hasten, as stocks are getting low and are filling up slowly, and the price is higher.

The lower grades of butter are cheaper, fancy dairies having been marked off 1 cent and packing stock 1 to 1½ cents.

The expected increase in meats has not yet arrived. Beef is slightly higher, having been put back at the price of 6½ to 7¼ cents, from which it was reduced ½-cent about a week ago. All of the other prices are unchanged.

There are pretty general changes in feed stuffs. Bran and shorts, as well as hay, are all off $1, while corn is off 2 cents.

Sent to Fergus Falls.

Louise Wolette, the "Moose," was examined as to her sanity in probate court yesterday afternoon, and the result of the examination was that the "Moose," protesting vigorously, but still somewhat tamer than she was when first arrested, was found insane and ordered sent to the asylum at Fergus Falls, where she went last night in charge of Deputy Sheriff Frank L. Magie and an assistant. She was not particularly wild during the examination in probate court, but persisted in "flopping," like the wife of the grave robber in "The Tale of Two Cities," and praying.

Hopeful News Concerning Mrs. McKinley.

Character of Her Illness Is Made Public.

Washington, June 8.—Mrs. McKinley's physicians were in consultation about two hours today and subsequently a very complete statement of the true character of the illness from which she has been suffering, was issued. Such a statement has been promised from time to time and while in San Francisco it was said that the president desired a fuller announcement of the nature of Mrs. McKinley's illness given to the public. But, for one reason or another, it has been withheld up to the present time. The bulletin is as follows:

"Mrs. McKinley's illness has been a blood infection resulting from periostitis of the index finger (bone felon) which began in Los Angeles and which was promptly treated by incision. The subsequent condition of exhaustion was due to the same blood infection aggravated with a severe diarrhoea. She improved, however, and was brought home in comfort and very little loss of strength. The chief cause of anxiety since her arrival in Washington has been acute endicarditis (inflammation of the lining membrane of the heart) involving the mitral valve, the result of the same blood infection. This does not appear to be progressive and there has been an improvement in the diarrhoea and in her general condition. Mrs. McKinley's case at the present time presents a more cheerful aspect."

The statement that Mrs. McKinley's case at this time presents a more hopeful aspect is the best word that has come from the sick room since the arrival of the distinguished patient in Washington. The president feels considerably encouraged. Today was Mrs. McKinley's birthday and many beautiful flowers and gifts were left at the White House for her.

JUMPED FROM WINDOWS

Fire In Chicago Hotel Caused a Bad Panic Among Guests Who Jumped and Were Badly Injured.

Chicago, June 8.—Seven persons were hurt early today escaping from a fire in the Golden West hotel, 123-125 West Madison street. The fire started on the second floor, and, though it did little property damage, thoroughly frightened the guests, who jumped from windows of the second and third floors. The injured:

Nicholas Godzen, proprietor, bruised about head and body; Jacob Wirth, jumped from third story window, both legs injured; Rose McKenna, jumped from third story window, body crushed; Albert Weston, jumped from second story window, body bruised and hurt internally; Mrs. Albert Weston, jumped from second story window, body bruised and legs sprained; William McCarber, Oak Glenn, Ill., jumped from third story window, body bruised and arms cut. All will recover.

LAWSON TO SHOW THEM

The Independence Will Enter Outside Races and Demonstrate What a Modern Boston Boat Can Do.

Boston, June 8.—Thomas W. Lawson today issued the following statement:

"It now having been settled that the Independence cannot take part in the cup defense, I will do all I can to arrange as many races as possible for her until the season closes, that she may show her friends what a modern Boston boat can do.

"Her first engagement is the race at Newport against the Constitution and Columbia July 2, 4 and 6."

Further than this Mr. Lawson would not discuss the matter. Mr. Lawson's position has made known to the New York Yacht club in the following letter:

"Boston, June 6.—Commodore Lewis Cass Ledyard, chairman of committee, New York Yacht club—Dear Sir: Your letter of yesterday, with enclosure, received. I agree with you that further discussion can serve no useful purpose. Believe me, yours very truly,

"THOMAS W. LAWSON."

IN A HOPELESS TANGLE

Ministers Cannot Straighten Out Issues and the United States Again Appeals For Reference to The Hague Tribunal.

Washington, June 8.—The United States government has again appealed to the powers to submit the recent issues at Pekin over the indemnity proposition to the arbitration of The Hague tribunal. Mr. Rockhill, who has been watching for an opportunity, cabled Secretary Hay last night for permission to make a proposition and the secretary, this morning, cabled him authority to do so. It is believed that the ministers at Pekin have become involved beyond extrication in the present issues and this proposition may be the only way out.

SUDDEN STOP.

Illness of Counsel Causes Postponement of Defenbach Case.

Chicago, June 8.—The Defenbach conspiracy case was brought to a sudden temporary stop shortly after court opened today by the illness of former Congressman J. J. McDonald, attorney for Dr. Unger. McDonald fainted in the midst of his speech yesterday, but appeared in court today. He attempted to talk, but failed pitifully. A physician who was summoned declared the lawyer would not live ten minutes if he attempted to address the jury, and Judge Tuley accordingly declared court adjourned until Monday, when an attempt will be made to finish the arguments and give the case to the jury.

FELL FROM DOME.

Buffalo, June 8.—Commander J. H. Bull of the United States navy, in charge of the hydrographic service on the Pan-American grounds, fell from the dome of the government building today and was probably fatally hurt.

SIGNED BILLS.

Harrisburg, Pa., June 8.—Governor Stone has signed the Emery and Foicht rapid transit bills.

CENSUS FRAUDS.

Attorney Ching Found Guilty at Baltimore.

Baltimore, June 8.—The jury in the census fraud cases has returned a verdict finding Joseph H. Ching, an attorney of St. Mary's county, guilty on the fourth count of the indictment for conspiracy with Guyther, who pleaded guilty, but was not placed on trial. On all other counts the verdict is not guilty.

Graves, Bowles and Abell, who were jointly indicted on the same charge were found not guilty.

WILL QUIT.

Students Will Leave If Tubbs Is Removed.

Salina, Kans., June 8.—Practically all of the students of the Wesleyan university here have threatened to quit the institution forthwith if the board of trustees shall insist upon removing F. D. Tubbs, professor of natural science, whose name was dropped from the faculty list on Thursday, owing, it is alleged, to his ideas on evolution.

A secret meeting of the executive board has been held to listen to a defense of Dr. Tubbs by the students, who protested vigorously against the removal.

BANK OF BILLIONS

J. P. Morgan Now Engaged In a Colossal Financial Undertaking.

Anglo-American Bank With Billion Dollar Capital Proposed.

Capitalists on Both Sides of the Water Are Interested.

New York, June 8.—According to the London correspondent of the World, it is reported there that J. P. Morgan is engaged in arranging for the establishment of a great Anglo-American bank, with a capital of $,000,000,000. It is said that it is proposed to abolish all of the principal financial agencies and banks already engaged in Anglo-American business. The proposed institution, it is said, is intended to be the principal agency for the already vast and rapidly growing banking transactions between Europe and America.

Mr. Morgan is understood to have associated with him in the stupendous undertaking not only the principal capitalists who aided in the organization of the United States Steel corporation, but also the Rosthchilds.

Locally the World says: Several times since the panic of May it has been reported in Wall street that Mr. Morgan intended to organize a bank with $100,000,000 capital. These reports have been invariably denied at the offices of J. P. Morgan & Co.

The creation of a bank with a capitalization of a billion dollars is an undertaking of a nature so colossal that nothing approaching it has ever been hinted at before. The aggregate of the capitalizations of the sixty-four national banks in great New York is barely $100,000,000. Two banks only are capitalized at $10,000,000 each—the National City and the National Bank of Commerce. The greatest bank in the world, the Bank of England, has a capital of £14,553,000 sterling, or about $72,765,000. The Bank of France has a capital of 182,000,000 francs, or about $36,500,000. The combined capitalizations of the Bank of France, the Deutsche Bank of Berlin, the Bank of Spain, the Bank of England and the Banque Imperiale Ottomans, the government of Turkey, falls far short of $1,000,000,000.

When it was reported last month that Mr. Morgan intended to organize a bank in this city with a capital of $100,000,000, the project was declared to be impracticable by conservative bankers, because of the laws which impose a tax on the capitalization of such institutions.

August Belmont, the New York representative of the Rothschilds who, according to the London dispatch, are associated with Mr. Morgan in the vast banking scheme, is not at home, and nothing can be learned concerning the organization of the mammoth bank.

DOING WELL.

British Capture Two Laagers and Take More Prisoners.

Cape Town, June 8.—The British surprised two Boer laagers at different points in Cape Colony Thursday night and captured 15,000 rounds of ammunition and a quantity of supplies.

A railroad wreck occurred near Pretoria June 7, in which nine soldiers were killed and many injured.

DISSIPATED.

The Excitement at Manila Occasioned By Tariff Rumors.

Manila, June 8.—A dispatch received here yesterday saying the Philippine tariff stands until the new tariff which is being framed in Washington is put in force dissipated the excitement occasioned by Col. Edwards' Washington dispatch indicating the abolition of the Philippine tariff. Collector Smith's anual report will show that the amount, in gold, of duties collected is as follows: Imports for the thirty-two months of the American occupation, $14,315,000; exports, $1,598,250.

The total values of the imports and exports and the amount of the duties and tonnage are all more than doubled, as compared with the average of any decade during the Spanish regime.

IMMIGRANTS.

Ignorant Lot Gathered In at Manila.

Washington, June 8.—hTe total number of immigrants arriving at Manila from July to November, 1900, was 6203 of whom 507 were females. Of the total number arriving 5509 had been in the Philippines before, 3002 could neither write or read and 1517 brought $30 or more in money.

Of the total number arriving during said period 4671 were Chinese, 594 Americans, 215 Spanish, 143 English and 82 Japanese.

VIRGIE'S HUSBAND COMING.

Liverpool, June 8.—The Cunard liner Umbria, which sails from this port today for New York will have among her passengers Viscount DeErhurst son of the earl of Coventry, and husband of Virginia, daughter of Charles W. Bonynge, formerly of California.

DECREE RESCINDED.

London, June 8.—Sir Francis Jeune, president of the probate, divorce and admiralty division of the high court of justice, has rescinded the decree of divorce granted to the marchioness of Anglesey Nov. 7 last. The arguments on the application of the rescinding of the decree were heard in Camera.

COLLAPSED

Lulu Prince Kennedy Becomes Hysterical.

Necessary to Carry Her From Court Room.

Kansas City, June 8.—Lulu Prince Kennedy, on trial for killing her husband, Philip Kennedy, collapsed in court today and necessitated the adjournment of the trial until Monday. Since the shooting last January, in the office of Kennedy, who was contracting agent of an Eastern transportation company, the prisoner has shown remarkable fortitude. But today, when Judge Wooford ruled as admissible the evidence of Bertie Litchfield regarding the conversation with Bert Prince, a few moments after the shooting, the prisoner began to sob and, finally, became so hysterical that it was found necessary to carry her from the room.

Miss Litchfield testified to having seen Bert Prince on the floor above Kennedy's office a moment after the shooting. "I told him," said witness, "that I had been down stairs and that some one had been hurt. He replied: 'Lulu did it. She gave him what was coming to him. He did not treat her right and she fixed him.'"

It was at this point that the prisoner collapsed and the session abruptly came to an end. It has been the theory of the prosecution that Bert Prince, with his brother William and C. W. Prince, the father, all of whom are awaiting trial on a charge of complicity in the killing, conspired with Mrs. Kennedy, and that the members of the family were watching the different exits to prevent Kennedy's escape.

TROUBLE ON BOUNDARY

The Canadian Line Moved South Bringing Several Valuable American Mines Into the Dominion Territory.

Vancouver, B. C., June 8.—Trouble has occurred at the international boundary line in the Mount Baker mining disrict, and as a result American owners of mines who are suffering are protesting to the Canadian government outhorities. When the American government boundary line surveyor, Mr. Sinclair, finished determining the line in this district, he found that it was 3840 feet farther south than it was supposed to have been for the last three years. Two thousand feet of two of the most valuable mines in the district—the Golden Chariot and the Golden Standard, owned by Seattle and New York parties—were shoved over into Canada. Canadians jumped all this ground, which had not been staked according to Canadian regulations and was not recorded on this side of the line. An appeal was wired to the authorities at Ottawa by the American owners, but the claim jumpers are still busy, some of the claims running very rich.

MYSTERIOUS MISSION

Mrs. Botha, Wife of Boer Commander, Visits England But Declines to State Object of Her Visit.

London, June 8.—Mrs. Louis Botha, wife of the Boer commandant general, arrived at Southampton this morning on board the steamer Dunevan Castle. She refused to grant an interview, but a son of ex-Secretary of State Fischer, who accompanied her, informed a reporter of the Associated Press that Mrs. Botha was going straight to London and later would proceed to Holland and Belgium, but that the date of her departure for the continent had not been fixed. Mr. Fischer was unable to confirm or deny the report that Mrs. Botha had come to Europe on a peace mission. He was released on parole in order that he might accompany her.

The British war office knows nothing of the alleged request of Gen. Botha, the Boer commander for a conference with Lord Kitchener at Standerton. The officials here point out that if any request of the kind had been made, Lord Kitchener would have immediately notified the government.

The Paris Duellists Do Better on Their Second Appearance and the Honor of the Journalist Is Satisfied.

Paris, June 8.—The duel with swords, which was begun yesterday in the Parc des Princes, between Max Regis (the anti-Semite mayor of Aiglers) and M. Laberdesque, an Algerian journalist, and which was adjourned after nineteen resultless rounds had been fought, was resumed this morning. M. Regis was seriously wounded in the forearm, a copious flow of blood resulting and the duel was thereupon stopped.

The seconds, however, subsequently became involved in a lively altercation, which will possibly lead to another duel.

The duel today lasted only a few seconds. M. Laberdesque, who is a fine swordsman, yesterday confined himself to the defense, but this morning, after half a dozen passes, he lunged and pinked M. Regis in the right forearm. The latter wished to continue the duel, but the seconds refused to let the fight continue.

A quarrel then broke out among the seconds and several spectators and others. Several challenges were exchanged, and finally friends succeeded in leading away M. Regis, who was furious over the seconds' decision. Before he left the ground M. Regis shouted to M. Laberdesque: "I fought you to show I was not afraid of your sword. You are, nevertheless, an assassin."

Hopeful News Concerning Mrs. McKinley.

Character of Her Illness Is Made Public.

Washington, June 8.—Mrs. McKinley's physicians were in consultation about two hours today and subsequently a very complete statement of the true character of the illness from which she has been suffering, was issued. Such a statement has been promised from time to time and while in San Francisco it was said that the president desired a fuller announcement of the nature of Mrs. McKinley's illness given to the public. But, for one reason or another, it has been withheld up to the present time. The bulletin is as follows:

"Mrs. McKinley's illness has been a blood infection resulting from periostitis of the index finger (bone felon) which began in Los Angeles and which was promptly treated by incision. The subsequent condition of exhaustion was due to the same blood infection aggravated with a severe diarrhoea. She improved, however, and was brought home in comfort and very little loss of strength. The chief cause of anxiety since her arrival in Washington has been acute endicarditis (inflammation of the lining membrane of the heart) involving the mitral valve, the result of the same blood infection. This does not appear to be progressive and there has been an improvement in the diarrhoea and in her general condition. Mrs. McKinley's case at the present time presents a more cheerful aspect."

The statement that Mrs. McKinley's case at this time presents a more hopeful aspect is the best word that has come from the sick room since the arrival of the distinguished patient in Washington. The president feels considerably encouraged. Today was Mrs. McKinley's birthday and many beautiful flowers and gifts were left at the White House for her.

The Independence Will Enter Outside Races and Demonstrate What a Modern Boston Boat Can Do.

Boston, June 8.—Thomas W. Lawson today issued the following statement:

"It now having been settled that the Independence cannot take part in the cup defense, I will do all I can to arrange as many races as possible for her until the season closes, that she may show her friends what a modern Boston boat can do.

"Her first engagement is the race at Newport against the Constitution and Columbia July 2, 4 and 6."

Further than this Mr. Lawson would not discuss the matter. Mr. Lawson's position has made known to the New York Yacht club in the following letter:

"Boston, June 6.—Commodore Lewis Cass Ledyard, chairman of committee, New York Yacht club—Dear Sir: Your letter of yesterday, with enclosure, received. I agree with you that further discussion can serve no useful purpose. Believe me, yours very truly,

Mr. Rockhill, who has been watching for an opportunity, cabled Secretary Hay last night for permission to make a proposition and the secretary, this morning, cabled him authority to do so. It is believed that the ministers at Pekin have become involved beyond extrication in the present issues and this proposition may be the only way out.

Illness of Counsel Causes Postponement of Defenbach Case.

Chicago, June 8.—The Defonbach conspiracy case was brought to a sudden temporary stop shortly after court opened today by the illness of former Congressman J. J. McDonald, attorney for Dr. Unger. McDonald fainted in the midst of his speech yesterday, but appeared in court today. He attempted to talk, but failed pitifully. A physician who was summoned declared the lawyer would not live ten minutes if he attempted to address the jury, and Judge Tuley accordingly declared court adjourned until Monday, when an attempt will be made to finish the arguments and give the case to the jury.

BANK OF BILLIONS

J. P. Morgan Now Engaged In a Colossal Financial Undertaking.

Anglo-American Bank With Billion Dollar Capital Proposed.

Capitalists on Both Sides of the Water Are Interested.

New York, June 8.—According to the London correspondent of the World, it is reported there that J. P. Morgan is engaged in arranging for the establishment of a great Anglo-American bank, with a capital of $,000,000,000. It is said that it is proposed to abolish all of the principal financial agencies and banks already engaged in Anglo-American business. The proposed institution, it is said, is intended to be the principal agency for the already vast and rapidly growing banking transactions between Europe and America.

Mr. Morgan is understood to have associated with him in the stupendous undertaking not only the principal capitalists who aided in the organization of the United States Steel corporation, but also the Rosthchilds.

Locally the World says: Several times since the panic of May it has been reported in Wall street that Mr. Morgan intended to organize a bank with $100,000,000 capital. These reports have been invariably denied at the offices of J. P. Morgan & Co.

The creation of a bank with a capitalization of a billion dollars is an undertaking of a nature so colossal that nothing approaching it has ever been hinted at before. The aggregate of the capitalizations of the sixty-four national banks in great New York is barely $100,000,000. Two banks only are capitalized at $10,000,000 each—the National City and the National Bank of Commerce. The greatest bank in the world, the Bank of England, has a capital of £14,553,000 sterling, or about $72,765,000. The Bank of France has a capital of 182,000,000 francs, or about $36,500,000. The combined capitalizations of the Bank of France, the Deutsche Bank of Berlin, the Bank of Spain, the Bank of England and the Banque Imperiale Ottomans, the government of Turkey, falls far short of $1,000,000,000.

When it was reported last month that Mr. Morgan intended to organize a bank in this city with a capital of $100,000,000, the project was declared to be impracticable by conservative bankers, because of the laws which impose a tax on the capitalization of such institutions.

August Belmont, the New York representative of the Rothschilds who, according to the London dispatch, are associated with Mr. Morgan in the vast banking scheme, is not at home, and nothing can be learned concerning the organization of the mammoth bank.

The Excitement at Manila Occasioned By Tariff Rumors.

Manila, June 8.—A dispatch received here yesterday saying the Philippine tariff stands until the new tariff which is being framed in Washington is put in force dissipated the excitement occasioned by Col. Collector Smith's anual report will show that the amount, in gold, of duties collected is as follows: Imports for the thirty-two months of the American occupation, $14,315,000; exports, $1,598,250.

The total values of the imports and exports and the amount of the duties and tonnage are all more than doubled, as compared with the average of any decade during the Spanish regime.

COLLAPSED

Lulu Prince Kennedy Becomes Hysterical.

Necessary to Carry Her From Court Room.

Kansas City, June 8.—Lulu Prince Kennedy, on trial for killing her husband, Philip Kennedy, collapsed in court today and necessitated the adjournment of the trial until Monday. Since the shooting last January, in the office of Kennedy, who was contracting agent of an Eastern transportation company, the prisoner has shown remarkable fortitude. But today, when Judge Wooford ruled as admissible the evidence of Bertie Litchfield regarding the conversation with Bert Prince, a few moments after the shooting, the prisoner began to sob and, finally, became so hysterical that it was found necessary to carry her from the room.

Miss Litchfield testified to having seen Bert Prince on the floor above Kennedy's office a moment after the shooting. "I told him," said witness, "that I had been down stairs and that some one had been hurt. He replied: 'Lulu did it. She gave him what was coming to him. He did not treat her right and she fixed him.'"

It was at this point that the prisoner collapsed and the session abruptly came to an end. It has been the theory of the prosecution that Bert Prince, with his brother William and C. W. Prince, the father, all of whom are awaiting trial on a charge of complicity in the killing, conspired with Mrs. Kennedy, and that the members of the family were watching the different exits to prevent Kennedy's escape.

HE GETS THE HONOR

Father Alfred of West End Receives a Distinction.

Is Selected to Be Prior of Monastery at Cluny, Ill.

Came to Duluth Three Years Ago From St. Paul.

By special appointment of Pope Leo XIII, Rev. Alfred Mayer, O. S. B., pastor of St. Clements' church at Twentieth avenue west, has been chosen prior of the Benedictine monastery at Cluny, Ill. The former prior, who died last January, was Rt. Rev. Oswald Moosmueller, O. S. B., a man of wide learning and the author of a number of historical and philosophical works. A candidate to succeed him was proposed from each of the more important Benedictine abbeys of the United States, and their names, together with the recommendations of the clergy, were sent to Rome. The list was submitted to Leo XIII, and from it he selected the name of Father Alfred.

The new dignity carries with it the title of right reverend, the same as that borne by an abbot and by a bishop. Besides their monastery and other buildings, the monks of Cluny own several hundred acres of fertile land, one of the finest farms in that section of Illinois, which is cultivated by lay brothers and by hired labor.

Before coming to Duluth nearly three years ago, Father Alfred was pastor of one of the largest churches of St. Paul. He has been closely identified with the German Catholic societies of Minnesota and was a prominent figure at their annual conventions. His congregation at St. Clements is large and flourishing, and the regret at losing a tireless worker and a pious and exemplary priest is mingled with the joy his flock feels at his promotion. The right reverend prior will leave Duluth the latter part of the month for his next charge. For the present his assistant, Father Philip, O. S. B., will take charge of the parish.

A RECEIVER.

James C. Hunter Asks One For Scott-Graff Company.

Judge Dibell, in district court, is hearing the application of James C. Hunter for a receiver for the Scott-Graff Lumber company. The matter was taken up yesterday, and last evening an adjournment was taken to Monday morning with the case only fairly started.

Mr. Hunter is the owner of a considerable block of stock in the company, but he is a minority stockholder, and he claims that the other members of the company are running its affairs to suit themselves and for their own profit largely, and that they are so manipulating matters that he is not getting a fair return out of his investment. He does not ask to have the affairs of the company wound up, but he asks that a receiver be appointed to conduct it.

He makes several charges. One is that the company is doing a class of business not authorized by its articles of incorporation in taking logging contracts. He claims that the stockholders in control have been using company property for their own profit, that they have manipulated its affairs to suit themselves, and that they are trying to force him to sell out at their figures.

In the testimony yesterday, when the majority stockholders were on the stand under cross-examination under the statutes, it was shown that P. M. Graff, who is a director, does not own any stock in the company. His brother, E. D. Graff, was shown to be president of the company at a salary of $2500 a year, while he lives in another place and only comes here for a short time each year.

The company is very prosperous and is one of the largest and most successful manufacturing institutions at the head of the lakes. It is said that it has made $200,000 in the past two or three years. It has a large plant in the West End for the manufacture of lumber, sash and doors and other fancy timber products, and it employs 150 men constantly.

IT PROVES A FIZZLE

Commissioners Cannot Agree on Division of Road Money.

Mr. Berdie Does Some Blustering Over It.

He Talks of Blocking New Court House Idea.

Without very much business to do, the board of county commissioners is succeeding in spreading out the June meeting over a good deal of time. And yet there is one item that the board has to settle that is proving to be quite a bit of business, for it has caused the meeting to last all of yesterday afternoon and all of this morning, and brought about a continuance to next Monday afternoon.

That is the division of the road money levied last year and available this year. There is about $21,000 for the board to spend on roads, and there are two more members than before to help spend it. The result is that the demands will be nearly twice what there is to spend.

The solving of this problem is what is causing such deep perturbation in the minds of the commissioners. It led this morning to some little feeling, as when Commissioner Berdie walked up and down the floor in disgust and spake thus:

"You fellows keep on monkeying with the people up on the range, and you'll get your court house about next century. I don't think," he added with an air of waggish sarcasm.

"You can't drive us that way," responded Commissioner Patterson, mildly.

After several trials at reaching an agreement, the board adjourned to Monday afternoon, on motion of Commissioner Kugler, when the matter will be taken up again.

Aside from this, little was done except to pass the bills and pay rolls and act upon a lot of applications for tax relief.

TOO AFFECTIONATE.

Carrie Halverson Gets Into Trouble Again.

Last evening Thomas Hackett met informally a tearful person, who asked him to direct her to Twentieth avenue west. She and her aunt lived there, she said, and she lost her way a few hours earlier while attending some sort of a funeral.

Hackett tarried, consoled and advised the sobby blonde. His kindness was so fatherly that she temporarily forgot her grief and became hilarious.

She confided that her name was Carrie Halverson. He had seen the name used frequently in connection with 10-day police court sentences and sought to excuse himself.

"I must away," said Hackett.

"No, no!" quoth the maiden. And she threw her arms around his neck and went through the usual motions considered to denote grief at parting. An officer heard them and arrested both.

In police court this morning Miss Halverson got thirty days in the county jail, and Hackett, on his promise to leave town, was allowed to go free on a continued sentence.

Peter Nordstrom was in court for terrifying housemaids along Mesaba avenue. He was entering kitchens and grabbing things to eat in the most informal way. Officer Frank Schulte arrested him, and in court he testified that the man was drunk at the time.

"How about it, were you drunk?" asked the court.

"No, your honor, I was not drunk."

"Well, what was the matter, then?"

"I wasn't exactly drunk—I simply wasn't sober."

He was ordered out of town.

Surprise Party.

Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Roberts, of 423 North Lake avenue, were pleasantly surprised last evening by a number of friends, who called to celebrate the nineteenth anniversary of their marriage. The party included: Mr. and Mrs. Appleby, Mr. and Mrs. McNabb, Mr. and Mrs. Cameron, Mr. and Mrs. Davis, Mr. and Mrs. Roberts, Mr. and rs. Hunot, Mr. and Mrs. Turnbull, Mr. and Mrs. Allen, Mrs. Davidson, Mrs. Sullivan, Mrs. Jones, Miss Stafford, Miss Sullivan, Miss Davis, Miss Pollock, Miss Roberts, Miss Cameron, Miss Appleby and Arthur Cameron.

Has Fine Office.

Charles E. Wheeler, local manager for A. J. Cummings, has fitted up some very elegant offices on the ground floor of the Trust building, something just a little better than Duluth has ever had in that line, with private entrances and private offices. Something new and novel to Duluth is a wire window screen of very fine texture, enabling patrons to have a full view of the street without being observed from the outside. While these screens have been used in offices in the East for sometime, this is the first one seen in Duluth. Mr. Wheeler is quite enthusiastic with Duluth and prophecies a great future for it, especially as he finds so many here from the state of Michigan, he being from Lansing in that state.

First "At Home."

Mrs. Thomas Charles Phillips had her first "at home" last Tuesday at the Spalding. She was assisted by her mother, Mrs. D. M. Sabin, Mrs. W. B. Silvey and her sister, Miss Sabin. Mrs. Phillips will receive on the three remaining Tuesdays of this month.

A MAN AND HIS CLOTHES

Individual Appropriateness Should Not Be Lost Sight of In the Desire to Be In the Fashion.

New York, June 4.—The modern society play permits of smart dressing, and the few who are taken as standards of good style are carefully studied by thousands ever on the watch for something new.

To dress correctly on the stage is one thing, and to look equally well when off is another. The men and women who enjoy this distinction are not so numerous as might be supposed.

Fritz Williams, one of the popular young actors of New York, has been taken by many as a type of the man who follows the mode. However, when I asked him to give his ideas on what he considers good form in dress for men he showed not a little surprise.

"Why, I've never thought much about it seriously," remarked Mr. Williams, "and it hadn't occurred to me before to regard my self in the light of a model for the matter. I believe in always selecting what appeals to your sense of good taste, and in wearing becoming and appropriate things. Appropriateness should be most carefully considered, for that marks at a glance the man who understands and values the little points of distinction which pass unnoticed by the less particular.

"There is a knack in wearing clothes, the same as there is a knack in anything else. A man must carry his clothes well—never be uncomfortably conscious of them; you know the air that feeling produces. When the fashions are followed implicitly there is apt to be a loss of identity. New styles, if worn, should be adapted to a man's own appearance. Take, for example, the baggy trousers that are seen on some men now. They look sloppy, when they ought to be trim and smart.

"Coats cut in at the waist to fit the figure, if a man have that curve, I consider all right. My coats have been made that way for years, because I think they look better so. Mine are all double breasted, too, for the reason that that style happens to be more becoming to me.

"The most formal dress a man wears is his evening clothes," continued Mr. Williams, "and these should be perfectly simple, displaying no jewelry, except studs and buttons, and showing no color to destroy the harmony of the black and white combination. Studs should never be anything but pearls, and the ordinary little buttons, three for 50 cents, do very well. The crush hat is a part of the uniform, though the silk one may be worn. Watch and key chains should be hidden from view.

"The 'Tuxedo' coat belongs to the club, and perhaps informally at home. With this coat a derby or a straw hat may be worn and, of course, the small black tie.

"It may surprise you to know that my silk hats have been made on the same block for the last eight years. During that time the fashion has changed frequently—crowns have been more bell shaped, and brims have widened and rolled more or less, but my hats never looked a whit out of style. The height is exactly right for me, and the size and shape are most becoming, and I stick to the style because it becomes me so well.

"The black frock coat is the formal afternoon dress, while the gray one may be worn on other occasions, though we could hardly call it informal. At weddings and receptions and wherever ladies are to be the black frock, closely buttoned up, is the correct thing.

"Trousers with this coat are of black, showing an indistinct stripe. With the gray frock coat, which has trousers of the same material, a fancy waistcoat is permissible. White gloves and large white tie go with the black coat, while gray suede gloves and a dark tie, perhaps showing a little color, are correct with the lighter one. A silk hat, of course, belongs to the frock coat, but this should never be worn carelessly, for it is strictly a formal head covering.

"While fancy waistcoats are still seen, they should not be startling in the way of pattern or color, and buttons that match the general tone are used. Anything ridiculous, like black buttons on a white waistcoat, should be avoided. The prettiest button of all to wear on an evening waistcoat is one made of the material. Colored shirts do not belong to the frock coat and neither do turnover collars. These both mark the informal dress. The collar and tie worn with the frock coat should depend upon whatever style is most becoming.

"I wear an Ascot scarf because it suits me best. I find it safer to keep to what is becoming rather than to take up other styles that happen to be more fashionable for a time.

"Gloves should always be worn on the street, except when it is too warm, and never carried.

"With morning dress more liberty is allowed, and a man may indulge his fancy for colored shirts, handkerchiefs and ties, though these should be neat and smart. The suit made of loosely woven material, such as homespun, is coolest and most comfortable—two important qualifications. Square cut coars are smartest, those cut away in front being bad style. With this morning suit goes a soft felt hat, usually a Fedora, and perhaps a white canvas waistcoat.

"The conservative man pays no attention to the novelties displayed by haberdashers, knowing quite well that these fancies are short lived.

"I believe the walking stick belongs to afternoon clothes, though it may be carried at any time. A man doesn't want a stick when going to business, and if he has on evening clothes he wants nothing that will be in his way. The plain wooden stick is not carried. The correct one shows a little ornamentation, never of gold, for young men.

"There is only one yachting dress, but for outing a man may choose whatever he likes. Flannels, however, are by far the most comfortable to wear. White trousers showing a fine dark stripe, a blue coat striped with gray or white and a shirt with a soft plaited bosom are good form. Plaited bosoms, by the way, should always be soft.

"Shoes may be white or tan, generally the latter, and a good straw Alpine. One should observe the same rule with the outing suit as with evening clothes, keep it harmonious and confined to two colors. Blue and white, or black and white are excellent combinations, though, as the latter obviously belong to evening dress, it is better to choose the former. Blue is a color universally becoming, and its combination with white produces a particularly cool and fresh effect.

"I mention the Alpine hat because the shape suits nearly all men, just as most women find it becoming. I do not indorse the shirt waist for many reasons. It is not good form.

"Trousers of the outing suit should be made with straps at the waist, through which may be slipped a plain leather belt, one not too narrow. This belt must fit snugly around the top, allowing none of the trousers to show above it. In this way the waist assumes the desired trim loop. A good idea is to get the belt first and have the loops on the trousers made to fit it exactly. Then there is no reason why the least bit of the trousers should show at the top if a good tailor has been employed.

"Every man who rides much will learn by experience what is correct and comfortable to wear on a horse. At present the best styles come from England, where more attention is paid to such matters and more time is devoted by gentlemen to the sport.

"The smart riding boot is perfectly straight up the front, and nearly so up the calf. The boot should be somewhat larger in the foot than for ordinary walking, to admit of a little play, but it should fit snugly at the top, with no perceptible space between the calf of the leg and the top of the boot. Tan riding boots belong strictly to summer clothes and to wear them in the winter is bad form. For this season boots of patent leather are the correct thing.

"When selecting his riding clothes a man should make it a point to observe two things. To look as trim as possible on a horse's back, and to have his breeches, however wide may be the curve at the side, fit closely from the knees down to the feet. This makes them more comfortable, and enables him to grip the animal firmly with his knees. Riding breeches are curved on the outside to allow for the spring of the hip, while the inside should be perfectly smooth. A fold or crease in the cloth would hurt the knee.

"You see, there is a reason for all these little points in a man's dress. Stocks are much more comfortable for riding than stiff collars, which might cut the neck at a sudden jerk of the horse. Crops are useless and absurd to carry in this country. Instead, a light bamboo stick, generally a cane sawed off, is much better form.

"Khaki breeches are coolest for summer wear, and they are found to be extremely serviceable. The kind of coat and hat a man wears is purely a matter of choice. So long as his boots, breeches and spurs are correct and he sits his horse well it doesn't matter much about his coat."

Taken From an Insane Asylum and Cured By DR. MITCHELL

A Remarkable Story.

We give in detail the story told by a well-known Minnesota lady in restoration to health by Dr. Mitchell. While it may seem almost incredible, it is nevertheless true, and is vouched for by the lady herself, her relatives and neighbors. This almost miraculous cure can be easily substantiated by addressing Dr. Mitchell who will give her address.

This lady says: "I was pronounced a helpless case after using medicine for ten years. I was placed in the insane asylum by two physicians as incurable, they said I had nervous insanity resulting from trouble of a private nature. After many months of suffering I was taken out and placed under Dr. Mitchell's treatment. In one month my reason was practically restored and in four months I was perfectly restored to health and doing the housework for a family of seven on a large farm. When Dr. Mitchell took my case I weighed 100 pounds. I weigh now 168 pounds. Dr. Mitchell I know has restored me to health by his skill and treatment."

This is only one of thousands cured by Dr. Mitchell during the past ten years. Why do you suffer when you can consult the greatest magnetic physician in the world any week day between the hours of 9 a. m. and 7:30 p. m. Consultation free. Take no thought of anything else until you have called upon this great healer and obtained his advice.

AMOUNTS TOO HEAVY

Judge Dibell Rules In Two Personal Injury Cases.

Verdicts Too Large and He Names New Figures.

If Not Satisfactory He Will Grant New Trials.

Judge Dibell, in district court this morning, made two orders giving personal injury plaintiffs against the Duluth Street Railway company the alternative of taking reductions in their verdicts, or trying the cases over again. In each case the order is made on the ground that the verdicts are excessive.

In the case of Catherine M. Hall against Luther Mendenhall, as receiver of the Duluth Street Railway company, the jury found a verdict for $4500. The company made a motion for judgment in its favor, notwithstanding the verdict, and failing in that, for a new trial. Judge Dibell refused to grant the motion for judgment, but he made an order to the effect that if the plaintiff would accept a judgment for $2500 instead of $4500, it would be allowed, but if she did not accept a new trial would be granted. In his memorandum accompanying the decision, Judge Dibell said that the damages granted were excessive, though the plaintiff's injuries were such as to call for very substantial damages.

Similar action was taken throughout in the case of Emma J. Wicks against the company, in which a verdict of $800 was found. If Mrs. Wicks wants to accept $600, under the court's order, there will be no new trial, but failing in the acceptance of this offer, a new trial will be granted.

The plaintiffs in each case have ten days in which to make up their minds whether to accept the reductions or stand new trials.

STEEL COMPANY OFFICIALS

To Return From Range This Afternoon.

The party of officials of the United States Steel corporation, which has been making a tour of the two iron ranges yesterday and today, was expected to return to the city at 4 o'clock this afternoon, or just in time to catch the evening train for Chicago. They spent yesterday on the Mesaba and passed over to the Vermilion range a little before evening. They visited Ely and Tower and arrived at Two Harbors early this afternoon and inspected the works of the company there.

Sewer Connections.

The threat of the health department to arrest real estate agents of prominence if certain sewer connections were not made was put in effect this morning, when warrants were served on Luther Mendenhall and T. W. Hoopes, of Mendenhall & Hoopes, as agents.

The complaint was made by Health Commissioner Robinson. He says that Mendenhall & Hoopes represent a certain piece of property on Seventh avenue east. All houses in the neighborhood have sewer connection with this exception. The people in the Adams terrace have complained frequently of the unsanitary atmosphere, and the commissioner served notice to have the sewer properly connected.

It is understood that the property is going through foreclosure proceedings, and the agents do not care to do the plumbing until the ownership is determined.

Mr. Hoopes appeared in the municipal court this afternoon and, for the firm, entered a plea of not guilty. The hearing was set for next Friday.

Enjoy Sunday outing by going to hear Ladies' Orchestra at Oatka Auditorium.

Thomas Larke Here.

Thomas H. Larke, general Northwestern agent of the Dominion line of ocean steamships, is in the city today greeting old acquaintances and talking steamship business. Mr. Larke says that travel over the ocean lines is not very heavy from the Northwest at present, a condition accountable mostly to a failure of crops in farming communities and great building activity throughout the towns and cities. Everywhere he has noticed this activity, and says that people are too busy to travel, but he does look for a heavy outward and prepaid movement to this country next fall.

London Road Condition.

The residents of Lakeside and Lester Park are far from satisfied with the condition of London road, even after the rolling given it by the board of public works. They claim that it is still in horrible shape. J. K. Persons came into The Herald office yesterday with a rock that would weigh a couple of pounds and with sharp edges. The rubber tire of his buggy struck the rock when he was driving on the road and a chunk of the rubber was cut out of the tire. Naturally his feelings were of that nature which require vigorous expression. It is claimed that the surface is rough and uneven, and that the big rocks at the bottom of the roadbed are constantly working through.

Enjoy Sunday outing by going to hear Ladies' Orchestra at Oatka Auditorium.

ADMITTED SUPERIOR

British Comments Very Fair on American Turf Victories.

All London Still Talking of the Derby and Oaks.

Fast Time and American Jockeys Have Won the Races.

London, June 8.—London is still talking of the Derby and the Oaks. The discussion of the relative merits of American and British methods of training and riding has broken out anew. It must be confessed that the British comments are generally very fair. They sorrowfully admit the superiority of America on every point. The Sporting Times says:

"The Derby has been won by a French horse and an American horse, but never until Wednesday was it won by a horse that had other than an English jockey in the saddle. Whatever our horses might be, the supremacy of our jockeys was deemed complete. But that fallacy is now exploded. Thus, two records were broken, viz: A victory for a jockey who was not a subject of the king and the running of the race in the fastest time on record. The Derby was an ideal Anglo-American triumph, but not so the Oaks, which was American pure and simple. It is a fact that rivalry ran high in America last year between Mr. Whitney and Mr. Keene, almost amounting to bad blood, when a colt of Mr. Whitney's beat Olympian for the futurity. Under the circumstances, it is not a little singular that Mr. Whitney should have won the Derby and Mr. Keene the Oaks. The Derby running of Olympian told Darling he had the Oaks in his pocket with Cap and Bells II. To add to the American triumph, the Tammany chieftain, Croker, ran third in the Oaks, while an American jockey rode the winner of the Derby and the first three in the Oaks were ridden by jockeys of that nationality. Henry, who was imported by Mr. Keene, who brought Sloane to this country, has made a rare beginning."

The papers have printed New York dispatches saying that Mr. Whitney would take Volodyovski to America, but he cannot do that. He has simply leased the horse for £5000 cash and half of what the horse might win at 3 or 4 years of age, after which he was to be returned. Had Lady Meux cared to sell the colt outright on an offer that was made he would now stand at £25,000, the offer being £15,000 down and £10,000 more if he won the Derby. In these matters she has not looked on money at all. Her great desire was that, as Huggins had borne the heat of the day, he should reap the reward. For that reason she accepted an offer that would admit of Volodoyvski's remaining in his stable. The only thing that might have altered all this was if King Edward had continued to be prince of Wales. But for his accession to the throne we should now see him credited with what no living being has been credited, viz., three Derby winners. Lady Meux is a very public-spirited woman. She paid fully for a battery of guns, and the public is fully aware of the tons of stores and comforts she has caused to be sent to the troops in South Africa. She has a splendid collection of Nelson relics, including Lady Hamilton's jewelry. When Temple Bar was removed, Lady Meux saved the materials from being broken up for sidewalks, had every stone numbered, and now old Temple Bar, exactly as it was in the strand, forms the principal approach of her estate at Theobald's Park.

Fabulous sums were won on Cap and Bells II's victory in the Oaks. The commissioners had literally unlimited orders to back the filly, as long as a decent price was obtainable, and every American, man and woman, that saw Foxhall Keene for a week was advised to back the horse.

To Write Up the City.

The National Magazine of Boston has a representative in Duluth for the purpose of giving the city a write-up in a forthcoming number of the magazine. The publication claims to have eliminated the objectionable feature of the ordinary write-up and will only give an impersonal article with illustrations. The consideration asked is the securing of a sufficient number of subscriptions to warrant the undertaking, the money to be paid after the article appears. The article is to be prepared by some Duluth man who is conversant with the city and its advantages. Joe M. Chapple, formerly of Ashland, and well known to a great many Duluth people, and to the newspaper fraternity at the head of the lakes, is the editor of the publication and is said to be meeting with much success.

Ruhde's Statement.

Fred Ruhde, the man who was arrested by Deputy Inspector of Boilers Patterson for acting as an engineer without a license and afterward produced it, says that he has had a license for twelve years; that at the time Mr. Patterson was down to see him it was up at his home, but he could not get it. He claims that he has the advice of the attorney general to the effect that his license did no have to be renewed but that it is good if issued by any member of the state board.

The lands are in townships, 59-18, 59-19 and 58-17, and the consideration was $250,000. These lands are all unexplored and lie along the line of the Virginia branch of the Eastern Railway of Minnesota. They are close to the road and are said to be among the best undeveloped lands on the range.

ARE NOT TICKLED.

Tower People's View of Mill Deal.

Capt. E. Morcom, county commissioner from Tower, is in the city this afternoon. Capt. Morcom says there is a difference of opinion among the people as to whether the consolidation of the Tower Logging company's interest with that of the Tower Lumber company, through the recent purchase of the latter company, will benefit the village of Tower. Some believe that the lumber company having a mill at Tower will have no further use for the mill formerly operated about ten miles from the village by the logging company and the closing down of the plant means a loss of business for the village of Tower, where all supplies were procured and through which all the men employed usually passed. On the other hand the lumber company will increase its force at the Tower mill and probably run steadily night and day all the year, but the gain of a few men in the night force would not balance the loss in business caused by the shutting up of the other mill.

Sharp Practice In Case of Captain Carter's Co-Conspirators.

New York, June 8.—Counsel for Col. Benjamin Greene, John F., William T., and Edward H. Gaynor, accused of conspiracy with former Capt. Carter, U. S. A., to defraud the government in connection with Southern harbor improvement, made a move today to question the validity of the indictment before the United States supreme court. He did this by revoking the bail bonds under which the four men were held for their appearance to stand trial in Savannah, Ga.

The men were surrendered to the custody of the United States marshal, but a few minutes later, they were taken before Judge Lacombe on application for a writ of habeas corpus.

The application was denied and counsel took an appeal. The bonds of the four defendants were then renewed and they were at once released. The matter will now be taken before the supreme court in Washington, but cannot be argued before fall, as the supreme court does not meet until October.

WILL FIGHT.

Machinists Hurl Back the Defiance of Employers Association.

Toronto, June 8.—The International Machinists' association today adopted a resolution to the effect "that after due consideration, we accept the challenge of the National Metal Trades Association and in accepting the declaration of war we cheerfully pick up the gauntlet and hurl back the defiance. We never will accept any compromise or resume labor until the cause for which we struggle is triumphant and a shorter work day is an accomplished fact."

President O'Connel claims the International association did all it could to get a satisfactory adjustment by pacific means, offering to accept any decision reached by arbitration, that would cover the question nationally, but he says the employers refuse every effort of conciliation.

F. P. Sargent, grand master of the Locomotive Firemen's Brotherhood, assured the delegates that his order will assist them by all means in their power to win their fight.

Washington, June 8.—The secretary of the navy today approved the recommendations of the National Board of Awards, conferring medals of honor and letters of recommendation to a number of officers and men of the navy and marine corps, who distinguished themselves during the campaign in China. Secretary Long's action did not go outside of the China recommendations, and it will not pass upon the Santiago medal until the return of Assistant Secretary Hackett. The honors approved by the secretary are as follows:

MORAL SENSE OF DOGS.

Dogs differ as much in moral characteristics as do men, says the Philadelphia Record. Some dogs are born honest, and in spite of environment and educational disadvantages will remain so, while others of careful training will develop dishonest traits. A North Nineteenth street man has been experimenting as to the moral nature of a setter and a St. Bernard. First the setter was left alone in a room with a table on which food was temptingly placed. He guarded the table for two hours without disturbing any of the eatables. When his master reappeared the setter looked at him beseechingly and pointed to a cake. After he had been rewarded with dainties he was removed from the room and the St. Bernard was left there. At the end of two hours he was found under the table in a sort of stupor, having eaten six cinnamon cakes, one pound of butter and a dozen eggs. The dish of meat was untouched, showing that it was not hunger that had induced the theft. When the St. Bernard was finally awakened and reproached for his dishonesty, he merely licked his chops, went to a corner where a basket was kept and brought it to his master as a suggestion that he should go and produce more dainties.

SPIDER CAPTURES SNAKE.

Some years ago a gentleman living in Chemung county, N. Y., had a pet spider in his store, says the Washington Post. It was a little brown-colored fellow, and made its home under one of the counters. One day the spider discovered a small snake near the nest, and he at once determined to capture the reptile before it had a chance to get him. The snake was what is known as a milksnake, and didn't seem disposed to be in a hurry about getting away. The spider was already at work when the storekeeper discovered the snake. With all the care possible the spider placed a loop around the neck of the snake, weaving the little silken-like threads with wonderful rapidity. When the spider was satisfied that the cable was sufficiently strong enough to support the weight of the snake, he began to arrange for pulley-like tackle, and in a little while the snake's head was lifted off the floor and gradually its whole body was drawn off the floor, and swung around under the top of the counter where the spider had his home. To make doubly sure of his work, the little spider passed rapidly up and down the cable, adding strand after strand of web. When this was accomplished to the entire satisfaction of the spider, he then began the most wonderful part of his whole work. He watched every chance, and whenever the snake's head was turned to one side he would throw a strand of web over his head, and in less than half an hour the snake's mouth was bound firm and fast—perfectly muzzled so that it was impossible for it to bite the spider. Before the work was finished the little spider showed signs of breaking down, moving about with unsteady gait, but he did not retire to his den until the snake was bound so that it was impossible for it to get free. Gentlemen who witnessed this truly wonderful feat say that it was five days before the snake died. Of course, if the spider had been poisonous he could have hastened its death, but at no time did he sting the snake. This is the most wonderful and remarkable spider story which has ever reached us, and it is vouched for by some of the best people now living in Chemung county.

COPPER COATED WOOD.

There are men scouring the sea coast and the harbors of this country all the year through in search of abandoned wrecks, says the Philadelphia Record. If the wrecks are wooden vessels sheathed with copper, the men offer good prices for them, but if they are iron vessels, or merely unsheathed ones, they are passed by. Wood sheathed or painted with copper gradually absorbs the copper, these wreckers say, and it is then admirable for burning in an open fireplace. It gives a green flame in which, sitting in the dark alone and gazing long on it, every man may behold his heart's desire. Some people think that ordinary driftwood gives off this rare green flame, that it is the action of the sea water on the wood that causes the flame's beauty. That is an error. It is copper which produces the effect, and driftwood, unless it has been sheathed or painted with that metal, burns no more beautiful than any other sort of fuel.

BIDWELL RESIGNS

Ranking Major of Third Infantry Decides to Retire.

Fourteen Years of Continuous Service In the Guard.

Regiment Will Not Come Here Unless Money Is Raised.

Maj. F. H. Bidwell, commanding the First battalion of the Third infantry, has resigned. He tendered his resignation yesterday saying that on account of the pressure of private business he would have to give up his work in the National Guard.

Maj. Bidwell is the third oldest commissioned officer, in point of continuous service, in the Third regiment. He is well known throughout the state as a capable and efficient officer, and the news of his resignation will undoubtedly be received with regret in National Guard circles.

Maj. Bidwell enlisted in old Company K, of the Second infantry, on April 19, 1887, and for fourteen years he has been working his way up until now his ranking is next to that of the lieutenant colonel.

When Company K, of the Second, was transferred to the Third as company A, in February, 1892, F. H. Bidwell became second lieutenant, and shortly afterward when Lieut. Dodge resigned, he became first lieutenant. In December, 1895, he was elected major to succeed Maj. Braden, resigned.

Maj. Bidwell's resignation will probably mean the promotion of another Duluth officer, Capt. H. V. Eva, of Company A, is the ranking captain of the regiment, thus making Maj. Resche, commandant of the Second battalion, and Maj. E. S. Persons, of Zumbrota, commander of the First battalion.

MAY NOT COME HERE.

Money Needed to Bring the Regiment Here.

The Herald's special correspondent with the Third regiment, writes from camp, twelve miles south of Mille Lacs, that it is very doubtful if the entire Third regiment will be brought to Duluth and disbanded unless the people here can raise about $500 to defray the expenses.

The disbanding of the regiment at this point means that the men will be paid off here. The men will receive between $5000 and $6000.

The men of the regiment are anxious to be brought to Duluth to be paid off, but Col. Van Duzee says that he cannot see his way clear to make the Duluth trip for the whole regiment unless sufficient funds are raised by the people of Duluth for that purpose.

The regiment marched all day Thursday in a rain and went into camp at 3 o'clock in the afternoon, just twelve miles from Lake Mille Lacs. The roads were in very bad condition and Company C's wagon broke down. That was the first mishap of the march. Company C's supplies were quickly loaded on other wagons and the march continued without delay.

The Herald's correspondent says that the officers of the regiment are of the opinion that Brainerd can be reached by Monday, providing suitable transportation across Lake Mille Lacs can be secured without delay.

Should anything occur to prevent the regiment's getting across the lake on schedule time, it will fall to Company C to make a forced march around the lake in order to keep its engagement in St. Paul. The company is under a guarantee of $200 to present its famous "Historical Military Carnival" at the encampment of the Modern Woodmen next week.

The men continue in good health and are equal to the task of a forced march, even if the trail is somewhat muddy and difficult.

TO SEND DELEGATES.

Duluth G. A. R. to Attend Wadena Encampment.

The Duluth posts of the G. A. R. will send this year, for the first time, delegates to the annual encampment of the Park Region Encampment association, which will be held June 11, 12, 13, 14 and 15, at Wadena, Minn. The following delegates have been selected so far, and more will be named later: Col. C. H. Graves, J. O. Milne, S. F. White, M. W. Bates, Judge Gearhart, S. W. Higgins, C. T. Clement and Joseph Glockle.

Col. Graves will be among the speakers at the camp fire, to be held on the evening of Thursday, June 13. There will be an elaborate program each day, including regulation reviews and parades, guard-mounting, etc. There will also be races, ball games and other sports.

Religion Losing Ground.

The country is becoming agitated over religion. Periodically some one arises and declares that it is decaying. This results in countless discussions until the agitation runs its course, and still religion flourishes. It always will, for it is something the world needs. One of the finest recommendations of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, the great American stomach strengthener, lies in the fact that it has lived for fifty years in spite of hundreds of imitations, and is renowned for its cure of constipation, dyspepsia, biliousness, malaria, fever and ague, and sees to it that the life-giving elemtns of the food are assimilated with the blood. There is nothing "just as good." See that a Private Revenue Stamp covers the neck of the bottle.

REPAIRS.

Board of Education to Spend Money on Schools.

At last night's meeting of the board of education it was decided to spend $13,405.11 in repairing the school buildings of the city during the summer vacation. Thirty-one buildings are to be repaired to the extent of amounts ranging from $7.40 for the Colbyville school to $2406 to the Fairmount school. The latter and the Adams school, which gets $2031.35, will be the largest amounts spent, and both will be enlarged and improved to meet the growing demands of the large school population of the western end of the city.

The repairs are more extensive than have been made in several years, and the reason for this is stated by the committee on buildings as follows:

"That a larger appropriation for repairs is needed this year than formerly is not surprising, when it is considered that during the years of the city's rapid growth, prior to 1896, the attention, energy and funds of the board were all employed in the erection and equipment of new buildings to the neglect of the older ones; and these later buildings have now reached a condition where considerable repairs are necessary to preserve them. In addition to this general fact, the smallesr buildings in the outlying sections of the district have been neglected for several years, and are in a generally dilapidated condition as the result."

The figures by schools are as follows:

| | |
|---|---|
| Adams | $2,031 35 |
| Bryant | 30 80 |
| Bay View Heights | 116 50 |
| Central High | 159 00 |

| Seowell | 115 45 |
| Smithville | 138 00 |
| Washington | 25 00 |
| Webster | 524 25 |
| Woodland | 75 30 |
| Whittier | 169 70 |
| Total | $13,105 11 |

Superintendent Denfeld reported that the total enrollment of the schools, June 1, was 10,580, an increase of 431 pupils over the same time a year ago.

Pearl McDonald, Maud Wigdahl, Elizabeth Field and Miss Beach, as teachers, were accepted. F. L. Barker was employed as instructor in chemistry in the high school at $1000 a year.

The resolution introduced by Director Codding, requiring that committees make their reports five days ahead of the meeting, was adopted after some discussion. The reason for the introduction of the resolution was that Dr. Codding thought it was impossible to properly analyze the reports when they were submitted the same evening.

MANY LANDS.

Texas Standard Oil Company Owns Many Oil Acres.

G. G. Dickerman & Co., offices Trust building, are the Duluth agents of the Texas Standard Oil company, which owns a large lot of lands in the Texas oil district. Among the men interested in the company is Charles L. Lewis, formerly of Duluth, and justice of the supreme court of the state. C. E. Dickerman, Silas B. Foot, Elbert A. Young and W. E. Bramhalt are other members.

This company had a representative on the field almost as soon as the Lucas gusher came in and before the great rush and excitement set in, who, together with several of the best oil experts in the country selected and secured for it over 1000 acres of what was considered the best oil lands in the state. The selection was made after a most careful, thorough and painstaking examination of each tract and before the enormous advance in prices which has since taken place.

The company has secured the services of an experienced and capable general manager, who has become largely interested in the company and is now in Texas looking out for and after its interests. As neither he nor any officer receive any salary they must make the company a success to protect and make their own investments valuable.

Its capital stock is $1,000,000, the shares being for $1 each, fully paid and non-assessable. Although under the Texas law the stockholders are not personally liable for the corporate indebtedness, the directors propose to manage the company on business principles and not incur obligations they do not see their way to pay.

The company intends to begin boring as soon as it has sufficient funds on hand to justify it and should have wells in oil within three or four months thereafter.

IN MICHIGAN.

A Big Dock Projected For the Soo By Chesborough.

Sault Ste. Marie—A. M. Chesbrough, of Chesbrough Bros., the well-known millionaire lumbermen, is projecting the building of a big 400-foot dock east of the water power canal work on the river. Work on the dock is soon to be commenced.

Escanaba—George Ballard, aged 16 years, has been mysteriously missing from his home in this city since Monday afternoon and great anxiety is felt as to his safety. When he left home he had his bicycle and a small sum of money.

Mrs. Maragret Lynaugh is dead, at the age of 64 years. She is survived by nine children, all adults.

Menominee—The steamer Faustin brought in a cargo of several hundred tons of salt in bulk to Menominee this week, an experiment in freighting which promises to be successful. The salt was loaded at Marine City and placed in the steamer's hold. At Menominee a steam shovel was used in unloading the boat, the work requiring less than a day. The salt is to be placed in barrels and bags at Menominee, but some of it will be sold in bulk to fishermen by Penberthy, Cook & Co. The salt is easily loaded and unloaded, and as the freight rates are high vessel owners realize a good sum from the trip. The boat will probably bring several more cargoes.

John Beaton was taken from Holmes & Son's camp to the Menominee river hospital early this week. He had a very narrow escape from being killed. He was loading a logging car when all the logs started and before he could get out of the way several of them passed over his body. He was picked up for dead, but examination showed that he was not seriously injured. He was badly bruised, but none of his bones were broken.

Iron Mountain—C. B. Pride, the well known paper mill architect, who is looking after some building operations on the Menominee river, with a party of Chicago capitalists who contemplate the erection of a large manufacturing enterprise in the vicinity of Iron Mountain, visited the locality where they may put in their plant this week for the purpose of looking over a water power.

GOES BACK TO PRISON.

Homesick Prisoner Who Escaped Returns Alone.

Decatur, Kas., June 8.—James Sterner, a convict who escaped from the penitentiary at Lansing May 12, passed through here alone on his way back to the penitentiary. Sterner said of his escape:

"I was one of the trusties, and we were in the habit of going out after supper. The night we left Pabst, who went with me, walked out with me, and when we were out a mile Pabst kept on going, I said: 'Are you going?' He said, 'Yes,' and so we kept on. I went to Guthrie to throw the officers off the track, then I came back to Emporia and visited with my brother awhile, then went to Redcloud, Neb., and stayed four days. From Redcloud I went to Danbury, Neb., then to my mother's near Oberlin, in Decatur County, Kansas. I wanted to see her. I was getting pretty homesick, and that is the only reason I escaped from prison.

"When I felt that I had my visit out, I wired Warden Jewett where I was, and that I wanted to go back to the penitentiary. He wired me to wait for a ticket, which I did. I am now going back to complete my sentence. I have four years yet to serve."

SECULAR SHOTS AT PULPIT

Cleveland Plain Dealer: Since Evangelist Sam Jones is so positive about Savannah being only half a mile from shoot, the citizens of that town will presumably not insist upon having their graves dug deep.

Washington Post: A colored divine who was expelled from the church for dishonesty announces his intention of starting a new denomination of his own. Politicians frequently start new parties for much the same reason.

Boston Transcript: Only think of it! In this age of enlightenment the Presbyterians are discussing the question of infant damnation! Can it be possible that anyone really believes in that atrocious libel upon the Almighty?

Chicago Chronicle: The United Presbyterian general assembly has declared that woman suffrage is a purely civic question which cannot properly come before an ecclesiastical body. If pulpit themes were selected on this principle many preachers would be at a loss for sermons.

Louisville Courier-Journal: Chicago clergymen declare that they know the anti-canteen law works well at Fort Sheridan because the saloon keepers in the vicinity tell them so! hTere is no doubt that the women and clergymen will have the enthusiastic co-operation of the saloon keepers in keeping the anti-canteen law on the statute books.

Atlanta Constitution: And now comes an esteemed sect of Christians which, fearful lest somebody's sensibilities shall be shocked, decrees even the word "hell" shall be no longer used, but that there shall be substituted therefor what is regarded the milder and less offensive expression, "hades." Does "hades" suggest anything more severe? How many of those prone to falling from grace will be held back by the threat of "hades?" Better stick to hell!

Chicago Tribune: The lack of divinity students complained of by the Presbyterian church is felt more or less by all the denominations. The small salary of the average preacher will go far toward accounting for it. The pay for which the preacher of moderate powers may reasonably hope is perhaps less than that in any other line of work requiring the same amount of intelligence and preparation. Only in a few large city churches are the salaries lucrative. Thee recent resignation of a Methodist minister in this city because he could not maintain his family on $3000 a year has significance in this connection. Thousands of country preachers have to live on $300 a year. This is a practical age, and it is not strange if many young men, perhaps expecting soon to marry, hesitate to embark on a career that offers such meager rewards on earth.

BLASTS FROM RAM'S HORN.

Dirt will only stick to dirt.

No telescope ever created a star.

Policy is prudence prevailing over principle.

A man is in a bad way when his future is all behind him.

The sunlight of yesterday is preserved in the flowers of today.

Every humble bee thinks he knows how to build the eagle's nest.

We need not mind what the world thinks as long as we think right.

The greater a man's assurance with God the less he will have with men.

God does not count the cash put in so much as that kept out of the collection.

The reason we misunderstand people is that we look at their negative before the print is made.

There has been but one hand that could save the world because there is but one heart that could embrace it.

EXCURSIONS.

Coming Week Will Witness Opening of the Season.

The coming week will witness the opening of the excursion season at the head of the lake and for a starter there will be one excursion out of the city and vicinity and another into the city from the farming regions of the West. hTe first excursion of the year will be inaugurated by the Duluth, South Shore & Atlantic road, which will give its third annual spring excursion to Detroit, starting next Tuesday, June 11. During past years these annual low fare excursions to Detroit have been popular from the fact that the railroad company has arranged a rail and lake route, the excurtionists making direct connections with one of the Detroit & Cleveland company's steamers at St. Ignace, Mich., on Wednesday morning. A special train will leave the Union depot at 7 o'clock, Tuesday afternoon.

The first excursion into the city is expected to be a hummer. It will start from Morris, Minn., at 5 o'clock Friday morning, June 14 and reach this city at 1:45 o'clock in the afternoon. Last year there was objection raised because the excursionists were given so little time in this city, but this year, through the efforts of the Duluth Improvement association, the time limit has been extended to three days and the excursionists will not leave the city until Sunday evening. This first excursion to the head of the lake will draw a large number of people from many good towns along the line of the Northern Pacific road. There will come people from the towns of Cyrus, Starbuck, Glenwood, Villard, Westport, Stiles, Sauk Center, Spaulding, Birch Lake, Grey Eagle, Cogel, Burtrum, Swanville, Little Falls, Belle Prairie, Topeka, Fort Ripley, Crow Wing, Brainerd, Deerwood and Aitkin.

The railroad officials have received advices from the agents along the line that indicate a lively interest in this excursion and the lowest estimate that has yet been made on the number of people that will be here is 1500. Last year an excursion was planned from this section, but was given up on account of the bad outlook for crops, but this season the crops are said to be looking fine and the farmers are feeling encouraged over the prospects and more likely to take in an excursion. The regular fare from Morris, for the round trip is $6.75, but the excursion rate will be $2.50.

One week later, June 21, another excursion will arrive over the Northern Pacific road from Wahpeton, North Dakota and intermediate points. The train will leave Wahpeton at 5 o'clock in the morning of Friday, June 21 and will reach Duluth early in the afternoon. The visitors will also have three days in Duluth, returning on June 23.

The June Magazines

Charles J. Bullock opens the June Atlantic with a comprehensive article on "Trusts and Public Policy," showing the nature of trusts and how they arise, the possible methods of regulation and cure, and the danger of their contributing, if unchecked, to the rising tide of socialism. H. W. Horwill treats "The Opportunity of the Small College," which, he maintains, consists of a power to give a better training on fewer subjects, with stronger social advantages and much more consequent benefit to the student than the great miscellaneous universities can possibly give.

* * *

Maxfield Parrish's fine decorative design on the cover of the Ladies' Home Journal for June forms a fitting introduction to a remarkably attractive issue. Among the most interesting features of this number are a double page of pictures, entitled "Where Golf is Played," showing some of the handsomest country club houses in America; a series of curious "Love Stories of the Zoo," told by Clifford Howard; the first installment of a fascinating new serial, "Aileen," by Elizabeth Knight Tompkins.

* * *

The Century for June is a college number, the opening paper, by Miss Alice Fallows, being an exposition of the delights and difficulties of "Working One's Way Through College," and the two closing "body" articles being devoted to a consideration of "Alleged Luxury Among College Students," the writers—President Hadley of Yale and Provost Harrison of the University of Pennsylvania—agreeing that there is little to excite alarm, in present conditions at least, in the institutions over which they respectively preside. In this number is printed the prize essay in the Century college competition of 1900—"Tolstoi's Moral Theory of Art," by John Albert Macy of Harvard; there is a story, "When the Grass Grew Long," by John M. Oskison, of Indian Territory, who won the magazine's fiction prize with another tale in 1899; and Victor Mapes, under the caption, "Wanted: A Hero," tells a tale of a college athlete, the conclusion of which will not be guessed at the start. "College Training Tables: Their Use and Abuse," is by no less an authority than Walter Camp.

* * *

The articles on "Russia of Today," by Henry Norman, which have been a feature of Scribner's Magazine (but have been interrupted for several numbers), are resumed in the June number with a paper on "Finland," which is just now the center of interest on account of the efforts of the Russian government to suppress the Finnish language in official business. Mr. Norman writes very sympathetically of this hardy people, who have so long maintained their individuality while a part of the Russian empire. He gives remarkable instances of their energy and integrity, and shows the pathos of their attempt to keep their identity against heavy odds. By way of contrast to these people of the North is John La Farge's account of his visit to the Samoans—the people among whom Stevenson found his adopted home. Mr. La Farge describes and pictures them as an artist with a rare poetic faculty of narrative. Many of the illustrations are from sketches made at the time.

* * *

Maxwell Gray—who wrote "The Silence of Dan Maitland"—is the author of the complete novel, entitled "Four-Leaved Clover" in the June "New" Lippincott Magazine. This is a story of English country life. The heroine starts off by declaring that she is "incapable of adopting other people's raves," and she sticks to this sentiment throughout. In fact, her loyalty to "a sweet and noble gentleman" who is the beginning and ending of all her hopes and thoughts and affections leaves little time for other enthusiasms. Not that Marcia Ludlow belongs to the sickly, sentimental sort of young woman. She is a splendid type of frank, athletic English girl, with the added charm of unexpectedness in all she says and does, and Maxwell Gray has made her the center of a very alluring love story. The luck of the clover is sometimes almost lost eight of, but tradition wins the day.

* * *

It is a pleasure to note the splendid tribute to Mrs. Phoebe A. Hearst, by Senator Dolliver, in the June Success. The Iowa statesman points out two facts; that her money was obtained without depriving anybody else of it, and that she is modestly and beautifully preaching a new gospel of wealth by dedicating it to the good of mankind. Equally interesting, too, are the contributions along inspirational lines by such uplifting writers as Thomas Wentworth Higginson, the late Cushman K. Davis, Mary Lowe Dickinson, Hezekiah Butterworth, Walter H. Page, Arthur Twining Hadley, Charles F. Thwing, David Starr Jordan and Jacob Gould Schurman.

* * *

The important topics of the month, the world over, are popularly discussed in the current World's Work. The financial boom and panics, the new politics of the South, educational matters in the South and elsewhere, the doings in Cuba, China, the Philippines, the president's trip, and the Pan-American exposition are among a large number of subjects talked of in the March of Events, and in "Among the World's Workers" are such varied topics as public land, postal statistics, English parcel delivery, bridges, automobiles, trade-schools, music, the Y. M. C. A., engineering, butter-making, machines, steamers and trains. Professor DuBois' description of the Negro at home in the Black Belt of Georgia is of stirring intrest, as is H. A. Stanley's story of the immeasurable unfolding possibilities of the Puget Sound country.

* * *

"Wild Bill" Hickok, the greatest of all bad men, is the subject of a sketch in Everybodys' Magazine. E. C. Little, formerly United States consul general in Egypt, writes of this picturesque character who commenced a spectacular career by a fight with the McKandlas gang of robbers, in which, singlehanded, he routed ten men, killing eight, an exploit that excels the fabled triumphs of fiction's bravest heroes. How he converted Abiline from a metropolis of desperadoes into a peaceful community makes a narrative of vivid interest.

* * *

Modern Culture for June appears with a new cover design, the work of Sarah Noble-Ives, of New York. It is a clever drawing of a modern girl in unconventional pose against a poster effect of holly hocks and summer greenth, and is an advance upon previous work by this gifted artist. It adds greatly to the general attractiveness of the most notable number of Modern Culture which has yet been issued. The perfect balance of the June table of contents, and the superior excellence of all the articles presented are the especial features of a magazine which, in this number, if never before, has fairly earned its title.

* * *

Interest has recently been revived in "The Breadwinners," a story ascribed to John Hay since its publication, eighteen years ago and the Argonaut for June 3 reprints another story that undoubtedly came from Mr. Hay's pen, and points out some peculiar resemblances that seem to show a relation of interest and thought. The latter story, entitled "The Blood Seeding," has a striking and unexpected conclusion.

* * *

The Popular Science Monthly for June opens with an article by Professor J. W. Toumey, of the newly established Yale Forest school, on the forest reservations of the United States. The importance of these great reservations for the future of the country is scarcely appreciated, and this article, with its beautiful illustrations, will call attention to these national parks, whose area is more than fifteen times the state of Connecticut. Another elaborately illustrated article in the number is one by professor Francis B. Herbck of Adelbert college, describing his newly discovered method of photographing and studying birds at arm's length.

* * *

The name of Addicks is a household word wherever politics is spoken of, yet an extraordinary amount of misconception exists as to who Addicks is, where he came from and just what he has done. A dozen years ago he turned up in Dover, an absolute stranger, and announced that he was willing to be considered a compromise candidate for senator. Today every man in Delaware is numbered as his bitter enemy or his sworn friend. The full drama of his life is told without fear or favor in Leslie's Monthly for June. The article will bear reading and thinking about.

* * *

The leading article in the June number of Pearson's Magazine is "The Story of Colorado," edited by William N. Byers, of the Rocky Mountain News. This is superbly illustrated with historic engravings and photographs. "A Hobby Horse for Soldiers" is the title of an interesting article describing the new fencing horse adopted in the French army—a wooden animal worked automatically, which is now to be used in Cavalry drill. The difficulties of egg collecting on the sea shore are well described in an article by Oliver G. Pike, entitled "Birds of the Beach."

* * *

The Smart Set for June opens with a $1000 prize novelette entitled "The Middle Course," by Mrs. Poultney Bigelow. The story concerns itself with a beautiful London society woman whose husband is unsympathetic and even brutal, and who becomes sensationally involved, although innocent, with a much-lionized sculptor through a jealous woman's malicious gossip. By this story Mrs. Bigelow at once attains a very high place as a writer of smart fiction.

* * *

The June Forum is largely occupied with the discussion of national and international affairs. The leading article, by Professor Paul S. Reinsch, deals with a large question of "Governing the Orient on Western Principles," and considers especially the lessons of British experience in India. Albert G. Robinson supplies an account of "The Work of the Cuban Convention," and suggests an explanation of the misunderstandings that have arisen between Cuba and this country. Harold Martin, a correspondent of the Associated Press, vigorously protests against the methods of "The Manila Censorship." Henry Litchfield West draws upon his long and intimate knowledge of Washington public life for an estimate of "The Place of the Senate in Our Government."

* * *

In almost every walk of life there have been great women. But has there ever been a woman who has reached the very highest pinnacle in any field? In the June Cosmopolitan Ella Wheeler Wilcox answers this question in the negative, and declares that even in the essentially feminine vocations of cooking, dressmaking and millinery men excel women. "Women," says Mrs. Wilcox, "have not the concentration which gives a clear perspective. They lack system and patience and are distracted by details or turned aside by vanity."

* * *

There are few things of which the average reader knows less than of "The Making of a Jockey," which is the leading article in Ainslee's for June. It is illustrated with pictures of Johnny Reiff, Tod Sloan and other famous jockeys, and gives an intimate picture of the daily life of that peculiar type of modern development—the boy rider—who earns as much per year as ten college professors. "Girl Colonies in New York," by Alice K. Fallows, will be a revelation to all girls that contemplate seeking their fortune in art or business in the national metropolis.

* * *

Current Literature for June, though not so denominated, is in large part an out-of-door number. Sketches of sport, recreation and adventure are supplemented by special articles on bidr life, ballooning, kite-flying, yachting, fishing, Cycling, Polar exploration and country life in France and Germany. The spirit of the open air permeates the magazine.

* * *

The Woman's Home Companion for June has an unusually varied table of contents. A chatty article on "Early Visitors at Wellesley" and two papers on "The Higher Education of Women" are timely. Edward Page Gaston talks of the social life of American diplomats. Landon Knight has a description of one of the smallest republics of the world. Travelers will find advice in "Trips Across the Atlantic Ocean," by Helen E. Gavit. Amelia Bingham lets the public into the secrets of the life of "The Actress Off the Stage."

* * *

The National Magazine, with a reputation for being thoroughly up-to-date in its presentation of every item of the world's doings of interest to the American people, contains in the June issue a notable article on the Chinese situation by United States Minister E. H. Conger. He takes the stand that the missionaries were not to blame for the trouble, and that their course regarding indemnities was perfectly justifiable; and also presents the question of our future relations with the Fowery kingdom in a thoughtful and interesting manner.

* * *

Sometimes a new note appears in some quiet little story or poem which, though unnoticed at first, is recorded in after years as the first effort of a writer who won subsequent fame. Illustrations of this could be cited in the case of many of our well and popular authors, but it is a greater pleasure to dare at the outset to recognize a new note in literature and not declare it. It is with this reflection that we call attention to an unpretntious little story called "Larkspur," by Mary Applewhite Bacon, which appears in the June number of Harper's Magazine. It is the first time, if we mistake not, that the name of this author has appeared over any printed contribution, but the quality of her work makes a distinct impression on the jaded reader of magazine stories.

* * *

The special features of the June number of the Review of Reviews are two articles on the Pan-American exposition, illustrated from photographs taken in May expressly for the Review, and showing especially the electrical illuminations and other night-effects for which the Buffalo fair is already noted. The first of these articles, "The Pan-American on Dedication Day," is by William H. Hotchkiss; the paper on "Artistic Effects of the Pan-American Exposition" is contributed by Ernest Knaufft. Other important articles in the June Review are an account of the electric power development at Niagara by William C. Andrews; a sketch of the late Professor Rowland, of Johns Hopkins university, the great physicist; a description of the recent inventions in wireless telegraphy and long distance telephony, by Professor Joseph S. Ames.

* * *

The jubilee convention of the Young Men's Christian association, held in Boston on June 11, makes most timely a history of that organization which is given with very full illustration in the June number of the New England Magazine. Among the other illustrated pages are some twenty devoted to Marshfield, the home of Daniel Webster, while still others show the beautiful public garden and the horticulture practised by the city of Boston in that attractive spot, recovered from the marshes of the Back bay. Short stories and poems go to make up a number of unusual interest.

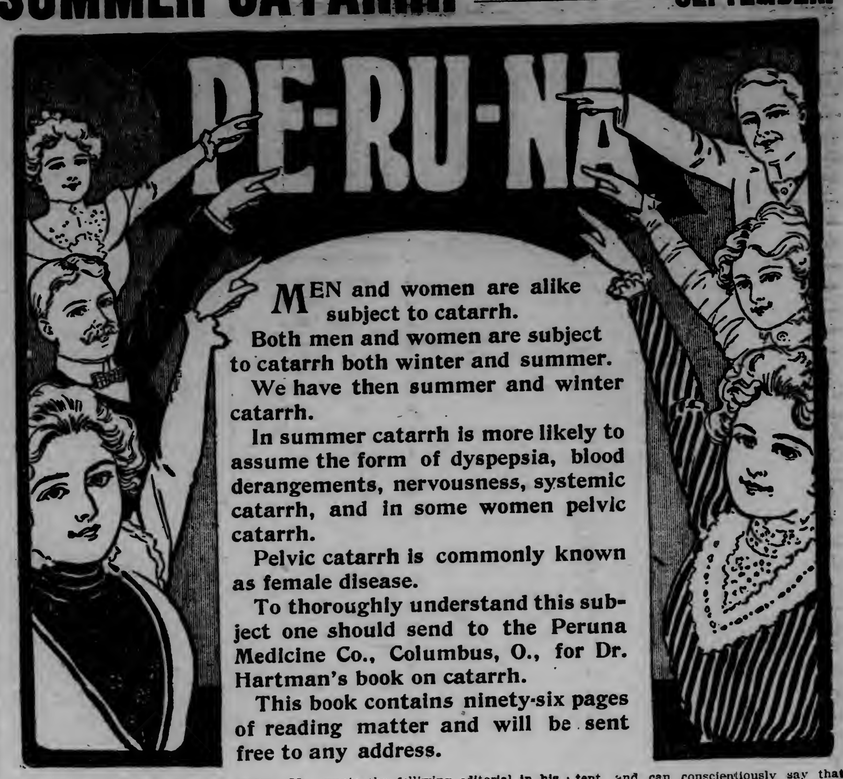
* * *

No magazine has made such rapid progress during the past two years as the Delineator, published at 17 West Thirteenth street, New York, and the popularity it has attained is richly deserved. Already the July number has made its appearance and it is a notable edition in many respects. The most striking feature is the three-color printing in an article on the Pan-American exposition, which will be appreciated by every lover of art. These beautiful illustrations show the artistic color results obtained in Buffalo, and were taken directly from the original water color sketches of C. Y. Turner, director of color to the Pan-American exposition. All the beautiful effects of the originals, necessitating the most exact register of plates, have been o[illegible]d.

* * *

The four issues of the Youth's Companion to be published in June will contain nearly twenty stories, one of these, "The Great Scoop," by Molly Elliot Seawell, being a serial story of life in a newspaper office. Among the contributors of these stories will be Harriet Prescott Spofford, Charles Tenney Jackson, Parker Bartlett, John D. Sherman, Sophie Swett, T. S. Van Dyke and Will Allen Dromgoole.

SUMMER CATARRH Prevails from JUNE TO SEPTEMBER.



MEN and women are alike subject to catarrh.

Both men and women are subject to catarrh both winter and summer.

We have then summer and winter catarrh.

In summer catarrh is more likely to assume the form of dyspepsia, blood derangements, nervousness, systemic catarrh, and in some women pelvic catarrh.

Pelvic catarrh is commonly known as female disease.

To thoroughly understand this subject one should send to the Peruna Medicine Co., Columbus, O., for Dr. Hartman's book on catarrh.

This book contains ninety-six pages of reading matter and will be sent free to any address.

Hon. Judson W. Lyons, register of the United States treasury, writes as follows:

"I find Peruna to be an excellent remedy for the catarrhal afflictions of spring and summer and those who suffer from the depression of the heat of the summer will find no remedy the equal of Peruna."—Judson W. Lyons.

Pelvic Catarrh.

Miss Elizabeth L. Williams writes from Goliad, Texas:

"I have taken several bottles of Peruna and now I am entirely well. Peruna has not only cured me of catarrh, but also of female complaints, of which I suffered a great deal. I shall always keep Peruna, and I do highly recommend it to everyone in the land, especially to young girls and women.

"I feel that I owe a world of gratitude to Dr. Hartman and Peruna."—Miss E. L. Williams.

Systemic Catarrh.

W. H. Shields, editor and publisher of the Douglas County Democrat, of Ava, Mo., wrote the following editorial in his paper of Jan. 24, 1901:

"Many people of Douglas county know how long and seriously ill the editor of this paper was with systemic catarrh.

"We count it simply an act of justice to say that after trying several doctors and proprietary medicines, we were induced to try S. B. Hartman's Peruna as put up by the Peruna Medicine company, of Columbus, Ohio. This remedy I believe saved my life and effected a permanent cure. I will not say it is the best medicine on earth, but I will say it is the best medicine I ever used."—W. H. Shields.

In a letter dated Feb. 11th, he says: "Since writing that editorial several persons have called at my office to learn whether it was really a fact or only an advertisement. I have assured them that it was written entirely without promise or favor or fear of contradiction. My case has been the cause of your selling many bottles of Peruna, both here and at Drury where I formerly lived."—W. H. Shields.

A Physician's Letter.

D. Russell Hayes, M.D., physician and surgeon, of New London, Conn., writes:

"I would add my testimony to the mass accumulated in favor of Peruna. I use it in my family and practice to a large extent, and can conscientiously say that I know of no remedy for all blood ailments so good. It is especially valuable to women."

Tried Medicines of all Schools.

Mrs. Laura J. Smith, national organizer Anti-Treat society, writes from 1217 West Thirty-third street, Minneapolis, Minn.:

"I have had trouble with my bladder, kidneys and other plevic organs for over ten years, and it caused me serious inconvenience and pain.

"I tried the medicines of all schools, but none could cure my case. My neighbor received wonderful benefits in a similar case, and advised me to try Peruna. I at once bought a bottle and experienced relief within a week. I took it nearly three months before I was cured, but I am now regaining flesh and feeling better than I have been for the past fifteen years."—Laura J. Smith.

If you do not derive prompt and satisfactory results from the use of Peruna, write at once to Dr. Hartman, giving a full statement of your case and he will be pleased to give you his valuable advice gratis.

Address Dr. Hartman, president of the Hartman Sanitarium, Columbus, Ohio.

STRIKES THE SOURCE.

A Pile Cure That Goes to the Root of the Disease.

There are lots of lotions, oils and salves that will, through their soothing influence, relieve temporarily the pain incident to piles. But is that all the sufferer requires? Isn't is a horrible thought to realize that the ease is only temporary, and the disease goes on under the surface without a moment's interruption? Wouldn't it be wiser to select a remedy that seeks the source and regulates those deep-seated disorders which induce the disease? Pyramid Pile Cure not only relieves the pain at once, but effects a permanent cure of the worst form of piles. You don't have to go through a tedious course of dieting while using it, either. It strikes through those delicate membranes and tissues and sets the blood in healthful circulation, reducing at once the painful inflammation and congested tumors. This remedy is not a haphazard combination of drugs, but is a remedy invented by specialists who have treated piles and blood disorders successfully for years. Manufactured by the Pyramid Drug company at Marshall, Mich. Almost any first-class druggist has it on sale. Don't treat this disease with every lotion and salve that comes along. Remember the parts affected are among the most delicate in the human body. This remedy is absolutely safe, and no one need fear to apply it on the most inflamed parts. The speed with which it allays the pain is an agreeable surprise to the sufferer.

COMMENCEMENT AND CLASS DAY PROGRAMS

Exercises of the Graduating Class Wednesday and Friday Evening---Baccalaureate Sermon Tomorrow Evening By Dr. Cleland.

As the time for graduation draws near, all is activity at the high school, particularly with the seniors, to whom the coming week is the last they will spend in the institution, which they have attended for the last four years, and to many the last of their school life. The senior examinations, so long dreaded, yet the goal at which four years of steady work has been aimed, took place on Thursday and Friday of this week. Their fate is settled. The examinations for the rest of the school will be held on Tuesday and Wednesday of the coming week. But of all the overworked participants in this activity the school musicians and those who are to take part in the class and commencement exercises are the busiest by far. Rehearsals are of daily occurrence and much midnight oil has and is being burned by the struggling honor pupils while laboring over their commencement essays and orations.

Wednesday, June 12, will be class day, and the graduating exercises will be held on Friday, June 14. The following are the programs for both days:

The baccalaureate sermon will be preached at the High School Assembly hall on tomorrow evening by Rev. Dr. Cleland. He will be assisted in conducting the services by Dr. Ryan, Dr. Montgomery, Dr. Milne and Dr. Patrick.

Although the class of 1901 has not yet received its diplomas it has already received an invitation, along with next year's senior class ('02) to attend the annual reunion of the Duluth high school alumni, which is to be held at Harmonia hall, Lester Park, on June 17.

The last of the regular chapel exercises will be held on Friday, June 14, when the president of the senior class will make his farwell address to the principal and the students. After that the year's reports will be given to the pupils and then the school year will be over for the undergraduate.

The junior-senior reception will be held on Thursday, June 13, at the Spalding hotel. The junior class have worked hard to make this event the greatest of the year, in a social way, and their efforts will doubtless be successful. All of the members of the school, alumni and others have been invited.

ASHLAND FLUNKS AGAIN.

Her Athletes Afflicted With Weak Heart.

The baseball team will not go to Ashland on Saturday, as they expected. Ashland has again at the last moment broken her agreement to play one of the high school teams there. This has happened every time a game has been arranged for the last few years; four times in two years. More than once the boys have been already on the train when a wire has been received from Ashland breaking off the agreement with some lame excuse. The boys are justly angry at this shabby treatment, and in all probability Ashland will be stricken from the list of the high school's list of possible opponents in athletics.

FOURTH OF JULY.

Pupils to Take Part In the Celebration.

Professor Alletzhauser, the physical culture instructor, held a meeting of the high school pupils at the school on Thursday afternoon to arrange some of the details as to the school division of the Fourth of July parade.

All of the schools in the city are to take part in this parade. The territory from Fond du Lac to Lester Park will be divided into districts. Each of these districts will be commanded by a colonel and an adjutant elected by the school children included in the respective divisions. The high school will furnish a chief of staff, a colonel, an adjutant and two majors.

Mr. Alletzhauser expects all the students to take hold of this scheme in earnest, and if they do he is sure the school division of the parade will be a great success. He met all of the officers already elected by the students at the High School at 10 o'clock this morning.

ATHLETIC ASSOCIATION.

Closes the Year With Trifling Debt.

The last regular meeting of the High School Athletic association was held on Tuesday. The treasurer reported the debt of the association to be $9 at present. This shows a decrease of $175 since the spring athletic season began two months ago, and is very satisfactory.

At this meeting the officers of the society for the first semester of the coming year were elected. The result of the election follows:

President, Sumner Smith, '02; vice president, Edward Congdon, '02; secretary, Joseph Harrison, '03; treasurer, Malan Richards, '03; recorder, Marshall Alworth, '03; sergeants at arms, George Fredin, '03, and Miller MacDougal, '03.

The manager of next year's football team was also elected. Professor Hutchison of the manual training department, who has always taken an active interest in the school athletics and who has formerly been manager of several of the school's athletic teams among which is this year's track team, was given the position.

Donations to Ball Team.

The following donations have been made to the baseball team by several business houses of the city. Northern Hardware company, $10; T. W. Hugo, $5; Marshall-Wells Hardware company, $10; Charles W. Ericson, $2; Kelley Hardware company, $10; Panton & White, $5; M. S. Burrows, $5; Floan, Leveros & Co., $2; M. H. Alworth, $10; Stone-Ordean-Wells company, $5; George Spencer, $2; A. Fitger, $2.

ZENITH OUT MONDAY.

The publication of the Zenith has been delayed slightly. It will not be on sale until Monday instead of on Friday of this week, as was expected. The proof has all been read by the editors and sample prints of the photographic cuts have been passed around at the High School.

Those who have seen the proof sheets say that this year's issue is an exceptionally good one. It will be on sale at the High School, at Seecamp's news stand and at Hirsch's cigar store in the Board of Trade building.

BIG LAND DEAL.

St. Paul, June 8.—It is said that a large tract of land in Pine county, known as the St. Paul & Duluth railroad grant, has been sold by the Northern Pacific railway to a syndicate of English capitalists for a consideration of $500,000. The tract is timber land which has been cut over and is now available for grazing and agricultural purposes and comprises 200,000 acres.

The Duluth delegation to the convention of the States Federation of Labor will get away for Mankato tonight and tomorrow. W. E. McEwen left Friday night and he has every assurance of being re-elected state secretary. The Duluth delegation will back him strongly. The fight for the presidency between McNeary and Hanson, of Minneapolis, is getting decidedly interesting. President McNeary has written here that he feels very confident of winning.

The Duluth delegation to the state convention is as follows:

Federated Trades' assembly: Gus Winberg, Henry Dworschak, Gordon O'Neil, Joseph Pratts and William Longstreet.

Building Trades' council: J. W. Richardson and P. Timlin.

Amalgamated Meat Cutters: William Tunnell.

Plumbers' union: Joseph Kreiger.

Cigarmakers' union: Wolf Schwartz and Nels Anderson.

Carpenters' union: J. H. Baker, George M. Davis, S. M. Kielley, E. F. Heller and S. T. Skrove.

Theatrical Stage Employes: J. Shannahan.

* * *

There will be a meeting of the 'Longshoremen's union No. 12 in Gilbey's hall at West Duluth this evening. The union will elect delegates to the Mankato convention.

* * *

The boycott placed on the Marshall-Wells company by the Sheet Metal Workers' union, better known as the tinners' union, has been endorsed by the Building Trades' council. The Marshall-Wells company declined to agree to the terms of the tinners during the recent strike.

Wilkesbarre has the 8-hour day in nearly all the skilled trades.

Oskaloosa brick makers have been promised the 9-hour day.

San Antonio Central union has finally seated negro delegates.

Madison, Wis., plumbers have been granted $3.25 and the 9-hour day.

Racine, Wis., without a strike and no cut in wages, won the 8-hour day.

Sault Ste. Marie pick and shovel men won an advance from $1.50 to $1.75 per day.

Kalamazoo journeymen want barber shops closed at 7 p. m. except on Wednesday and Saturday.

The West Hosiery mill workers, in Plymouth, Pa., secured an increase of 30 cents per day without a strike.

Port Huron Brewers' union succeeded in secured a raise of $2 per week, the new scale being $14 per week and a 10-hour day.

In Scotland the coal conciliation board is discussing a 25 per cent reduction in the men's wages in consequence of the fall in coal prices.

At Rockford the coremakers and the molders got an advance in wages, the coremakers getting 20 per cent and the molders 15 per cent raise.

Chillicothe, O., bricklayers, since organizing have secured the 9-hour day and an advance from 27 cents to 45 cents an hour and double time for Sundays and legal holidays.

At Evansville the tinners were on strike for three days for an advance from 17½ cents to 25 cents an hour and a reduction in hours from nine to eight. They won the strike.

The Jamestown, N. Y., organizers, H. S. Whiteman and the Central Labor union has secured the 8-hour day for the city street employes without decrease of wages.

In March the Quebec legislature enacted a law entitled "The Quebec Trades' Dispute Act," not compulsory, but aiming to settle difficulties by arbitration where more than ten people are employed.

Sir Charles Dilke has introduced a bill into parliament to appoint wages boards in sweated trades to fix minimums of payment—the boards to consist of equal numbers of employers and employed.

Cleveland plasterers were on strike for a week and secured an 8-hour day, with an increase in wages from $3 to $3.50 per day. Electrical Workers Local union, No. 38, inside men, gained 5 cents an hour without a strike.

At Hagerstown, Md., the brewery workers have received an increase in wages from $9 to $13 a week; the engineers to $17, and the hours of labor reduced from 14 to 10, all overtime to be paid time and a half. These concessions gained without a strike.

Norwich, Conn., carpenters, masons and hod carriers secured the 8-hour day with very little trouble. The mounters and fitters at the Richmond stove works secured an advance of 25 per cent per day in wages, after a strike of several weeks' duration.

At Montreal, printers in all the French printing offices secured the 9-hour day and a minimum rate of wages of $11 a week for hand work and $15 for machine work. Five English offices have already agreed to the above terms. Negotiations are pending with the balance.

The carpenters of Homestead, Pa., the amalgamated battle ground of 1892, comes to the front with a union able to establish a rate of wages for eight hours' work 10 cents higher per day than is paid in Pittsburg. This vantage ground was secured by a strike of only a few days. The Tight-work coopers have also secured an increase of 10 per cent.

F. of L. organizer, P. H. Watson, says that British Columbia has to fight Chinese and Japanese labor, and unless the government does something to stop this influx of cheap labor it will cause great trouble. Even the servant girls cannot get work, their places being taken by Chinese and Japs. They are driving out all classes of labor

King, of the Government Workers' Federation, is still hammering away in protest against the starvation wages paid to England's arsenal laborers and others. A minimum wage of 24 shillings a week is asked for. The general level of remuneration now is between 17 and 19 shillings per week, and against this, work has increased in difficulty and quantity, and rents have doubled in a few years.

"For ten years," said Potter Palmer, of Chicago, "I made as desperate a fight against organized labor as was ever made by mortal man. It cost me considerably more than a million dollars to learn that there is no labor so skilled, so intelligent, so faithful, as that which is governed by an organization whose officials are well-balanced, level-headed men. * * * I now employ none but organized labor, and never have the least trouble."

Rochester brewery workers have secured an agreement for a 9-hour day and an increase of 20 per cent in wages, with the exception of the engineers; the latter obtained 40 per cent, as they have been granted eight hours instead of twelve. Wages for twelve hours were $18 per week, and now the wages for eight hours are to be $17. This means three shifts of engineers instead of two, as was the former condition. The carpenters secured an increase of 25 cents a day without a strike, making a minimum of $2.50 for eight hours.

DRAMATIC

"Sag Harbor" Will Be at Lyceum Soon.

Sixth Avenue Theater Re-opens Monday.

Monday and Tuesday, June 17 and 18, James A. Herne's play, "Sag Harbor," will be seen at the Lyceum. The production will be of peculiar interest because of the recent death of Mr. Herne. He was the author of "Shore Acres," which has been a great favorite with Duluth people. In the opinion of the critics, "Sag Harbor" is the greatest play that James A. Herne has ever written, and an authority as good as the Chicago Times-Herald declares that "Sag Harbor" is better than "Shore Acres." As far as the opinion of the New York public is concerned, every adjective has been exhausted in describing the romantic beauty, the exquisite beauty and the idyllic loveliness of this pure and delightful New England love story.

MYRKLE AND HARDER COMPANY.

The Sixth Avenue theater will open next week with the Myrkle and Harder company in a repertoire of scenic productions, presenting for an opening bill "The Princess of Patches." The following is a clipping from the Daily Leader of Eau Claire, Wis.:

"The Myrkle and Harder company presented 'The Princess of Patches' to an appreciative audience at the Grand Opera house last evening, more than fulfilling the promises made by Manager Moon. It is without doubt the strongest repertoire company ever seen in Eau Claire, and will undoubtedly do a big week's business. It is a pity that more of the one-night-stand shows do not compare more favorably with this repertoire company. The 'Princess of Patches' is a charming story of Kentucky life and was portrayed by a very able cast, the work of Miss Myrkle as Selma Silverthorne or Nettles being exceptionally acceptable, as was that of Mr. Harder as Waggles, to say nothing of the balance of the company, all of whom were good in their respective parts. Eau Claire has waited a long time for just such a company at just such prices, and now that we have the Myrkle and Harder company, even the most fastidious can enjoy a night's entertainment at popular prices."

THE OLDEST CLOWN.

Died Wealthy at a Green Old Age.

McKeesport, Pa., June 5.—Samuel R. Welser, who made thousands laugh and who spent the greater part of his eighty-six years of life in the circus ring, was laid to rest in Versailles cemetery, in this city, last week. He was the oldest circus clown in the world, and the little funeral in McKeesport was over the remains of a man who, in his day, was known around the world, and whose annual coming was looked forward to by the fathers and the grandfathers of the present generation when the first big bills announcing the coming of the tented aggregation of marvels were posted on barn and dead wall.

Welser was remarkable in all his chosen profession. He was born in Philadelphia, Pa., Easter Sunday morning, April 16, 1815. Circuses in those days were not the great railroad affairs of the present day, and the clown was one of the great attractions of every traveling caravan. When but a boy Welser developed a fondness for circus life, and when only a youngster he left his home in Philadelphia and started into the career which afterward became his life work. His first important engagement was in the old Boston museum at Boston, Mass. This was in 1837. Welser's work there immediately stamped him as a clown of superior ability. His work was that of the old timers, when clowns were not merely used to "fill up" the bill, but were real humorists, whose business it was to tickle the risibilities of the show-going public. Welser was a humorist. In conversation he was as witty as Mark Twain or Bill Nye in literature.

He was a side partner of famous Dan Rice, whose name has been familiar to three generations of circus lovers throughout the world. In Maley and Older's circus he first met this famous old showman about the year 1848, and with that combination he traveled all over America, North and South, Central America and Mexico. Upon his return to the United States he started on the road with Rice in a show belonging to that famous character. It was what would be called a decidedly one-horse aggregation in these days, but in that early time it showed all over the United States from Maine to California.

They made a trip across the plains during the gold excitement of 1849, and "Uncle Sammy," as every person in McKeesport called the white-haired, genial old man had some wonderful stories to tell of the wild scenes in mining camps during those days, and of the exciting experiences crossing the plains and coming home again via the "Isthmus" route. As a circus man Mr. Welser traveled almost all over the world, either as a wagon driver or a clown, oftentimes as both, for circuses in those days required even their most talented performers to "double up." He mastered several languages during his travels, and was an adept in the use of German, French and Spanish. He also came to letting loose, as he occasionally did, he could swear in half a dozen languages.

It was in McKeesport that Welser met his fate and fortune at the same moment. He had been married before his arrival in that city, but his wife had died. Two sons and a daughter were born of this union, but Welser left them behind in Philadelphia when he moved West. A daughter and son are still living in Philadelphia, and are expected to claim a portion, at least, of the fortune of $50,000 or $60,000 which the old man left behind.

Welser came to McKeesport in 1853. The first night the little show of which he was the proprietor and in which he figured as the star attraction opened in this city. Miss Julia Stacey was one of the members of his audience. She witnessed the funny antics of the nimble clown and fell in love with him. Miss Stacey owned several blocks of valuable property in McKeesport, which was bringing her in a good rent, and she had an accumulation of dollars laid away in the old Monongahela bank, the only financial institution in the town in those days. It was some time, however, before Welser could be brought to look at the matter in that light. He liked Julia, but he also liked his circus life, and he felt that marriage meant a shackled sort of existence. It was a couple of years before the wiles of the pretty Julia proved strong enough to overcome Welser's objections to a second matrimonial venture. She succeeded at last, however, and eventually became Mrs. Samuel Welser the second.

One of Welser's advertising feats is still remembered by the older residents along the Monongahela and Ohio river-valleys. This was his famous goose team, and it is still talked about among the old folks in this vicinity. His show was at Brownsville, Pa., and was making a tour of the river towns. Welser got out handbills advising all the residents along the river to look out for the goose team, and giving the day and date it would appear. Prompt to his word he drove down the placid waters of the Monongahela that day with four enormous white geese hitched to a light canoe. The feat has never been attempted since, and was, no doubt, original with the dead clown.

Julia Stacey, the second wife of Mr. Welser, died in 1886, leaving him a snug lot of real estate in this city. On the rents from this the old man spent the declining years of his life in comfort. In 1888, when he was 74 years of age, the blind god tempted him into a third matrimonial venture. This time it was with Miss Pearl Wilson, of this city. She was but 16 years of age at the time. This third matrimonial venture proved a sad one for the old man, in less than a year after the marriage the child wife died, and they laid the little girl born of this union in the grave with its mother. The old man really loved his child wife, and from that time on he was different. The old snap and vigor seemed wanting, and while his heart was as warm as ever and he still enjoyed fun, the old-time sparkle seemed to have faded out of him and he weakened. After the death of his third wife he made his home with his father-in-law, James Wilson, of Second avenue, Hazelwood, near this city, and it was at this place he died at 11:45 o'clock Tuesday morning, May 28. His death was due to paralysis.

The property left, which consists of real estate supplemented with some bank stock and cash, was given to his father-in-law, James Wilson. Over this there is every prospect of a lively contest, as the surviving son and daughter of the first marriage are making strong claims to a share of the estate. The deceased was a charter member of Youghiogheny lodge, I. O. O. F., of McKeesport, which lodge buried the veteran showman with highest honors.

GOSSIP OF THE RIALTO.

Vaudeville Stage Running to One-Act Plays.

New York, June 5.—The present season has seen a remarkable change in the vaudeville stage. During this week no less than fifteen plays were given at the continuous houses and the music halls. They varied from three-act comedies and farces to one-act sentimental sketches. Three revivals were on the list: "Pink Domino," "The Strange Adventures of Miss Brown," in which Louis Mann scored his first big New York success, and Roland Reed's old farce, "The Woman Hater." Koster and Bial's was the only house that gave a straight variety show. The cutting out of the variety scene has been going on quietly, but surely, ever since the White Rat strike. The head liners are all right but the small fry are persistently shut out.

There is a rumor, apparently based on excellent grounds, that B. F. Keith is so pleased with the success of the stock company in the continuous houses that he will have one at his Princess theater in London. A number of people with reputations for excellent stock company work have been approached.

• • •

Another novelty for London will be Homer Lind's condensed version of "Trilby," the street singer. He has canceled all his vaudeville dates in this country and will start for the other side as soon as possible.

• • •

Chorus girls are now a drug on the market. Last season the supply was far below the demand and the salaries went up like a Wall street boom. This summer about every one who cares to work has been placed with the exception of the "merry, merry" maiden, and the Rialto is full of them. Manager George W. Lederer has been distracted over the chorus of "The Strollers" because of the number of applicants. "Last season," he said, "I had to pay as high as $35 a week for a first-class chorus girl. This year I can get all I want at $15 per. About every girl who was over on the Casino stage is ready to go on again, and we could fit out half a dozen companies just as well as one."

• • •

Mildred Holland "unlike many stars, is singularly devoid of professional jealousy." The quotations belong to the press agent, who confidingly furnishes some more information. It seems that whenever any member of the company receives applause for his or her work, or is rewarded with flowers, Miss Holland "takes as much interest in the fact as if the compliment were paid her personally." Just to prove that this is no merry jest he cites a local manager who had been up against several stony-hearted and vindictive stars in his day, and who was not acquainted with the dove-like disposition of Miss Holland. Some one in town wanted to get solid with a member of the company by a proper floral tribute, and he asked the manager how about it. The latter passed it up, and was overwhelmed to hear the star murmur: "Objection? Not the slightest in the world. Tell them to send all they want to, and perhaps Miss ——— will give me a posy to wear home."

• • •

Miss Maud White, Stuart Robson's leading lady, is in town, and has been a conspicuous figure along Broadway. She is noted for her ability in retort, and a story is going the rounds that well illustrates her powers in this direction. She was present at an afternoon tea the other day with a dozen other women. The conversation turned on a new novel by one of Miss White's acquaintances. "Have you read Mrs. Blank's book?" she was asked. "No," replied Miss White, languidly, "They say it is very execrating book," remarked the hostess. "Yes," was Miss White's answer, with that peculiar rising inflection. But the hostess persisted: "Some of the author's expressions in particular," she said, "is being talked of just now. She says, 'I can imagine no more entrancing fate than to be kissed to a death.'" "Dear me," said the actress, "wherever would she find an executioner?"

• • •

It is hard to fathom the ambition of a chorus maid. There's Maize Follette, for example. Maize was once a member of the Weber and Fields' aggregation, and for a couple of weeks was supremely happy. Then the serpent ambition crept into her front row Eden and tempted her. The said serpent was a cigarette man who paid her royalties for the use of her photographic attractions on his coffin nails. The revenue on the side made Maize independent, likewise haughty. There has always been a doubt as to whether the stage manager or Maize was first under the wire, but it is certain that she moved herself up the row and became associated with Lulu Glaser in the "Prima Donna." Maize was still haughty, and now she's the sixty-eighth or sixty-ninth pretty maiden in "Florodora." It may be that the cigarette business is falling off, but more likely that ambition is working overtime. Maize has had her picture printed two columns wide in two papers, and all because she has sued Miss Glaser for $10,000 on an alleged charge of flirting. Miss G. says "Bosh!" and now Maize darkly hints at a suit for lacerated affections against a youth of vast local prestige and enormous wealth who has changed his brand of cigarettes.

• • •

Franklyn Fyles, dramatic critic, has the canker worm of sorrow eating at his heart because, owing to a series of misfortunes, his drama, "Kit Carson," fell considerably flat at the American. The play is all right, but it was in hard luck. The company had rehearsed until it was tired out, and the sensation was spoiled because the stage carpenters failed to set a machine by which the hero could escape a la Nell Burgess in "The County Fair." The hero got all tangled up, and had to back off the stage to the intense amusement of the gallery. It was pretty hard on Fyles, because that first night was to settle whether the show should go on the road. Manager Greenwall has not yet made up his mind, and the show may be held back for another trial in the fall.

• • •

Miss Sandol Milliken, who was Jeff D'Angelis' leading woman this season, will be prominent in a musical comedy by Harry B. Smith, which is to be produced by Klaw and Erlanger.

• • •

Edna Wallace Hopper will go to London shortly to study "The Crystal Slipper." James T. Powers is on his way there to devote his attention to "The Messenger Boy."

• • •

Thomas Q. Seabrooke will be "A Modern Crusoe," if ——. There is so much after that little word that it really looks as though the actor is afraid and the author "dassent." Sydney Rosenfeld is urging Seabrooke, and the latter is slowly being coaxed. The play has been shelved ever since Roland Reed was taken ill. So far the decision seems to rest with Rosenfeld.

• • •

The mind of George Fuller Golden is at rest. For weeks he has been worried and bothered to such a degree that his White Rat comrades began to fear that another strike was imminent. All efforts at sympathy were repulsed, and Golden guarded his cares with jealous carefulness. Now he has appeared again with a smile, and Broadway breathes easier. It is a girl, and the mother is doing very well, indeed.

• • •

"The Blundering Mr. Budds," a new play by Frank Tannehill, Jr., was tried on Brooklyn last week by the Baker Stock company. It was so well received that "Nancy Hanks," by the same author, follows it.

• • •

When Anna Held sailed away she was the victor in a little dispute over the title to her new musical comedy. It is settled that it is to be "The Little Duchess," and it will be seen at the Casino in the fall. Charles Bigelow will be the principal comedian.

• • •

The roasting that the dramatic critics gave Nat Goodwin was practically unanimous, as was the action of the general public in packing the house. It must be a sad commentary on the taste of the people to think that instead of shunning the knickerbocker the crowds had to be turned away and, over in Brooklyn, where money does not come quite so easy, it was the same story. Klaw and Erlanger report that the receipts for seven performances, at regular prices, exceeded $19,000.

• • •

A wail has come from Philadelphia that that town has to put up with a considerable number of old shows, while New York is getting all the new ones, and the Quakers do not like it a little bit. The long runs in town interfered with a number of ours, and it will be well into next winter before Quakertown sees "The Climbers," "In the Palace of the King," "When Knighthood Was in Flower," "Under Two Flags," "Florodora" and "Mrs. Dane's Defense."

• • •

Wise is the woman who knows enough to stick to her own game. The truth of this is exemplified by the sad story unfolded by one Mrs. Dowling on the witness stand last week. Mrs. D., to her profiness is a customer who fits out theatrical persons at rates that gave her a comfortable bank account. In a moment of weakness she became an angel, and started Mlle. Pilar-Nevin on the road to financial disaster. Much of that bank account became a sad memory. Meanwhile Mrs. Dawling returned to her old business, but her mind was distracted, and in a moment of weakness she made the costumes for "Vienna Life," without even a deposit in advance. No one has regretted this more than Mrs. Dowling unless it was the Wall street brokers, who, on Rudolph Aronson's invitation, backed the ill-fated opera. Mrs. Dowling sues them morning, noon and night. So far, she has t verdict for $600, but no cash, and Nemesis is on her trail in the shape of a victim of her own angelic performance, who has a verdict against her for $192. She can has not paid on the ground that she cannot, and she lays in wait for the agents of those who tried their hand at the show business like herself. Incidentally she told the judge that actresses were even worse, and that collectively they owe her something like $30,000, of which she has hopes of about 1 per cent.

• • •

The Aronson benefit was, indeed, a sad affair. So far as the secret can be unearthed the sum that will go to the old Casino manager will be in the neighborhood of $600. The program was a good hood of $600. The program was a good one, but the house was not, and the hopes Aronson entertained of being set upon his feet for next season have vanished.

• • •

In view of the rumor about the separation of Ross and Fenton matrimonially, which rumor has been so authoritatively denied, attention has been called to the fact that the male member of the family owns the real name of Charles Joseph Kelly. It was the kidnaping of little Charley Ross that led him to assume his stage name. He met Mabel Fenton in Deadwood sixteen years ago, and their courtship lasted exactly ninety-six hours. They stepped from the vaudeville stage to Weber and Fields, but at present their only team work is done on their New Jersey farm.

Nat Roth got into a peck of trouble recently all through asking for some theater tickets. His own folks had seen "The Climbers," and when he had agreed to oblige a friend with three seats for another friend, he fell to wondering just what excuse he would be able to give Business Manager Harris. Finally he wrote as follows:

"My dear Harry, will you again extend a favor? Three this time, as they are for my sister-in-law and a couple of friends. Will you oblige me by mailing them direct to her in the inclosed envelope? Yours, etc." Harris jumped when he saw that the name on the envelope was his own sister-in-law's. He promptly got Roth on the phone and asked him when he had happened to marry into the family. Roth went at once to the Bijou and bought for all hands.

• • •

Otis Harlan declares that vaudeville pleases him mightily. He also asserts that he has just refused two offers to go back into farce comedy.

• • •

The Hacketts, J. K. and Marry Mannering, are now on the ocean bound for a short vacation in England. Miss Mannering will reopen "Janice Meredith" in Trenton late in August and Frank McKee will send a second company out West. James K. Hackett's new play, "Don Caesar's Return," will be tried on Baltimore by the Giffen Stock company, so that it can be whipped into proper shape for Hackett's debut at Wallack's in September. Arthur C. Weld, musical director at the Casino, is writing the incidental music for it.

• • •

Ada Rehan's new play will be ready for her early in August. Martha Morton is now in the Adirondacks writing it, and it is nearly finished. The scenario has met with Miss Rehan's unqualified approval.

• • •

The grand jury over in Jersey City has decided that a bullet girl for poster purposes is not immoral. That town rejoices in a head of the police board with sensibilities that were severely shocked when a callous bill poster stuck up posters that were highly calculated to attract the male eye. As he put it to the grand jury, "My expert opinion is that these theatrical posters are highly immoral and vicious." The jury's view was feelingly expressed by a member: "G'wan," he said, "them pictures wuz nothin'. It was jes like an old maids' home at a chowder party. Immoral? Nothin' doing." And so the cause of virtue has met with another throwdown.

"Penobscot People" will be produced by Mr. and Mrs. George Ober next season.

Charles Stevenson will play the king in Mrs. Leslie Carter's production of "Du Barry."

"Quo Vadis" in a tent is to be a summer attraction in Virginia and West Virginia.

Walter Damrosch and W. G. Henderson are making a grand opera of "Cyrano de Bergerac."

E. H. Sothern and Joseph Haworth were at one time in the super-corps with John McCullough.

Mrs. Le Moyne may produce next season the "Madame de Maintenon" play by F. Marion Crawford.

Sydney Rosenfeld is collaborating with Samuel Clemens (Mark Twain) in the production of a new play.

Otis Skinner will star next season in "The Heretic," a drama written by himself and Ernest P. Boddington.

Peter Dailey's next play by Augustus Thomas is "The Wine Agent." Christie MacDonald will be in the cast.

J. C. Williamson is to manage Nance O'Neil's London season and is arranging to lease a theater for the engagement.

Hal Reid's "The Prince of the World," tells a story concerning early Christianity, and is written in the same vein as "The Sign of the Cross" and "Quo Vadis."

Magician Horace Goldin will begin a lengthy engagement at the Palace, London, on July 8. He is unquestionably the greatest magician ever sent to Europe by America.

Rose Coghlan's starring tour, under the management of Lederer and Leavitt, has been planned to last three years and to cover the United States, England and Australia.

Dr. C. Villiers Was in Stanford's opera, "Much Ado About Nothing," had its initial production at Covent Garden, London, May 31, and was well received. David Bispham was seen as Benedick, Marie Brema as Beatrice, Suzanne Adams as Hero, and M. Plancon as the Friar.

In "Lorna Doone," which will shortly be brought out at Chicago, Ralph Delmore will play the part of Carver Doone, Robert Payton Carter, Sir Ensor Doone; Frank Burbeck, counselor; Clifford Leigh, Old Reuben Huckerback; Ellen Mortimer, Ruth; Frank Worthing, Charlesworth.

Old plays to be revived, with notable cast: "Mazeppa," "The Two Orphans," "Ten Nights in a Barroom," "Across the Continent," "Fanchon, the Cricket," "Uncle Tom's Cabin," and a melodrama which was used years ago at the Union Square theater called "Storm Beaten."

An anti-Semite play called "The Smugglers," recently produced in Russia, has aroused such bitter feeling that several riots have already occurred on account of it. At Kutais, in South Russia, thirty soldiers were injured during an encounter with the populace at the theater doors.

The two "Shore Acres" companies will continue just the same as ever under the management of William B. Gross. "Sag Harbor" will be sent on tour by the Liebler company, with George Woodward in the part created by Mr. Herne. Another play, "Hearts of Oak," will be sent on tour with E. P. Sullivan as its star.

"When mother gets well" is a good time to set for a wedding day, for such is what Edna Wallace Hopper says to her friends when they ask her when she is to be married once more. Her former husband, De Wolf Hopper, has gone through three marriage ceremonies with all of his three wives living. This will be Mrs. Hopper's second.

WEAK, WASTING, STRICTURED MEN Cured While You Sleep, IN 15 DAYS!

19,846--CURES DURING LAST YEAR--19,846

Why the Frightful Tension of Stricture is Dissolved Like Snow Beneath the Sun---IN FIFTEEN DAYS.

Why Weak Men Are restored by the Magic St. James Treatment Applied Locally and Directly to the Affected Parts.

We answer the questions briefly. If you cut an artery in your arm, you do not take internal medicine to stop the flow of blood. YOU USE LOCAL APPLICATIONS. Similarly when the urethral ducts become weakened and relaxed it is ridiculous to take internal treatment, which must pass through the stomach and urine before it reaches the seat of disease. The seminal ducts project into the urethral canal through the Prostate Gland, and are easily reached by local treatment. Dr. Carter's "Gran-Solvent" soluble Bougies will dissolve, digest and forever remove IRRITATE THE MEMBRANE. NO INTERNAL DRUGGING TO RUIN THE STOMACH. The St. James treatment is local, direct and positive.

The St. James treatment is prepared in the form of crayons, very narrow, smooth, flexible and wholly soluble, which are inserted into the water passage at night, where they dissolve and deposit the medication in its full strength upon the Prostate Gland, contracting and strengthening the ducts and FOREVER STOPPING DRAINS AND EMISSIONS, and curing while the patient sleeps.

STRICTURE

In 15 days, without pain, injury or inconvenience. The bougies are inserted at night and act while you sleep. "Gran-Solvent" removes every symptom of stricture, leaving the canal as healthy as when nature formed it. No BRUTAL CUTTING OR DILATING. NO INJECTIONS TO

VARICOCELE

Varicocele is an accumulation of sluggish blood in the veins of the scrotum, due solely to imperfect circulation, and has its origin in a diseased and torpid Prostate Gland. Operations in this disease are only temporary, and no mechanical device yet discovered has cured a single case. Gran-Solvent heals the Prostate and restores healthy circulation. Varicocele disappears and the sluggish accumulation is replaced by pure healthy blood.

Thousands of men stricture, weak, wasting and despondent were cured and restored by the St. James method last year. A vast army of men in whom the light of life has penetrated the fearful nightmare of stricture and seminal decay.

HOME TREATMENT BY MAIL CAN BE USED by the PATIENT AS SUCCESSFULLY AS BY OURSELVES

Space will not permit a complete description of the incomparable St. James Treatment in urethral diseases. Every sufferer from Stricture, and its offspring, Prostatitis and Seminal Weakness, should write to the St. James Association, 71 St. James Building, Cincinnati, Ohio, for their wonderful illustrated work, showing the parts of the human system involved in urethral ailments, which they will send securely wrapped in plain package, prepaid..... ## "Sag Harbor" Will Be at Lyceum Soon.

Sixth Avenue Theater Re-opens Monday.

Monday and Tuesday, June 17 and 18, James A. Herne's play, "Sag Harbor," will be seen at the Lyceum. The production will be of peculiar interest because of the recent death of Mr. Herne. He was the author of "Shore Acres," which has been a great favorite with Duluth people. In the opinion of the critics, "Sag Harbor" is the greatest play that James A. Herne has ever written, and an authority as good as the Chicago Times-Herald declares that "Sag Harbor" is better than "Shore Acres." As far as the opinion of the New York public is concerned, every adjective has been exhausted in describing the romantic beauty, the exquisite beauty and the idyllic loveliness of this pure and delightful New England love story.

MYRKLE AND HARDER COMPANY.

The Sixth Avenue theater will open next week with the Myrkle and Harder company in a repertoire of scenic productions, presenting for an opening bill "The Princess of Patches." The following is a clipping from the Daily Leader of Eau Claire, Wis.:

The Myrkle and Harder company presented The Princess of Patches' to an appreciative audience at the Grand Opera house last evening, more than fulfilling the promises made by Manager Moen. It is without doubt the strongest repertoire company ever seen in Eau Claire, and will undoubtedly do a big week's business. It is a pity that more of the one-night-stand shows do not compare more favorably with this repertoire company. The 'Princess of Patches' is a charming story of Kentucky life and was portrayed by a very able cast, the work of Miss Myrkle as Selma Silverthorne or Nettles being exceptionally acceptable, as was that of Mr. Harder as Waggles, to say nothing of the balance of the company, all of whom were good in their respective parts. Eau Claire has waited a long time for just such a company at just such prices, and now that we have the Myrkle and Harder company, even the most fastidious can enjoy a night's entertainment at popular prices."

THE OLDEST CLOWN.

Died Wealthy at a Green Old Age.

McKeesport, Pa., June 7.—Samuel R. Welser, who made thousands laugh and who spent the greater part of his eighty-six years of life in the circus ring, was laid to rest in Versailles cemetery, in this city, last week. He was the oldest circus clown in the world, and the little funeral in McKeesport was over the remains of a man who, in his day, was known around the world, and whose annual coming was looked forward to by the fathers and the grandfathers of the present generation when the first big bills announcing the coming of the tented aggregation of marvels were posted on barn and dead wall.

Welser was remarkable in all his chosen profession. He was born in Philadelphia, the Easter Sunday morning, April 15, 1816. Circuses in those days were not the great railroad affairs of the present day, and the clown was one of the great attractions of every traveling caravan. When but a boy Welser developed a fondness for circus life, and when only a youngster he left his home in Philadelphia and started into the career which afterward became his life work. His first important engagement was in the old Boston museum at Boston, Mass. This was in 1837. Welser's work there immediately stamped him as a clown of superior ability. His work was that of the old timers, when clowns were not merely used to "fill up" the bill, but were real humorists, whose business it was to tickle the risibilities of the show-going public. Welser was a humorist. In conversation he was as witty as Mark Twain or Bill Nye in literature.

He was a side partner of famous Dan Rice, whose name has been familiar to three generations of circus lovers throughout the world. In Maley and Older's circus he first met this famous old showman about the year 1848, and with that combination he traveled all over America, North and South, Central America and Mexico. Upon his return to the United States he started on the road with Rice in a show belonging to that famous character. It was what would be called a decidedly one-horse aggregation in these days, but in that early time it showed all over the United States from Maine to California.

They made a trip across the plains during the gold excitement of 1849, and "Uncle Sammy," as every person in McKeesport called the white-haired, genial old man had some wonderful stories to tell of the wild scenes in mining camps in those days, and of the exciting experiences crossing the plains and coming home again via the "isthmus" route. As a circus man Mr. Welser traveled almost all over the world, either as a wagon driver or a clown, oftentimes as both, for circuses in those days required even their most talented performers to "double up." He mastered several languages during his travels, and was an adept in the use of German, French and Spanish. When it came to letting loose, as he occasionally did, he could swear in half a dozen languages.

It was in McKeesport that Welser met his fate and fortune at the same moment. He had been married before his arrival in that city, but his wife had died. Two sons and a daughter were left to fight for themselves, but Welser left them behind in Philadelphia when he moved West. A daughter and son are still living in Philadelphia, and are expected to claim a portion, at least, of the fortune of $50,000 or $60,000 which the old man left behind.

Welser came to McKeesport in 1853. The first night the little show of which he was the proprietor and in which he figured as the star attraction opened in this city. Miss Julia Stacey was one of the members of his audience. She witnessed the funny antics of the nimble clown and fell in love with him. Miss Stacey owned several blocks of valuable property in McKeesport, which she brought her in a good rent, and she had an accumulation of dollars laid away in the old Monongahela bank, the only financial institution in the town in those days. It was some time, however, before Welser could be brought to look at the matter in that light. He liked Julia, but he also liked his circus life, and he felt that marriage meant a shackled sort of existence. It was a couple of years before the wiles of the pretty Julia proved strong enough to overcome Welser's objections to a second matrimonial venture. She succeeded at last, however, and eventually became Mrs. Samuel Welser the second.

One of Welser's advertising feats is still remembered by the older residents along the Monongahela and Ohio river valleys. This was his famous goose team, and it is still talked about among the old folks in this vicinity. His show was at Brownsville, Pa., and was making a tour of the river towns. Welser got out handbills advising all the residents along the river to look out for the goose team, and giving the day and date it would appear. Prompt to his word he drove down the placid waters of the Monongahela that day with four enormous white geese hitched to a light canoe. The feat has never been attempted since, and was, no doubt, original with the dead clown.

Julia Stacey, the second wife of Mr. Welser, died in 1886, leaving him a snug lot of real estate in this city. On the rents from this the old man spent the declining years of his life in comfort. In 1888, when he was 74 years of age, the blind god tempted him into a third matrimonial venture. This time it was with Miss Pearl Wilson, of this city. She was but 16 years of age at the time. This third matrimonial venture proved a sad one for the old man. In less than a year after the marriage the child wife died, and they laid the little girl born of this union in the grave with its mother. The old man really loved his child wife, and from that time on he was different. The old snap and vigor seemed wanting, and while his heart was as warm as ever and he still enjoyed fun, the old-time sparkle seemed to have faded out of him and he weakened. After the death of his third wife he made his home with his father-in-law, James Wilson, of Second avenue, Hazelwood, this city, and it was at this place he died at 11:45 o'clock Tuesday morning, May 28. His death was due to paralysis.

The property left, which consists of real estate, supplemented with some bank stock and cash, was given to his father-in-law, James Wilson. Over this there is every prospect of a lively contest, as the surviving son and daughter of the first marriage are making strong claims to a share of the estate. The deceased was a charter member of Youghiogheny lodge, I. O. O. F., of McKeesport, which lodge buried the veteran showman with highest honors.

GOSSIP OF THE RIALTO.

Vaudeville Stage Running to One-Act Plays.

New York, June 5.—The present season has seen a remarkable change in the vaudeville stage. During this week no less than fifteen plays were given at the continuous houses and the music halls. They varied from three-act comedies and farces to one-act sentimental sketches. Three revivals were on the list: "Pink Domino," "The Strange Adventures of Miss Brown," in which Louis Mann scored his first big New York success, and Roland Reed's old farce, "The Woman Hater." Koster and Bial's was the only house that gave a straight variety show. The cutting out of the vaudeville turns has been going on quietly, but surely, ever since the White Rat strike. The head liners are all right but the small fry are persistently shut out.

There is a rumor, apparently based on excellent grounds, that H. F. Keith is so pleased with the success of the stock company in the continuous houses that he will have one at his Princess theater in London. A number of people with reputations for excellent stock company work have been approached.

* * *

Another novelty for London will be Homer Lind's condensed version of "Grinsgoire," the street singer. He has canceled all his vaudeville dates in this country and will start for the other side as soon as possible.

* * *

Chorus girls are now a drug on the market. Last season the supply was far below the demand and the salaries went up like a Wall street boom. This summer about every one who cares to work has been placed with the exception of the "merry, merry" maiden, and the Rialto is full of them. Manager George W. Lederer has been distracted over the enrollment of "The Strollers" because of the number of applicants. "Last season," he said, "I had to pay as high as $35 a week for a first-class chorus girl. This year I can get all I want at $15 per. About every girl who was ever on the Casino stage is ready to go on again, and we could fit out half a dozen companies just as well as one."

* * *

Mildred Holland "unlike many stars, is singularly devoid of professional jealousy." The quotations belong to the press agent who confidingly furnishes some more information. It seems that whenever any member of the company receives applause for his or her work, or is rewarded with flowers, Miss Holland "takes as much interest in the fact as if the compliment were paid her personally." Just to prove that there is no mercy left he cites a local manager who had been up against several stony-hearted and vindictive stars in his day, and who was not acquainted with her blow-like disposition, sent all they want to, and perhaps Miss — will give me a posy to wear home."

* * *

Miss Maud White, Stuart Robson's leading lady, is in town, and has been a conspicuous figure along Broadway. She is noted for her ability in retort, and a story is going the rounds that well illustrates her powers in this direction. She was present at an afternoon tea the other day with a dozen other women. The conversation turned on a new novel by one of Miss White's acquaintances. "Have you read Mrs. Blank's book?" she was asked. "No," replied Miss White, laughingly, "They tell me it is a very entertaining book," remarked the hostess. "Yes," was Miss White's answer, with that peculiar rising inflection. But the hostess persisted, "some of the author's expressions in particular," she said, "is being talked of just now. She says, 'I can imagine no more entrancing fate than to be kissed to death.'" "Dear me," said the actress, "wherever would she find an executioner?"

* * *

It is hard to fathom the ambition of a chorus maid. There's Maize Follette, for example. Maize was once a member of the Weber and Fields' aggregation, and for a couple of weeks was supremely happy. Then the serpent ambition crept into her front row Eden and tempted her. The said serpent was a cigarette man who paid her royalties for the use of her photographic attractions on his coffin nails. The revenue on the side made Maize independent, likewise haughty. There has always been a doubt as to whether the stage manager or Maize was first under the wire, but it is certain that she moved herself up the row and became associated with Lula Glaser in the "Prima Donna." Maize was still haughty, and now she's the sixty-eighth or sixty-ninth pretty maiden in "Florodora." It may be that the cigarette business is falling off, but more likely that ambition is working overtime. Maize has had her picture printed two columns wide in two papers, and all because she has sued Miss Glaser for $10,000 on an alleged charge of flirting. Miss G. says "Bosh!" and now Maize darkly hints at a suit for lacerated affections against a youth of vast local prestige and enormous wealth who has changed his brand of cigarettes.

* * *

Franklyn Fyles, dramatic critic, has the canker worm of sorrow eating at his heart because, owing to a series of misfortunes, his drama, "Kit Carson," fell considerably flat at the American. The play is all right, but it was in hard luck. The company had rehearsed until it was tired out, and the sensation was spoiled because the stage carpenters failed to set a machine by which the hero could escape a la Neil Burgess in "The County Fair." The hero got all tangled up, and had to back off the stage to the intense amusement of the gallery. It was pretty hard on Fyles, because that first night was to settle whether the show should go on the road. Manager Greenwall has not yet made up his mind, and the show may be held back for another trial in the fall.

* * *

Miss Sandol Milliken, who was Jeff D'Angelis' leading woman this season, will be prominent in a musical comedy by Harry B. Smith, which is to be produced by Klaw and Erlanger.

* * *

Edna Wallace Hopper will go to London shortly to study "The Crystal Slipper." James T. Powers is on his way there to devote his attention to "The Messenger Boy."

* * *

Thomas Q. Seabrooke will be "A Modern Crusoe: if ——. There is so much after that little word that it really looks as though the actor is afraid and the author "dassent." Sydney Rosenfeld is urging Seabrooke, and the latter is slowly being coaxed. The play has been shelved ever since Roland Reed was taken ill. So far the decision seems to rest with Rosenfeld.

* * *

The mind of George Fuller Golden is at rest. For weeks he has been worried and bothered to such a degree that his White Rat comrades began to fear that another strike was imminent. All efforts at sympathy were repulsed, and Golden guarded his cares with jealous carefulness. Now he has appeared again with a smile, and Broadway breathes easier. It is a girl, and the mother is doing very well, indeed.

* * *

"The Blundering Mr. Budds," a new play by Frank Tannehill, Jr., was tried on Brooklyn last week by the Baker Stock company. It was so well received that "Nancy Hanks," by the same author, follows it.

* * *

When Anna Held sailed away she was the victor in a little dispute over the title to her new musical comedy. It is settled that it is to be "The Little Duchess," and it will be seen at the Casino in the fall. Charles Bigelow will be the principal comedian.

* * *

The roasting that the dramatic critics gave Nat Goodwin was practically unanimous, as was the action of the general public in packing the house. It must be a sad commentary on the taste of the people to think that instead of shunning the knickerbocker the crowds had to be turned away and, over in Brooklyn, where money does not come quite so easy, it was the same story. Klaw and Erlanger report that the receipts for seven performances, at regular prices, exceeded $19,000.

* * *

A wail has come from Philadelphia that that town has to put up with a considerable number of old shows, while New York is getting all the new ones, and the Quakers do not like it a little bit. The long runs in town interfered with a number of tours, and it will be well into next winter before Quakertown sees "The Climbers," "In the Palace of the King," "When Knighthood Was in Flower," "Under Two Flags," "Florodora" and "Mrs. Dane's Defense."

* * *

Wise is the woman who knows enough to stick to her own game. The truth of this is exemplified by the sad story unfolded by one Mrs. Dowling on the witness stand last week. Mrs. D., to her profit, is a customer who fits out theatrical persons at rates that gave her a comfortable bank account. In a moment of weakness she became an angel, and started Mlle. Pilar-Nevin on the road to financial disaster. Much of that bank account became a sad memory. Meanwhile Mrs. Dawling returned to her old business, but her mind was distracted, and in a moment of weakness she made the costumes for "Vienna Life," without even a deposit in advance. No one has regretted this more than Mrs. Dowling unless it was the Wall street brokers, who, on Rudolph Aronson's invitation, backed the ill-fated opera. Mrs. Dowling sues them morning, noon and night. So far, she has a verdict against her for $192. She has a verdict against her for $192. She has not paid on the ground that she cannot, and the judge has her undoing at the doors of those who tried their hand at the show business like herself. Incidentally she told the judge that actresses were even worse. She admitted that collectively they owe her somewhere like $30,000, of which she has hopes of about 1 per cent.

* * *

The Aronson benefit was, indeed, a sad affair. So far as the secret can be unearthed the sum that will go to the old Casino manager will be in the neighborhood of $400. The program was a good one, but the house was not; and the hopes Aronson entertained of being set upon his feet for next season have vanished.

* * *

In view of the rumor about the separation of Rosa and Fenton matrimonially, which rumor has been so authoritatively denied, attention has been called to the fact that the male member of the family owns the real name of Charles Joseph Kelly. It was the kidnaping of little Charley Rosa that led him to assume his stage name. He met Mabel Fenton in Deadwood sixteen years ago, and their courtship lasted exactly ninety-six hours. They stepped from the vaudeville stage to Weber and Fields, but at present their only team work is done on their New Jersey farm.

Nat Roth got into a peck of trouble recently all through asking for some theater tickets. His own folks had seen "The Climbers," and when he had agreed to oblige a friend with three seats for another friend, he fell to wondering just what excuse he would be able to give Business Manager Harris. Finally he wrote as follows:

"My dear Harry, will you again extend a favor? Three this time, as they are for my sister-in-law and a couple of friends. Will you oblige me by mailing them direct to her in the inclosed envelope? Yours, etc." Harris jumped when he saw that the name on the envelope was his own sister-in-law's. He promptly got Roth on the phone and asked him when he had happened to marry into the family. Roth went at once to the Bijou and bought for all hands.

* * *

Otis Harlan declares that vaudeville pleases him mightily. He also asserts that he has just refused two offers to go back into farce comedy.

* * *

The Hacketts, J. K. and Marry Mannering, are now on the ocean bound for a short vacation in England. Miss Mannering will reopen "Janice Meredith" in Trenton late in August and Frank McKee will send a second company out West. James K. Hackett's new play, "Don Caesar's Return," will be tried on Baltimore by the Giffen Stock company, so that it can be whipped into proper sape for Hackett's debut at Wallack's in September. Arthur C. Weld, musical director at the Casino, is writing the incidental music for it.

* * *

Ada Rehan's new play will be ready for her early in August. Martha Morton is now in the Adirondacks writing it, and it is nearly finished. The scenario has met with Miss Rehan's unqualified approval.

* * *

The grand jury over in Jersey City has decided that a ballet girl for poster purposes is not immoral. That town rejoices in a head of the police board with sensibilities that were severely shocked when a callous bill poster stuck up posters that were highly calculated to attract the male eye. As he put it to the grand jury, "My expert opinion is that these theatrical posters are highly immoral and vicious." The jury's view was feelingly expressed by a member: "G'wan," he said, "them pictures was nothin'. It was jes like an old maidds' home at a chowder party. Immoral? Nothin' doing." And so the cause of virtue has met with another throwdown.

J. C. Williamson is to manage Nance O'Neil's London season and is arranging to lease a theater for the engagement.

Hall Reid's "The Prince of the World," tells a story concerning early Christianity, and is written in the same vein as "The Sign of the Cross" and "Quo Vadis."

Magician Horace Goldin will begin a lengthy engagement at the Palace, London, on July 8. He is unquestionably the greatest magician ever sent to Europe by America.

Rose Coghlan's starring tour, under the management of Lederer and Leavitt, has been planned to last three years and to cover the United States, England and Australia.

Dr. C. Villiers Stanford's opera, "Much Ado About Nothing," had its initial production at Covent Garden, London, May 31, and was well received. David Bispham was seen as Benedick, Marie Brema as Beatrice, Suzanne Adams as Hero, and M. Plancon as the Friar.

In "Lorna Doone," which will shortly be brought out at Chicago, Ralph Delmore will play the part of Carver Doone, Robert Payton Carter, Sir Ensor Doone; Frank Burbeck, counselor; Clifford Leigh, Old Reuben Huckerbuck; Ellen Mortimer, Ruth; Frank Worthing, Charlesworth.

Old plays to be revived, with notable casts: "Mazeppa," "The Two Orphans," "Ten Nights in a Barroom," "Across the Continent," "Fanchon, the Cricket," "Uncle Tom's Cabin," and a melodrama which was used years ago at the Union Square theater called "Storm Beaten."

An anti-Semite play called "The Smugglers," recently produced in Russia, has aroused such bitter feeling that several riots have already occurred on account of it. At Kutais, in South Russia, thirty soldiers were injured during an encounter with the populace at the theater doors.

The two "Shore Acres" companies will continue just the same as ever under the management of William B. Gross. "Sag Harbor" will be sent on tour by the Liebler company, with George Woodward in the part created by Mr. Herne. Another play, "Hearts of Oak," will be sent on tour with E. P. Sullivan as its star.

"When mother gets well" is a good time to set for a wedding day, for such is what Edna Wallace Hopper says to her friends when they ask her when she is to be married once more. Her former husband, De Wolf Hopper, has gone through three marriage ceremonies with all of his three wives living. This will be Mrs. Hopper's second.

WEAK, WASTING, STRICTURED MEN Cured While You Sleep, IN 15 DAYS!

19,846--CURES DURING LAST YEAR--19,846

Why the Frightful Tension of Stricture is Dissolved Like Snow Beneath the Sun---IN FIFTEEN DAYS.

Why Weak Men Are restored by the Magic St. James Treatment Applied Locally and Directly to the Affected Parts.

We answer the questions briefly. If you cut an artery in your arm, you do not take internal medicine to stop the flow of blood. YOU USE LOCAL APPLICATIONS. Similarly when the urethral ducts become weakened and relaxed it is ridiculous to take internal treatment, which must pass through the stomach and urine before it reaches the seat of disease. The seminal ducts project into the urethral canal through the Prostate Gland, and are easily reached by local treatment. Dr. Carter's "Gran-Solvent" soluble Bougies will dissolve, digest and forever remove IRRITATE THE MEMBRANE. NO INTERNAL DRUGGING TO RUIN THE STOMACH. The St. James treatment is local, direct and positive.

The St. James treatment is prepared in the form of crayons, very narrow, smooth, flexible and wholly soluble, which are inserted into the water passage at night, where they dissolve and deposit the medication in its full strength upon the Prostate Gland, contracting and strengthening the ducts and FOREVER STOPPING DRAINS AND EMISSIONS, and curing while the patient sleeps.

STRICTURE

In 15 days, without pain, injury or inconvenience. The bougies are inserted at night and act while you sleep. "Gran-Solvent" removes every symptom of stricture, leaving the canal as healthy as when nature formed it. No BRUTAL CUTTING OR DILATING. NO INJECTIONS TO

VARICOCELE

Varicocele is an accumulation of sluggish blood in the veins of the scrotum, due solely to imperfect circulation, and has its origin in a diseased and torpid Prostate Gland. Operations in this disease are only temporary, and no mechanical device yet discovered has cured a single case. Gran-Solvent heals the Prostate and restores healthy circulation. Varicocele disappears and the sluggish accumulation is replaced by pure healthy blood.

Thousands of men stricture, weak, wasting and despondent were cured and restored by the St. James method last year. A vast army of men in whom the light of life has penetrated the fearful nightmare of stricture and seminal decay.

HOME TREATMENT BY MAIL CAN BE USED by the PATIENT AS SUCCESSFULLY AS BY OURSELVES

Space will not permit a complete description of the incomparable St. James Treatment in urethral diseases. Every sufferer from Stricture, and its offspring, Prostatitis and Seminal Weakness, should write to the St. James Association, 71 St. James Building, Cincinnati, Ohio, for their wonderful illustrated work, showing the parts of the human system involved in urethral ailments, which they will send securely wrapped in plain package, prepaid..... FREE.

Injurious to Young Minds.

Temperance physiology, so called, as it is now taught in many of the public schools, is reacting on the promoters of the dangerous doctrine and is in a fair way to be thrown out in many states. The legislature of Massachusetts has undertaken to correct the evil, and other states have the matter under consideration. The fearful stories the children are taught to believe concerning the stomachs of drinkers of all kinds of alcoholic fluids and of tea and coffee would be ludicrous if it were not that they are harmful to the credulous minds and wasteful of the time of the pupils. The Medical News, an able magazine of medical progress, has entered a protest against what it calls "Temperance Physiology in the Public Schools." It says: "We are glad to note the signs of revulsion against the extreme temperance reformers, who have by the trick of their laws forced so much rambypamby stuff in the school under the head of physiology. Bugaboo morals are the most childish and the soonest outgrown. We deplore the absolute ignorance of American teachers as well as children, concerning the fundamental laws of health, and we wish most heartily that temperance in the matter of eating, of tea and coffee drinking, and common sense concerning fresh air, exercise and sleep, as well as the economic value of foodstuffs, might be particularly taught in schools; but so unfair has been this temperance movement, and so great have been the exaggerations perpetrated on an unwary public, that we fear the influence that the schools should have on all matters of public health, including the dangerous effects of intoxicating drinks and tobacco will be greatly diminished. Already Western educators are opposing the teaching of its present form, and the Massachusetts legislature is tightening the reins. Other states are realizing that they are not only being made ridiculous by their laws, but are seriously handicapped by sentimentality."

To Keep Out Diseased People.

Every year more stringent regulations are applied to immigrants. Not only are many who enter the United States afflicted with dangerous diseases, likely to cause them to become public charges, but they are likely to communicate the diseases to others and do a double wrong. The latest move in the direction of keeping out diseased persons is the order of Superintendent of Immigration Powderly, who has informed the commissioner of immigration at New York that tuberculosis of the lungs is to be considered a dangerous contagious disease. It is expected to result in a large decrease of immigrants admitted to this country but it will be better for all concerned. Heretofore immigrants having tuberculosis of the lungs have been admitted unless the disease was in an advanced stage. When they were deported it was because they were apt to become public charges, the contagious nature of the disease not being considered. The new ruling makes the deportation of all immigrants having tuberculosis of the lungs compulsory. It will necessitate a more strict examination for the disease by the surgeon at Ellis island, and the steamship companies will have to make examinations in Europe before accepting steerage passengers. The marine hospital, at the request of Superintendent Powderly, investigated the matter and ruled that tuberculosis of the lungs was a chronic contagious disease, about two months ago. The ruling was unsatisfactory as the law provides for the deportation of immigrants who suffer from a "loathsome or dangerous disease." The marine hospital was accordingly asked for a more specific ruling and now the supervising surgeon general has ruled that tuberculosis is a "dangerous contagious disease," within the meaning of the immigration act.

NEW RAILROAD COMBINATION.

The end is not yet. The compromise betwen the Hill-Morgan and the Harriman-Rockefeller factions was only a truce between two armies, each of which distrusts the strength of the other. Like a treaty which is forced upon two warring nations by outside influences, this compact was made only to be broken at the first opportunity. That opportunity will soon appear. The signs are already multiplying that go to show the working of the fine Italian hand of J. Pierpont Morgan.

When the Southern and Union Pacific roads concluded to consolidate for the purpose of offsetting the union of the Great Northern and the Northern Pacific, it was a matter of self-defense. It was a fight for the traffic of the West between the Sound country and California; between the cities of the Sound and San Francisco; between the interests centering in the extreme Northwest and the interests of the West and Southwest. This rivalry might have gone on indefinitely had not the Hill-Morgan combine devised a larger community of interests, which not only took into account the great Burlington system, but lines to the Atlantic and a fleet of ocean steamers. This was too much for human nature to stand, at least such human nature as is exemplified by Rockefeller, Vanderbilt, Gould and others. Something had to be done to block this gigantic community of interest which threatened to unsettle the balance of power of the whole continent of transportation. What was done is history, the last chapter of which was an agreement on the report of the Hill-Morgan people to allow the Union Pacific combine to share in the advantage of the control of the Burlington system.

In the excitement of this controversy between the two great combinations the key to the situation was left unnoticed. The Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe railroad was the only trans-continental line that was not in the combine of the contending forces. With a line extending from Chicago to the coast, its common stock was selling for 60 and its preferred for 87. At the height of the contest over Northern Pacific, those who had watched the development of the community of interests idea saw that to control the Atchison was to control the situation. It soon became evident that this was no secret. Atchison stock began to creep up by steady advances. A few weeks ago it was reported on good authority that the Hamburg-American steamship line was negotiating to secure the Atchison to combine with an Eastern connection from Chicago, making with the 130 ships of that great line a world-encircling transportation route, as great as that projected by the Hill-Morgan combination. That there were negotiations in progress to that end there is now no doubt, but it seems that Morgan was wise enough to see the advantage to him which the control of the Atchison would give. Forced to grant a measure of the advantage which the control of the Burlington would bring as a consideration for peace, he saw that to control a Pacific line between his two rivals would rob them of the very fruits of the partial victory they had won in Wall street while he was in Europe.

Thus the Atchison became the object of two rival propositions. The Hamburg-American steamship line wanted it for a link in their great transportation chain. Morgan wanted it to place the Southern and Union Pacific lines at his mercy. Under this impulse Atchison common stock jumped from below 60 to 91 and the preferred from 87 to 105, near where they stand at this writing. The recent change in the Atchison directory shows the agent of Morgan in the board, and the vice president of the Northern Pacific, Mr. Kendrick, takes charge of the operations of the Atchison system. From this it is inferred that the Morgan influence is dominant in the Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe at the present time.

Whether the Gould-Rockefeller interests will attempt to change this status by a purchase of stock, as they did in the Northern Pacific spurt, or whether the Hamburg-American line will make further efforts to secure it for their own use remains to be seen. Atchison now stands in the position of the fortunate young lady wooed by several rivals, each with abundant means. There is no reason why the stockholders should not profit by the situation.

WAR'S ENORMOUS COST.

Large figures, especially with reference to money, convey but little meaning to the average mind. At the present day with its multi-millionaires, its billion-dollar trusts and its billion-and-a-half-dollar congress, there is but little realizing sense of the vast amounts which are spoken of off-hand. The enormous cost of war is but little realized for this very reason. A writer in the Home Magazine estimates the cost of wars of the nineteenth century to nearly reach the sum of $20,000,000,000. Just how much is a billion? he asks. It is 1000 millions, but that fact is not expressive. There are only 3,155,673,600 seconds in a century—that is, $6 have been spent on war for every second of the century. If we take Archbishop Usher's chronology, and consider the world to be 5904 years old, we find that the nations have spent on war during the nineteenth century at the rate of $6 a minute since the creation.

The most costly building in the world is the Church of San Pietro in Vaticano, known to us as St. Peter's, Rome. It has cost not less than $70,000,000 since its foundation stone was laid, yet nearly 300 other churches of equal cost could be built out of what the world has spent on wars during the nineteenth century. The costliest building in this country is the Philadelphia public building, which represents nearly $30,000,000, yet nearly 700 copies of this great pile could be erected out of the money spent on war during the last 100 years. The world spends upward of $530,000,000 a year on education. If it spent thirty-seven times as much it would not equal the war expenses of the past century. The population of the world is estimated at 1,500,000,000. The money spent on war between 1801 and 1900 would give to each man, woman and child alive today more than $13 as pocket money.

If a man counted 200 a minute for ten hours a day, six days a week, he would have counted 1,000,000 in 8 days, 3 hours and 20 minutes. At the same rate he would need 8333 days, 3 hours and 20 minutes to count 1,000,000,000, or 26 years, 195 days, 3 hours and 2 minutes, not counting Sundays. To count 20,000,000,000 would take 532 years, 150 days, 6 hours and 40 minutes.

THE USE OF SUNDAY.

In nearly every state there stands unrepealed on the statute books a set of blue laws enacted to please the intolerant fanatics of the glorious but narrow past. Some of these laws pertain to and are intended to regulate the conduct of the average citizen upon the first day of the week, commonly called Sunday. These laws were enacted in response to the demand of those who believed that one out of every seven days should be devoted to worship, and the only worship that was acceptable was that which finds expression in the services of some church. As a result, all recreation, however innocent in itself, was deemed a sin and was made a crime by statute. Times and sentiment have changed, but these laws remain in force because the representatives of the people have not the courage to brave the opposition of the few who still hold to them, to the point of advocating a repeal.

Every few months a moral spasm seizes a part of some community, and abortive attempts are made to enforce these ancient and obsolete laws. Just now there is an attempt in New York to prohibit Sunday golf. In what particular Sunday golf is worse than Sunday boating or any other Sunday amusement is known to no one but the instigator of the reform. A short time ago there was an attempt made to prevent the opening of the Pan-American exposition on Sunday, but happily the management defied the cranks and went its way.

The old school of morality can not see that there is as much worship in a peaceful day in the fields, in the woods and on the water as there is within the confines of the church. There is just as much soul food in listening to the song of birds, the hum of bees or the gentle plash of the waves as there is in barking to the not always harmonious songs of a church choir and the sometimes tedious harangue of the preacher.

Nature knows not Sunday. The flowers bloom and the breeze plays among the forest leaves as if there was no law to hinder. The ants build, the bees gather honey and the sun shines, unmindful of the man-made laws that seek to govern individual conduct.

Sunday should be a day of rest and recreation—absolute physical or mental rest for those who demand it, and recreation for those who feel the need of such a change from the toils of the week. Are there not sermons in stones, anthems in the abandoned singing of the birds, poems in the brook and the pebbled beach? "The heavens declare the glory of God and the firmament showeth his handiwork." Is there not a solemnity in the woods, a grandeur in the hills that makes for devotion? Need the soul kneel within a pew to humble itself before God? The woods were God's first temples. He knows not the joys of religion and a calm appreciation of God's goodness who does not seek nature in all its majesty. How shall Sunday be spent? Go to nature and there feel the warm grasp of the hand of God. The use of Sunday should never bind the soul. Count that day well spent that leaves the mind richer, the soul younger and the body refreshed for the battle of the future.

THE CUBAN DEADLOCK.

The Cuban convention and the administration are dead-locked and are liable to remain so until congress meets.

The palaver that was given the visiting Cuban committee served only to imbue the Cubans with the idea that the administration had power to interpret the Platt amendment. Why Secretary Root led the committee to think that his explanations had the force of official utterances, no one can guess. It was not a diplomatic maneuver, to say the least. Following out the line of this talk the Cubans secured a bare majority for the amendment as amended. Now the administration repudiates the whole thing and demands the acceptance of the amendment without a change in letter or figure. What is the effect upon the Cuban? It confirms the original idea that the government is not honest in its dealings with the island and is insisting upon the Platt amendment as drawn for the very purpose of applying its own construction when the time comes.

It is evident to every intelligent man who has followed the course of the Republican administration on this matter that annexation is not desired, neither is independence. The administration would be pleased to place Cuba in the same class with the Philippines and Porto Rico, a foreign territory for the purpose of exploitation. With the Platt amendment accepted and made a part of the Cuban government, the island would be at the mercy of the American congress, managed by a few combinations. If the Cubans are wise they will demand absolute annexation as a state of the Union, or absolute freedom. A compromise might be arrived at on the basis of free trade with the United States as a compensation for the adoption of the Platt amendment. This would serve as well as annexation, and allow them to retain their pride. What Cuba needs is a man big enough to realize her opportunities, and bold enough to demand her rights of the United States.

There is no question but that the supreme court decision in the Downes case led the administration to change its views on the Cuban question to some extent. Of course every one knows, and the Cubans ought to know, that the administration cannot modify the terms of the Platt amendment. Europe knows also that to mislead the Cuban committee was a piece of folly which would have been notable in any other administration but the present one.

THE HAND OF THE GANG.

The official representative of the Republican political machine of Wisconsin, the Milwaukee Sentinel, is devoting much energy to its fight against the primary election law idea. The present owners, after paying $500,000 for the paper and after waging a most unscrupulous war against the so-called LaFollette primary election bill, had the satisfaction of seeing it killed in the house of its friends and by men who were elected and pledged to support its principles. Not content with this seeming victory, the Sentinel proposes to pursue the corpse beyond the grave, for fear it will rise, like the ghost of Banquo, and take the place of honor at the feast.

In this post mortem discussion the Sentinel is as unfair and as demagogic as it was in dealing with the bill while pending in the legislature. In a couple of recent editorials it charges up the present scandals in the city administration of Minneapolis to the primary election law under which Mayor Ames was nominated. Let it be presumed for the sake of this reply that the city administration of Mayor Ames is as bad as it is represented. Is the primary law responsible for this corruption? Is the administration of affairs at Minneapolis any worse than they would have been had Ames been nominated by a convention managed by the Republican machine? Is the Ames administration any worse than it was when he was mayor before, at which time he was nominated in the good old way? Is the Ames administration any worse than the administration of Milwaukee or the second city of Wisconsin?

The primary election law of Minnesota, or anywhere else, does not propose to place in nomination saints, but it does propose to give the people a chance to designate what kind of a man they want. If they want a man like Ames they can have him; if they want a man like Rose they can have him; if they want a man like Parker or Hugo they can have him, providing they can elect him when once nominated.

The kind of a campaign that the Sentinel is making against the primary election law principle will make no friends for it. It never pays for a newspaper to adopt the tactics of a pettifogging lawyer in a justice court.

The Herald has been requested to publish the fact that in a recent address to a New York temperance society, Gen. Joseph Wheeler stated that he favored maintaining the anti-canteen law, and securing more liberal appropriations from congress to support temperance canteens and reading rooms. He expressed the opinion that fully one-half the young men who had enlisted in the army during the last four years came from good homes, and had been brought up to let liquor alone. He considered it wrong for the government to take this class of young men, and place them in the army where their only chance for recreation was in the presence of a bar. The army, he said, should be managed on business principles. If it is wise for corporations and business men to require total abstinence from their employes, it is equally wise for the government to encourage total abstinence in the army.

"Withdrawing from China" is a phrase that needs to be interpreted. While Pekin is to be evacuated, it seems, by the allies, several places between the capital and the sea are to be garrisoned by foreign troops for an indefinite period, in accordance with the terms of the irrevocable note of December last. One report has it that 4000 German soldiers will be distributed among these posts and the German legation in Pekin, and England and France are expected to leave quite as many men as Germany for garrison purposes. So long as that army of foreign soldiers shall remain in China, it will be erroneous to speak of the international force as having been withdrawn.

The Kansas City Star sensibly says: "The anti-American utterances of the newspapers of Germany are much more harsh than the retorts they have called forth in this country. Undoubtedly the large German element in the United States is a strong factor in maintaining the peace of the world. Without it, dangerous hatred might spring up between the two nations. There is no check on anti-American feeling in Germany, while in the United States there is the restraining influence of the large German-American element. The American is thus better able to understand the German than the people of Germany can know the Americans."

The mere appearance of a business man's name and address in every issue of a leading newspaper will do work to increase his trade. Every business man, however, is able to give facts about his establishment which will encourage people to deal with him. To state such facts clearly (varying them day by day) in conspicuous type in a newspaper of large circulation is the general principal secret of successful advertising.

An electrical engineer in Berlin has little faith, apparently, in the future displacement of the trolly by the storage battery, for he is reported to have constructed a trolly automobile system, in which the motor vehicles are connected with the trolly wire by a movable cable, which places the entire road at their disposal. This seems to be progress in the wrong direction for the general good.

The Topeka State Journal says that the people of the United States should be warned by Chicago's experience with Carter Harrison and not elect him to the presidency unless they are prepared to see him remain in the White House until something better turns up. The staying qualities of the Chicago Harrisons have rarely been equaled.

One good turn deserves another. A few weeks ago American yachtsmen were sympathizing with Sir Thomas Lipton in the loss of the mast of the Shamrock II. Now Sir Thomas Lipton and his English freinds are reciprocating by expressing condolence for the loss of the main stick of the Constitution.

The men of Dewey's fleet at Manila have not yet received the bounties due them for their good work there. But they may get it in time to provide for their old age.

An automobile has made the trip from Boston to New York in 15 hours and 30 minutes, which is certainly a very good record.

An Indiana doctor says bathing produced boils. Perhaps this is why tramps are prejudiced against water.

Mr. Dooley

Reviews the Supreme Court's Decision.

By F. P. DUNNE.

"I see," said Mr. Dooley, "th' supreme court has decided th' constitution don't follow th' flag."

"Who said it did?" asked Mr. Hennessy.

"Some wan," said Mr. Dooley. "It happened a long time ago an' I don't raymimber clearly how it come up, but some fellow said that ivrywhere th' constitution wint, th' flag was sure to go. 'I don't believe wan wurrud iv it,' says th' other fellow. 'Ye can't make me think th' constitution is going' thrapezin' around ivrywhere a young liftnant in th' ar-rmy takes it into his head to stick a flag pole. It's too old. It's a home stayin' constitution with a blue coat with brass buttons onto it, an' it walks with a goold-headed cane. It's old an' feeble an' it prefers to set on th' front stoop an' amuse th' childher. It wudden't last a minyit in thim thropical climes. 'Twud get a pain in th' fourteenth amindmint an' die before th' doctors cud get ar-round to cut it out. No, sir, we'll keep it with us, an' threat it tenderly without too much hard wurruk, an' whin it plays out entirely we'll give it dacint buryal an' incorporate oursilves undher th' laws iv Noo Jarsey. That's what we'll do,' says he. 'But,' says th' other, 'if it wants to thravel, why not lave it?' 'But it don't want to.' 'I say it does.' 'How'll we find out?' 'We'll ask th' supreme coort. They'll know what's good f'r it.'

"So it wint up to th' supreme coort. They'se wan thing about th' supreme coort, if ye lave annything to thim, ye lave it to thim. Ye don't git a check that entitles ye to call f'r it in an hour. Th' supreme coort iv th' United States ain't in anny hurry about catchin' the mails. It don't have to make the las' car. I'd book th' Audjitoroom again it anny day f'r a foot race. If ye're lookin' f'r a game iv quick decisions an' base hits, ye've got to hire another empire. It niver gives a Buildin' op'rations was suspinded an' th' players have packed their bats in th' bags an' started f'r home.

"F'r awhile ivrybody watched to see what th' supreme coort wud do I know mehilf I felt I cudden't make another move in th' game till I heerd f'm thim. Buildn' op'rations was suspinded an' we sthud wringin' our hands outside the dure waitin' f'r information fr'm th' bedside 'What're they doin' now?' 'They just put th' argymints iv larned counsel in th' ice box an' th' chief justice is in a corner writin' a pome. Brown J. an' Harlan J. is discussin' th' condition iv th' Roman impire before th' fire. Th' r-rest iv th' coort is considherin' th' question whether they ought or ought not to wear ruchin' on their skirts an' hopin' crinoline won't come in again. No decision today?' An' so it wint f'r days an' weeks an' months. Th' men that had argyled that th' constitution ought to shadow th' flag to all th' tough resorts on th' Passyfic coast an' th' men that argyled that th' flag was so lively that no constitution cud follow it an' survive, they died or lost their jobs or wint back to Salem an' were f'rgotten. Expansionists contracted and anti-expansionists blew up an' little childher was born into th' wurruld an' grew to manhood an' niver heerd iv Porther Ricky except whin some wan got a job there. I'd about made up me mind to thry an' put th' thing out iv me thoughts an' go back to wurruk whin I wake up wan mornin' an' see be the pa-aper that th' supreme coort had warned th' constitution to lave th' flag alone an' tind to its own business.

"That's what th' pa-aper says but I've r-read over th' decision an' I don't see annything iv th' kind there. They'se not a wurrud about th' flag an not enough to tire ye about th' constitution. 'Tis a matter iv limons, Hinnissy, that th' supreme coort has been settin' on f'r this gineration—a cargo iv limons sint fr'm Porther Ricky to some Eyetalian in Philydelphy. Th' decision was r-read be Brown J., him bein' th' las' justice to make up his mind, an' ex-officio, as Hogan says, th' first to speak, afther a crool an' bitther contest. Says Brown J.: 'Th' question here is wan iv such gr-reat importance that we've been sthrugglin' over it iver since ye see us las' an' on'y come to a decision (Fuller C. J., Gray J., Harlan J., Shiras J., McKenna J., White J., Brewer J., an' Peckham J. dissentin' fr'm me an' each other) because iv th' hot weather comin' on. Wash'nton is a dhreadful place in summer. (Fuller C. J., dissentin'.) The whole fabric iv our government is threatened, th' lives iv our people an' th' pro-gress iv civilization put to th' bad. Men ar-re excited. But why? We ar-re not. (Harlan J., 'I am.' Fuller C. J. dissentin' for not f'r the same reason.) This thing must be settled wan way or th' other undher that dear ol' constitution be varchue iv which we are here an' ye ar-re there an' congress is out West practicin' law Now what does th' constitution say? We'll look it up thoroughly whin we get through with this case (Th' rest iv th' coort dissentin'.) In th' manetime we must be governed be th' ordnances iv th' khan of Beloochistan, th' laws iv Hinnery, th' Eighth' th opinyon iv Justice iv th' Peace Oscar Larson in th' case iv th' township iv Red Wing varsus Petersen, an' th' Dhred Scott decision. What do they say about limons? Nawthin' at all. Again we take th' Dhred Scott decision. This is wan iv th' worst I iver r-read. If I cudden't write a better wan with blindhers on' I'd leap off th' bench. This horrible fluke iv a decision throws a gr-reat, an' almost blindin' light on th' case. I will turn it off. (McKenna J. concure but thinks it ought to be blowed out.) But where was I? I must put on me specs. Oh, about th' limons. Well, th' decision of the coort (th' others dissentin') is as follows: First, that th' Disthrict iv Columbya is a state; second, that it is not; third, that New York is a state; fourth, that it is a crown colony; fifth, that all states ar-re states an' all territories ar-re territories in the' eyes iv other powers, but Gawd knows what they ar-re at home In th' case iv Hogan varsus Mullins, th' decision is he must paper th' barn. (Hinnery VIII, sixteen, six, four eleven.) In Wiggins varsus et al th' cow belonged. (Louis XIV, 90 in rem.) In E. P. Vigore varsus Ad. Lib., th' custody iv th' childher. I'll now fall back a furlong or two in me chair, while me larned but misguided collagues r'read th' Histhry iv Iceland to show ye how wrong I am. But mind ye, what I've said goes. I let thim talk because it exercises their throats, but ye've heerd all th' decision on this limon case that'll get into th' fourth reader.' A voice fr'm th' audjeence: 'Do I get me money back?' Brown J.: 'Who ar-re ye?' Th' Voice: 'Th' man that ownded th' limons.' Brown J.: 'I don't know.' (Gray J., White J., dissentin' an' th' r-rest iv th' birds concurrin', but f'r entirely diff'rent reasons.)

"An there ye have th' decision, Hinnissy, that's shaken th' intellicts iv th' nation to th' very foundations, or will if they thry to read it. 'Tis all r-right. Look it over some time. 'Tis fine spoort if ye don't care f'r checkers. Some say it laves th' flag up in th' air an' some say that's where it laves the constitution. Annyhow something's in th' air. But there's wan thing I'm sure about."

"What's that?" asked Mr. Hennessy.

"That is," said Mr. Dooley, "no matther whether th' constitution follows th' flag or not, th' supreme coort follows th' election returns."—(Copyrighted, 1900, by Robert H. Russell.)

DAILY STORY.

LACY'S LUCK.

BY EDNA DEAN.

(Copyright, 1901, William R. Miller.)

Lacy was the unluckiest man on Oil creek in the early sixties. He left his desk resolved to make his fortune in oil. Others were getting rich—why not he? He had an incentive. The brightest, truest face in the world rose before his eyes as he toiled at his well. It was his own. His partner grew heartsick after working six months. He had invested an equal amount; both added their brawn. They were drilling it themselves. But the tools "stuck." More than a month was lost. Then they struck a "nigger-head," a hard rock that disheartened them. After that they struck a clay vein that ran in on them like soap. Weeks were lost again. Finally the tools stuck the second time. It was then Hank Waters, from Butler, said to the young townsman:

"Here, Lacy, I'm going to quit."

"But how am I to manage alone, Waters?"

"I don't know. You'll fool away your time if you hang on."

"I won't give up."

"Well, I'm done for good."

"But if I get oil."

"It's yours and welcome."

To show that he meant just what he said Waters made out a release, giving all his right and title to Lacy in regular form. Lack was left to fight it out alone.

He was made of the stuff heroes are made of, but Lacy would have laughed if anyone had hinted at it. He employed a man to assist him, borrowing the money to pay him and giving a note to the lender.

The day when he was wondering how much farther he would have to drill to reach the oil rock, Dick Hartly rode past. Dick was a successful operator and boatman. He transported his own oil down the Allegheny in barges. Dick checked his horse and called to him.

"Do you know Archibald's trying to get your lease?"

Lacy could not speak for a moment, his surprise was so great.

"Well, he is. Overheard it. When's your lease expire?"

"On the twentieth."

It was one of the early leases which stipulated that the land should revert to the owner in case the lessee did not obtain oil within a given time.

"That's bad, Lacy. Archibald's offering a hundred dollars hand money for an option of thirty days. He's got a company. He'll make five thousand afore the pipe's drove. All on the quiet."

"That finishes me. I've borrowed all I can. In debt now a hundred dollars."

"How far are you down?" Hartly flecked a twig with his whip carelessly. He liked Lacy; everybody liked him.

"Six hundred and forty-four feet."

"Thunder!" Hartly sat bolt upright. "Why, that's farther than Saunders, and allowing for the difference up the creek you must be in the rock."

At that moment Lacy's assistant called to him.

"I think we've run agin another nigger-head, Mr. Lacy."

Hartly dismounted and followed Lacy to the derrick. There the slack cable indicated an obstacle.

"Like as not you are on the shell of the oil rock. Bet ten dollars on it," said Hartly in his excitement.

"Take in the slack and try awhile," said Lacy in his first glow of new-found hope. Hartly waited until the assistant screwed the slack up. He waited until the bit was fairly in the rock; waited until it pierced the rock and the sand pump brought up yellow clay again.

"You see," said Lacy, "I don't think there's many men would hang to it the way I've done. But if Archibald's after it—"

"Tell you what, Lacy, I'm making a pond fresh. With Andrews and Potts. If you'll give me four days I'll make it worth $200 to you. I saw you helping Potts the first pond fresh he was in. If you do as well by me, I'll be ahead of the game if you'll drop this and take hold. Then you'll be able to stave Archibald off. You've lots of time—eight days."

Lacy was not looking at him. He was staring apparently through the trees. He saw a bright fireside, an old but sweet faced lady sat sewing; near her, flitting about humming a low tune was another figure, neat, trim, alert, lithe—a girl with a sweet face.

"You don't want a hatful of money to see what's in this now—only a few feet further to go. Might strike the rock any minute now."

The face Lacy saw there on that bright sunny day was hopeful. It smiled confidently; her eyes looked proudly into his own. That was the look that had held him up in all his misfortunes. It said as plainly as words could say: "You will succeed. I know you will."

"We can get out tomorrow. With or without more rain. That last rain was heavier than anybody thought."

Now back of the first picture Lacy saw was another. Archibald was riding into Franklin to record a new lease. Lacy's creditors were behind him.

"I'd rather have you than Howe pilot for me. Lucky for you you fished on the Allegheny when you were a boy. You know it pretty well."

"I'll do it," said Lacy, suddenly coming out of his day dream.

An hour later he gave his instructions to the man who assisted him. He was to get another man whom Lacy named, to take Lacy's place. That evening Lacy went down to the creek where Hartly's boats were moored. The small rivulets and brooks had become reservoirs where they neared the creek. By morning at the farthest, rain or dry, the pond fresh would carry the barges out.

Lacy worked harder for Hartly than he had ever worked for himself. It was his last hope, his last chance. He inspired the other men. Hartly slapped his thigh with pride as the work progressed.

About 4 o'clock the next morning rain fell again, slowly at first, then came a downpour. The last shower accomplished more in two hours than Hartly and the other operators had accomplished in two weeks. Before the workers on the creek had their breakfast the signal to cut loose was given.

One of Hartly's boats rode out smoothly, safely. A second floated off without obstacle. Now came the last—that Lacy had charge of. It was the most difficult to manage. Unless skill was displayed now one of Pott's barges lying above it might stove it in. Suddenly Lacy beheld two of Pott's boats swinging into the creek beyond the control of the boatmen. Potts, purple with excitement, leaped on one. His chief assistant, Bard, strove might and main to retard the other. There was a crash of timber, a tremendous rush of water, the swirling of an indescribable mass of leaves, branches and pieces of boards in eddies. Above all the shouts and commands of men, could be heard as they struggled with an ungovernable element.

The yellow, oily water was coming down in a comb over a log that had swung across the creek suddenly. It was held fast there. Below this log was a long slide of clear smooth water.

Lacy saw at once that unless this log was removed immediately two of Hartly's boats would be forced against the opposite side of the creek, in which case Pott's boats would be sure to collide with them. They would be smashed, crumpled up, their contents lost.

He seized a cant hook, caught the end of the log, the swift water whirled the log around, throwing Lacy off his feet. He fell into the reek, grasped despairingly at the log, then disappeared.

Now the pond fresh was at its merriest. It scooped stones from the bottom of the creek, rushed headlong, tossing its yellow mane as it bore the barges down swiftly to Oil City and out far into the Alleghenw.

When Lacy regained consciousness he fancied he was still at the water's edge. He heard the steady flow of water. There could be no mistaking that sound. He thought he was still at the water's edge.

"How do you feel now?"

It was Watson, his assistant, who stood near.

"Did they all get out right?"

"Slick as grease."

"Where am I?"

"Where you ought to be. In your own bunk. Where'd you think you was?"

"I hear water. It is water I hear. How did I get—what does it mean?"

Lacy sat up and stared around him. He felt his head. It was bandaged.

"It means you was nigh gone when we got you out of the creek. I'd gone down to tell you the news."

Lacy was listening now intently.

"Well, if that isn't water." He rubbed his bandaged head. "I feel kind of flighty. There, I hear it plain."

He tried to get up. Watson pushed him back gently.

"One leg's sprained. Best not. We brought you so's I could tend to you better. That's oil you hear—oil from your well. Struck it about sundown last night. The gravel flew twice as high as the derrick. The tank builders will be here in ten minutes. Never was so tuckered out in all my life as we was making a bank to save the oil last night. Gee-whiz! More'n a hundred barrels, and oil selling at $8 and $9 at the well."

Lacy wondered if it was a dream. Just then Watson backed out of the shanty awkwardly. He returned suddenly, kicked some thing under his bunk, straightened up the clothes over Lacy and said in a tone of assumed indifference:

"Here's some folks that's come up to see the oil regions. Came up yesterday they said. Been trying to find you."

Then Watson backed out and the face he always saw in his dreams stood before him. Behind her stood her mother. As she stooped and kissed him Lacy drew a long breath.

"It doesn't seem real," said Lacy, as he looked up at her.

But there could be no doubt about the pressure of that soft, warm palm on his brow.

SHE'S BACK AGAIN.

The farm folk riding along the lane
Were surprised to see Maudie back again!

You may have read the detailed report
Of her mashing the judge of the circuit court.

How he bore her off to his house in town,
The hayseed yet clinging unto her gown,

And they thought she was yet in his honor's house,
As sweetly content as a barnyard mouse.

They had pictured her dressed in the smartest gown
To be had for cash, with the neck chopped down.

And riding around in an English drag
With the reins held over a curtailed nag.

And now she was raking the same old hay
With the same old rake in the same old way.

Her nose from the sunburn was getting sore
And red as it was in the days of yore.

And the people wondered just how she came
To jump the city judicial game.

Some pitied the poor girl, and said
They kind o' reckoned the judge was dead.

Some said that, a bein' a judge, of course
It was easy to give himself a divorce.

While others guessed she was simply there
On a summer vacash in the country air.

One stopped in the same fence corner where
His honor had hitched his flea-bit mare

And hollered: "Say, Maudie, for goodness sake.
What you doin' there with that ol' hay rake?"

And Maudie mopped the sweat from her brow
And answered: "Oh! I'm a grass widder now!"

"That won't do me no good!" spoke up a shock-headed man in the audience. "What I want is plenty of room here at the bottom."

Detroit Journal: "He seems quite celebrated as an author, and yet he has written very little."

Miss Rebecca Mackenzie is expected home in a few weeks to visit. She has bee touring in concert this year and has been meeting with more success than ever. A great advancement has been noted in her work and she finds her services in great demand. On May 30 she appeared in Troy, N. K., and the Daily Press of that city said of her:

"Miss MacKenzie's voice is a rich soprano of fine caliber and very extensive range. It is capable of dramatic as well as exquisite coloratura work. Added to this is a fine stage presence, the combination seeming to be irresistible to the auditors. Her introductory aria was from Gounod's 'Mirella' and was a happy choice, as it showed the singer's voice to splendid advantage. The sustained passages and cadenzas were admirably executed. In the climax, when the singer took high E flat, perhaps the highest note ever sung in Music hall, there was great enthusiasm and applause. After such singing the encore was inevitable The audience insisted until she appeared and gave only as a Scotch woman can two verses of 'Annie Laurie.' Her next appearance was in a group of songs, including 'Hindoo Song,' by Bemberg; 'Songs My Mother Taught Me,' by Dvorak, and 'When the Kye Comes Hame.' These were given wonderfully well and demonstrated the singer's versatility. The applause at the close amounted to an ovation, the singer being recalled again and again."

What are Humors?

They are vitiated or morbid fluids coursing the veins and affecting the tissues. They are commonly due to defective digestion but are sometimes inherited.

How do they manifest themselves?

In many forms of cutaneous eruption, salt rheum or eczema, pimples and boils, and in weakness, languor, general debility.

How are they expelled? By

Hood's Sarsaparilla

which also builds up the system that has suffered from them.

It is the best medicine for all humors.

PATCHES.

Why Brown Ones Come on Faces.

When a woman can get rid of brown patches on her face by changing her diet it is worth while for other women who care for their complexions to know something of the method.

A lady in Michigan City, Ind., who does not want her name mentioned, says that coffee caused the brown patches on her face by first giving her stomach trouble, then putting her nerves out of order, and the result was shown in her complexion.

She quit coffee and began using Postum Food Coffee, and in less than a month the stomach trouble disappeared and within two months her complexion cleared up and is now fine and rosy.

She speaks of a Mr. Knight and Gideon Hunt, of Westfield, Ind., who have both been improved in health by leaving off coffee and taking in its place Postum Food Coffee; also a Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Stanley, of the same place, who were in poor health and suffered from stomach trouble. They quit coffee and after using Postum a short time the result was natural sleep, return of appetite and a gain in strength as fast as nature will rebuild.

She gives the names of a number of other persons who have been helped by leaving off coffee and taking Postum Food Coffee.

It is a safe proposition that if any coffee user has stomach or nervous trouble, or bad complexion, he or she can get rid of the trouble by discontinuing coffee and taking Postum Food Coffee. It is easy enough to prove the truth of this by making trial. Every first-class grocer sells Postum.

WOODMEN OF THE WORLD

Anniversary and Memorial Celebration on Sunday.

Members of Zenith camp No. 5 and Duluth camp No. 8, visiting sovereigns and members of the Woodmen's auxiliary, the women's circle, will, tomorrow, go by way of Woodland street cars to Forest Hill cemetery to decorate the graves of deceased members. A procession will be formed at the entrance of the cemetery at 3 o'clock p. m., marching to the first grave to be decorated, that of deceased Sovereign Frederick E. Koons. The public is cordially invited to witness the order's memorial exercises. Hon. H. H. Hawkins of Duluth, will deliver the memorial oration. The next grave to be decorated will be that of deceased Sovereign David Stribbell.

This action is taken in accordance with the rules of the order, which provide for this annual event in celebration of the promulgation of Sovereign Woodcraft and in honor of the memory of deceased sovereigns by strewing their graves with flowers. The order erects a $100 monument at the grave of every deceased sovereign, free of cost to the beneficiaries, also at the grave of deceased members of the auxiliary, the Woodmen circle. No member's grave shall be left unmarked is one of the fundamental principles of perfect woodcraft. Sovereigns visit the bedside of the sick administer to his wants and when he departs from his earthly forest they bear him tenderly to his last resting place from which the white dove of peace rises as if bearing his spirit to a haven of rest. Later on the beautiful monument of perfect woodcraft marks well the spot, and annually in June fragrant flowers are scattered over his grave to commemorate his memory and teach the living respect for the dead.

The Wodmen of the World is the fifth largest fraternity in America. The total amount of benefits paid by the order from June 6, 1890, to Dec. 31, 1900, was $8,140,000. The total membership of the three jurisdictions and the ladies' auxiliary was 226,232 at the annual report. The membership of the Woodmen alone was 194,099, a net gain during the year of 29,000. The total benefits now in force are $359,000,000. The order has an emergency fund of $230,000, of which sum $135,000 is invested in United States bonds. There are two camps in Duluth —Zenith No. 5, with eighty-five members and Duluth No. 8, with 135 members, and the ladies' auxiliary with forty-five members.

Brings peace, comfort, mental and physical happiness to the whole family, if taken this month. Nothing half so good as Rocky Mountain Tea. 35 cents. Ask your druggist.

JUMPED TO DEATH.

But One Left of the Chicago Trio.

Toronto, Ont., June 8.—Of the three men, Fred Lee Rice, Thomas Jones and Frank Rutledge, extradited from Chicago to stand trial for the robbery of a bank at Aurora, Ont., Rice is the only living survivor of the trio to serve out the twenty-one years' imprisonment to which he was sentenced yesterday morning. Two tragedies have put Jones and Rutledge beyond the reach of the law. Jones died from bullet wounds received in a desperate attempt to escape from the officers who were transferring the prisoners from the court house to the jail, last Tuesday, and Rutledge committed suicide yesterday by jumping from the gallery in the jail to the stone court, thirty feet below.

A BIG BAND

Of 450 Pieces Will Play at Buffalo.

Buffalo, June 8.—The persons in charge of the musical features of the exposition are planning a mammoth convention of sound. Soon after Sousa arrives for his season it is proposed to combine his band, the Mexican National band, the Royal Bavarian, the Hamilton, Ont., the Elgin, the Sixty-fifth regiment and Fourth regiment, and all the midway bands into one band of 405 pieces. Ten compositions, which are played by all these organizations, will be the program for an evening in the stadium, with Sousa as leader.

The directors have decided to reduce the price of admission after 7 o'clock at night to 25 cents for adults and 15 cents for children. The consent of the bondholders will be necessary, and the reduction will be ordered as soon as that is secured.

MARRIED THE COACHMAN.

Daughter of a New York Cashier Wedded.

Bennington, Vt., June 8.—Miss Laura Baker Culver, daughter of the cashier of the North Granville, N. Y., National bank and granddaughter of T. V. Baker, one of the New York state railroad commissioners, left home Monday ostensibly to visit relatives in Sandy Hill. Tuesday she went to Caldwell, where she met Frederick William Aldhouse, and they were married in the afternoon. Aldhouse had been a coachman in the Culver family for several years, but was recently discharged. The bride is a graduate of St. Agnes school, Albany, is highly accomplished, and for two years has been studying music in New York. The couple are now in Albany.

BRIDE WAS ARRESTED.

Proposed Marriage at Toledo Was Prevented.

Toledo, Ohio, June 8.—The arrest of Mrs. Edna E. Kaiser on the charge of grand larceny prevented a marriage, it is claimed, when Mrs. Kaiser was to have become the wife of James M. Shields, Jr., of this city.

The real charge against Mrs. Kaiser is that she borrowed some valuable diamonds from her attorney, Herman H. Winkeljohn, and while in her possession had them transferred from their original settings to rings of her own.

It is claimed that the arrest was made to prevent the marriage. The friends of young Shields have for many days tried to induce him to give up marrying the woman.

Mrs. Kaiser's husband deserted her a few years ago, and she furnished sensations for the papers by chasing from one city to another on his trail.

She gave it out that her husband had left her $50,000 when he deserted her, and as a result she is receiving proposals of marriage from all parts of the country.

WAS "OVER EIGHTEEN."

Bride's Father Failed to Appreciate Joke.

Louisville, Ky., June 8—Thomas Unseld was arrested in Jeffersonville, Ind., on a charge of perjury. Unseld accompanied his son William and Miss Bernice Deacon to that city to be married. The girl was only 16, while 18 is the required age in Indiana. In order that the license might be obtained the girl placed in her shoe a piece of paper with 18 on it. Unseld then swore that to the best of his knowledge and belief the girl was "over 18." The license was procured, and the marriage followed, but the bride's father failed to appreciate the joke, and an arrest followed.

NEWEST EFFECTS FOR JUNE BRIDES

The Dead White of the Usual Wedding Dress Is Displaced By a New Shade Called "Smoke White."

The bridal month—June—is here and the brides-to-be are busy and happy beyond description. Many of the robes are finished and their fleecy, filmy softness and sheen hidden away between the folds of tissue until the eventful day arrives, but for the maid who has not already selected the material for her bridal gown perhaps she would like to know that the dead white of the usual wedding dress has been displaced by a new and rather peculiar shade of white called "smoke white"—somewhat of a grayish white, though more pearl than gray in sheen—and suggests a reflection of green in the shadow called "oyster" white, which is being made into bridal robes, and is even a deeper, though not emphasized, smoky white. For June brides chiffon fichus, worn with transparent lace yokes, will be a favorite combination. A new style of trimming is to have the train covered with large graduated medallions of embroidered net. The medallions are set in the soft satin, and framed with narrow rouleaux of satin caught with a fanciful pattern of roses.

For very youthful brides point-d'esprit is chosen. Under such China silk should be used for lining instead of taffeta, as it is more clinging and graceful. The veil is selected from net and silk illusion, but the newest is of India lace, as ethereal in texture as a cobweb.

In millinery styles are varied. Each milliner studies her patron's face, and out of the new wired net, braids, piece straw, tulle and chiffon produces an individual style suiting her customer. To have a becoming hat should be the great object, even though one should deviate somewhat from prevailing modes. Crowns are still flat, but many are seen with considerable height. A favorite style and one that seems to suit most faces is the large turban shape made with soft fold upon fold of chiffon or silk muslin, with a side front trimming of flowers, choux of ribbon or fancy lace caught with handsome, striking brooch or buckle. To the side and lying coquettishly against the hair will be flowers and foliage. All black hats are favored still, but the combination of black and white—as always—results in the most elegant and tasteful combination. For a young face it may be made very striking and jaunty, while an older and subdued face is given a more piquant expression, and the head it adorns a more distingue poise with the soft blending of black and white above it. French gray is a new shade shown in the tulles and chiffons of which summer hats are made. It is neither blue nor mauve, and yet suggests a tone of both. A hat made of this is trimmed entirely with white foliage, and, by the way, white velvet foliage is the very newest thing in millinery. Whole crowns are made of these soft, velvety leaves. An exquisite hat shown the writer in one of the leading establishments yesterday was a pale blue chiffon turban, with rolling brim made of folds of chiffon, each fold edged with dainty silver cord. Perched on the side front were glorious pink roses and they extended around the side and disappeared under the hair. The crown was a mass of white velvet leaves. It was simply a "dream." The fruits and grapes seen on some of the hats make one feel like filching, so realistic and temptingly do they rest in decoration. One young girl who sat beside me on the car yesterday had great bunches of dark red cherries on her hat, and their luscious beauty actually called forth physical restraint on my part from reaching up and plucking them. They dangled over the edge of the brim so temptingly as to make one hungry. Then there are currants and grapes—grapes that would make the heart of that old wine bibber, Omar, leap, so closely must they resemble the purple clusters from which famous vintage flowed. And floral toques are the rage, too, in all colors, but those made of black silk poppies being decidedly the Frenchiest. Striking in style are the white chip hats trimmed exclusively with plumes, with a single black or pink rose and black velvet strings. Some very pretty hats are made of what the French call crin, but it is simply the old-fashioned horse hair. Huge black silk roses with gold or jet stamens are very effective trimmings.

In children's millinery all kinds of ribbons are used plain, shot, taffeta, Merveilleux-painted with Persian and flower patterns.

Fancy veils are not being so much worn. Mechlin tulle is given the preference. If you are going to travel, buy a white veil, as it protects the face better than any other kind.

A touch of black velvet seems indispensable on all the modish hats, and is most effectively combined with gauzy garnitures and bright flowers. Sometimes it is a bow under the brim, or is placed at the back on top of the brim, the ends floating in little streamers, or yet, as seen on another hat, in narrow black velvet festoons across the top.

The Gainesborough hat, with soft nodding plumes, is still fashionable in a modified form, but only tall, stately girls or women should wear it. One lovely hat of rough straw seen in the short-back sailor shape, was trimmed around the crown with three bands of black velvet, while in front was a large puffy rozette of ribbon in three shades of pink. The color blended so beautifully that the three shades seemed to melt into one. Underneath the brim was a stylish black velvet bow. It was extremely chic and youthful.

Should you desire to be truly fetching get a red silk parasol. The sun shades shown in our down town shops are bewildering—flower strewn, lace-scrolled, spangled, embroidered, beruffled and appliqued, but if you cannot afford but two parasols get a white for your aesthetic frock, and a red one when you wish to be irresistible, for over the plainest girl it throws a roseate glow, lighting up her face with a positive witchery.

The newest and latest fad is to perfume your parasol, tying a bow of harmonizing ribbon on the handle or stick and hiding away in the many loops and ends a tiny sachet bag.

THE PET MATERIAL

For the Bridal Robe This Season Is Lace.

This month there will be weddings galore, and the exclusive designers are pledged to give each bride a more delicious group of bridesmaids than had her best friend, and to make the bride herself as stately and graceful as may be.

Lace is the pet material for the bridal robe this season. Hung over chiffon and in princess form nothing can be more graceful. Point lace always seems especially associated with the occasion, but others are quite as lovely. A gown of lace of the princess shape fits snugly from the bust to the knees in front, and is longer at the back. On the front panel of the skirt the lace opens narrowly to show the plaited petticoat of mull, and at the knees the opening widens and the lace overdress flows backward over the long train in a graceful way.

The petticoat is embroidered about the hem for several inches with a design done in white chenille and seed pearls. The lace edges to the knees are held together by a tiny lattice of pearl strands. Beneath the chiffon petticoat, on the drop skirt of silk, are innumerable flounces of chiffon. The gown is entraine, of course, and half covered with the lace. The long, plain length of lace from the middle of the back over the train is particularly graceful.

The yoke is of plaited chiffon, and has a deep point in front. The lace in front is held by a lattice of pearls of a continuous line with that of the skirt. A soft scarf of lace follows the line of the yoke and knots low in front. The sleeves are of lace to the very finger tips.

A wedding gown of classic lines is of crepe de chine, with bands of sued pearls arranged in Grecian pattern about the hem and up the front panel. The bodice is of a surplice shape, and a high ceinture is of folded panne velvet. A yoke and undersleeves of tucked chiffon has an elaborate pattern of pearls over it, and a garniture of artificial orange blossoms passes narrowly about the yoke, and, massing on the bust with choux of panne velvet, falls in a long spray to the feet. Awfully simple in line, and stunning.

Some gowns designed for various smart weddings of the coming month illustrate new features.

A panne foulard of a delicious old rose shade was a pretty thing, for it had fine white batiste embroideries set into it, the skirt length, with tiny folds on each side of white silk, fine black baby ribbon made a lattice work over every other band of batiste.

The bodice was of embroidered batiste and white lace swathed into snug folds, with a broad sash of black satin, the short ends of which were knotted high at the back. The sleeves of foulard ended at the elbow, with turned-back puffs of embroidered batiste, displaying the tiny puffed undersleeves. The forearm was to be covered with a long lace mitt in the new quaint fashion.

An exquisite frock of pale green veiling had a shirred yoke to the skirt, which left the front breadth plain. In two places low on the skirt were encircling bands of gold embroidered white lace, above which was a line of embroidery done on the veiling of gold and black. A shaped lace collar drooped over the shoulders and had points that reached to the waist line; little rosettes of white and applications of gold trimmed this collar.

A white satin belt was of folds with a large gold clasp. The collar ended at the base of the throat in a round pretty fashion. A white boa of elaborate fluffiness will be worn.

A tulle bridal veil is never hemmed. A lace one has its own woven border. The veil is arranged on the coiffure in deep plaits, leaving small ends upright on the crown of the head. To this piece is firmly pinned the coronet of orange blossoms, the single bridal rose or the "sunburst" of brilliants, as the mode of dressing the bride's dead is arranged.

What is called the face covering is a small separate piece of tulle or lace. This covers the bride's face as she goes up the aisle, and is removed by the maid-of-honor after the ceremony, before the bride turns to come down the aisle on the arm of the new-made benedict.

The boudoir and 5 o'clock gowns in the June trousseau are very alluring They are all either empire of coat-shaped, the latter taking the form of a satin coat, edged with a wide, fluted volant, richly embroidered, which forms the train, while the fronts open and reveal a full-flowing under-dress of embroidered mousseline or lace, either falling straight from a square-cut yoke or belted in with soft ribbon sash at the waist.

The empire gowns are made usually of lace or accordion-plaited silk, with flowered ribbon sashes brought from the back to tied round the figure, with draped fichus over the shoulders. Sicilienne satin, acordion-plaited, makes a rich and serviceable peignoir, and in soft pastel tints has a lovely sheen on the surface. For breakfast and combing gowns or jackets, when warmer weather comes, mercerized cottons, silks and dimities, with an abundance of washing lace, makes fresh and comfortable garments.

White orchids and lilies of the valley are the flowers fashionably preferred for the bouquet of the June bride. They will be arranged in the favorite shower form tied with a big fluffy bow of white tulle.

Rose weddings are always popular in June; daisy weddings likewise. To the girl who is married in late spring or early summer a picture wedding is not difficult of achievement. There is an abundant variety of flowers in bloom, and all graceful, dainty and readily lending themselves to artistic decorative effects. The bridesmaids at a fashionable wedding soon to be will carry large picturesque hats filled with flowers. During the reception these will be hung on the arm by wide ribbons.

Among novel fancies exploited recently at weddings abroad the bridesmaids' flowers took the form of bows and arrows, the bows made of button roses or lilies of the valley, the arrows of orchids or other contrasting flowers. Directoire staffs, or a crook like the picturesque affair Miss Bo-Peep carried when she went a-hunting her straying sheep, with bouquets on the top, are dainty.

L'art nouveau jewelry is having a distinct vogue for bridal gifts. There is a really sumptuous array of ornaments in gold, enamel and precious stones, designed in accordance with this new school of art exploited at the Paris exposition to choose from—everything from lovely lorgnettes embellished in rich but refined colorings with bizarre Egyptian motifs to pendants in strikingly original designs, some of the most captivating of which are studies of flowers against pastoral landscapes, treated with the sentiment and grace an artist gives to them whn he translates their beauties with brush upon canvas.

The newest idea for engaged girls is the wedding chest, and even girls who are not engaged are the secret possessors of this sentimental and at the same time sensible article. The wedding chest may be a trunk, a fine, new trunk of latest style, or it may be a fine cedar chest, or of carved wood, all beautifully ornamented, or it may be a plain wooden affair, prettily carved and lined with flowered chintz.

Some of the handsomest chests are lined with quilted and scented satin, but sachet bags can be put in any of them, for that matter. The idea is to fill the chest with pretty things to wear, or for the furnishing and decoration of a home. One girl is filling hers with dainty lingerie which she is making herself; another is buying things from time to time and filling her chest with them. Not alone things to wear, such as gloves, lingerie and dainty hosiery, but pieces of lace, tapestry squares for covering the sofa pillows and handsome table covers.

Another girl is making a fine collection of table linen—napkins, doilies, center pieces and so on. She already has a number of beautiful pieces in linen and lace, some hemstitched, some embroidered and some with elaborate drawn work. Pretty lists of china and bric-a-brac go into the chest of another girl, while still another is making a collection of dinner coffee cups and tiny spoons.

Thus the girls are slowly collecting pretty things and saving them for use in their new homes. As a rule their friends know of the chests and take pleasure in helping fill them, although some of the girls like to feel that everything was bought with their own money and selected by their own taste. Viewed in any light, the idea is a pretty one and full of charming and sensible sentiment.

BABIES AND MAIDENS.

A Tiny Princess Has Set the Style.

Five or fifteen are charming ages in Clothesland, if only good taste is displayed in dressing the pink cheeked tot or the bashful maiden. The very modish 5-year-old wears this summer, if her mother is an up-to-date and reliable shopper, little gowns cut and trimmed after the model used by the only daughter of the Prince of Cornwall and York. This is called the Victoria pattern, and is opened in the neck with a sailor collar and belted at that point called a baby waist line with a sash of soft blas hemmed surah. Under the sailor collar a hemmed scarf of surah is drawn and knotted on the chest, and, as a rule, the little frock itself is liberally offset with entre deux of stout cream colored cluny lace, from under which the silk or muslin is not cut away.

Last summer a bold effort was made to foist ugly white hose on unwilling childish legs. We are happy to say that that pernicious enterprise failed signally, and the half socks are worn in our warm American summer more than ever gratefully this year. The socks should match the sash, whether the latter is black or sky blue, and indulgent and proud parents put their small daughters in the thinnest of silk half hose when a party is on foot. The silk hose are expensive, of course, but then, too, they wear well, cling close to the fat little legs, and undoubtedly are wonderfully cool, beside being unusually rich in effect. The little Princess of Cornwall and York wears them, too, we hear, and just now she is very much the glass of fashion for tots on both sides the water.

A question that has agitated school girldom and its very center has to do with the propriety of the low neck and short sleeved evening gown. Tots of girls wanted to display their round arms and milk white throats at their society functions, but the consensus of opinion leans to a party gown cut open over the chest and then filled in with tulle. This happy compromise is very artfully set forth in an accompanying sketch, for it shows how white embroidered Habutai silk is made in a decollete evening gown with many frills, and then the yoke is gathered into a broad cerise silk collar that matches exactly the bow in the hair. All sorts of Oriental silks have a strong fascination for school girls this summer, and their affections seem settled roung a silk as light as gauze, but strong as Ramcheneda that is imported from bothered old China, and which is prettily called the Light of Asia.

So very cloud-like in quality is this material that as many as thirty yards were consumed readily in the make-up of a gown for one 15-year-old, and yet there seemed no clumsy superabundance of fold. It comes in all the rarest evening tints, sometimes with a rim wide satin stripe and sometimes with a gilt or silver cord running at wide intervals through its length.

With their ankle long evening gowns the girls find infinite pleasure in the new Cuban heeled slippers that have pointed toes and tiny new art buckles of silver set on the instep. Some of these young lady slippers have ribbons running up from the heel to tie about the ankle, and some of them have their fronts made of black satin and their backs and heels of scarlet leather.

NEWEST EFFECTS FOR JUNE BRIDES

The Dead White of the Usual Wedding Dress Is Displaced By a New Shade Called "Smoke White."

The bridal month—June—is here and the brides-to-be are busy and happy beyond description. Many of the robes are finished and their fleecy, filmy softness and sheen hidden away between the folds of tissue until the eventful day arrives, but for the maid who has not already selected the material for her bridal gown perhaps she would like to know that the dead white of the usual wedding dress has been displaced by a new and rather peculiar shade of white called "smoke white"—somewhat of a grayish white, though more pearl than gray in sheen—and suggests a reflection of green in the shadow called "oyster" white, which is being made into bridal robes, and is even a deeper, though not emphasized, smoky white. For June brides chiffon fichus, worn with transparent lace yokes, will be a favorite combination. A new style of trimming is to have the train covered with large graduated medallions of embroidered net. The medallions are set in the soft satin, and framed with narrow rouleaux of satin caught with a fanciful pattern of roses.

For very youthful brides point-d'esprit is chosen. Under such China silk should be used for lining instead of taffeta, as it is more clinging and graceful. The veil is selected from net and silk illusion, but the newest is of India lace, as ethereal in texture as a cobweb.

In millinery styles are varied. Each milliner studies her patron's face, and out of the new wired net, braids, piece straw, tulle and chiffon produces an individual style suiting her customer. To have a becoming hat should be the great object, even though one should deviate somewhat from prevailing modes. Crowns are still flat, but many are seen with considerable height. A favorite style and one that seems to suit most faces is the large turban shape made with soft fold upon fold of chiffon or silk muslin, with a side front trimming of flowers, choux of ribbon or fancy lace caught with handsome, striking brooch or buckle. To the side and lying coquettishly against the hair will be flowers and foliage. All black hats are favored still, but the combination of black and white—as always—results in the most elegant and tasteful combination. For a young face it may be made very striking and jaunty, while an older and subdued face is given a more piquant expression, and the head it adorns a more distinguished poise with the soft blending of black and white above it. French gray is a new shade shown in the tulles and chiffons of which summer hats are made. It is neither blue nor mauve, and yet suggests a tone of both. A hat made of this is trimmed entirely with white foliage, and, by the way, white velvet foliage is the very newest thing in millinery. Whole crowns are made of these soft, velvety leaves. An exquisite hat shown the writer in one of the leading establishments yesterday was a pale blue chiffon turban, with rolling brim made of folds of chiffon, each fold edged with dainty silver cord. Perched on the side front were glorious pink roses and they extended around the side and disappeared under the hat. The crown was a mass of white velvet leaves, it was simply a "dream." The fruits and grapes seen on some of the hats make one feel like filching, so realistic and temptingly do they rest in decoration. One young girl who sat beside me on the car yesterday had great bunches of dark red cherries on her hat, and their luscious beauty actually called forth physical restraint on my part from reaching up and plucking them. They dangled over the edge of the brim so temptingly as to make one hungry. Then there are currants and grapes—grapes that would make the heart of that old wine bibber, Omar, leap, so closely must they resemble the purple clusters from which famous vintage flowed. And floral toques are the rage, too, in all colors, but those made of black silk poppies being decidedly the Frenchiest. Striking in style are the white chip hats trimmed exclusively with plumes, with a single black or pink rose and black velvet strings. Some very pretty hats are made of what the French call crin, but it is simply the old-fashioned horse hair. Huge black silk roses with gold or jet stamens are very effective trimming.

In children's millinery all kinds of ribbons are used plain, shot, taffeta, Mercelleux-painted with Persian and flower patterns.

Fancy veils are not being so much worn. Mechlin tulle is given the preference. If you are going to travel, buy a white veil, as it protects the face better than any other kind.

A touch of black velvet seems indispensable on all the modish hats, and is most effectively combined with gauzy garnitures and bright flowers. Sometimes it is a bow under the brim, or is placed at the back on top of the brim, the ends floating in little streamers, or yet, as seen on another hat, in narrow black velvet festoons across the top.

The Gainsborough hat, with soft nodding plumes, is still fashionable in a modified form, but only tall, stately girls or women should wear it. One lovely hat of rough straw seen in the short-back sailor shape, was trimmed around the crown with three bands of black velvet, while in front was a large puffy rosette of ribbon in three shades of pink. The color blended so beautifully that the three shades seemed to melt into one. Underneath the brim was a stylish black velvet bow. It was extremely chic and youthful.

Should you desire to be truly fetching get a red silk parasol. The sun shades shown in our down town shops are bewildering—flower strewn, lace-scroled, spangled, embroidered, beruffled and appliqued, but if you cannot afford but two parasols get a white for your aesthetic frock, and a red one when you wish to be irresistible, for over the plainest girl it throws a roseate glow, lighting up her face with a positive witchery.

The newest and latest fad is to perfume your parasol, tying a bow of harmonizing ribbon on the handle or stick and hiding away in the many loops and ends a tiny sachet bag.

THE PET MATERIAL

For the Bridal Robe This Season Is Lace.

This month there will be weddings galore, and the exclusive designers are pledged to give each bride a more delicious group of bridesmaids than had her best friend, and to make the bride herself as stately and graceful as may be.

Lace is the pet material for the bridal robe this season. Hung over chiffon and in princess form nothing can be more graceful. Point lace always seems especially associated with the occasion, but others are quite as lovely. A gown of lace of the princess shape fits snugly from the bust to the knees in front, and is longer at the back. On the front panel of the skirt the lace opens narrowly to show the plaited petticoat of mull, and at the knees the opening widens and the lace overdress flows backward over the long train in a graceful way.

The petticoat is embroidered about the hem for several inches with a design done in white chenille and seed pearls. The lace edges to the knees are held together by a tiny lattice of pearl strands. Beneath the chiffon petticoat, on the drop skirt of silk, are innumerable flounces of chiffon. The gown is entraine, of course, and half covered with the lace. The long, plain length of lace from the middle of the back over the train is particularly graceful.

The yoke is of plaited chiffon, and has a deep point in front. The lace in front is held by a lattice of pearls of a continuous line with that of the skirt. A soft scarf of lace follows the line of the yoke and knots low in front. The sleeves are of lace to the very finger tips.

A wedding gown of classic lines is of crepe de chine, with bands of seed pearls arranged in Grecian pattern about the hem and up the front panel. The bodice is of a surplice shape, and a high ceinture is of folded panne velvet. A yoke and undersleeves of tucked chiffon has an elaborate pattern of pearls over it, and a garniture of artificial orannge blossoms passes narrowly about the yoke, and, massing on the bust with choux of panne velvet, falls in a long spray to the feet. Awfully simple in line, and stunning.

Some gowns designed for various smart weddings of the coming month illustrate new features.

A panne foulard of a delicious old rose shade was a pretty thing, for it had fine white batiste embroideries set into it, the skirt length, with tiny folds on each side of white silk, fine black baby ribbon made a lattice work over every other band of batiste.

The bodice was of embroidered batiste and white lace swathed into snug folds, with a broad sash of black satin, the short ends of which were knotted high at the back. The sleeves of foulard ended at the elbow, with turned-back puffs of embroidered batiste, displaying the tiny puffed undersleeves. The forearm was to be covered with a long lace mitt in the new quaint fashion.

An exquisite frock of pale green veiling had a slurred yoke to the skirt, which left the front breadth plain. In two places low on the skirt were encircling bands of gold embroidered white lace, above which was a line of embroidery done on the veiling of gold and black. A shaped lace collar drooped over the shoulders and had points that reached to the waist line; little rosettes of white and applications of gold trimmed this collar.

A white satin belt was of folds with a large gold clasp. The collar ended at the base of the throat in a round pretty fashion. A white boa of elaborate fluffiness will be worn.

A tulle bridal veil is never hemmed. A lace one has its own woven border. The veil is arranged on the coiffure in deep plaits, leaving small ends upright on the crown of the head. To this piece is firmly pinned the coronet of orange blossoms, the single bridal rose or the "sunburst" of brilliants, as the mode of dressing the bride's dead is arranged.

What is called the face covering is a small separate piece of tulle or lace. This covers the bride's face as she goes up the aisle, and is removed by the maid-of-honor after the ceremony, before the bride turns to come down the aisle on the arm of the new-made benedict.

The boudoir and 5 o'clock gowns in the June trousseau are very alluring They are all either empire of coat-shaped, the latter taking the form of a satin coat, edged with a wide, fluted velvet, richly embroidered, which forms the train, while the fronts open and reveal a full-flowing under-dress of embroidered mousseline or lace, either falling straight from a square-cut yoke or belted in with soft ribbon sash at the waist.

The empire gowns are made usually of lace or accordion-plaited silk, with flowered ribbon sashes brought from the back to tied round the figure, with draped fichus over the shoulders. Sicilienne satin, acordion-plaited, makes a rich and serviceable teagown, and in soft pastel tints has a lovely sheen on the surface. For breakfast and combing gowns or jackets, when warmer weather comes, mercerized cottons, silks and dimities, with an abundance of washing lace, makes fresh and comfortable garments.

White orchids and lilies of the valley are the flowers fashionably preferred for the bouquet of the June bride. They will be arranged in the favorite shower form tied with a big fluffy bow of white tulle.

Rose weddings are always popular in June; daisy weddings likewise. To the girl who is married in late spring or early summer a picture wedding is not difficult of achievement. There is an abundant variety of flowers in bloom, and all graceful, dainty and readily lending themselves to artistic decorative effects. The bridesmaids at a fashionable wedding soon to be will carry large picturesque hats filled with flowers. During the reception these will be hung on the arm by wide ribbons.

Among novel fancies exploited recently at weddings abroad the bridesmaids' flowers took the form of bows and arrows, the bows made of button roses or lilies of the valley, the arrows of orchids or other contrasting flowers. Directoire staffs, or a crook like the picturesque affair Miss Bo-Peep carried when she went a-hunting her straying sheep, with bouquets on the top, are dainty.

L'art nouveau jewelry is having a distinct vogue for bridal gifts. There is a really sumptuous array of ornaments in gold, enamel and precious stones, designed in accordance with this new school of art exploited at the Paris exposition to choose from—everything from lovely lorgnettes embellished in rich but refined colorings with bizarre Egyptian motifs to pendants in strikingly original designs, some of the most captivating of which are studies of flowers against pastoral landscapes, treated with the sentiment and grace an artist gives to them whn he translates their beauties with brush upon canvas.

The newest idea for engaged girls is the wedding chest, and even girls who are not engaged are the secret possessors of this sentimental and at the same time sensible article. The wedding chest may be a trunk, a fine, new trunk of latest style, or it may be a fine cedar chest, or of carved wood, all beautifully ornamented, or it may be a plain wooden affair, prettily carved and lined with flowered chintz.

Some of the handsomest chests are lined with quilted and scented satin, but sachet bags can be put in any of them, for that matter. The idea is to fill the chest with pretty things to wear, or for the furnishing and decoration of a home. One girl is filling hers with dainty lingerie which she is making herself; another is buying things from time to time and filling her chest with them. Not alone things to wear, such as gloves, lingerie and dainty hosiery, but pieces of lace, tapestry squares for covering the sofa pillows and handsome table covers.

Another girl is making a fine collection of table linen—napkins, doilies, center pieces and so on. She already has a number of beautiful pieces in linen and lace, some hemstitched, some embroidered and some with elaborate drawn work. Pretty lists of china and bric-a-brac go into the chest of another girl, while still another is making a collection of dinner coffee cups and tiny spoons.

Thus the girls are slowly collecting pretty things and saving them for use in their new homes. As a rule their friends know of the chests and take pleasure in helping fill them, although some of the girls like to feel that everything was bought with their own money and selected by their own taste. Viewed in any light, the idea is a pretty one and full of charming and sensible sentiment.

This is called the Victoria pattern, and is opened in the neck with a sailor collar and belted at that point called a baby waist line with a sash of soft bias hemmed surah. Under the sailor collar a hemmed scarf of surah is drawn and knotted on the chest, and, as a rule, the little frock itself is liberally offset with entre deux of stout cream colored cluny lace, from under which the silk or muslin is not cut away.

Last summer a bold effort was made to foist ugly white hose on unwilling childish legs. The secretions from these organs were unnatural and deposited a heavy sediment. I tried different remedies at different times, but did not succeed in getting anything to help me. Seeing Doan's Kidney Pills highly recommended I procured a box at W. A. Abbett's Drug store and began to use them. They helped me at once and I rapidly grew better and stronger. I cannot speak too highly of Doan's Kidney Pills and I unhesitatingly recommend them to others."

FAST GAME

Expected Between Duluth and Superior.

Glenney Will Pitch For Duluth Sunday.

If the weather does not get frivolous tomorrow there should be a rattling fast game at Oneota park. It's Duluth against Superior, and the meeting is calculated to dispel the most drowsy case of ennui. Glenney will pitch for Duluth and Augustine for Superior.

The two teams have played four games up to date, and the record is even. Hansell expected to win this afternoon's game, and then take tomorrow's, winning the series.

It is probable that Ashland will play here next Saturday and Sunday.

Crack shots from all over the Northwest intend to compete in the tournament of the Central Gun club, to be held July 5 and 6. There will be ten events each day, and there are certainly smoke very alluring propositions in the way of sweepstakes to attract both local and outside men. Besides the money received from the entrance fees the Gun club will add about $415 to the stakes in the two days.

Short time ago The Herald mentioned that Duluth and Superior would play ball "if Jupiter Pluvius or the police didn't interfere." Next day a fan looked up Bill Lambert.

"Say, Lambert, who is this man, Jupiter Pluvius?" he asked.

"Pluvius! Why, don't you know Jupe Pluvius? He's a left handed catcher we've just signed, and, say, he's so fast that he can simply reach out in front of the bat and take a ball."

The fan left the store wondering what they would do with Sturgeon when Pluvius reported.

The High School Athletic association should declare athletic relations with Ashland high school off for all time to come. A ball game was scheduled with the Wisconsin team for today. Thursday Ashland called the game off. It will be remembered that Ashland did the same thing last fall in football. Briefly, such things have a tendency to injure athletics generally.

"Ferns, a Buffalo middleweight, will sail for England next Saturday. Ferns is going abroad to fight Jack O'Brien in a limited round contest," says the New York Herald. It would be difficult to crowd more misinformation into so slight a space. To begin with, Ferns is a native of Kansas and is not a middleweight. He is at present the welterweight champion, the limit of which class is 145 pounds. Ferns fights at 142 pounds. He will not fight O'Brien, who is a 154 pound man, and exceedingly clever.

Champion McGovern has disposed of two easy propositions at San Francisco in Gardner and Herrera, and is now preparing for a third in Tim Hegarty, an Australian third rater. The San Franciscoans are easily satisfied when they pay to see such jug handled affairs, especially when Broad, Sullivan and other featherweights able to make a fight are willing to meet the champion. As McGovern can still fight at 124 pounds no one can blame him for not conceding ten or twelve pounds to Erne, McFadden or Gans. At the same time the men picked out for McGovern to beat have no business in the ring with him.

• • •

In the far West they refer to challenges with some attempt at humor. Here is a specimen:

"A bunch of soot, labeled 'Alligator' Dobson, called on the sporting editor this morning and signified his willingness to mingle with anything in the fighting line, barring McGovern and Jeffries."

The state of Kentucky might have known it would get hurt if it trifled with David Sullivan, pugilist. The excitable Corkonian some months ago moved down to Louisville and has managed to keep that city in a turmoil. One street fight and a rough and tumble encounter at the conclusion of the Hart-Creedon bout were Sullivan's contributions to the gayety of nations, and as a result the grand jury is now investigating the boxing industry in that Southern town. During the combat between Hart and Creedon, David Sullivan, a second for the latter, attempted to throw water on his principal at a time when the latter was in a groggy condition. This angered one of Hart's seconds, by name Husbands, who at once made a fierce assault on Sullivan. In the melle Sullivan was knocked out and is said to have remained unconscious for the larger part of an hour. Sullivan's original offense precipitated a riot in which guns were drawn and a general slaughter seemed imminent.

The Sullivan boys have always been firebrands in pugilism.

David nearly created a riot in the Broadway Athletic club when his brother "Spike" fought Jack Downey. Downey lost on a foul, and in the excitement David attempted to kick a policeman in the face.

Jack Sullivan, who was in David's corner, jumped into the ring at the Lenox Athletic club, when his brother was getting pummeled by Dixon, the decision necessarily going to the negro. Therefore it appears that the Sullivan brothers are somewhat detrimental to the smooth progress of a boxing game.

Detectives O'Keefe and McMahon arrested at Hamilton, Ont., Dan MacLeod, the wrestler, and Manager Perry on charges of conspiracy and fraud in the alleged swindling of a man named Thompson out of $2650 in a recent wrestling match between MacLeod and Pons, the French champion. Thompson alleges that he gave the money to Perry to bet on Pons, who lost the match, but since claims to have evidence that Perry did not bet a cent, and also that he fixed the match to make it appear that Pons really lost.

Joseph Thompson, the complainant, was the only witness examined. He told how he became acquainted with Perry and Little, the name by which MacLeod then was known, and of putting up $500 to get on a meeting between Pons and Little. Perry told him he did not think Little could defeat Pons, and Little said that he thought Pons could tire him out. Therefore it was agreed bets would be placed on Pons. Thompson said he furnished $2650.

Little defeated Pons by holding him off. Thompson lost his money, and since has come to the conclusion that the result was fixed and that he had been defrauded.

As Pons sailed for France some months ago, the affair seems to have been a thorough fake.

Not since 1890 have players received so much remuneration for their services as now. The salary limit of the league is $2400. This has never been adhered to. Up to this year, however, a club rarely went above the $3000 mark. At the present time there are players in the National league and in the rival organization who are receiving as much as $5000.

In Boston, for instance, Dineen, who last year received $2400, compelled the club to make out a contract calling for $3200. This is the amount he was offered by the rival league club, and to hold him A. H. Soden and his partners had to raise his salary to that limit. Col. Rogers, who was so badly shocked by a decision of the court in his suit against Lajoie, is now justified in saying that there no longer is any money in baseball for the promoter. He had a hard opposition to overcome to hold his team from deserting to the rival league. Three of his men are receiving nearly $9500 for their services.

It is the rival league that started this salary-raising game, and a perusal of the following list shows that the American league will have to play to record-breaking crowds during the season to gain the foothold they are seeking in baseball:

NATIONAL LEAGUE.

Boston—Long, $3000; Dineen, $3200; Nichols, $3000; Willis, $2900.

Brooklyn—Kelley, Keeler, Sheckard, Dahlen, Farrell, McGuire, $3000; McJames, $3000.

Chicago—Doyle, $3000; McCormick, $2800.

New York—Davis, $3500; Buelow, $2500.

Philadelphia—McFarland, $2850; Douglas, $2700; Thomas, $2700; Flick, $3000; Delehanty, $3500.

Pittsburg—Wagner, $2800; Clarke, $3000.

St. Louis—Burkett, $3200; Heidrick, $2800; Wallace, $2800; Donovan, $2800.

AMERICAN LEAGUE.

Boston—Stahl, $3500; Young, $3000; Collins, $5000.

Baltimore—Donlin, $2500; Williams, $2900; McGinnity, $3000.

Detroit—Barrett, $3000.

Milwaukee—Garvin, $2500; Hawley, $3000.

Washington—Carrick, $3100; Mercer, $3600.

Every kind of sport is enjoying a boom this year. Baseball is attracting large crowds, and the cycle race meets held thus far have been very profitable to both riders and promoters. There are more men in the racing field than ever before, and better racing is the result. It is no longer the case where a few riders monopolize the purses for professional and the prizes that are awarded in amateur events. The increase in the amateur ranks is due to the National Cycling association in transferring practically every one of the amateur stars to the professional ranks. Strange to say, not one of the amateurs invited to strive for cash prizes protested, which is the best evidence that there was just reason for the transfer.

Matthewson, as he delivers the ball to the batter, moves his right arm slowly upward, stretching it at full length above his head, and at the same time bending backward from the hips. As he gets his arm into the proper position to send the ball to the plate he throws his body forward with it, and while there is necessarily a little snap to rid the hand of the ball, the arm motion is so much embodied in the body motion that it is a great saving in muscular exertion to the arm, and for that reason Matthewson should not lose his effectiveness within at least two years of the ordinary time that it takes a pitcher to pass through all stages of his career in the national game.

There are pitchers who use a modified body swing which aids them to some extent, but they have not acquired the ability to let body and arm work in unison when the ball leaves the hand. Try it some time and see how difficult it is to get the pose just right, control the ball perfectly and throw all the speed into the effort that you desire.

Some right-hand and some left-hand pitchers go so far in the body movement that they throw all their weight on one foot and whirl almost half around before they permit the ball to leave the hand. Occasionally Matthewson does it, but as a rule not.

Billy Brady's contract with Champion Jim Jeffries will expire on June 9, and the question now bothering sporting men is whether or not Brady and Jeff will continue as partners in their pugilistic ventures. Brady states that he cannot say at present just what he is going to do in the matter, but from words dropped it would appear that the Californian's manager is not over anxious to renew his contract. Jeff recently left New York from San Francisco without coming to an understanding with his astute representative. Brady talks as though he did not care to be further identified with the boxers, and wanted to drop out as soon as possible. He did not mind acting as business manager and adviser for Jeffries as long as the fighting game was on the boom, but now that it has become a dead number in many of the large cities, Brady believes that it is to his best interest to let the fighters do for themselves, and give his entire attention to his many theatrical ventures.

It is almost certain that Jeff and Brady will split up, although there does not appear to be any personal feeling in the matter. Brady says Jeff is a good fellow and will always be his loyal friend.

Last Friday in Chicago Jeff gave out the information that his future matches would be looked after by that veteran of the ring, Billy Delaney, the greatest of all handlers of pugilists. Delaney should make a good man for the place. He is popular with the sporting public, and has few equals when it comes down to shrewd match-making, although it must be admitted that little Brady was a good one himself at that game.

Just to be in line with those who have announced their retirement from the ring, Champion Jim Jeffries last week came out with the statement that after his fights with Ruhlin and Sharkey he would step down and out from the fighting game. Of course the champion is not in earnest in saying such a thing, and it's a pretty good bet that the big fellow will be active in pugilism for many years to come. Jeffries is by long odds the greatest champion who has ever held the heavyweight title, and there is no reason in the world why he should sever his connections with pugilism.

Jeff is nothing more than an overgrown boy, and he is liable to say things that he does not mean. He is not yet 26 years of age, strong, healthy and active. He is an ideal athlete and a finished boxer. His wonderful work in the ring during the last three years has won him a place in the hearts of the American public, and they would not stand by and see the championship go by default. It's all right for Jeff to stay in retirement as long as affairs in the roped arena are at a standstill, but when the mill begins to grind again Jim will have to be stirring about, and it's a good bet that he will not need any coaxing to get him back in the harness. The story about Jeffries owning rich oil fields and the big revenue they bring him is all well enough, but one thing is certain, and that is, Jeff will not let his oil fields bother him if there is a big purse in sight at any time. He is good for a dozen more championship fights.

MAN'S MALADIES MASTERED!

I made up my mind soon after graduating from college, that no one man was great enough to master the entire field of medicine and surgery. Many physicians have tried to do this, but they have met with results usually disappointing to themselves and often disastrous to their patients. For this reason I determined early in my professional career to confine my practice strictly to a single line of disease, and to originating and perfecting cures for them. I therefore treat only what I am absolutely certain that I can positively cure to stay cured— Varicocele, Stricture, Contagious Blood Poison, Nerve-Sexual Debility, Rupture, Kidney and Urinary Diseases, and all reflex complications and associate diseases and weaknesses of men. To these maladies alone, the best years of my life have been earnestly devoted and on them all my faculties are concentrated. Our consultation and operating rooms are thoroughly equipped with every scientific apparatus, instrument and device essential to the most modern methods of practice, and our references, both professional and financial, are claiming the best citizens of this vicinity, who have been cured by us and made happy. I want every afflicted man to freely and fully investigate our treatment. My education, my experience, my conscience, condemn all kinds of quackery. I treat every case separately, closely watching it and carefully following its symptoms with remedies varied through every stage. The diseases that constitute my specialty are more fully commented upon below and are well worth the careful perusal of all men in need of medical attention.

MASTER SPECIALIST.

Varicocele

Whatever may be the cause of Varicocele its injurious effects are too well known for extended comment. Suffice to know that it depresses the mind, weakens the body, racks the nervous system, and ultimately leads to a complete loss of sexual power. If you are a victim of this dire disease, come to our office and let us explain to you our process of treating it. You will then not wonder why we have positively cured hundreds of cases of Varicocele during the past twelve months. Under our treatment the patient improves from the very beginning. All pain instantly subsides. The pools of stagnant blood are forced from the dilated veins, which rapidly assume their normal size, strength and soundness. All indications of disease and weakness vanish completely, and in their stead comes the pride, the power, and the pleasures of perfect health and restored manhood.

Stricture

It matters not how long you have suffered from Stricture nor how many different doctors have disappointed you, we will cure just as certainly as you come to us for treatment. We will not do it by cutting or dilating. Our treatment is new, entirely original with us and perfectly painless. It completely dissolves the Stricture and permanently removes every obstruction from the urinary passage. It stops every unnatural discharge, allays all inflammation, reduces the prostate gland when enlarged, cleanses the bladder and kidneys, invigorates the sexual organs and restores health and soundness to every part of the body affected by the disease.

Nervo-Sexual Debility—

Men, plenty of you are now reaping the results of your former folly. Your manhood is failing and will soon be lost unless you do something for yourself. There is no time to lose. Impotency, like all sexual diseases, is never on the standstill. Either you must master it or it will master you, and fill your whole future with misery and indescribable woe. We have treated so many cases of this kind that we are as familiar with them as you are with the very daylight. Once cured by us, you will never again be bothered with emissions, prematureness, small or weak organs, nervousness, failing memory, loss of ambition or other symptoms which rob you of your manhood and absolutely unfit you for study, business, pleasure or marriage. Our treatment for weak men will correct all these evils, and restore you to what nature intended—a hale, hearty, happy man, with physical, mental and sexual powers complete.

Contagious Blood Poison

On account of its frightful hideousness, Blood Poison is commonly called the king of all venereal diseases. It may be either hereditary or contracted. Once the system is tainted with it, the disease may manifest itself in the form of scrofula, eczema, rheumatic pains, stiff or swollen joints, eruptions or copper-colored spots on face or body, little ulcers in the mouth or on the tongue, sore throat, swollen joints, falling of the hair or eyebrows, and finally a leprouslike decay of the flesh and bone. If you have any of these or similar symptoms you are cordially invited to consult us immediately. If we find your fears are unfounded, we will quickly unburden your mind. But if your constitution is infected with poisonous virus we will tell you so frankly, and show you how to get rid of it. Our special treatment for Blood Poison is practically the result of our life work, and is indorsed by the best physicians of America and Europe. It contains no dangerous drugs or injurious medicines of any kind. It goes to the very bottom of the disease and forces out every particle of impurity. Soon every sign and symptom of blood poison disappears completely and forever. The blood, the tissue, the flesh, the bones and the whole system are cleansed, purified and restored to perfect health, and the patient is prepared anew for the duties and pleasures of life.

Associate Diseases

In curing a disease of any kind, we never fail to remove all reflex complications. If the case is Varicocele, the weakness caused by it disappears. If it is Stricture, and has developed into Prostatic, Bladder or Kidney affections, the injured organs are all restored to perfectly healthy conditions. If it is Blood Poison, any and all Skin, Blood and Bone diseases arising from the taint, are entirely and permanently eliminated from the system. If it is Impotency, the many distressing symptoms following in its train and indicating a permanent decline of physical, mental and sexual powers are totally removed and rapidly replaced by the youthful energy of robust manhood. Hence, all resulting ills and reflex complications which may be properly termed associate diseases, and which, in fact, are often more serious than the original ailment that gives rise to them—all, we say, disappear completely and forever with the cure of the main malady.

Correspondence.

One personal visit is preferred, but if it is impossible or inconvenient for you to call at our office, write a full and unreserved history of your case, plainly stating your symptoms. We make no charge for private counsel, and give to each patient a legal contract to hold to our promises.

Cut In the Payroll of the Calumet & Hecla Mine.

Houghton, Mich., June 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—It is apparent that the change in local management in the Calumet & Hecla means something more than a change in the salary list. There has been a pruning in the pay roll already, and it is anticipated that there will be further reductions aggregating about 500 men, the cut to be made at the amygdaloid shafts. The Calumet & Hecla mine proper is opened on the Calumet conglomerate reef, but the Osceola amygdaloid lies parallel to the conglomerate at a distance of 730 feet to the east. The amygdaloid was tested by means of crosscuts some years ago, and being found fairly rich in copper, five shafts were located upon the two miles of strike exposed on the Calumet & Hecla lands. These shafts have been developed far beyond the hoisting and milling capacity of the company, an dthes hafts were closed down last fall, but reopened during the winter. As a measure of economy the suspension of mining work at the amygdaloid shafts is a good step, as the underground openings are far advanced and the shafts cannot be made producers to any considerable extent until the new mill, now building at Lake Linden, is completed. This new mill will make a much larger use of electricity for secondary power than has yet been attempted in the district. It is of steel and stone throughout and is to be fitted with the latest appliances for the economical separation of copper from its gangue of conglomerate rock. The amygdaloid shafts at the mine are still lacking a considerable part of their permanent machinery equipments, although a good start has been made at this work. The discharge of 500 men, which is expected, will lay off a considerable force, but will be only a 10 per cent cut in the forces of this giant among mines.

Capt. W. E. Parnall, of the Tamarack, Osceola and Isle Royale, is enjoying a well-earned vacation in Europe. During his absence the management of the two first named mines is in the hands of Capt. W. E. Parnall, Jr., while Richard M. Edwards, local superintendent, is in charge at the Isle Royale. It is stated that the average return from the Isle Royale mill for May, its first month of running, was 14 per cent mineral, exclusive of heavy copper, which would give a return of about 1¼ per cent ingot copper. This is a materially better return than had been hoped for by the best posted friends of the mine.

The recrudescence of interest in the stock market is a feature of the situation hoped for, but scarcely expected by lake people. Ontonagon county mines are receiving more attention than formerly, and the people who have devoted little attention to these mines in the past are surprised to learn that the mines at the western end of the Michigan copper range are making a surprisingly good showing in copper, especially in heavy copper, for which the Ontonagon county mines have been famed since their first opening more than fifty years ago. The Adventure and Mass are both turning out large quantities of mass and barrel copper, and the metal so secured is going a long ways toward paying expenses and providing for permanent equipment before the stamp mills are started. The Mass mill is nearing completion and will be ready for business in July or August, by which time matters at the mine should be in shape to permit the beginning of regular production. The Adventure mill foundation is in and the steel superstructure will be started soon. The Adventure is making a record in the rapidity with which its mill is being started, and the completed mill should be able to go into commission early next spring.

The foundations for the new mill of the Wolverine are completed, and work has been started on the foundations of the twin mill of the Mohawk, located nearby. Both mills will be in commission next spring, barring accidents, or early next summer at the latest. The special arsenical smelter now building near Hackensack, N. J., for the reduction of the "Mohawkite" ore will probably be blown in during July, or at the latest in August. Two hundred barrels of Mohawkite, weighing nearly 150 tons, are at the mine awaiting shipment to the new smelter. When the reduction of the Mohawkite is begun on a regular scale the mine should have a regular monthly income of $15,000 to $25,000 from this source alone, which will pay working expenses and afford something for the new construction work, before the mill starts and production is begun from the Kearsarge amygdaloid.

The Quincy production for May remained at about the same figure as for April, despite predictions that a considerable increase would be shown. It is not likely that any material increase in production will be shown for some time to come. The mine is now making much the most copper and much the largest profits ever secured in its history, and it is unreasonable to expect more.

The epidote from St. Mary's shaft of the Arcadian is now returning better than 1 per cent mineral at the mill. This is the best return yet secured in regular production from any part of the mine, and is quite encouraging to the management and shareholders. The Arcadian is now making sufficient copper to more than pay operating expenses, and the outlook is better than at any time within the past two years.

The conglomerate shaft of the Franklin Junior is now turning out a considerable quantity of mill rock, and when the work in that shaft is completed will be able to double its present production.

Work is being continued at the Carp Lake mine, in the Porcupine mountains, Ontonagon county, under the direction of Professor George E. Perkins, of Providence. The work is confined mainly to testing the ground and to experimenting with various methods of concentration. The Porcupine Mountain copper mines are located on the secondary belt of the Keweenawan trap series, where the sandstones replace the conglomerates laid down in earlier periods. These sandstones are frequently very rich indeed, assays running as high as 50 per cent in copper having been secured, while assays as rich as the average return of the Calumet & Hecla are by no means uncommon. The district has been known for nearly forty years, but has never developed a paying mine, this being due, not to lack of copper, but to the inability of metallurgists to separate the exceedingly fine copper from its gangue of sandstone, the copper being akin to the "flour gold" which gives such trouble to Western miners in some camps. The problem has been attacked in a variety of ways, but so far without success. Mr. Perkins has been conducting experiments with a Willfley concentrator, the Colorado machine which is now being generally introduced in the mills of this district, and the results so far secured are decidedly encouraging. The problem of saving the fine copper from the mines of the Porcupines is not only one of scientific interest, but is also one of great commercial importance, and the man who solves it will make a big crop of millionaires, though it does not necessarily follow that the man who forges the key to the treasure house will obtain the lion's share of the loot.

The Central mine management will probably do some diamond drill boring this season. The Central was opened on a fissure vein, in Keweenaw county, and was one of the great mines of early days, having paid dividends of nearly $2,000,000 all told. It is highly probable that the Kearsarge amygdaloid traverses the Central lands at some point, and judging from the mineral wealth of this lode, where opened some miles to the southward in the Wolverine, Mohawk, Kearsarge, South Kearsarge and Centennial mines, should be well mineralized in the vicinity of the Central.

The Lake Superior & Western Development company, of Calumet, Mich., the parent of the tremendously successful Calumet & Arizona, has declared a dividend of $5 per share, payable June 20, to shareholders of record of June 5. HORACE J. STEVENS.

HORRIBLE CRIME

Was Witnessed By Seven-Year-Old Child.

Aurora, Mo., June 8.—The residents of Stone county, south of here in the heart of the Ozarks, made famous by the Bald Knobbers, are in a frenzy over the developments in the mysterious murder of pretty 16-year-old Alice Stallion, whose body was found in the James river last Wednesday with the skull crushed in. The crime is laid at the door of Mrs. John Stallion, the stepmother of the girl, and her step-son, by the confession of the woman's 7-year-old daughter, who states that on Monday night, May 27, the mother held his step-sister Alice while the son struck her several times with a heavy iron poker, crushing her skull and killing her instantly, after which the body was dragged into the woods and covered with brush and leaves till Tuesday night, when it was thrown into the James river to prevent discovery by searching parties.

The engineer saw what had happened and stopped the train and called the crew to the scene. The injured man was not moved until the arrival of Dr. Lemont, under whose orders he was taken to the Virginia hospital, where the wounds were examined and dressed. The doctor states that while the wheels had passed over both lower limbs below the groin, had broken the bones of the left ankle and had greatly fractured the upper portion of his left arm, no amputation would be necessary, and that contrary to reports Mr. Cobean would survive if he could withstand the shock and pain. When a man is drowning his rescue is a question of timely help. It is the same thing in disease. Many a time the doctor says of a man whose condition is hopeless, "If you'd begun in time you might have been cured."

This is especially true when the disease affects the lungs. Delay is dangerous. The timely use of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery will result in a quick cure of deep-seated coughs, bronchitis, and weak lungs. Even when hemorrhages have been frequent and profuse "Golden Medical Discovery" has been used time and again with the result of a perfect and permanent cure. Mr. McCauley, of Leechburg, Armstrong Co., Pa., had eighty-one hemorrhages, and after other medical aid had failed he was completely cured by the use of "Golden Medical Discovery."

Accept no substitute for "Golden Medical Discovery." There is no other medicine just as good for "weak" lungs.

"I was in poor health when I commenced taking Dr. Pierce's medicine," writes Mr. Elmer Lawler, of Volga, Jefferson Co., Ind. "I had stomach, kidney, heart, and lung troubles. Was not able to do any work. I had a severe cough and hemorrhage of the lungs, but after using your medicine a while I commenced to gain in strength and flesh, and stopped coughing right away. Took about six bottles of the 'Golden Medical Discovery' theu, and last spring I had Grippe and it settledeou my lungs, leaving me with a severe cough. I had the doctor, but he didn't seem to help me any; so I commenced your medicine again and took three or four bottles of the 'Discovery' and two vials of Dr. Pierce's Pellets, and that straightened me up. I feel like a different person. I gladly recommend your medicine to all sufferers, for I know it cured me."

Dr. Pierce's Common Sense Medical Adviser, paper covers, is sent free on receipt of 21 one-cent stamps to pay expense of mailing only. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

Well Kidneys

Make Strong Men and Women.

Germs In the Blood Attack the Kidneys and Weak Kidneys Cannot Withstand the Assault of Millions of the Vile Disease Breeding Germs.

Dr. Geo. Leininger's For-Mal-de-Hyde Kidney Tablets Drive the Disease Germs Out of the Blood and Make Weak Kidneys Strong.

Thousands of Lives Now Saved From the Fatal Fffects of Kidney Diseases.

FREE Dr. Geo. Leininger offers to send a trial package of these wonderful Kidney Tablets FREE to any readers of The Herald who send their name and address.

It is now admitted by the ablest physicians in the world that the only way to cure Kidney Trouble is to kill the germs that cause the sickness. Kidney Dieases are the result of weakness caused by swarms of microbes in the blood. The consequence is that when the Kidneys get sick, we get blood poisoning, as it is the nature of animal germs to work in flocks and swarms, and to feed here and there upon some vital material of the body, which developes the process of inflammation and decay, thereby resulting in Bright's disease, Uric Acid troubles, pain in the back and loins, Rheumatism, Dropsy and all other Kidney and Bladder disorders. Dr. Geo. Leininger, the noted German physician and scientist, gave to the world, the first and only Kidney remedy, which sets free nascent For-mal-de-hyde gas in the Kidneys and in the whole urinary tract, thus disinfecting the entire urinary system and sterilizing the urine, which not alone will cure all Kidney and Bladder diseases, Rheumatism, Uric Acid troubles, but will drive all disease breeding germs out of the blood, thereby making it impossible for the Kidneys to become sick again. Dr. Geo. Leininger's For-mal-de-hyde Kidney Tablets are the greatest discovery yet made in medicine, and are entirely different from any Kidney and Bladder cure ever given to medical science or the public. They are not a patent medicine, but a medical discovery.

Conrad Wagner, Jefferson City, Mo., in writing to Dr. Leininger under date of March 27th, 1901, writes: "The For-Mal-De-Hyde Kidney Tablets sample came all right and I have used them. They seem to be the proper remedy for my trouble. My indigestion is miserable, continuous pain in back, loin and sides, and am generally run down, having had the Grip every winter for ten years. I inclose $1.00, for which kindly send immediately two 50-cent packages For-Mal-De-Hyde Kidney Tablets."

Dr. Geo. Leininger offers to send a trial package of these famous Kidney Tablets FREE to any reader of this paper who sends his name and address. Dr. Geo. CATTARH CAN NOW BE CURED.
FOR-MAL-DE-HYDE
INHALER

Dr. Geo. Leininger's For-Mal-De-Hyde inhaler kills the germs without injuring the mucous membrane, and also puts the membrane in such condition of health and activity that new germs of Catarrh, entering the body, cannot live and breed in it. Catarrh can be cured by this means in every stage, except when there is an actual decay of the lung cells (Consumption), and in many cases this has been done. THERE IS POSITIVELY NO OTHER REMEDY, DRUG OR TREATMENT WHICH WILL CURE CATARRH, ASTHMA, BRONCHITIS, LA GRIPPE CONSUMPTION AND HAY FEVER.

THE ONLY REMEDY than can prove its wonderful cures by unsolicited testimony like the following:

Edward Gaffner, St. Elizabeth Hospital, Dayton, Ohio, under date of March 4, 1901, writes:

"I received the inhaler you sent me on Feb. 1 in good order. It has done me more good in the short time I have used it than all the doctors and medicine have done in the last two years. I had hacking and distressing cough, and at times a heavy coughing spell would come on me so bad that the sweat would pour off me like water, and leave me in a very weakened condition. I don't think, doctor, I would have lasted much longer if I had not had your inhaler, but now all is changed

Independence Will Not Be Allowed to Compete In Races.

New York, June 8.—Thomas Lawson's yacht, the Independence, will not be allowed to compete in the trial races preliminary to the races for the America's cup.

This decision was arrived at by the challenge committee of the New York Yacht club yesterday afternoon, and was conveyed to Mr. Lawson in a letter mailed yesterday.

The last two paragraphs of the letter explain the attitude of the New York Yacht club. They are: "It is that further discussion can serve no useful purpose, and the committee, therefore, must decline to pursue the subject farther with you. If a member of this club notifies the secretary that he has chartered the Independence, or that he has accepted a transfer of it, it will be for such member to enter her for such events as she may be qualified to enter."

Seemingly the last paragraph in itself might open a way in which the Independence might be entered, but as a matter of fact, it is stated there is no member of the New York Yacht club who would accept a charter or transfer of the boat owned by Mr. Lawson under any circumstances. Therefore, she is shut out absolutely from participating in the race.

Boston, June 8.—Mr. Lawson was seen at his home, and he simply said he would have nothing to say until the letter of the New York Yacht club committee should reach him.

TO TAKE CHICAGO.

Pottawatomies Will Sail Soon For Windy City.

St. Joseph, Mich., June 8.—The tribe of Pottawatomie Indians living in Van Buren county, held a secret pow-wow at Hartford yesterday to listen to a report of scouts sent to Chicago. The Pottawatomies propose to invest the lake front of Chicago and then proceed to prove their claims to the land, which they believe will be sustained. If the Chicago claim is established they will squat on all the lake front from the Indiana line to Grand Haven, Mich., which they say is their land by virtue of the same treaty upon which they base their Chicago claim.

My, but it's good.

In pure and simple words, it is a cool, effervescent, temperance drink and tonic. It has that biting taste so much enjoyed, but contains no injurious gases. The flavor is a feature of its own found in no other beverage. The result from drinking—it quenches the thirst, stimulates the blood, which rushes to every part of the body, awakening the sleepy blood vessels, producing new energy and capacity for unlimited labor. This might apply to you, and then again it might not. We have aimed that it should apply to those who are in need of a plan to remove from themselves a condition of disease. These diseases, namely, liver, kidney, stomach an bowels, filthy in the effects of a constitutional disorder. They are curable quite rapidly with Cascarine, a treatment that flushes the system, drives the impurities out of the body and makes one's condition that of purity and good health. Cascarine really works wonders. It cures after all others have failed, and it cures without any inconvenience to one's habits or usual every-day work. Take it and keep good health. This treatment was originally prepared by the physicians of the Southern Medical and Surgical Institute of Louisville, Ky. It was used in private practice until the demand became so great that it is now being manufactured on a large scale and thousands of bottles are being sold. Cascarine cures billousness, constipation and dyspepsia and other bodily ills depending on a weak and inactive condition of the digestive system. Cascarine removes foul breath, and removes from the body that element which produces decomposition and fermentation of food which is called dyspepsia. Cascarine is an efficient remedy in the treatment of Bright's disease, diabetes and all inflamed and congested conditions of the kidneys, bladder and other urinary organs. Cascarine is a mild luxative tonic of merit. Take it and you will use no other. It is put up in a liquid form and sold by druggists for 50 cents per bottle. Take it and you will use no other. # DUN'S REVIEW

Labor Controversies an Important Factor In Industrial Pursuits.

New York, June 8.—R. G. Dun & Co.'s weekly review of trade says: The labor situation in many parts of the country is still seriously unsettled and constitutes a reason for hesitating in some industries, discouraging new operations which satisfactory conditions would otherwise stimulate. But quick decision is not to be expected in some of these labor controversies, and in the meantime trade is encouraged by reports of a satisfactory condition in winter wheat over a large portion of the country. As for spring wheat, the crop was put in under very favorable conditions, and there have been few unsatisfactory reports. Railroad earnings for May—9.6 per cent in excess of 1900 and 23.2 per cent over 1899—reflect a continued activity in the country; while at New York bank clearings gain for the week 86.8 per cent over 1900 and 59.1 per cent over 1899, with gains at the leading cities outside New York of 27.1 per cent over 1900 and 27.5 per cent over 1899.

The cessation of manipulation in corn contributed to a decline of 2.1 per cent in breadstuffs. Labor controversies have become the factor of greatest importance in leading manufacturing industries. Counting, perhaps upon the urgency of orders and heavy losses which would be sustained by employers in case of suspension, the machinists made what were considered unreasonable demands on employers at many points, who have taken a determined stand and announced that the strikers places will be filled by non-union men on Monday if they fail to resume work. More quiet conditions in the market and few new contracts make this action possible. As a rule, manufacturers have not sought business beyond July 1, and it loks as though they had been preparing for the conflict. Pig iron is dull, not a sale of Bessemer being reported during the week at Pittsburg, and quotations are nominal. Large contracts for rails, plain billets, and finished steel deliveries continue heavy. Shipments of farm machinery attract much attention, while bridge building, new vessels and track elevation prevent dullness in structural material.

Speculative operations for a decline, however, are fart rmo aggressive; the severe losses in the short interest thus far this season making traders extremely cautious. A slight flurry in July wheat at Chicago caused hasty covering and a sharp advance, which was of short duration, as moderate profits were quickly taken. Abundant production in the United States does not necessarily mean weak prices, for European crops are falling below expectations and foreign purchases continue heavy; Atlantic exports for the week, flour included, amounting to 4,520,144 bushels, against 2,955,281 last year and 1,849,573 two years ago. Pacific exports also show good gains, reaching 854,515 bushels, against 591,015 a year ago and 623,400 in 1899. Including exports at Duluth and Portland, Maine, the total outward movement for the week, exclusive of Canadian ports, was 5,646,597 bushels, against 3,823,364 last year and 2,748,467 in the same week of 1899.

Shipments of boots and shoes continue very large, for the last week exceeding the same week of 1900 by 20,000 cases, and since the year opened forwardings have been over 2,000,000 cases, far surpassing any previous record. Although the movement is still heavy, shops receive fewer orders, and it will be some weeks before active work begins on fall contracts. Retailers are offering black goods for summer wear at reduced prices, and it is evident that the production of these shoes was excessive, while tan shoes have been in much greater demand, and manufacturers are pushed to fill contracts. Prices are steady and jobbers report that the better qualities are South. Local distribution is facilitated by the warm weather, and this factor is even more potent in the market for cotton goods, which exhibited greater animation than at any previous time this season. Other textile lines were helped, though less extensively. Better movement of domestic goods and the consequent expectation that mills would need raw material, together with increased activity abroad, sustained cotton.

ICING AND FILLINGS FOR CAKES.

Since the passing of the old-fashioned pound cake, such as our grandmothers used to make, the plain, unadorned loaf cake is not much in evidence, and a very great variety of icings and fillings have been invented in order to give richness as well as variety.

Icings and fillings increase the amount of sugar used in this class of dishes, and for this reason a plain, simple cake recipe is best used for layer cakes. The same mixture may be used for icing and filling the cake. By adding fruits, nuts or different flavorings and colorings to a portion of the icing we may use it for the filling, while the plain mixture is used to ice or cover the cake.

PLAIN ICINGS.

There are several kinds of what may be termed plain icings which are composed simply of sugar and water or sugar and milk with white of eggs, or sugar and fruit juices or wine. Water icing is the simplest, but not much of a favorite with home cake bakers. It is made by moistening confectioner's sugar with enough boiling water to make a paste that will spread easily, adding flavoring and spreading smoothly over the cake with a flexible knife dipped into hot water. A little lemon juice may be used instead of the boiling water. This is called confectioner's frosting or icing.

TO PREPARE THE CAKE FOR ICING.

Cakes can be iced when warm, but it is better to let delicate cakes cool first. Fruit cakes should not be iced until they are to be used, as the icing will turn brown from long standing. When whites of eggs are to be used in the frosting, have them perfectly fresh and very cold. Allow two whites of eggs for a large cake.

Scrape and trim off all brown and loose particles from the cakes to be iced, and dust well with flour. Shake off all that will not cling to cake.

Use granulated sugar for boiled icing.

A very good plan is to cut a piece of pasteboard two inches larger than the cake. Cover this with white paper, place your cake on this and fill and ice. In this way you have a smooth, flat surface for your cake and the margin of pasteboard will catch the icing that may run down or drip from the cake, besides the cake will keep nicely on the pasteboard and is easily handled.

When filling or icing a cake place the mixture by spoonfuls in the center, and work out toward the edge, working swiftly and deftly with a flexible knife. For smoothing the icing dip the knife into hot water to prevent it from sticking.

Set the cake in a cool place to harden the icing.

The cake may be ornamented with piping if desired. This can be done by pressing the stiff icing through little tubes made of stiff white paper.

WHITE OF EGG ICING.

Wet three-fourths of a cup of confectioner's sugar with the white of an egg and two tablespoonfuls of cold water. Beat until it is firm and white then add a little lemon juice or cream of tartar.

PLAIN BOILED ICING.

Put one and one-half cupfuls of sugar in a saucepan with half a cupful of water. Stir until the sugar is dissolved, and then do not disturb. Let boil until it will thread when dropped from a spoon. While syrup is boiling, beat the whites of two eggs to a stiff froth and when syrup is ready pour it gradually into the eggs, beating briskly. Continue to beat until thick and glossy. Add flavoring. To this icing may be added shredded cocoanut, chopped nuts, almond paste or chopped fruits. A little cocoa with vanilla flavoring will make a delicious icing.

FONDANT ICING.

This is a very dainty icing and requires no eggs. It keeps well and cuts smooth. It is made by boiling the sugar as for plain boiled icing, but until it will form a soft ball between the fingers when dropped in ice water. Pour this out on an oiled marble pastry slab or cold platter, and when cold enough to show the impression of the finger, stir it rapidly with a wooden paddle until white and firm. Knead a few minutes like dough. Put into a saucepan, stand over boiling water and stir until it is soft enough to run, then pour quickly over the cake. If too stiff, add a very little boiling water, a few drops at a time, being careful not to make it too thin.

OPERA CARAMEL ICING.

Put one and one-half cupfuls of brown sugar in a saucepan. Add three-quarters of a cupful of thin cream and a level tablespoonful of butter. Boil until a soft ball can be formed by dropping a little of the syrup into ice water. Then remove from the fire and beat until it is stiff enough to spread nicely.

ICE CREAM FILLING.

Soak quarter of a package of any gelatine preparation in quarter of a cupful of cold water until tender. Whip a pint of sweet, double cream very stiff, lifting off the froth as it forms and placing it on a fine wire sieve. Place sieve in a basin and set in the refrigerator or very cold place to keep the cream stiff. When all the cream is whipped, sprinkle over it half a cupful of powdered sugar. Fold in carefully. Flavor with a teaspoonful of vanilla or a tablespoonful of wine. Dissolve the gelatine in a quarter of a cupful of boiling water and strain into the cream; then stir until the gelatine is thoroughly mixed through the cream and the mixture stiff enough to drop, then spread between the layers of cake.

COFFEE FILLING.

Make a cupful of strong, black coffee. Heat to boiling point. Add a tablespoonful of cream and a half a cupful of sugar. Moisten with two tablespoonfuls of corn starch with a little cold coffee and stir into the coffee. Cook a few minutes, then pour gradually into two well-beaten eggs. Stir rapidly and if not thick enough to spread, place over hot water and stir until the eggs are set, but not long enough to curdle. Spread between the layers of cake and ice with coffee icing.

CHOCOLATE CARAMEL FILLING.

Add half a cupful of water or milk to two cupfuls of brown sugar; butter the size of an egg and half a cake of chocolate grated. Boil until thick enough to spread between the cake layers. Chopped nuts and raisins may be used in this filling.

Rains In Northwest and Kansas Caused Opening Weakness.

Stories That Kansas Rains May Interfere With Harvesting.

Duluth Board of Trade, June 8.—The wheat market started out easier this morning under the influence of the abundant rains which fell in the Northwest and Kansas and were regarded as beneficial to the crops. Later there was a reaction on account of the stories that the rains in Kansas may interfere seriously with harvesting operations. The cables showed a decline of 1/4@1/2d at Liverpool. The world's shipments for the week were estimated at 9,000,000 bus, an increase of 581,000 bus.

Trading in futures was fairly active on the Duluth board, and was mostly confined to the September option. July wheat opened 3/4c down, at 72¾c bid, sold at 72¾c at 9:32 and ruled steady, selling up to 73c at 11:15 and closing at 73¼c, an advance of 1/4c for the day. Cash sales were 50,000 bus at the July price.

Cash, to arrive and September flax each rose 1c. Other coarse grains were unchanged in price.

THE CHICAGO MARKET.

An Easier Feeling Induced By Copious Rains.

Chicago, June 8.—Copious rains in the Northwest and Kansas induced an easier feeling in the wheat market today. Trade was largely of an evening up character, however. July opened 1@1¼c lower at 73c and declined to 72¾c. Stories that Kansas rains threatened to interfere seriously with harvesting caused a reaction to 73¼c. Minneapolis and Duluth reported 240 cars against 300 last week and 470 a year ago. Local receipts 99 cars, none of contract grade. The estimates of the world's shipments of wheat and flour for the week are 9,000,000 bus, an increase of 581,000 bus.

Early sellers disappointed at the stiffness of the market, covered liberally and July improved to 73¾c closing firm 1¼@1⅜c higher at 73¼@¾c.

Corn was quiet and firmer on cool weather. July opened unchanged to ¼c lower at 43¾@¾c, and on covering advanced to 44⅛@¼c. Local receipts were 384 cars, 29 of contract grade.

July corn closed easier, 1/4@¼c lower at 43⅛@¾c.

There was a good general trade in oats and there was a show of firmness on outorders. July opened ⅛c lower at 28c on favorable weather, sold down ⅛c and on outside demand reacted to 28¼c. Local receipts were 234 cars.

Provisions were quiet. July pork opened 2½c higher at $14.67½ and advanced to $14.70; July lard opened a shade higher at $8.37½@8.40 and sold to $8.42½; July ribs were not quoted.

Close: Wheat, June, 73c; July, 73⅛@¼c; September, 70¼c. Corn, June, 42¾c; July, 43⅛@¼c; September, 44¼c. Oats, June, 27½c; July, 28¼c; September, 26⅝@¾c. Pork, June, $14.67½; July, $14.67½; September, $14.82½. Lard, June, $8.40; July, $8.40; September, $8.45; October, $8.45; November, $8.32½; December, $8.17½; year, $8.15. MARKET GOSSIP.

Received over private wire of B. E. Baker, grain and stock broker, 307 Board of Trade, Duluth, Minn.:

Chicago, June 8.—Wheat is slightly above yesterday's close. The tone of the market was quiet and steady. The southwest had good rains and the weather bureau predicts warmer weather and showers over the whole Mississippi valley. Indications are that the world's shipments, as shown, will be very large. A fair decrease in the visible is expected. Harvest will begin through the South the coming week. Unless something new develops in the situation with favorable weather we see very little to establish and maintain a bull market. On present conditions we think wheat is a sale.

The corn market was strong on continued cold weather through the West but sold off later on prospects of warmer weather and further rains. Cash demand continues poor and receipts liberal. With favorable weather through this month we are inclined to think the prices will work lower.

The tone of the oats market was steady and fairly strong. The country is the principal support to prices on the basis of poor crop outlook. We are inclined to think with favorable weather through this month the result of the crop will be more than generally expected. Receipts fair and demand moderate.

The provision market was steady and firm. The local speculative buying which has been noticeable the past few days was more disposed to liquidate today. Cash demand continues good but products are accumulating. We look for continued liberal receipts.

The week in real estate has not been characterized by any large deals, but it has been a very good week, according to all reports, and a number of important transactions had their inception this week and will be completed and announced later. Among the number will be some of considerable interest and importance, with others of minor magnitude. While this week has not been prolific in announcements of large transfers, the situation is still full of promise, and the outlook is very encouraging indeed.

W. T. Bailey is figuring on building four handsome frame houses in a row on East First street. The plans are not completed, so no details are ready, but the houses are to be complete and modern and convenient, and they will be a welcome addition to the housing facilities of the city.

* * *

Campbell & Smith have the contract for the 3-story brick building that is to be erected on Michigan street, just east of Third avenue west, on the north side of the street, for E. W. Peet & Son, of St. Paul. Work has already been begun and it will be pushed rapidly. The Zenith Paper company will occupy the building after it is completed. J. J. Wangenstein is the architect.

* * *

Radcliffe & Willoughby, of Duluth, have plans for a 2-story store and flat building, to be erected at Eveleth by M. Shapiro. The building will be of brick and stone, and will cost $10,000. Bids will close June 12.

* * *

The cathedral, at Second avenue west and Fourth street, is to have some improvements on its steeples. Bids are being taken for an extension of the two side steeples, and an improvement of the center steeples.

* * *

The transfer of the Bayha block on East Superior street was recorded today. The consideration was $42,500, the deal being made by G. G. Hartley some time ago. The building was owned by the Connecticut Mutual Life Insurance company, and it was purchased by the Shagomoc company, a real estate corporation controlled by New York parties. The property is described as lot 12, block 3, Central division. It is occupied in part by the News Tribune and by Bayha's furniture store.

Second Issue of 25,000 Shares

OF THE STOCK OF THE

MOUNTAINEER OIL CO.

Went on the Market this Morning

Non-assessable and No Personal Liability.

AT 7½c PER SHARE

Non-Assessable and No Personal Liability.

THE Blue Grass, Mountaineer and Daniel Boone Oil companies were all promoted and managed by the same man. They have different managements and different stockholders, but they were all organized on the same fair basis and all have acquired good oil territory. The Blue Grass Oil Company has struck oil and has a well estimated to be worth at least $50,000. Its stock has been taken off the market. The first issue of the Mountaineer was over-subscribed. The Daniel Boone Company had its stock over-subscribed before the charter had been granted. The first meeting to arrange the deal was held Tuesday evening, and Wednesday noon the stock had all been taken and there was lively trading in it at higher figures before evening.

PEOPLE who say exactly what they have; exactly what they are going to do and then do what they say.

Both M. C. French, promoter, and Walter Fowler, president, of the Blue Grass Oil Co., have just returned from Flat Lick oil district. See what they say:

PRESIDENT FOWLER—"I looked over the Mountaineer and think it good property. Talked with a number of oil men who say the same thing.

MR. FRENCH SAYS: "While my opinion is an interested one, if it has any weight, I have no hesitation in saying that from all I could learn from oil men the Mountaineer properties are among the very best in that district, and I believe will show some good wells. The surroundings and formation are identical with the heart of the celebrated Macksburg gusher territory, near Marietta, Ohio, which produced so much oil. The Mountaineer will, I believe, offer some surprises."

A. M. Denham, field manager Blue Grass Oil Co.: "The Mountaineer, in my opinion, will get some good wells from the start. I should pick it as the very best drilling territory."

Stocks in all oil and mining companies are speculations. The Mountaineer is no exception, but we would like you to compare its organization with a capital of 500,000 shares of $1 each and with 250,000 shares in the treasury, to some of the stocks on the market.

We have good territory; we have an organizaton on a far basis and the following named officers and organizers furnish a guarantee that the property will be well managed:

THOS. H. GLASKIN of the Thompson-Glaskin Co., wholesale, Duluth, Minn.
E. L. BROWN, superintendent of the Northern Pacific Ry., Duluth, Minn.
H. C. HARDING, superintendent Globe Elevator Co., Duluth, Minn.

Why are these three named Kentucky oil stocks in such demand?

Plain enough to any one who will observe. They are not over-capitalized. Most of the stock is placed in the treasury. The companies are not operating in an abandoned district. The several managements are men who have a high standing in the community; the promoter of the companies makes no wild claims, but says so and so will be done and then does it. Experienced men operating in this disrrict, spending their own money to drill wells, suggested the idea to the promoter that if one man or a firm of men could afford to spend their own money, why couldn't capital, organized on a business basis, afford to come together and operate there. The result has been three different companies and a division of risk. One company has struck it rich and one has started its work and from expert opinion expect to strike it rich, and another which will let its contracts within the next few days,

You wait and you will pay more money for this stock. This issue will also be over-subscribed.

This stock is now cheaper at 7½c than when it went onto the market, because the company's assets are worth double what they were when the company was organized. Just send your name and address when ordering. All moneys to be used for the purpose of sinking wells.

The annual banquet of the Irving School Alumni association was held at the school building last evening, and was one of the most enjoyable events that the association has held. Of the 300 members of the association, about 130 were in attendance. The association first held a business session and the following officers were elected: President, George Gilbert; vice president, William Berglund; secretary, Marie Tims; treasurer, Oliver S. Olsen; sergeant at arms, Lottie Mallory. The business session was followed by the banquet, which was an elegant spread.

Many toasts were responded to. President Gilbert made the opening speech of welcome, and in a few well chosen words made all the guests feel perfectly at home. Reginald Graham responded to the toast "The Irving School" in a very happy manner. Miss Alice Gilbert responded eloquently to the toast "The Alumni." Miss Lumly's toast was "The Class of '01." Harry Smith responded humorously to the toast "The Deserters from Our Ranks to the Matrimonial Kingdom." Carl Myrick responded entertainingly to the toast, "The Members of the Irving School Alumni that Have Graduated from the High School." After the feast and toasts, an informal hop was had and the young people had a very enjoyable time. Among those members from outside the city were the Misses Wallace, of Carlton. A number of the teachers of the public schools of the city were among the guests last evening.

W. C. T. U. MEETING.

One of the most interesting meetings of the series given by the West Duluth branch of the W. C. T. U. was held on Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. C. R. Keys. Mrs. B. H. Smith, the leader, opened the meeting with a splendid paper on "Domestic Science." Mrs. Davey, of Duluth, read an entertaining article on the trials and tribulations of a husband when his wife is away from home, and Mrs. W. W. Walker added more to the entertainment by an original poem along the same lines. Mrs. Helen Stewart read an interesting paper on "Art in Domestic Science," and Mrs. Keyes gave the ladies a talk on the subject of "Lentils," illustrating her talk by serving them. One of the features of the meeting was the exchanging of favorite recipes among the ladies and copious notes were taken by each. After the regular program a novel feature introduced by Mrs. Walker was a cake-walk that was entirely new to the ladies and not along the usual exercises of that name. Each lady was given the name of some eminent professional man and had to respond to it with the name of a cake that she thought appropriate to be coupled with it. As an instance, "puffs" were given as a name best suited in cake lore to the newspaper man. The first prize in the contest for the largest number of correct names was awarded to Mrs. Bailey, and Mrs. Cloud won the foot prize. The ladies also planned for their next meeting, which will be a business session for the election of officers and for the arrangement of the annual picnic of the West Duluth branch of the organization. The meeting held yesterday was the last of the series of social meetings planned for the year.

MEMBERSHIP CONTEST.

There has been since January a membership contest under way between the West Duluth Degree of Honor lodge No. 85 and the Duluth lodge of the same order. The contest closed last evening and the Duluth lodge won by just eight members. The ladies of the West Duluth lodge, however, have reason to feel very well pleased by the showing made by their lodge, considering the larger field of the Duluth lodge. The West Duluth lodge, according to agreement, will banquet the victors at Gilley's hall in the near future.

IS STILL ALIVE.

The Central avenue paving matter has not been allowed to die a natural death, but is at present in the hands of Frank Gottwald and Andrew Myles, both prominent property owners with Central avenue frontage. These gentlemen will engineer the paving proposition.

CARD OF THANKS.

We wish to extend our heartfelt thankfulness to friends and neighbors, and Ellen Taucey L. L. O. L. 31, who kindly assisted us in our sorrow over the death of our beloved son Frank.
MR. AND MRS. FRED HAZELTINE.

WEST DULUTH BRIEFS.

T. F. Wieland and Lon Wilkinson, of Bayfield, are expected to arrive in West Duluth this evening.

E. G. Wallinder, left today on a business trip to the Twin Cities and Chicago.

Miss May Mallough returned yesterday from Two Harbors, where she has been teaching for the past school year.

Miss Laumann, of the Irving school, gave her class a picnic at Lester Park today. It was a merry crowd of young people that took the car at West Duluth this morning, and an equally good time is being had by them this afternoon. Later in the day Mesdames N. C. Hendricks and F. E. Bradley went out to the Park with their families for a day's outing.

Owing to repairs in progress on the building, there will be no preaching at the West Duluth Baptist church tomorrow, but the Sunday school pupils will meet at the church at 11:30 o'clock in the morning. A special business meeting has been called for Monday evening to meet at the church.

There will be services at the Norwegian Lutheran Synod church, corner of Fifty-seventh avenue west and Gosnold street, Sunday forenoon at 11 o'clock. Adolph Salverson, pastor.

The Alumni association of the Fairmount school met last evening and initiated a class of eighteen, this year's graduates. The business session was followed by a literary program, and an enjoyable time was had.

Mirray Bros. company, 521 Fifty-fifth avenue west, butter and egg store, will be open Sunday, 8 to 9 a. m. for sweet cream customers.

Pure drugs and wall paper, at Olander's, 228 Fifty-fifth avenue west.

Remarkable results in curing pimples, tan-freckles, serious skin afflictions, is chief cause for popularity of Satin-Skin Cream and Powder, 25c.

Card of Thanks.

We wish to thank our many friends, and also members of Rice's Point lodge, No. 80, A. O. U. W., for the kindness shown us during our late bereavement.
MR. AND MRS. A. L. TETU.

Do not fail to inspect the beautiful collection of oriental rugs to be sold at auction at 5 West Superior St., commencing Monday at 10:30 a. m.

IMITATIONS

In the Food Line and How to Detect Them.

From The Herald Washington Bureau.

Washington, June 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—The people of the United States have been so much imposed upon by the many imitations in the food line, that the passage of the Grout oleomargarine bill during the last session of congress is considered an important step in the suppression of this practice. The Grout bill, it will be recalled, was passed to prevent the sale of oleomargarine and similar compositions as butter.

In this connection the department of agriculture will soon issue a very interesting bulletin, wherein are given, in detail, directions for testing oleomargarine or butter. The bulletin is entitled "Household Tests for the Detection of Oleomargarine and Renovated Butter." It was prepared by O. E. Patrick, assistant in the division of chemistry. It describes the method of making renovated or "process" butter, and refers to the usual methods for distinguishing genuine butter from renovated, and both from oleomargarine.

Two household tests are given—the boiling test and the Waterhouse test. The former has been in use for about ten years, and was originally used only for the detection of oleomargarine, but after the advent of renovated butter the test was found to serve almost equally well in distinguishing this product from genuine butter, although not from oleomargarine.

It may be conducted in the kitchen as follows: Take a piece of the sample about the size of a chestnut, put it in an ordinary tablespoon and hold it over the flame of a kerosene lamp, turned low, with chimney off. Hasten the process of melting by stirring with a splinter of wood; then increase the heat and bring to as brisk a boil as possible. After the boiling has begun, stir the contents of the spoon thoroughly, not neglecting the outer edges, two or three times at intervals during the boiling—always shortly before the boiling ceases. A gas flame, if available, can be more conveniently used.

Oleomargarine and renovated butter boil noisily, sputtering (more or less) like a mixture of grease and water when boiled, and produce no foam, or but very little. Renovated butter usually produces a very small amount. Genuine butter boils with less noise and produces an abundance of foam. The difference in regard to foam is very marked as a rule.

The Waterhouse test, designed a year or so ago by C. H. Waterhouse, at that time dairy instructor at the New Hampshire College of Agriculture and Mechanic Arts, is as follows: Half fill a 100-cc. beaker with sweet milk; heat nearly to boiling and add from five to ten grams of butter or oleomargarine. Stir with a small rod, which is preferably of wood, and about the size of a match, until the fat is melted. The beaker is then placed in cold water and the milk stirred until the temperature falls sufficiently for the fat to congeal. At this point the fat, if oleomargarine, can easily be collected together in one lump by means of the rod, while if butter, it will granulate and cannot be collected. The distinction is very marked. The stirring is not, of necessity, continuous during the cooling, but it should be stirred as the fat is solidifying and for a short time before. The milk should be well mixed before being turned into the beaker, as otherwise cream may be turned from the top and contain so much butter fat that the test is vitiated for oleomargarine.

This test, in a slightly modified form adapted to household conditions, has been quite carefully studied in the chemical laboratory of the department of agriculture, where, under certain specified conditions, it has given satisfactory results in a large number of trials in distinguishing oleomargarine from renovated and genuine butter. These conditions are essential, since under other conditions renovated butter might be mistaken for oleomargarine. The bulletin contains detail directions for conducting the test.

WITHOUT PRESIDENT

Program Arranged at Pan American Exposition For President's Day, Next Thursday, Will Be Carried Out.

Washington, June 10.—Although President McKinley has been compelled to abandon his visit to the Buffalo exposition next Thursday, by reason of the serious illness of Mrs. McKinley, the program arranged for that day, which has been designated as president's day, will be carried out so far as possible in his absence. A number of officials from this city will participate, including Admiral Dewey and Gen. Miles. It is understood Gen. Miles will deliver an address at the exposition on the celebration of flag day next Friday. Camp Heyward, at the Pan-American grounds, occupied by United States marines, was opened to the public today. The marines are in command of Capt. Leonard, who lost an arm during the fight near Tien Tsin on July 15 last while carrying Lieut. Butler from the field, and who, in turn, was carried off by Sergt. Adams. Before the captain's quarters are two guns, souvenirs of the China war. One is a machine gun captured by the marines under command of Maj. Walker, in the Imperial artilery barracks, just outside the forbidden city on Aug. 16 last. The other is a Krupp field piece, captured in the fight in which Capt. Leonard was wounded.

CONFIDENT OF WINNING

American Trap Shooters, Although Badly Handicapped By English Conditions, Believe That They Will Be Successful.

London, June 10.—The American trap shooters had some practice today as a preliminary to tomorrow's contest, but they found the conditions so different from those they have been accustomed to that the shooting of the team as a whole was much below its American average. All the shooting here is down hill. The targets are thrown far and fast and at a much higher elevation than is the limit in America. The rise is also eighteen yards, as against sixteen in the United States. The scores at the first practice were very disappointing. Chauncey Powers, of Decatur, Ill., broke twenty straight in the first event, and then dropped more than half in the next twenty. Fred Gilbert, of Spirit Lake, Iowa, was the only other man to break twenty straight.

E. P. Tripp, of Indianapolis, took nineteen.

Some of the "Old Reliables" fell down quite seriously, but while they scored low the Englishmen scored lower. The Americans are confident of winning.

NOT FITZHUGH, JR.

Lee Killed at Manila Was Another Lee.

Manila, June 10, 6:15 p. m.—The officer named Lee who was killed, not wounded, in the recent battle with insurgents at Lipa, province of Batangas, was Lieut. Lee, of the engineers, not Lieut. Fitzhugh Lee, Jr., as previously cabled.

WILL NOT RECOVER.

Tuscaloosa, Ala., June 10.—Governor W. H. Samford, who has been ill several days, was reported much worse today. It is now feared he will not recover.

ANOTHER DECISION

Declares That Blacklisting of Employes Is Legal.

Chicago, June 10.—Judge Waterman, sitting in the circuit court, today announced a decision that the blacklisting of a number of girls by a stockyards firm was legal. The girls struck last February and the firm affected refused to take them back. The case will be appealed.

WOODMEN

Members of the Order Flock to St. Paul.

Principal Officers Will Be Re-elected.

St. Paul, June 10.—All incoming trains were crowded and many were in several sections today, the rush of visitors to the head camp of the Modern Woodmen of America being well under way. Marching uniformed men filled the streets early in the day and band music was heard on all sides. Camp Northcott, where the uniformed Woodmen are located, is rapidly filling up, and all is ready for the opening of the big convention tomorrow.

Caucuses of 620 delegates representing thirty-one states to be held tonight will practically settle in advance the election of officers except as to the board of auditors. There will be no opposition to the re-election of Head Consul Northcott or Head Clerk Hawes. R. R. Smith, of Missouri, is certain to be head banker. The election of four of the five directors can be predicted with certainty. These are A. R. Talbot, of Lincoln, Neb.; B. D. Smith, of Mankato, Minn.; E. E. Murphy, of Leavenworth, Kan., and C. G. Saunders, of Council Bluffs, Iowa. The fifth member is conceded to Illinois, and the contest is between George W. Reilly, of Danville, and T. F. Hopkins, of Rockford. L. W. Otto, of Crawfordsville, Ind., is also a candidate and opposes the Illinois men. Of the board of auditors A. N. Bort, of Wisconsin, is the only one reasonably sure of election, and there is a hot fight between a dozen candidates for the remaining four places on the board.

SIGNIFICANT REMARKS

Testimony In the Kennedy Trial Shows That the Prince Family Had Previous Intention of Injuring Kennedy.

Kansas City, June 10.—When court reconvened today in the trial of Lulu Prince Kennedy for killing Philip Kennedy, her husband, the defendant, who collapsed Saturday during the taking of testimony, was again in the dock. She appeared pale and worn, however, and her counsel expressed the opinion that she "would not be able to continue the strain for any length of time."

Details of the wedding of Kennedy and Miss Prince at the court house were brought out by the first witness, Jack Caldwell, who stated that he was told of the affair by William Prince. According to witness, Prince said Kennedy had replied to congratulations: "I will not be a live man three weeks from today." Prince had retorted, according to witness: "Well, you have prolonged your life by this marriage."

Two witnesses told of seeing Miss Prince and Will going toward Kennedy's office on the afternoon of the shooting. A newspaper reporter told of a call from Mrs. Kennedy and her brother Will after the wedding. He said they wanted Kennedy "roasted" through the press.

E. J. Curtain testified to a conversation with C. W. Prince, the father, who mistook witness for a reporter. Prince, he said, declared: "I was not going to let this man jilt my daughter. If things do not go right, you will have a good deal more sensational things to write about."

LOSSES OF THE BOERS

Kitchener Reports That 2640 Boers Were Killed, Imprisoned or Surrendered During the Month of May.

London, June 10.—Lord Kitchener, in a dispatch from Pretoria under today's date, says the number of Boers killed, imprisoned or surrendered during the last month totalled 2640. From June 1 to June 9 26 Boers were killed, 4 were wounded, 409 were made prisoners and 33 surrendered, and 651 rifles, 115,550 rounds of ammunition, 120 wagons and 44,000 horses were captured.

SIEGE OF PEKIN.

An Address Delivered By Rev. F. D. Gamewell.

Clifton Springs, N. Y., June 10.—The address before the International Missionary union last evening was delivered by Rev. F. D. Gamewell, of China, who took for his subject "The Siege of Pekin as Seen by a Missionary From Inside the Breastworks." His remarks were all based upon personal investigation. At a platform meeting today, the subject was "Medical Missions, Their Value in Opening the Door of Opportunity for Evangelistic and Other Works." All the speakers were agreed upon the good points of this work, owing to its influence to establish faith between the heathen and the missionary.

FARMER SUICIDES.

H. M. Engle of Rochester Hangs Himself.

St. Paul, June 10.—A Rochester Minn., special to the Dispatch says: H. M. Engle, a wealthy farmer living near the city, committed suicide by hanging himself in his barn while his family were away on a Sunday school picnic. No cause is known for the act.

VACANCIES FILLED.

Gen. Miles' Son-in-Law Gets a Position.

Washington, June 10.—The vacancies in staff of Lieut. Gen. Miles, commanding the army, caused by the death of Lieut. Col. Francis Michler and the transfer to the inspector general's department of Lieut. Col. H. K. Bailey, have been filled by the assignment of Lieut. Col. Samuel Reber for duty as military secretary and the assignment of Lieut. Col. M. P. Maas to duty as aide de camp. Col. Reber is Gen. Miles' son-in-law.

MANAGER OF MINES.

Steel Trust Representative on Menominee Range.

Marinette, Wis., June 10.—It is reported here that O. C. Davidson, of Florence, Wis., has been made general manager of the Menominee range mines of the United States Steel corporation. Mr. Davidson is credited with having made $400,000 out of the sale of the Aragon mine at Norway. He had a one-eighth interest in it, which was given him for developing it.

FEELING OF RELIEF

By Reason of Mrs. McKinley's Continued Improvement.

Distinguished Patient Is By No Means Out of Danger.

Condition Fluctuates and Danger Is In a Relapse.

Washington, June 10.—After the usual consultation of Mrs. McKinley's physicians this morning, the following statement was issued:

"Mrs. McKinley's physicians report that her condition is favorable, and that she continues to show a gradual improvement."

The continued improvement in Mrs. McKinley's condition, reported by her physicians, is noticeable at the White House in a perceptible relief from the intense anxiety that has existed here for the last ten days. Although she is by no means out of danger, and there is constant fear of a relapse, for the present she seems on the up grade, and the president is more cheerful. He saw a few callers today, and to his visitors expressed his encouragement. While Mrs. McKinley's condition fluctuated, he said, she is feeling better this morning than she had for some days.

TO END WAR

Emperor William Consents to Take a Hand.

Settlement of Boer Trouble Is In Sight.

Berlin, June 10.—The Kleines Journal today prints a dispatch from The Hague, saying that Queen Wilhelmina's recent visit here was meant to obtain Emperor William's consent to end the South African war, both the Zwibund and the Dreibund being willing to do so, through The Hague arbitration court, and that the emperor consented, and the court will work thereon. The dispatch has created a sensation here.

The Associated Press has just obtained the following foreign office statement, which is authorized by Count Von Buelow, the imperial chancellor:

Neither Great Britain, France nor Russia ever approached Germany to participate in any action aiming at ending the South African war. Germany has all along distinguished between offering her good offices and intervention. To render her good offices would be possible if both parties to the war requested it; but it will be remembered that Great Britain only joined The Hague conference on condition that the Boer states were excluded. There is no doubt that Mr. Kruger, who is a serious statesman, came to Europe to obtain the good offices of several powers to end the war, but there is also no doubt that Great Britain does not want their good offices. At least it is true that since the South African war began Great Britain has never, either verbally or in writing, confidentially or officially broached such an idea. It is quite possible that the Boer side has now formally asked The Hague arbitration court to lend its aid to end the war somehow, and that the court has held a session regarding the matter; but that, of course, is entirely different from any steps to end the war."

New York, June 10.—A dispatch to the Tribune from London says: The war office authorities say they have received no news of a meeting between Gen. Kitchener and Gen. Botha, near Standerton, last Wednesday, and the report of a tentative settlement between the British and Boer commanders is consequently discredited in official quarters. Mrs. Botha's arrival in London has, nevertheless, revived peace rumors, to which publicity has been given on several occasions recently. It is impossible to say what exactly is going on, but the general opinion is that there must be some foundation for the rumors. Mrs. Botha's visit is still shrouded in secrecy, and although it is freely stated that she is on a peace mission, no definite information on this point is obtainable at present. On the whole, the opinion of the newspapers this morning is that Mrs. Botha's visit to Mr. Kruger can at best exercise but an indirect influence upon future peace negotiations so long as the Boers persist in holding out for better terms than were offered at Middleburg. There does not seem the slightest ground for the statement which appeared in the Weekly Dispatch that Mrs. Botha was received, on Saturday, at the colonial office, then by Lord Roberts at the war office, and afterward by Mr. Brodrick.

The Hague, June 10.—Mr. Kruger and Dr. Leyds arrived here today. They drove from the railroad station at Hilversun Junction in a closed carriage and are staying at the residence of Mr. Wolmarans, one of the Boer peace envoys.

London, June 10.—The Sun hears that Mrs Botha starts Wednesday for The Hague, where Mr. Kruger has been summoned to attend a conference of the Boer agents in Europe and the United States to consider the report Mrs. Botha has brought from her husband, in which he advises Mr. Kruger, as the head of the Transvaal, to sue for peace and the best terms obtainable.

DOUBLE TRAGEDY TRIAL

Murderers of Detective Fitzgerald and Grocer Kahney Placed on Trial at Pittsburg--- One Pleads Guilty.

Pittsburg, June 10.—The trial of John and Edward Biddle and Walter Dorman, alias R. D. Wilcox, for the murder of Grocer Thomas D. Kahney and Detective Patrick Fitzgerald, was opened today. The Biddles entered a plea of not guilty, but Dorman created a surprise by pleading guilty. The terrible double tragedy, for which the defendants are held responsible, occurred on April 12 last. For weeks preceding, the city was terrorized by a series of burglaries and robberies. Kahney was shot down in his home while standing unaremd in his night clothes and Fitzgerald was killed a few hours later while attempting to arrest the defendants. The wives of Edward Biddle and Walter Dorman were arrested at the same time and will be tried on charges of receiving stolen goods.

The defendants will be tried separately and the case of John Biddle was called first. It is expected that Dorman will turn state's evidence.

WORK OF FIRE BUG

The McKay Fire Believed to Be Due to Incendiarism.

Phillip Bates, Reported Possibly Burned, Is In St. Paul.

Young Lad Arrested For Setting Fire to a Barn.

Another mysterious fire destroyed about $6000 worth of property yesterday morning. There are many threads in this mysterious blaze that lead to the theory of incendiarism.

The building burned was the feed store of D. S. McKay & Co. at the corner of First avenue east and Michigan street. It was filled with hay, straw, feed and about 250 barrels of oil. The oil did not burn, but otherwise the contents will come under the head of a total loss, while the building is probably damaged beyond repair.

Within the last six weeks there have been six fires in this neighborhood and four of them have originated very mysteriously. There was no person in McKay & Co.'s barn and it was locked securely. There was no fire in the store and the proprietors and authorities are at a loss to explain how the fire could have started, unless an incendiary touched it off with a match.

There was considerablo excitement yesterday owing to a report that Philip Bates, a teamster, had been burned in the building. The rumor was without foundation, as young Bates is in St. Paul. He left for that city on Saturday night and his parents received a letter from him last evening. He knew nothing of the fire.

A member of the police force says that he saw young Bates around the McKay building at 4 o'clock Sunday morning, but others say that they were with him as far as Foxboro on the train for St. Paul Saturday night.

The contents of the McKay store had a valuation of $3500 and the building was valued at $2500. The stock was insured for $1500 and the building for about $1000.

Oscar Lundquist, a 12-year-old boy, was arrested this morning by Detective Irvine, charged with setting fire to an old barn at the corner of Piedmont and Third street, yesterday afternoon. Young Lunquist lives at 304 Nineteenth avenue west and was arrested at the Adams school.

He admits that he was responsible for the burning of the barn, but says that it was accidental. He lit a match, according to his story, and the head broke off and went into the hay.

To offset this story a woman living close by the barn says that she saw Lunquist run up and throw something in the barn and then run away. A moment later she saw smoke issuing from the building.

Owing to the county attorney's absence from the city no steps were taken to prosecute Lundquist, this morning, but it may go pretty hard with him.

OBJECTS TO SALE.

H. N. Mc Harg Brings an Injunction Proceeding.

Horatio N. McHarg Saturday morning began a suit in district court against Odin Halden as county auditor to enjoin his from selling a second time for taxes some property that was bid in at the forfeited tax sale held in 1899.

The property consists of somo acres in 67-20, and the taxes for 1894 and 1895 were due when the property was bid in at the 1899 forfeited tax sale for $100 by the Duluth Banking company. Antoine Bashin was the owner of the property, and he subsequently gave the Duluth Banking company $150 for its title, and he sold the land to McHarg.

McHarg alleges that though the county has received $100 for the taxes, which originally amounted to a little more than $4 for both years, and has refunded the money to nobody, the county auditor has included the property in the forfeited tax list and is about to sell it again. He wants the court to enjoin him from doing so.

A good deal of property is similarly situated, and if the court should grant the plaintiff's request a serious issue may be raised. J. W. Reynolds is McHarg's attorney.

BUYERS HERE.

Lumber Brokers In Duluth But Small Sales Reported.

During the past week a number of lumber buyers from the East have been at the head of the lakes to look over the lumber stocks and select particular cuts, but no sales of importance have been made yet. Shipments are going steadily forward, notwithstanding that stocks are pretty well broken. The first of the new cut will soon be ready for shipment. It is claimed that the statement made by a local shipper about ten days ago that the new cut was sold up to August does not apply to all the mills; that while there are a few manufacturers that have disposed of their product for a couple of months ahead, there are some that have not yet sold a stick of this year's cut. The market is considered in very good condition and sales are talked of as far away as the September cut.

The John O'Brien Lumber company has sold 800,000 feet of culls on the docks at Ashland to Buffalo parties, and the lumber is to be shipped immediately. The lumber is said to have brought a price between $8000 and $9000.

The tug Van Raalte has towed to Ashland from the north shore of Lake Superior a raft of 1,200,000 feet of logs belonging to W. H. Gilbert. These are the last of a consignment of 4,000,000 feet and will be sawed at Ashland.

While the Duluth Log Salvage company is active in this district, the Lumber and Low Owners' association, of Ashland, is looking after the interests of its members as well, and has just let the contract for picking up stray logs on the beach of the lake from Iron River on the west to the Montreal river on the east, including the Apostle islands. C. M. E. McClintock and George Wilkinson, of Ashland, have taken the contract. They will be given $5.25 a thousand feet for all the logs found on the beach.

Reports from North Dakota points indicate that the lot of the retail lumber merchant is a hard one at the present time, as the crop outlook is uncertain. None of the dealers have any stocks to speak of and do not care to buy until crops shall be assured. If North Dakota has a good crop this year, it is predicted that the demand for lumber will be something enormous.

Preparations are being made by the Itasca Logging railway to extend its road this coming fall to a distance of about twelve miles farther north. The road now reaches north from Deer river about twenty-two miles, and the extension will be an important one, penetrating a territory containing about 50,000,000 feet of standing pine. It is claimed that the ultimate destination of the big logging road is the international boundary, and the people of Deer River are said to regard the road to the north as one of the factors that will in the future make Deer River a railroad junction of considerable importance.

IS STILL ON.

Scott-Graff Hearing Is Not Yet Concluded.

The case of James C. Hunter, a stockholder, against the officers and directors of the Scott-Graff Lumber company, to secure the appointment of a receiver in order that the plaintiff may get the rights he claims the officers have withheld from him, was still on in district court before Judge Dibell today. This morning the cross-examination of the company's officers by the plaintiff, under the statute, was completed. The plaintiff then proceeded to the introduction of its testimony, James C. Hunter taking the stand, which he retained most of the morning. He told of the acts of the company's officers, of which he complained. On cross-examination he was asked what he meant by his charges that the officers were attempting to despress the value of the stock against th interests of the minority holders, and he said that he meant the inventory that was made before the last annual meeting, which put most of the assets in at less than they were worth. He also said that while the company had earned 40 per cent on its capital in two years, nobody was bidding on the stock except the president of the company, and he was bidding low rates. He also said that no dividend had been declared.

The case was still on trial at noon.

BRICK HIT HIM.

Ed Welsh Gets Crack on the Head.

Hit on the head with a brick, Ed Walsh was unconscious for seven hours, at police headquarters. The blow nearly killed him, but he brought the trouble on himself by taking a cheap watch from Ed Dunlevy while the latter was asleep in a Lake avenue saloon.

Ed McMillan, an innocent bystander, was also injured by flying bricks.

The fight took place under the Lake avenue viaduct, about 6 o'clock last evening. Dunlevy met the other two men there and accused them of taking the watch. They denied it. The longshoreman refused to accept their denials and landed on Welsh's dome of thought with a brick. Welsh hit the sidewalk with a thud and didn't come to till 1 o'clock this morning.

The first thing he did when he woke up was to deny all knowledge of the watch. He was very sure that he had not stolen it. The officers, however, had removed the watch from Mr. Welsh's clothing some hours before.

The police still have Welsh in custody charged with larceny. As a result of the difficulty the proprietor of the saloon in which the robbery occurred will probably be arrested fo keeping open on Sunday.

Bloomer Girl Excursion.

Although Sunday was not a particularly inviting day on which to make an excursion on the water, quite a number of people from Duluth and Superior boarded the new steamer Bloomer Girl for a trip "around the horn." An orchestra furnished music, and with the exception of the cold a good time was enjoyed. A slight mishap furnished a novelty for the trip, the steamer grounding when near the natural entry, and having to be pulled off by a tug, which was near at hand. The Bloomer Girl is an ideal boat for excursions, and will undoubtedly prove very popular this summer. She is commodious and comfortable and rides the waves like a duck.

TO SETTLE IT

Said to Be Reason Why County Board Adjourned.

The adjourned meeting of the county board took place this afternoon, when it was expected that the members would come to some agreement on their dispute over the "divying" of the road money for this year. Indeed, it was rumored at the court house that the adjournment from Saturday morning to this afternoon was for the purpose of permitting the members to get together and agree on the matter so as to keep the dispute from making too public an appearance. It was also reported that an agreement had been reached, but the members of the board not only denied that any agreement had been reached, but that there had been any particular attempt to make one. The board was a trifle late in gathering this afternoon, and nothing had been done up to a late hour.

Automobile Ran Away.

Miss Agnes England, formerly of Duluth, had a very narrow escape in an automobile runaway in New York last week. She and a friend were on their way to the Casino when, at the corner of Thirty-ninth street and Broadway, the operator lost control of the automobile. It dashed down Broadway, colliding with a truck, which was knocked to one side. Just as it caromed off the truck it hit a cab, throwing the occupants of both conveyances out on the street. The operator of the automobile was seriously injured, as was the driver of the cab. Miss England sprained her wrist quite badly.

DESERTER

Is Defended By His Wife, Mother and Daughter.

Cleveland, Ohio, June 10.—A lively fight occurred in one of the corridors of the court house over the cstody of a deserter. Last Sunday Alfred W. Behnke was arrested by Detective Aaron Goldsmith on the charge of deserting from the Forty-fourth artillery. Behnke began habeas corpus proceedings to secure his release, claiming he was under age when he enlisted. The judge held that the prisoner was illegally held without commitment papers, and ordered him discharged.

Behnke made a break for the door, but seeing Corporal Comerford was waitting to arrest him as soon as he got out of the court room, went back and sat down. Behnke and Corporal Comerford played a game of freeze-out for some time, but the former would not stir from the room. After Judge Strimple adjourned court, Comerford decided to arrest Behnke in the court room. Detective Goldsmith started to place him under arrest, but Behnke's wife and mother who had seated themselves upon his lap, resisted the advances of the officer. Attorney J. P. Hardy, also representing Behnke, also took a hand in the scuffle, and tried to protect his client from the hands of the officer. Judge Strimple ordered the court room cleared.

Behnke's mother and wife, the latter crying, piteously seized his arms, and the three started from the court room. When they got outside the door, Goldsmith again tried to arrest Behnke, but he made a hard struggle, and was assisted in his efforts to escape by his mother and one of his friends. The detective, with the assistance of the corporal and Sergt. Lester from the recruiting station and two or three court bailiffs, finally got Behnke away and hurried off with him.

State Building Dedicated at the Pan-American Exposition.

Buffalo, June 10.—Although not so designated, today was really a day for the people of Michigan at the Pan-American exposition, it being the occasion of the dedication of the magnificent structure erected by that state from material brought from Michigan and by labor imported from that commonwealth. The contractor formally turned over the building to President George H. Barbour, of the Michigan commission, who in turn transferred it to Governor Bliss for the people of the state. The governor delivered an address accepting the building, and giving his views of the Pan-American exposition and its importance especially in developing trade with the Latin-American countries.

Congressman Washington Gardner was the orator of the day. The ceremonies were interspersed with music by one of the exposition bands.

Silvery Tongued Minneapolis Attorney to Speak on Fourth.

Has Accepted Invitation of the Committee on Oratory.

General Committee to Hold Meeting Tomorrow Evening.

Hon. R. G. Evans, of Minneapolis, will be the orator at Duluth's great Fourth of July celebration. He has accepted the invitation of the committee on oratory, and those that have heard him speak say that the committee is extremely fortunate in securing him.

Preparations for the monster celebration are well under way, though the various committees could stand a little better financial response from the citizens.

The committee on transportation has succeeded in getting unusually low rates of transportation from the range and other towns. The excursion tickets will be good for four days, and the excursion promises to be the largest that ever came to Duluth.

It is probable that a reviewing stand will be erected on East Superior street in front of the city hall. This stand will be occupied by distinguished guests.

The general committee in charge of the celebration will meet tomorrow evening at the city hall and the attendance of every member is earnestly desired.

LOWRY ON THE SCENE

Will Use His Persuasiveness With Superior Officials.

Effort Will Be Made to Reach an Understanding.

Denies That He Has Sold Twin City Line.

Thomas Lowry, the Minneapolis street railway magnate, and President C. G. Goodrich, of the Duluth-Superior Traction company, arrived in the city this morning on a visit of inspection of matters in general relating to the street railway interests of the head of the lake. The immediate object of their visit is for the purpose of holding a conference with the city officials of West Superior regarding the street railway improvements in that city. Messrs. Lowry and Goodrich were joined at the Spalding this afternoon by Luther Mendenhall, the local director of the Traction company, and Attorneys Frank A. Ross and W. D. Dwyer, who represent the company's legal interests in West Superior. In company with Manager Warren, the party left this afternoon for the visit across the bay.

When seen just before leaving the city, Mr. Lowry said it was too early to outline the company's policy regarding the proposed improvements on Belknap street, in West Superior, over which the present trouble has arisen, but he would be able to say more regarding it after conferring with the city officials over there, and learning the grounds of opposition to the improvements planned.

The street railway company has been for many days distributing ties, steel and gravel along the East End line in West Superior to Superior, and was about to begin operations by tearing up the narrow guage tracks to lay the broad guage, when the city authorities threatened to stop the work by getting an injunction preventing the company from tearing up the pavement on Belknap street. It is calmed that the opposition arose over the report that the company intends to put down a single track with numerous switches, instead of a double track, to Superior, but from other sources it is claimed that the action of the city officials was taken because they thought Mr. Lowry intended spending more money in street railway improvements in Duluth than in Superior.

Public sentiment over the action of the city officials is divided, and many of the citizens are very much disappointed over the threatening attitude taken by the administration. The meeting to be held is for the purpose of reaching an agreement between the street railway company and the city administration so that the work may go on. The officials took with them this afternoon a copy of the plans of the intended improvements, which will be explained to the Superiorites.

When asked if there was any truth to the Associated Press dispatches regarding a report that he had disposed of a large share of the stock of the Twin City Rapid Transit Street Railway company to Canadian capitalists, Mr. Lowry replied:

"There is no truth in the report. Not one share of the stock has been sold. The control and management of the company will remain as heretofore."

This afternoon Mr. Lawry wired the same information in answer to an inquiry from one of the Twin City papers.

Mr. Lowry expressed pleasure at seeing the new car service between the two cities installed and in good running order, and was also pleased to learn that the new service is satisfactory to the traveling public, as indicated by the increased patronage ever since the new cars have been running. The last of the new cars was put in service yesterday, and by last evening all ten were operating.

President Goodrich said there was nothing definite yet to give out regarding the service that will be installed on the incline railway since the burning of the power house at the top of the hill and the destruction of one of the hill cars. The company is yet awaiting the reports of its engineers.

THE FERRY HULL.

Its Removal Is Asked By City.

The board of public works has asked Capt. Gaillard to procure the removal of the hulk of the tug E. P. Ferry, which lies in the bay not far from the canal pier, on the south side. It is a curious feature of the laws of the United States that a wreck can be abandoned by the owners anywhere and the government cannot force them to remove it. This tug belonged to King & Steele, and they left the hulk lying where it was burned. The government must do the rest, but will, of course, claim any value there may be in it. Congress makes an annual allotment for the removal of wrecks. Capt. Gaillard has referred the request to the department at Washington.

Made Fast Time.

The 10-mile bicycle record over the London Road course was shattered yesterday afternoon by a team of West Superior riders. They rode a triplet over the course in 24:45, which is 1:35 better than the state record held by Robert McCreary of St. Paul.

However, the Superior riders do not change the McCreary record. The time given is not official, and it was a team race. McCreary's time was 26:10.

At Park Point.

The Park Point Auditorium was a popular place of resort yesterday in spite of the cold weather. About 800 people were at the concert, and the ladies' orchestra, which was heard last Sunday, again played and made another hit. There were solos by a number of the members. A large fire in the fireplace made the place very comfortable. Next Sunday the Third Infantry band will play.

RUN AT LARGE

Lakesiders Tell of Their Troubles With Cows.

The Lakeside people are reaching a stage of mind which means a visit to the council chamber with wrath in their minds, if the spirit they now harbor continues to grow. It is all on account of the nuisance of allowing cows to run at large in that suburb.

It is not very long ago that the matter of the appointment of a poundmaster was brought up by these people, and for lack of funds to maintain an officer exclusively for that purpose it was decided to have the street commissioner, John Butchart, perform the duties which usually devolve upon a poundmaster. The Lakesiders did not believe that would prove satisfactory, and experience has confirmed them in this belief.

Yesterday a herd of fifteen or twenty cows were running at large, trodding down and eating up gardens, biting off budding trees, eating up hay and doing much damage. Mr. Butchart was sent for and D. A. Reed and C. E. Van Bergen offered the use of a couple of lots they had fenced in for a pound. The cows were placed in there.

Later in the day the people in the neighborhood, who had their gardens and yards damaged by the stray cows, learned to their great surprise that Mr. Butchart had turned the animals over to their owners as fast as they called for them without asking a cent of damages or exacting any penalty.

They claim that this is the sort of poundmaster service Mr. Butchart has been giving. One of the men interested stated this morning that he had been unable to learn of a single case where fines have been asked, and had, in fact, heard of cases where the commissioner had been kind enough to take stray cows home to their owners and be satisfied with their thanks for so doing.

All this the good people of Lakeside claim is not calculated to make the owners of cattle have very much respect for the law or for other people's property or feelings.

LEGS CUT OFF.

Alexander Ross Fatally Injured on Alger-Smith Road.

Alexander Ross, brakeman, was fatally injured at 10 o'clock this morning on the Duluth & Northern Minnesota road, fifteen miles north of Knife River.

He was brought to this city two hours later and taken to St. Luke's hospital, where he died a short time afterward.

Owing to the isolated place where the accident occurred particulars could not be learned. Both of the unfortunate man's limbs were cut off some distance above the knees, and during his few hours of life following the accident he suffered terrible pain.

The supposition is that Mr. Ross fell down between two cars on one of the Alger-Smith logging trains. He was about 35 years of age and is said to have been unmarried.

Very little is known of the accident or of Mr. Ross' relatives.

CONFESSED.

Mineral Point Bank Robber Finally Admits His Guilt.

The package of currency containing over $5000 which is all that is now missing, is hidden in a clover field some five miles from town. The prisoner was taken out there yesterday but was somewhat turned about and could not locate the exact spot. He was taken to the field again today and a search is now in progress.

IN DANGER.

Bishop Cotter of Winona May Not Survive Operation.

St. Paul, June 10.—A Dispatch special says that Bishop Cotter of Winona, who was yesterday operated on in a Rochester, Minn., hospital, has some chance for recovery. The bishop's secretary, Father Cummiskey, telegraphs:

"Bishop resting easier and doctors are beginning to entertain hope of his recovery. Grave danger lies in the fact that out of twenty-three operations of this kind, twenty-two have been fatal."

AS REAL ESTATE.

Street Railway Franchises Are Taxable.

Trenton, N. J. June 10.—The supreme court today decided the case of the mayor and aldermen of Newark, against the North Jersey Street Railroad company, holding that franchises in New Jersey are taxable as real estate thus adding to the state revenues several million annually.

NOT COMING.

Former President Kruger Will Not Visit States.

Washington, June 10.—It is understood that former President Kruger, of the Transvaal, will not visit the United States during the coming summer or fall. At one time there was a prospect that he might make such a visit, but those having some knowledge of his intentions say the visit will not be made, at least for the present.

WILL GET FOUR PER CENT.

Washington, June 10.—The controller of the currency has announced that within the next two weeks a dividend of 4 per cent will be declared to the creditors of the First National bank of Vancouver, Wash., which failed several weeks ago.

COST LIVES.

Manila, June 10.—Enemy encountered by Capt. William H. Wilhelm, of the Twenty-first infantry, with fifty men of that regiment, were met six miles southeast of Lipa, in Batangas province ,and consisted of more than 200 of Malvar's followers, supposedly the command of Gonzale. The insurgents were defeated, but their losses have not been reported. eYsterday a troop of the First cavalry was pursuing them. During the engagement Lieut. Anton Springer, of the Twenty-first infantry, was hot and killed. Lieut. Lee, of the engineers, was shot in the head and bowels and soon died.

Capt. Wilhelm was wounded in the shoulder and Lieut. Charles R. Ramsey, of the Twenty-first cavalry, was shot in the left side. Both of these officers are seriously wounded. In addition, two sergeants were seriously wounded and one private was wounded.

The American officers were planning to attack a force of the rebels which was ahead of them, when they were fired on from one side.

The Washington tariff decision has been received by the United States Philippine commission, but the commissioners are unable to say yet whether the results will require a continuance of the military government. The conditions offered to Gen. Cailles, the insurgent leader in Lugana province, are not changed. They are uniform with those offered to other insurgents accused of murder.

NOT JOINTLY.

Washington, June 10.—The government formally communicated to the foreign powers the impossibility of joining in a joint guarantee for the payment of the Chinese indemnity. The difficulties in the way of such an arrangement are set forth in the communication, particularly those relating to the constitution restrictions on the president in making a joint guarantee of this nature.

In view of the determination of the United States, there is anxiety shown in diplomatic circles as to the outcome on the question of indemnity. One view is that the majority of the powers being favorable to a joint guaranty, will execute this joint instrument, and thereafter carry on a concert of their own. In that event, it is said the United States would arrange directly with China as to the American portion of the indemnity. The representatives of most of the powers do not believe that a resort to The Hague tribunal, as proposed by the United States, will be acceptable to their governments.

Tell Them How to Farm.

Uncle Sam is ever willing to aid and instruct his good people. As an illustration the experts of the agricultural department are actively engaged in instructing the natives of our new possessions in the science of farming. It is only a matter of time before the primitive methods of raising the various products of Porto Rico, Hawaii and Alaska will give way before the modern and approved systems as advocated by the scientists employed by Uncle Sam. Agricultural experiment stations have been established in Alaska, Porto Rico and the Hawaiian islands. There are three stations in Alaska—one each at Sitka, Kenai, in Cook inlet, and Rampart, in the Yukon valley. Professor C. E. Georgeson is in charge of the stations and is doing good work by co-operative experiments with the natives. He furnishes seeds of a number of kinds of vegetables and fruits, together with instructions as to how they should be grown. As far as possible these are put in the hands of people connected with the Alaskan commercial companies and the missionaries, as they would see that they get the best chance to develop. The experiment station in Porto Rico has headquarters at San Juan. A large station has been established at Honolulu and a report from there states a large area of land is being cleared preliminary to inaugurating a series of experiments. It is the intention of Secretary Wilson in the work in Hawaii and Porto Rico to look after the interests of the small farmers rather than helping the great sugar planters. He feels that the most important thing is to try to diversify the industries of those islands and help the people of small means to establish themselves in an independent condition. Therefore all the work will be in the line of demonstrating what fruits, vegetables and other products can be grown to the best advantage in the respective localities, and also to distribute information that will aid the people in producing the very best varieties.

Reports of Railroad Accidents.

Some surprising facts are expected to be brought out as soon as the new law requiring reports, with full details of all railroad accidents, by the companies, goes into effect. The interstate commerce commission is now sending out three sets of blank forms to be used in submitting these reports to them. Heretofore the commission merely received statements of the number of persons killed and injured in railroad disasters. It has always been believed that only a small percentage of the injuries thus sustained found their way into the official reports, and at the last session of congress passed an act broadening the powers of the commission for getting fuller information on this point. A new system for securing data was adopted and will go into effect July 1. This requires a notation to be made and forwarded to the commission of every accident, collision or derailment involving an injury to an employe or traveler, or damage to equipment to the amount of $150. Failure to make such reports shall be deemed a misdemeanor and is punishable by a fine of $100 for each offense. This may have a tendency to cause the railroads to "loosen" on the information desired, but it is somewhat doubtful. The fine has no terrors for them even if they had to pay, which is doubtful, and they have looked upon the suppression of news of accidents as their sacred right for so long that it will be hard to cause them to change their customs.

A REPUBLICAN MOSES.

A ghost dance is in progress in the Republican party. This dance is the preliminary function to the great act of taking the scalps of Congressman Babcock and all Republicans who aid, abet or give him comfort. Babcock is now regarded as the arch enemy of the protection-made trusts, and they do not propose that he shall live and have his political beng within the sacred councils of the Republican party. As he was elected a member of the Fifty-seventh congress, they cannot oust him from his seat, but they will attempt to oust him from his old poston as chairman of the congressional committee, and see to it that at the new distribution of plums Babcock's name will not be mentioned in connection with any committee of importance. In this the machine-made leaders count on the election of one David Henderson, of Iowa, as speaker. Henderson has not been a success as a speaker, except in one way—he has done his best to keep the party in line with the senatorial bosses. Under his regime the house of representatives has fallen from the high estate that characterized it when Blaine, Crisp and Reed were in the chair. It is now a largely conglomeration of nincompoops, whose highest ambition is to stand in with the administration that they may have the pleasure of handing out the official pie to their admiring constituents.

Henderson may be re-elected and he may not be re-elected. If there is a conspiracy to discipline Babcock, the machine may find that it has a mighty big job on its hands. This tariff heresy is permeating the entire Republican system. The representatives of the West and Middle states will not dare remain quiet on the question of tariff reduction. They were elected on the promise that something would be done to control the trusts and as nothing can be done except to remove the tariff from all trust-made goods, the people will demand that. The press of the country, without regard to previous political bias, is with Babcock in this fight, and it but reflects the almost universal opinion of the masses.

The most ardent protectionists, those who were of the opinion that the first duty of a nation is to protect its infant industries, have come to the conclusion that the United States does not contain many infants of that order. The fact that foreign markets have been invaded and the tariff of transportation paid, and then the goods sold cheaper than they are sold here at home, is conclusive proof to the average mind that it is time to remove the tariff and open up the markets of the country to the world.

Another factor is to have a great deal of influence on the policy of this government. The nations of Europe will not brook American competition as long as their goods are kept out of our ports by a high tariff. While The Herald does not place much stock in the rumor of a European combine to repel the threatened American invasion, it is plain to the most casual observer that unless we indulge in a revision of our tariff schedules and enter into, and carry out, reciprocity treaties, we will find the markets of Europe absolutely barred to our trade, and our dream of commercial supremacy will vanish into thin air.

It is to be expected that every industry, whether it be an infant or an adult, will raise a howl. There will be the old combinations, the old lobby. Each congressman will attempt to save the trusts of his district, and will, no doubt, be willing to enter into any compromise to save his skin. The congressmen will be found in line with their especial pets which need more protection. The fight will be a hot one, but it must be settled at the next session of congress, or the Republican party will be obliged to retire.

There may be an echo of the financial discussion of the last five years; there may be, and no doubt will be, an issue involving the foreign policy of the United States. The constitution will come up for vindication, but the question of all questions to be settled at the next election will be that of the tariff. It will be fought out on a new line. It will be opposed for its effects. It will be laid aside as a garment that is worn out and is of no further use, indeed, as a garment that is not only useless, but one that is full of disease germs. Congressman Babcock is the Moses that circumstances have called to lead the Republicans out of the clutches of the Egyptian trusts. Will the tribes follow him?

RARE HEROISM.

The public is naturally inclined to connect heroes with the army or navy. This is probably due to the fact that they attain greater notoriety by reason of the publicity given their deeds of daring. There are many, many heroes, brave men who risk their lives for others who are not connected with either of the two great organizations. A most remarkable instance of individual heroism is brought to public notice by the issuance of a gold medal by the life saving department to Keeper Griesser, of the Buffalo life saving station. The records of the department contain many accounts of gallant rescues of shipwrecked sailors and passengers, but they are all surpassed by the conduct of this keeper. A scow had been wrecked off the life saving station and one of the men was clinging to a pile in a most dangerous position some distance from shore. The life boat had been launched and capsized repeatedly, and it was found that it was impossible for it to live in the heavy sea. Griesser then attempted to carry a line to the man by swimming and was finally successful. The bravery of the life saver is well told in the words of Superintendent Kimball of the life saving service in a letter to Keeper Griesser, accompanying the medal. He says:

"You were still uninjured and bravely persisted in your purpose, being repeatedly driven shoreward, but gradually gaining ground until, in the course of some fifteen minutes, you reached a pile standing sixty or seventy yards from the beach, where you held on for a few moments of rest. This was the only pause you made during the entire operation of rescue, which consumed three-quarters of an hour. After somewhat recovering your breath, you renewed the battle and, although severely buffeted and many times beaten back from 100 to 200 feet, you still kept a stout heart. Sometimes, when an ugly comber would have lifted you up and carried your rearward on its crest, you dived beneath it and, taking advantage of the undertow running in your favor, maintained your progress. Physically weaker men could not have endured the strain, while men less brave, although of equal trength, would long before have given up. At length, getting sufficiently near, you threw to the man the end of the line, instructing him to make it fast about his body and then to let go his hold and drop into the water. He had only sufficient strength to secure the line about his wrist, however, and before he could leap into the water the waves caught and fouled the bight of the line among the piling. At the same time you were nearly 100 feet away and for once a fear entered your mind that you might fail after all. The imperiled man was begging piteously for you to save him and crying out that he could hold on but a few moments longer. To the people on shore it seemed as though both of you must certainly perish. Baffled, but neither vanquished nor dismayed, you still persisted, regained your lost ground and at the end of fifteen minutes of very dangerous work cleared the snarl. Then upon the signal the man let go of the pile, while scores of persons at the other end of the line pulled him with a rush to the beach, where he was picked up unconscious. When you were satisfied that no further mishap was likely to befall him, you struck out for the land, which you reached without aid, but so exhausted you could not stand. It appears that while engaged in effecting this extraordinary rescue, involving great courage, physical exertion and mental anxiety, you were considerably injured by coming in contact with a floating telegraph pole that passed over you two or three times, inflicting heavy blows upon your back. In view of this fact and al the other extremely adverse circumstances, it would seem incredible, but for indisputable evidence that you performed the marvelous feat, which was, indeed, effected only a the extreme peril of your life."

Such heroes are rare and the recognition of such bravery is most fitting.

There is a probability that E. H. Butler, proprietor and editor of the Buffalo Evening News will be the Republican candidate for mayor of the Pan-American exposition city this year, and certainly the Republicans of Buffalo could not find a better man for the place. Mr. Butler is a man of great ability and his record is clean. Evidence of his business ability is furnished by his successful management of the News, which is one of the most prosperous newspapers in the country. As a member of the grade crossing commission he has indicated his capacity to hold the position and his backbone in standing out against the schemes of powerful combinations hostile to the city's interests.

COMPANY C WAY UP

Ranks Second Among Companies of State at Inspection.

Third Regiment Completed Thirty Miles By Friday Evening.

Roads Not Good But No Complaints Are Heard.

Eriksonville, June 7.—(Special Correspondence.)—Glad news reached camp last night from the adjutant general's office. Company C of the Third regiment won second place among the National Guard companies of the state in the recent inspection. The ratings have not been officially announced, but this is authentic.

Already there is a movement on foot to have Company C challenge the ranking company to a competitive drill.

The regiment reached here in good spirits, having just turned the 30-mile post from Millaca. We expect to camp on the shore of Mille Lacs lake this evening.

The health of the regiment is excellent. The boys have not a single complaint to make. The rations are of good quality and sufficient quantity, and great care has been taken to select healthy camping grounds. This has not been a very easy task, owing to the almost continuous fall of rain since we left Milaca.

Last night we camped on Rum river, twenty-one miles from Millaca. There was wild excitement among the members of the band when they heard the name of the river early in the morning. They were determined to reach it before noon, and as a result the regiment had to step lively.

The band, by the way, continues to grow in favor among the members of the regiment. The outside companies are loud in their praise of the new organization, and the Duluth companies are very proud of it.

Members of Company A are distinguishing themselves by excellent service and field work. Capt. Eva's men seem to be enjoying the march about as much as any.

The members of Company C did something rather generous for their driver last night. Owing to the bad condition of the road his wagon broke down and his services were no longer needed by the state. He was an old soldier, and the breaking of his wagon deprived him of the means of earning a few dollars. He was obliged to return to his farm, near Milaca, but before he started out the boys took up a collection and presented him with a generous sum.

The Mille Lacs Indian reservation is one mile from this town, and the regiment will march across it this evening.

The roads are still in very bad condition, but the weather has warmed up a little.

The regiment may reach Brainerd on Monday evening, and the following day the range shooting will be taken up on a splendid range prepared by Company F of that city.

A pleasant feature of the march is the good will shown the boys by all the farmers and lumber camps. The American flag has been unfurled in front of practically every house and camp along the route, and the people have greeted us with enthusiasm.

Brainerd, Minn., June 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—Company C, of Duluth, reached here on Sunday night at 11 o'clock, having finished the march from Milaca two days ahead of the regiment. It was the intention to go into camp ten miles from here last night, and reach here Monday noon, but this fell through on account of the supply wagon going astray, leaving the boys without blankets or rations. This caused a forced march of twenty-five miles, from Garrison to Brainerd, which was covered in nine hours. The boys stood the hike very well, despite the bad condition of the roads and excessive heat. Company C will leave for St. Paul today in time for their show Tuesday night, and join the regiment here again on Wednesday, when the entertainment will be repeated. The Brainerd militia company have arranged for plenty of amusement for the boys while here. All well.

Civil Suit Begun at Escanaba Against a County Officer.

Escanaba—Benjamin Laduc has filed notice of an action in circuit court to recover $10,000 damages from Richard E. McLean, a member of the county board and superintendent of the I. Stephenson company at Wells. The suit grows out of an assault which McLean is alleged to have committed upon Laduc some time ago. Criminal action against McLean was at first proposed, but it was afterwards decided to bring a civil suit for damages. The case will probably come up for trial at the July term of circuit court.

L'Anse—A new depot is promised L'Anse if the necessary right-of-way can be secured from S. L. Smith, which is quite probable. W. J. Stafford, roadmaster for the Duluth, South Shore & Atlantic railway, was in town and said that the railroad company was ready to build a new depot a short distance west of Fall river, which will bring it out of the way of possible run-away trains. The desired location would also put the station on a level and straight track, making it better for stopping and starting trains. The new site will be the same distance from the postoffice as the old one and will be more easily approached because of a more favorable grade.

DAILY STORY.

THE LAST NIGHT.

BY JOHN VANDYKE.

(Copyright, 1901, Wm. R. Miller.)

The man under sentence of death was John McWilliams, only 25 years of age, and the prison warden had detailed me to act as his death watch by night. The condemned could have brought a hundred witnesses to testify that he was honest, peaceable and industrious and that he had never before laid hands on a man in anger. He was one of those men whom it takes a great wrong to arouse, but when aroused is a demon for the moment. In his fury he had killed the man who had slandered him and robbed him of his sweetheart. The law had taken no cognizance of his wrongs. He had shed blood and blood was demanded in return. There was no bravado about him. He was very quiet and calm, but also very earnest as he said:

"My whole life was wrapped up in Mary. With her gone there is nothing to live for. It is your duty to watch me, but you need not fear that I shall cheat the gallows. I shall be nervous when the day comes, but I shall meet my fate like a man."

McWilliams had a sister named Kate, a pretty black-eyed girl of 18. They were the only ones left of the family and she kept house for him. There was true affection between them and his troubles made a wreck of her. I saw her in court and afterwards as a visitor to the prison, and her misery was pitiful to behold and touched the hardest hearts. After the death-watch was set, of course she was no longer allowed to see the condemned and it went very hard with her. She tried to discover new evidence to move the governor's heart to grant a commutation of sentence, to enlist public sympathy and avoid a disgraceful death, but all her efforts were futile. When she was finally forced to realize that there was no longer any hope she came to me, knowing that I was on the death watch, and besought me to carry poison to her brother—poison or whatever else might save him from the gallows. I pitied her from the bottom of my heart, but I could not do what she asked, though it had been just as well had I complied and boldly acknowledged it afterwards. When she found she could not move me she said:

"You refuse me, but I tell you that John shall not die on the scaffold. If men will not help me to prevent it God will."

I went on duty each night at six in the evening, and to pass the hours away we played cards, solved puzzles and talked of this or that. It was always about 11 o'clock before the boy lay down to sleep, and as a rule he slept soundly until 6 in the morning. As the prison grew quiet, with never a mouse or cricket or other moving thing, and as I sat in my chair with my eyes on the sleeper, it took will power to keep me from shouting out in my nervousness. And as the time drew near, when only hours separated the condemned man from the hangman's rope, we were both glad—because he had wanted the end to come—I because the strain on me was to be removed.

"Well, it's tomorrow," he said, with a faint smile as I entered his cell for the last time. "I am not afraid, and as I expected to be, am I think I shall sleep as well as on any other night."

I tried to be cheerful. You may smile at the grimness of it, but it was my duty to keep the morrow out of his thoughts and prevent nervous collapse. If a man has got to die he should not die like a craven. We got through the evening fairly well, and at the usual hour he lay down to sleep. To my surprise, for I had seen others toss about and sigh and moan, he was soon fast in slumber. It was a deep, peaceful sleep, and as I bent over him I was amazed to see what a change had taken place in his face in an hour's time. It had paled and softened 'till it was like the face of a woman, and there was something spirituelle about it, as if the soul had already passed over the border. I wondered and pitied and went back to my chair with my heart aching. Did I presently fall asleep? Was I brought under the influence of some subtle spell? As I told the board of inquiry the next day, and as I tell you now, I sat there watching and wondering and thinking of this and that when John's sister Kate suddenly appeared in the cell. She was dressed in the deepest black and weeping. I had heard no footsteps—not a rustle—not a sound. How could she have gained admission to the prison at that hour? How could she have reached the death corridor? How opened the cell door, of which I had the key in my pocket? And yet she was before me, with her black dress brushing my knees and giving me a creepy feeling. She looked at the sleeping figure and then at me, and her voice was full of reproach as she said:

"You would have let him die on the gallows, but I will not. I told you God would help me, and He has done it. I am here to kill him with my own hands."

I tried to reply to her, but not a word would come. I tried to rise from my chair, but could not move a limb.

"Poor John," she sighed, as she bent over the sleeper and placed a hand on his forehead.

I looked for him to start up and clasp her in his arms and express surprise at her presence, but he slept on and I could hear his soft breathing in the silence.

"You did right to kill him, John," continued the sister. "You did what a man should have done, and they shall never say you died by the rope. I am here to save you from that. Good-bye, dear, and may God be merciful to you."

What she did I could not see, as her back was towards me, but I was powerless to prevent. It seemed to me that she stood there for a long five minutes, but at last she turned away with a sob in her throat and was gone as a shadow goes. I cannot say how long she had been gone when I sprang up and bent over the condemned. It needed but a glance to show that he was dead, although the flesh was still warm. As I touched the alarm bell to arouse the prison I looked at my watch and saw that it was 1 o'clock. The turnkeys and the warden came and they found all the doors locked and the boy dead. The doctor was aroused from his sleep, but it was of no use. They charged me with having been bribed and with having fallen asleep and they laughed in scorn at my story of the sister's presence. And yet, when an autopsy was held, no doctor could tell what had caused death, and it soon came to be known that the sister had committed suicide by drowning at the very hour I thought she stood before me in the prison cell. I lost my place in disgrace, and I was ridiculed and lied about and hounded out of town, but you who have read this will know that I did not deserve even the mildest censure. I had been true to my duty, but I had the world beyond to deal with.

Three Phases In the Bank Muddle at Canton, S. D.

SOUTH DAKOTA.

Canton—There are three phases to the Canton state bank muddle. Attorney Jesse Boyce, of Sioux Falls, is seeking to make George W. Stride a preferred creditor. It this is done it will take all the cash in the bank at the time of closing. Then, if the attachments hold, only those who got in early will realize from their deposits. If the attachments are declared void and a receiver appointed, depositors will probably realize 40 cents on the dollar. Next Monday Judge J. W. Youmans, of Sioux Falls will continue the postponed hearing on the motion to dissolve the attachments against the bank.

Deadwood—P. C. Carberry has been found guilty of perjury in the famous Caddy case and will be sentenced July 1. This was his third trial.

Faulkton—Ed Clifford, H. J. Perry and Joe Coleman, Faulk county stock raisers, have each recently completed an artesain well on their farms. P. H. O'Neil is having an artesian well put down on his ranch. The depth required in this county is from 1000 to 1100 feet; cost from $500 to $1000.

Yankton—Oscar Olson and his young cousin, both living near Gayville, were struck by lightning and knocked to the ground. The younger Olson escaped without serious injury, but the other received a terrible burn across the forehead.

Aberdeen—D. M. Birdseye, of this city, writing from the Grand River Indian school, where he is superintending the erection of buildings, gives an interesting description of the manner in which the Sioux Indians celebrated Memorial day. The principal speakers were Drs. Ward and Walker, of New York city, Miss Collins, who has charge of the schools, acting as interpreter. After the speaking and singing the Indian children and many of the adults carried flowers to their cemetery and decorated the graves of their dead. For the most part, wild flowers were used, but some had artificial blossoms. They did their part with a peculiar quiet dignity that was very touching. It was noticed that especial attention was paid to the grave of Little Eagle, an Indian policeman who was killed at the last attempt to capture old Sitting Bull.

Sturgis—A man sick with small pox arrived in this city in a box car, having been placed aboard by people at Piedmont, a short distance down the line. The stranger came from Crawford, Neb., and arrangements are being made to return him to his home.

NORTH DAKOTA.

Steele—A general rain fell in this town last week. The government gauge showed a precipitation for the day of 1.02 inches. The ground is well soaked and flax seeding will now go on. Wheat and other grains will revive. The greatest concern has been for the grass, as it was dying, or curing in the stack.

Fargo—The Fargo fire festival is over and Fargoans are determining results. The rain that marred the first day's program was so welcome for the crops that no one kicked. The second day was an improvement and the last was just about what the committee would have ordered. The last day's program went through without a hitch, and the magnificent showing of some features of the secret society parade will long be remembered. Last evening was devoted to band concerts and mardi gras features.

The State Dental association held its annual meeting here. Dr. Ramsey of Grand Forks was elected president, Dr. Smith, of Langdon, vice president; Dr. Herrick, of Fargo, secretary; Dr. Hellenberg, of Fargo, treasurer. Another meeting for business work, and a special session, will be held later at the call of the officers.

A PATRIOTIC CANARY.

Has Learned to Whistle "Yankee Doodle."

Chicago, June 10.—Louis M. Hedges, of this city, has just purchased a canary that whistles 'Yankee Doodle" through without a break. Mr. Hedges was recently traveling through Missouri, and in St. Joseph he encountered the bird, which was the property of an old shoemaker named O'Brien, and secured it, paying $1200. It appears that O'Brien, while sitting at his bench, pegging shoes, continually whistled "Yankee Doodle." The bird, suspended in a cage above, finally mastered the tune and now whistles it from morning to night. Mr. Hedges contemplates giving the patriotic little canary to one of the big hospitals for the amusement of the inmates.

TOO LOUD RAIMENT.

The Castellanes Are Barred From a Cathedral.

Paris, June 10.—Attired in gorgeous bicycle costumes, Count and Countess Castellane sought entrance to the cathedral at Rouen and were stopped by the sexton. Count Boni wore a scarlet sweater, black breeches, gorgeously variegated socks and a bicycling cap that fairy shrieked. The countess wore a black sailor hat, a red sweater of more subdued tone than that of the count, a black short skirt and black stockings and shoes. Two other couples, aristocrats and members of the Castellane party, were also barred for the same reason.

The count was furious. He protested shrilly at the top of his voice for twenty minutes, but the sexton was firm. At last the count and countess went to the palace of the bishop to seek permission from him to enter the cathedral in their outre togs. In response to the card and request of Count Castellane, the bishop sent word that he could see no reason why the sexton should be overridden. Then the count proclaimed that he would complain to the minister of public worship in parliament, demanding that the bishop be censured.

PROVES A PUZZLER

Young Cummings, High School Pitcher, Makes Great Showing.

Allows Superior Only Three Hits---Strikes Out Five.

Duluth Takes One Game and Superior the Other.

Young Cummings, the high school sophmore, who has been taking a course in geometrical curves, sprung his theory of speed progression on the Superior academy of batting science, Saturday, and it proved extremely puzzling.

He is a great young twirler. For six innings Superior didn't get a hit. Then Chase pushed out a scratch between first and second, which would never have counted with fast fielding. In the eighth, Hall and Hurley drove singles into right field, and those were the only three times that Superior succeeded in connecting safely with the curves of the young high school player.

Cummings' work was the feature of the game. He struck out five men, accepted five chances without an error, and his timely single in the eighth brought in the last run.

Si Bennett did some phenomenal fielding out in left. He is even faster in the outfield than he is in the infield and pulled down three drives that looked good for triples. He accepted five chances without an error.

Shepard's pretty stop of Augustine's terrific drive in the eighth was another feature of the game.

Duluth won the game in the first inning by scoring three runs, on two hits and three errors. Superior would have been shut out had it not been for Andy Porter's daring base running.

The detailed score of Saturday's game is as follows:

| Duluth— | R | H | P.O. | A | E |

Superior won a rather slow game yesterday at Oneota park. The weather was too cold for fast playing and any poor work on either side was certainly excusable. If the dark ages were any darker than yesterday it would be hard to convince the few spectators of the fact. Occasionally a streak of brilliant playing zigzagged through the gloom. Features of the Duluth playing was Connors' wonderful one-handed stop in the first, and Hansell's base running. The score by innings was:

Duluth ..... 2 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0—2
Superior ..... 2 1 0 2 0 0 0 1 x—6

Batteries—Glenney and Sturgeon; Hanley and Scott.

CITY LEAGUE GAMES.

Two Games Played at Oneota Park.

Despite the cold, disagreeable weather, there were two games in the city league yesterday. At Oneota Park in the morning the Marshall-Wells team defeated the Leithhead Drug company by a score of 11 to 7. The game was replete with sensational plays by both teams. The work of Manley and McCabe for the hardware men and that of Menelee and Ryan for the druggists was particularly brilliant. The score was:

Marshall-Wells ..... 1 1 0 2 0 5 0 2 *—11
Leithhead ..... 0 0 1 3 0 1 6 0 2—7

Batteries: Marshall-Wells—Bainbridge and Manley; Leithhead—Menelee and Robinson.

In the afternoon the Hub team won a wierd game from the Kelley Hardware company by a fierce uphill fight. In the sixth inning the Hubs scored 15 runs. The score was:

Hubs ..... 1 2 0 4 6 1 5 2 1 —20
Kelley Hardware ..... 1 7 8 0 2 1 0 1 5—25

The standing in the City league is as follows:

The Tigers Win.

The Tiger baseball team defeated the Marshall-Wells Rivals at Woodland Saturday afternoon by a score of 11 to 12. Up to the sixth inning the hardware people had the lead when the Tigers by a terrific batting streak came out in the lead and kept it to the end. The pitching of Thrall of the Tigers was the feature of the game. The line up was as follows:

| Tigers— | | Marshall-Wells— |
|---|---|---|
| McKenzie | catcher | Ericson |
| Duncan and Thrall | pitcher | Bumskle |
| J. Harrison | first base | Leslie Roy |

EXERCISES.

Closing Program of St. Anthony's German Catholic School.

The commencement exercises of St. Anthony's German Catholic school were given at the Sixth Avenue theater last night, and a large audience of friends and relatives of the pupils attended. The entertainment was very creditable, and the pupils all appeared to good advantage. The program opened with a chorus number, "Welcome, Kind Friends," by the school. Ed Mueller, Frances Keller, Anna Roth, William Toben, Clara Fiebeger and L. Peffer took part in the program.

The drama, "Der Schwabenstreich," was given, with the following pupils in the cast: Anton Gruesen, Paul Schultz, Stephen Zettel, Edward Mueller, George Teske, Carl Gruesen, Peter Schaffer, August Piering, George Klietsch and John Murtinger. An operetta, "The Comedy of Errors," was given, and the following took part: Emma Sabrowski, Florence Beck and Sadie Schubisky. Katherine Fieberger was accompanist.

Father F. S. Kosmeri spoke briefly in the German language. He complimented the pupils on the splendid entertainment they had given, and on the work done by them during the school year just closed. They had worked hard and accomplished much, and the progress they had made in their studies must have given their friends much joy. Speaking to the parents and relatives of the pupils as well as to the children themselves, he said that they must study to be Christians as well as to acquire book knowledge, for Christianity is the fundamental principle of learning. The mind and the heart must go together. A truly great nation must train the little ones first of all in the true religion, and that principle followed out makes up the welfare and virtue of all nations. History shows that the nations that forgot their God fell. America should rule the world, but to prevent its following in the footsteps of the empires that have gone, we must not forget our religion.

Father Kosmeri also complimented the sisters for the way they had conducted the school during the year. The honor pupils were then given premiums and marks of distinction. The following is the list of prize pupils:

Premium for conduct, Master Paul Schulz; distinguished in conduct, John Bernhardt, John Schaefer, Willie Roth, Anna Schulz, Clara Fiebiger, Emma Labrowski, Emma Fink; premium for catechism, Miss Mary Zettel; distinguished in catechism, Stephen Zettel, Peter Schaefer, Henry Gruesen, Henry Kaltenhauser, Anton Bernhardt, Joseph Gruesen, Anna Mileck; premium for speaking German, Anna Roth; premium for German, Miss Magdalen Keller; distinguished in German, Anton Gruesen, Mary Mileck, Bertha Schmaus, Anna Fink, Mary Gruesen, Hedwig Labrowski; premium for general progress and application, Miss Florence Beck; distinguished in general progress and application, William Toben, Frank Schlender, Geo. Beck, Sadie Schubisky, Teresa Fiebiger, Frances Keller, Lizzie Schulz and Anan Grumpmann. The remaining pupils who also received pictures were: Anton Bernhardt, John Billmeyer, Helen Billmeyer, Anna Clement, Hedwig Graesner, Herman Graesner, Carl Graesner, Lillie Gruman, Rose Hetzelberger, Mary Heidemann, Fred Jackell, Clara Kaltenhauser, George Klietsch, Alfred Klietsch, Willie Keller, Lambert Keller, Bernhardt Mantley, Lena Mergener, Edward Mueller, Gertrude Mueller, John Murtinger, Frank Miodzik, Mary Miodzik, Lawrence Peffer, Anna Piering, August Piering, Willie Piering, Henry Roth, Henry Sabrowski, Hedwig Sabrowski, Adam Schaefer; Anna Schmaus, Albert Schulz, Edward Schlender, Ella Schlender, George Teske, Stanislaus Tscharnott, Mary Tscharnott, Gertrude Toben, Lizzie Zettel.

Board of Editors of the Zenith.

HANS HAROLDSON. JESSE BRADLEY.
HARLAND WENTWORTH. ALICE SCOTT. CARSON SMITH.
DONALD ROCKWELL NELLIE OBER. RUTH MARKELL. EDWARD PAYNE.
CULVER ADAMS. MARY MORRIS. WILLIAM ROSE. MARY BARTLETT. JOSEPH PIERCE.

Tomorrow morning at the High School the long-looked-for and much-talked-of Zenith will make its appearance. Already about 400 of the 1000 copies have been disposed of. The publication of the annual by the graduating class of the high school has been the custom ever since 1892, and the one prepared by the class of '01 outclasses all of its predecessors not only in the beauty of its general appearance and the artistic effect produced, but also in the contents which have been very effectively arranged. The board of directors were elected early last fall and are: William Rose, editor in chief; Harland Wentworth, business manager; Hans Haroldson, assistant business manager, and Miss Alice Scott, artist. The associate editors are: Mary Morris, Ruth Markell, Nellie Ober, Mary Bartlett, Donald Rockwell, Joseph Pierce, Culver Adams, Jesse Bradley, Ed Payne and Carson Smith. It is to their untiring efforts that the book is what it is.

The 1901 Zenith contains about 150 pages placed inside of an exceedingly pretty cloth cover of pearl gray, with the name stamped in gilt letters on the left side and also an enlarged copy of the class pin in the class colors, blue and red, with a gold border. The book is profusely illustrated with zinc etchings and half-tones. The inner cover is embellished with a picture by Joseph Pierce, while on the first page is the high school yell. There is a portrait of Professor C. A. Smith, to whom the book is dedicated, and the dedication is as follows:

"TO OUR PRINCIPAL.

"For you who feel most interest in our work,
The inspiration of our greatest thought,
Indulgent, though the love of mischief lurk,
Nor sympathizing with us each for naught,
This little book of ours was gladly wrought.
It tells the story of the many days
We've tried to master lessons you have taught.
You'll be most proud if it deserves some praise;
If not, you'll say it did its good in many ways."

Half tone pictures of the Zenith board and the class follow, with the names of the faculty and members of the board of education. The senior reveries, jokes and editorials occupy eleven pages. There are two very good cuts, one by William Wing and the other by Miss Alice Scott, in this section.

Covering the juniors' contribution of thirteen pages is a full page drawing by Miss Phoebe Cole, in which the "Winged Victory" is used. A poem, "The Senior as He Sees Himself," is excellent, as is the creed of the juniors, in which they believe in themselves, their own ability, infallibility, respectability and liability, and, incidentally in the probability of their teachers' gullibility. A poem, by Louis Zalk, is very good, and a short sonnet on "The Princess," dedicated to Professor E. K. Smith.

The sophomores' section occupies sixteen pages. A good account of the cane rush, which took place between the sophomores and freshmen, takes up a part of this ection. Some of the rules and regulations governing freshmen follow:

I. A freshman shall remove his hat whenever he comes in sight of the High School building, within eight rods of a professor or five rods of a senior.

II. A freshman shall not play with any upper classman. In case of a personal insult, a sophomore may call up a freshman and discipline him, etc., etc.

Ten pages are filled with the freshmen notes. "The Ballad of Little Johnny" is very good. An essay on "School Management," by Haroldson, '01; "On the York Road," a story of Cromwell's time, by Frank Cane, are excellent. "A Frontier Romance," the prize story, by Mildred Cleland, is very interesting.

A section on athletics, with the picture of the '00 champion football team, the Literary society and the two Greek Letter fraternities complete the book.

Taken all in all, it is an eminently successful publication, and deserves to be in the possession of all the high school students and their friends.

The Zenith is on sale at Seecamp's and Hirsch's cigar store.

Memorial Day Decoration.

The Woodmen of the World celebrated the anniversary of their memorial observance yesterday and fitting exercises marked the observance in this city. Those taking part were Zenith camp No. 5 and Duluth camp No. 8 and members of the Woodmen's auxiliary. The Woodmen went to Forest hill cemetery, where a beautiful ceremony was held and the graves of members of the order were decorated with flowers. Hon. H. H. Hawkins was the orator of the day.

Home From Philippines.

William Prince, Peter McDonald and Jacob Lakri, of Virginia, George A. Holmes, Charles W. Holmes and Victor Larsen, of Duluth, who have been serving in the Philippines, returned on Saturday. The Holmes brothers are sons of J. W. Holmes, of this city, and Larsen's home is at 310 West Second street. The boys were mustered out of the Forty-fifth infantry, which arrived in San Francisco on the transport Sheridan May 18. They speak in the highest terms of their officers.

SYNDICATE GETS IT.

Rumors of Transfer of Twin City Rapid Transit.

Minneapolis, June 10.—The Times says: The control of the Twin City Rapid Transit company, it is stated on good authority, has passed from Thomas Lowry to a syndicate of Toronto capitalists. Mr. Lowry says he has not sold a single share of the stock of the company.

The deal, which has been pending for two months, is said to have been engineered by a firm of Montreal bankers in behalf of their Toronto clients. What price was paid for the stock cannot be learned, but the market reports quote Twin City common stock at 85.

C. D. Goodrich, the vice president of the company, when asked about the reported sale of the road, referred all inquirers to Mr. Lowry, who insisted that there had been no transfer of stock.

The Times informant also said that according to the plans, Mr. Goodrich as well as W. J. Hleid, the general manager of the system, would retire. Mr. Lowry, it is said, will remain the nominal head of the system, but would devote his attention to the Soo road, of which he is president.

The stock of the company is composed of $4,000,000 7 per cent preferred and $16,000,000 common.

CHILDREN'S EXERCISES.

Lakeside Presbyterian Church Observes the Day.

Yesterday morning, at the Lakeside Presbyterian church, Children's day exercises took the place of the regular services, and in point of numbers and efficiency, were the best that have yet been given. The church was beautifully decorated, the back platform being a mass of plants and cut flowers, and the front trimmed with evergreens and evergreens were plentifully sprinkled throughout the auditorium. Three canaries in cages, one at each side and one in the center of the church, sang their sweetest songs during the hour's services, and seemed to give a challenge to the children to see who could sing the loudest. The primary school pupils were accommodated on the platform, the girls all in white, and they completely filled the space alloted to them.

The exercises began by the singing of a hymn, in which the congregation joined, and the primary class then sang a "Flower Song." Some more singing and recitations by the younger children, mostly in classes, took up some time, and then Grace Robertson, a little tot, gave a recitation, the primary exercises finishing with the graduating of four girls and one boy into the Sunday school proper, the test being the repeating of the Twenty-third Psalm and the Lord's Prayer.

Miss Skoug oppened the exercises of the advanced class by giving a recitation, and Fred Myers followed with "Dare to Do the Right." Mrs. McDowell's class rendered the Twenty-fourth Psalm, and Mrs. Ferguson's class sang "Jesus Loves the Little Children." "Sword and Plow" was recited by Miss and Master Heidenburg. Mrs. Holbrook's class gave a very pleasing recitation, "The Boys of the Bible." Edith Coventry and Marie McDowell also gave pleasing recitations. Master Stanley Lamb, a visitor at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Bell, of Lakeside, sang "The Holy City" with fine effect.

Mr. Manley, superintendent, closed the exercises by a short address, thanking the parents and children for their presence, and soliciting, on behalf of the Sunday school fund, a liberal contribution. He emphasized the great good that was being accomplished by the Sunday schools, and asked the question, What would be the condition of the country if the schools were wiped out of existence. The contributions amounted to $35.29.

STRIKE ORE.

Neil McInnes and David Adams Make a Find.

Ore has been found on section 3, 58-15, between Mesaba and Biwabik, and the finders, Neil McInnes and D. T. Adams, will probably get wealth out of it. The mine is located two miles southwest of the Stephens mine. The ore is brown hematite, and is the first of that variety in that district. It runs about 66 per cent iron and is very valuable. It is a hard ore and there is none like it elsewhere in that vicinity. The fee of the land is owned by E. M. Fowler, of Detroit, and others.

Three drill holes have been put down and one is in 100 feet of the hard, brown hematite. The other two are in ninety-one and ninety-two feet of the same ore.

MYRKLE & HARDER.

CABLE FLASHES.

The conservative members of the Cuban constitutional convention are absolutely confident that the Platt amendment will be accepted and that several radicals will join with the fifteen delegates who have heretofore voted in favor of acceptance. The last few days seem to have brought about a decided change in the attitude of delegates.

Elder, Dempster & Co., of London, offer to pay the traveling expenses of the official delegates of any British trades unions willing to go to the United States to study American trade methods.

A mob hooted the Corpus Christi procession of 8000 persons at Belfast Sunday afternoon. Several rushes were made and finally the police was compelled to charge the crowd, a number of persons being injured. Many were placed under arrest. The excitement continued for several hours.

An American named Constantin Scandal, was robbed on Chambery railway while asleep by three fellow travelers between Modane and St. Michael. Recognizing the thieves at Saint Jean Di Maurienne, he pursued them across the country and they jumped into the river Arc, where all were drowned.

The grand steeplechase de Paris, four miles and a half furlong run at Auteuil was won by Calabrais with Carriman second and Viau third. Thirteen ran. President Loubet was enthusiastically cheered by immense crowds on his arrival at the race course and his departure.

Mr. W. S. Whedon, cashier of the First National Bank of Winterset, Iowa, in a recent letter, gives some experience with a carpenter in his employ that will be of value to other mechanics. He says: "I had a carpenter working for me who was obliged to stop work on account of being troubled with diarrhoea. I mentioned to him that I had been similarly troubled and that Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy had cured me. He bought a bottle of it from the druggist here and informed me that one dose cured him, and he is again at his work." For sale at Boyce's drug store.

Wheat Declines Sharply Under the Bearish Crop Influence.

Duluth Board of Trade, June 10.—It is but a few days since there were reports of serious drouth in Kansas and great damage to the growing crop. Now there have been liberal rains and the crop killer who must still have an occupation is killing the crop by excess of rain, for there were stories from Kansas today of too much rain. All over the wheat country there were liberal rains yesterday and the outlook is generally fine. From London came the report that there were heavy rains in South Russia and that a splendid harvest was assured. There was a decrease of 1,056,000 bus in the amount of wheat on passage and the world's shipments were 7,414,000 bus as compared with 4,472,000 bus last year. The visible supply showed a decrease of 1,640,000 bus. Primary receipts of wheat were 788,000 bus, last year 689,000 bus. Shipments 429,-000 bus last year 348,000 bus. The first car of new winter wheat was received in Chicago from Oklahoma.

Receipts at Duluth and Minneapolis, 551 cars, against 686 last week and 776 last year. Chicago receipts, 99 cars, 12 of contract grade.

Chicago declined ¾@7/8c and Minneapolis 1¼c.

Cash sales were 30,000 bus at July price. Coarse grains were very inactive. Rye declined ½c but beyond that there was no change in price from Saturday.

THE CHICAGO MARKET.

Wheat Opened Easier and Recovered Losses.

Chicago, June 10.—On steady cables and favorable weather, wheat opened easier today, but on moderate covering recovered most of the loss. July opened a shade to ¼@¼c lower at 73⅝@73½c, declined to 72⅝@73c and rallied slowly to 73¼c. Trade was extremely dull. There were reports of damage by heavy rains in Kansas. The board's cables showed a decrease in amount on passage of 1,056,000 bushels, compared with last week. Minneapolis and Duluth reported 554 cars against 663 last week and 776 a year ago. Local receipts were 99 cars, 12 of contract grade.

Control of the market, under limited demand passed to the bear element and July declined to 72⅝c. The close was easy and ⅞@⅞c lower at 72⅜c.

Corn was extremely dull. July opened a shade to ⅛@¼c higher at 43⅝@43¾c on better cables and fear of crop damage, rallied under buying by local shorts to 43⅞@44 and reacted to 43¾c. Local receipts were 432 cars, 17 of contract grade.

July corn closed steady, ⅛c higher, at 43⅝@¾c.

Oats were easier on rains. July opened unchanged to ⅛c lower at 25@25⅛c, and held steady. Local receipts were 318 cars.

Demand for lard gave marked strength to the whole provision list. Hog receipts were under the estimate and prices at the yards were higher. July pork opened 20c higher at $14.87½ and reacted to $14.75. July lard was up 7½c at the opening at $8.47½ and advanced to $8.55. July ribs opened 10c better at $8.05, declined 5c on profit-taking and recovered the loss.

MARKET GOSSIP.

Received over private wire of B. E. Baker, grain and stock broker, 307 Board of Trade, Duluth, Minn.:

Chicago, June 10.—The weather throughout the wheat raising sections is showery and the conditions are favorable for the maintenance and improvement of crop. The government report comes this afternoon, is expected to show some failing off in the condition of winter wheat from the May report. It will be generally assumed, however, that as this report is made up from data dated ten days ago, that the conditions are now improved by the recent rains. The general tone of the market is heavy, speculative buying is not of an encouraging character. Unless something comes in to the situation, the tendency of prices is lower. Europe has for some time past been buying wheat in excess of immediate wants.

Corn—Conditions are generally favorable for the growing crop. There is, however, not much selling pressure. The action of corn for some time past encourages speculative holders in the hope of possible manipulation and higher prices. With continued favorable conditions for the crop we see very little outside possible manipulation of which there are now no indications to advance the price. Receipts are liberal, stocks large and demand poor. We certainly would not advise buying it, and unless something comes to help the situation we are inclined to think prices will go lower.

Oats—Local operations are featureless. We think expectations that an unfavorable government report has much to do with sustaining prices. The weather conditions are favorable and whatever the situation of the crop was on June 1, the tendency now must be toward an improvement. The effect of a short crop may ultimately be felt, but for the next few weeks, unless conditions turn again unfavorable. We rather incline to expect prices to drag off somewhat.

Provisions were again strong, 10 to 15c higher. The market is without selling pressure and speculative buying is exhibiting rather more confidence. The whole trade has been looking for a large movement of hogs through this month, but so far they do not seem burdensome to prices. Cash demand continues fair.

Brokers Cannot Deal In Puts and Calls.

Chicago, June 10.—Proposed amendments to the Chicago board of trade rules providing such changes as would enable brokers to trade in puts and calls was defeated by a heavy majority at an election held on change today.

A decision by the revenue bureau placing a tax on privilege trading equal to that paid by bucket shops militated, it is said, against the success of the amendment.

FOREIGN CROPS.

London, June 10.—The Mark Lane Express, in its weekly crop review today, says: Owing to the deficiency in rain English hay, inevitably, will be considerably below the average and importers who are now complaining of the plethora of dry food stuffs, such as oats and maize, will find a good sale for them long before this time next year.

It may be added that with foreign wheat we are not all overstocked. The official report shows the French wheat crop is better than anticipated, so if the west end markets are depressed it is only through large consignment import requirements in England, France and Germany that a large surplus both in Russia, could be adequately balanced. The present outlook is that there will be a large deficiency both in England and Germany and a large surplus in the United States and Russia. Therefore, France seems to hold the sale and confirmation of the present news is awaited with interest.

The spread of rust in Hungary is serious. Unless it rains soon the crops will be gravely injured.

In Austria the prospects are regarded as very unfavorable and the agricultural affairs of the dual monarchy should be watched attentively, for the deterioration of France and Austria-Hungary prospects might, in the present state of trade, alter the balance of power and shift the control of the wheat and flour markets from the buyer to the seller.

DECLINE IN STOCKS

Prices of Railroad Stocks Dropped In the Opening Dealings.

Temporary Demand For Southwesterns, But Became Weak.

As Prices Sagged the Bears Became More Aggressive.

New York, June 10.—Prices of railroad stocks dropped in the opening dealings, the decline reaching a point in Atchison. The weakness at the close on Saturday was a continuing influence this morning. Missouri Pacific moved independently of other railroad stocks, rising 2¼ in the first few minutes, a number of the leading specialties showed gains. Amalgamated Copper rising 1¼ and the Tobacco and Sugar a fraction.

Trading was very spirited and very irregular for a while, but near 11 o'clock the drift was downward on selling of Sugar, Amalgamated Copper and Union Pacific. These reacted from 1½ to over 2 points. The improvement in Missouri Pacific caused a temporary demand for the Southwesterns and St. Louis & Southwestern preferred and Texas & Pacific rose strongly. Later on the group showed weakness, Missouri Pacific losing all of its previous gains. Western stocks were dull and heavy. Rock Island yielding 1½. Linseed common rose 2 points and the preferred 4 on single transactions of 100 shares each.

There was a marked reaction of the volume of business and as prices continued to sag the bears became more aggressive and attacked stocks which had made a show of strength earlier. New York public utilities, United States Steel, Louisville, the Southwesterns and Southern Pacific, Tobacco, People's Gas, New York Central and Pennsylvania were offered freely and scored losses ranging up 2 points. Extreme declines reached for St. Paul 5¼, Sugar 3⅝, Missouri Pacific 3½ and Rock Island 3½. Bonds were dull and irregular.

There were some further recoveries in the last hour, making the rally reach 2 to 3⅜ from the lowest in the leading Pacifics, grangers, trunk lines and industrials. A number of stocks touched the best of the day, including Union and Southern Pacific, Atchison, Erie and the United States Steel issues. National Lead rose 2. The market became dull again at the top level and yielded in spots. The closing was barely active and unsteady.

STOCK GOSSIP.

New York up town gossip to Jones & Co.—There were a number of important influences tending to make speculation light during the last half of last week. Most of them will have lost their effect within a day or two. In addition to interest in England on account of the rates at Epsom Downs there was also a disposition to await the outcome of the settlements which begin today. It will probably be several weeks before the final closing of all details incident to the settling up of the deal between the People's Gas company and the city of Chicago. It will be a most favorable settlement for the company, however. It will continue to pay 6 per cent at least, and will earn considerably more. Insiders were steady buyers last week. Illinois Central promises to command a large share of speculative attention.

The fluctuations in Erie continue to reflect the steady absorption of the stock by powerful interests; it will soon feel the effect of this enormous accumulation of stock.

MAY BUY N. P. SOON.

London, June 10.—The Stock Exchange committee for general purposes today decided that the buying in of Northern Pacific may proceed on and after June 17. The decision was anticipated and is not expected to have effect on the market. All accounts in Northern acific are practically settled, and there is no further difficulty in borrowing shares.

THE COTTON MARKET.

New York, June 10.—The market opened steady, with prices off 7 to 11 points, under heavy general selling. A severe break in Liverpool had been expected today by the trade here, our market Saturday having turned sufficiently to warrant a fall of five points abroad. The cables, however, noted a break of 6 to 8 points on futures and 3s 32d on spots, while goodly proportioned selling orders were sent here. Another factor of depression was a bad weather report in the central belt and a change for the better in crop news from those sections. Texas and the southwest continued dry and hot and complained of slow growth as a result of insufficient moisture. On the call July here broke to $7.96, August $7.46 and October to $7.16. After the call there were reactionary movements, but the market failed to show recuperative energy on account.

"Doc" Inman Becomes Manager of Tug Trust at Duluth.

Government Yacht Vidette Is Loaned to Capt. Fiske.

Buffalo, June 10.—Drake & Maytham have sold their steel steamer W. H. Gratwick to a syndicate of Syracuse, N. Y., capitalists, who are making the purchase as an investment and are not marine men. It appears that they find she has made money for others and ought to do so for them. The Gratwick is eight years old and measures 213 net tons. She will be delivered to the purchasers at Duluth this week

CAPT SCHIED RESIGNS.

Capt Philip Schied, who has been manager for the Union Towing and Wrecking company for the past year, has resigned his position, and he will be succeeded by Hiram G. Inman, now cashier of the company. Capt. Schied, it is said, will return to one of the Lake Erie ports for the Great Lakes Towing company. Mr. Inman has been associated with the tug business in Duluth for many years, and he is now known in all ports of call over the lakes as "Doc" Inman. He was associated with B. B. Inman, his brother, for many years in the tug business.

MORE BUILDING CONTRACTS.

The Marine Review thinks that the plants of the American Shipbuilding company will again be busy before the end of the season. In addition to the two steamers ordered by John Mitchell the Review understands that the big shipbuilding organization has negotiations under way that are expected to result in an order for ten vessels that may be used in either lake or ocean traffic, and that orders for two more large lake freighters, one of them for Drake & Maytham, of Buffalo, are also near the closing point.

Heart Disease

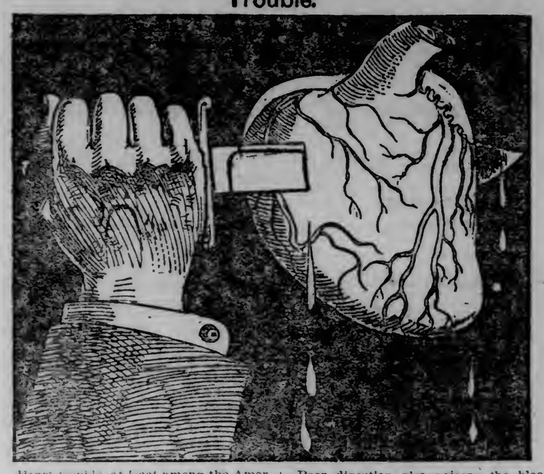
Some Facts Regarding the Rapid Increase of Heart Trouble.



Heart trouble, at least among the Americans, is certainly increasing and while this may be largely due to the excitement and worry of American business life, it is more often the result of weak stomachs, of poor digestion.

Real organic disease is incurable; but not one case in a hundred of heart trouble is organic.

The close relation between heart trouble and poor digestion is because both organs are controlled by the same great nerves, the Sympathetic and Pneumogastric.

In another way, also, the heart is affected by the form of poor digestion, which causes gas and fermentation from half digested food. There is a feeling of oppression and breathlessness and heart disease caused by pressure of the distended stomach on the heart and lungs, interfering with their action; hence arises palpitation and short breath.

Poor digestion also poisons the blood, making it thin and watery, which irritates and weakens the heart.

The most sensible treatment for heart trouble is to improve the digestion and to insure the prompt assimilation of food.

This can be done by the regular use after meals of some safe, pleasant and effective digestive preparation, like Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets, which may be be found at most drug stores, and which contains valuable, harmless digestive elements in a pleasant, convenient form.

It is safe to say that the regular persistent use of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets at meal time will cure any form of stomach trouble and thus prevent all heart disease caused by pressure of the distended stomach on the heart and lungs, interfering with their action; hence arises palpitation and short breath.

BAD NICKLES

Made By an Indiana Preacher Who Is Found Guilty.

Indianapolis, June 10.—There was a pathetic scene in the federal court when a jury returned that Rev. William H. Wade, of Velpin, this state, was guilty of counterfeiting, and his wife, who has stanchly stood by her husband, hysterically shouted: "Oh, no, not that," and broke into an uncontrollable fit of sobbing. As soon as she calmed down, Acting Judge Humphrey passed sentence, fining the defendant $1000 and adding imprisonment at hard labor at Columbus, Ohio, for one year.

Mrs. Wade became hysterical and was carried from the court room. Soon, however, she returned, only to find her husband gone, and then came another hysterical scene, while she started toward the judge with outstretched arms, moaning: "Oh, have mercy, have mercy. He is a poor, innocent man." Before sentence was passed, Wade faced the court, saying: "I thank God that I have had the courage to tell the truth throughout this trial. I am entirely innocent of this charge."

Judge Humphrey, however, was not to be shaken in his belief of the guilt of the accused preacher, and he said that the fact that the convicted man was a minister was an aggravation rather than to be taken in mitigation of his offense. "More is expected of the churchman," said the court, "than of those on the lower plane of life. This offense leaves you in a different light from that of the man of less intelligence and fewer opportunities."

The preacher was arrested for passing counterfeit nickles on a railway conductor, and his brother-in-law, also under arrest, testified that the preacher made the nickles. This brother-in-law, Barney Cato by name, entered a plea of guilty, and was sent to the Marion workhouse for forty-five days. After Wade was committed to jail in this city, he conducted religious services among the prisoners, and several conversions were credited to him. His wife followed him here, and found employment so that she might remain in Indianapolis. She will now change her home to Columbus.

Mercury AND Potash

Everybody knows that Mercury is a dangerous medicine even when administered in very small doses, and few constitutions can stand it for any length of time.

Potash produces inflammation of the stomach and bowels, and a dangerous form of dyspepsia and often chronic diarrhœa follow its use.

Now, the doctors will tell you if you have Contagious Blood Poison you must take these minerals for two years or longer; first, a course of Mercury, and when your teeth get so sensitive and sore that you can't eat, and the gums have a spongy, unnatural appearance, you are told to stop and a change to Potash is made. When the stomach rebels you are put on Mercury again, and so on ad infinitum, or until the system becomes so thoroughly saturated with these poisonous drugs that the most disgusting sores break out on the body, the bones become diseased, and the muscles and joints are racked with the most torturing pains. Mercury and Potash drive the eruptions and blotches from the skin, but the virus remains in the blood and the reappearance of the old symptoms and the occasional sore mouth show that the poison is still active, and you can never hope to completely eradicate it by this method of treatment.

When I was about twenty-one years of age, or eighteen years ago, I contracted Blood Poison in a bad form, and am satisfied that the rapid progress the disease was making would soon have made me a life-long invalid or ended my life. As my system came under the influence of S. S. S., the sores, splotches and pimples gradually disappeared and soon no evidence of the disease was left. I am now thirty-nine years old, and have seen no signs of it during the past eighteen years. S. S. S. does all you claim for it. WM. EMERSON, Pevely, Mo.

S. S. S. is the only antidote for this destructive virus, and an infallible remedy for this peculiar poison. It destroys and eradicates every particle of the poison, and makes the blood as healthy and pure as before the disease was contracted.

S. S. S. is the only purely vegetable blood purifier known, and we offer $1,000 for proof that it contains any mineral ingredient whatever. The general health improves as the Specific purges the system of impurities, and as new, rich blood begins to flow in the veins the unsightly sores and other evidences of blood poison disappear; strength returns and you are forever rid of this loathsome disease.

Our Home Treatment Book on Contagious Blood Poison tells you all about the symptoms, different stages, etc., of this disease. We will mail you a copy free.

If you need advice or special directions, write our physicians; it will cost you nothing and may hasten your cure. THE SWIFT SPECIFIC CO, ATLANTA, GA.

THE CLASS SERVICES

Dr. Cleland Preaches Baccalaureate Sermon to Graduates.

"True Service, the Highest Greatness," Was His Subject.

Pastors of Other Churches Join In the Service.

Last evening at the High School Dr. T. H. Cleland, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, delivered the baccalaureate sermon to the graduating class of the Central High School. The attendance was very large and the exercises were interesting and impressive. A number of the other churches dispensed with the evening services, and other pastors assisted in the baccalaureate services, among them Rev. R. A. Montgomery, Rev. A. Milne, Rev. A. W. Ryan and Rev. B. R. Patrick. The music was given by the junior class, assisted by the choir of St. Paul's church. There were solos by Miss Rena Smith, Clarence D. Shepard and H. G. Gearhart.

Dr. Cleland took for his text, Matt. xx, 26-28: "Whosoever will be great among you let him be your minister; and whosoever will be chief among you, let him be your servant. Even as the Son of Man came not to be ministered unto, but to minister, and to give his life a ransom for many."

"To stand at the gates of the kingdom of real life is no trifling incident in a personal history. We have but one life to live, one career to run, one career to finish. How sacred should that one life be, this narrow span. The crown jewels of the British ruler in the Tower of London are jealously guarded by powerful sentinels; with greater jealousy we must defend the crown of life, lest robbed of life's opportunity, its jewel can never be replaced.

"It is a laudable ambition to make the most of this one life, to put it out to the highest usury, to invest it where there are no disasters, safest and most returns. This will depend upon the ideal we set before us, upon a right conception of what real success in life means. Fortunately for us many will be the unteaching of the master with two of his favorite pupils. As the full realization of his kingdom approached, the minds of James and John were preoccupied by romantic expectations. Their heads were giddy with the sparkling wine of earthly hopes. They had dreams of high honors and eminent positions. Shew how childish fancies realized the true meaning of greatness! They counted it an heirloom which fell to them by hereditary right, when in fact the reward was to be won by the via dolorosa of self abnegation. They conceived that high places were conferred by favor, more were bought with money, or won by the sword, when in fact the palm bearers in the glorious ranks were princes in self-denying tribulation, and chiefs in unselfish toil. To be next Him, whose name is high over all," was to be impaled upon a crop. Elect men are chosen not for their own sakes, but for the world's sake. Christ's words sounded startling and revolutionary. In the new divine commonwealth, rank meant not mirth but worth, not favor, but merit, not honors received, but service rendered. The nobility of the past had boasted they had never been in a servile position, the princes of the future were to be those who ministered. Once a foreign was a ruler, now a servant. Henceforth the highest place on earth was assumed by one who called himself the Servans Servorum, the servant of servants. The prince of men and king of kings was He who gave his life a ransom for many.

"I am sufficiently optimistic to believe that this ideal of Jesus Christ has leavened the best thinking of mankind. The day of hereditary privilege is doomed and the crown now adorns the head of him "who thinks the most, feels the noblest, acts the best." The time has come when the academic gown of true learning is the birded towel of service, when wealth creates obligation, when power and influence harnesses its possessor to the car of human progress and chains him to the chariot wheels of human well being. Emblazoned on the banner of Christendom is the inscription, noblesse oblige. The king of the kingdom is the highest servant of the state. The first officer of the land is the prime minister. The true knight is the Knecht, the word for slave, and on the coat of arms of the noblest family of Europe is inscribed Eich Dieu, I serve. If the semblance of royalty survives beyond the sea, be it remembered that the homage which united Christendom heaped upon the late beloved queen of Great Britain was first won, then worn, and that the unstinted glory with which her name is unsullied as woman, wife, mother, patriot and philanthropist quite obscures her distinction as queen.

"The two pre-eminent names in American history, which are oftenest on our lips, were not made by their being chosen to the highest office in the gift of the nation, but they rather adorned the place as the father of his country and the father of liberty. The names we carve on the Hall of Fame are names that are coupled with heroic service. The annual tribute we pay to the heroic dead by the strewing of flowers on their graves, is done because they counted not their lives dear unto themselves. We uncover before Agassiz because in his devotion to science for the benefit of the race, he had no time to make money. The body of Livingston was borne across the Dark Continent on the shoulders of black men, through fevered swamps and poisoned arrows, and were then given immortal honor in Westminster Abbey by white men, because 'for thirty years his life was spent in unwearied effort to evangelize the native races, to explore the undiscovered secrets and abolish the desolating slave trade of Central Africa.'

"In a word, this class of 1901, cannot have spent twelve years in studying the unity of this material universe, the history of the race and the thread of God's plan for making and not have learned that 'we are not our own,' that, 'no man liveth to himself,' and that he who spared himself hast lost himself and he who would save his life barters it for a bauble and loses his life. How then shall these young, buoyant, trained spirits best serve their generation?

"By a persistent use of these trained faculties in the noblest services. The age demands brains. Life's present "ask demands capacity, skill, tact and industry. The conditions require a sharp blade not a dull bludgeon. The stone age is past, the sharp iron age is here. Carlye tells us: 'The race of life is intense, the runners are treading on each others heels, and woe to the man who stoops to tie his shoe strings.

"I have no sympathy with the theory that present conditions are unfavorable to the young man or young woman just starting out in life. The opportunities were never more or greater than now. The clearing has just been finished, the fields are awaiting the plow. True, the opportunities are not for the stupid, the indolent, the pleasure loving, the immoral or the aimless. The stupid will be distanced, the immoral cannot be risked, the aimless no man will hire. We believe in democracy, but even a republic must have leaders—the kings of thought, the generals of action. We believe in a fair and equal wage, but a righteous age will not suffer one talent to be rewarded with ten, or deny to a man of ten talents the wage that belongs to him of one. It is after all, the unfit who do not survive, and the unskilled who are distanced in the race. You cannot successfully encounter the latest heavy ordinance with your bare fists or the weapons of savages. The lightning express laughs at the stage coach. And dear to us as is the Santa Maria or the Mayflower, as a reminiscence, time compels us to choose the ocean greyhound. The difference is success and failure is largely the difference in brain power, and the wise use of it.

"When raw pig iron is worth $20 a ton that same ton plus brain and skill is worth more than $2000 in watch springs. Paper and ink that would make 100,000 books might be purchased for $500, but when the genius of the author of 'David Harum' has spread a story on that paper it comes to be worth $50,000. Millet could buy a piece of canvas for a franc, and oils and brush for four francs more, but when his genius has spread the Angelus on that five-franc canvas only a millionaire can buy it. A heap of sand not large enough for a child with pail and trowel to play in when melted in the furnace and polished on the wheel of the Corlisses, provides a lens that brings distant worlds in view, that only an endowed college can purchase. Waterloo was lost, says Victor Hugo, because when a marshal of Napoleon reached the fork of a road he had not studied his geography sufficiently to know which road to take. Sherman knew how to march to the sea, because when a young man, visiting in Georgia, while his companions were drinking and dancing and card-playing, he was making a map of the people. The artist succeeded above his fellows because he mixed his paint with brains. It is studied perseverance that lifts a man from the towpath to the White House, from the full application that lifted a cabin boy to commodore, diligent service that lifted the office clerk to the presidency of the greatest industry in the world. And now when this clerk has reached such an eminence, he tells the boys of America that a college training is a hindrance to promotion. Another man, the largest benefactor of our time who trained this clerk to be chief contradicts the theory of the man he made by bestowing ten millions of dollars to endow colleges in his native Scotland.

"There are unexplored fields in nature, unsolved problems in statesmanship, open opportunities in education, philosophy, sciology and religion, glow with earnestness, bring conscience to the task of solving these problems for the glory of God and the well-being of the race.

"Character is indispensible to real and permanent service to mankind. Men idolize intellect. Brilliancy brings a higher price in the market than goodness. But tested by permanent and healthful results, character carries a greater momentum than genius. Bacon and Byron, Burns and Goethe, Rousseau and Shelley were brilliant, but the strains upon their lives impaired their power and left their influence questionable. Erasmus had a mind of crystalline clearness, but it was Luther's great heart that won the reformation. Aaron Burr possessed more genius than Washington, but it was the character of Washington that built the republic.

"Jesus Christ stands out before you as the one single unapproachable life that has influenced and blessed mankind. He was born in an obscure village, he was reared in a disreputable town, he was never schooled in the literature of Greece or the statesmanship of Rome, but he stands in his spotless sinlessness in absolute unselfishness, in limitless concern for all mankind, and has been the star of hope, the ever agitating influence that has led humanity upward. All the sonnets ever sung, all the orations ever delivered, all the books ever written, have been of no such value to society as this one life.

"A part of education is character, and character is not character unless Jesus Christ is part and parcel of it.

"Character is not what a man has, or what he does, or what he seems to be, but what he really is. Without capital is to the merchant, character is to the man. You ask what the man is worth? And you mean not what is his bank account, or his intellectual capacity, but what are the principles that lie at the foundation of his being, what the force within him is, that keeps his conscience pure, his heart true, and his hands clean, that determines, 'whether he sings hollow or does the music of everlasting sright thrill out of him.' Character, says Emmerson, is moral order seen in an individual nature, the likeness of God, the conscience of society. Character means a round, full orbed man, with divinity in him. We want not ghosts of men, susceptible men, but men all through. Men who can stand before a through:

Men who can stand before a demagogue
And damn his treacherous flatteries without winking.
Tall men, sun crowned, who live above the fog
In public duty and in private thinking."

Such character converts men into kings and rulers. It is said that Francis de Medici never spoke to Michael Angelo without uncovering, and that Julius III made him sit at his side while a dozen cardinals stood.

"One day when Titian dropped his brush Charles V stooped and picked it up, adding: "You deserve to be served by an emperor."

"Three men in history for rare genius stand perhaps above all, Solomon, Alexander and Napoleon. But what is the verdict of history. In the famous fresco of the Resurrection in the Campo Santo at Pisa, Solomon stands as the middle figure, but hesitating, not decided whether he belongs to heaven or hell. One debauch at Babylon closed the career of Alexander, and proclaimed over him: "Greater is he that ruleth his spirit than he that taketh a city." The famous Weirz gallery at Brussels paints Napoleon in Hades, surrounded by the widows and orphans, and the lowered stature of Frenchmen, all to gratify a selfish ambition.

"But you cannot have character without a foundation. You might as well ask a common man to lead an army like Hannibal, to paint like Rubens, to sing like Milton, as to ask a man to possess character without the principles and inborn life of Jesus Christ. For other foundation can no man lay than that is laid, even Jesus Christ. Time and your patience will allow me only to mention that to character you must add:

"Love for men. The higher our place in society the deeper our obligation to our fellows. The ideal of kingship is not the luxury and licentiousness of the shah of Persia or the sultan or Turkey, but the king of Italy in the hospitals of Naples, Father Damien braving leprosy in the isles of the sea, and David Livingston dying on his knees in the jungles of Africa for the dark continent.

"It was no mean praise that was offered by Salisbury to the philanthropist of the last century when he said: 'All the reforms of the age are due to Lord Shaftesbury, who devoted his life to reforming abuses in labor laws and customs, and gathering poor boys into homes whom he found seeking shelter in the alleys and under the bridges of London.'

"John Ruskin was born to a large inheritance, and earned another with his pen, but he consecrated both his fortunes and his genius to the welfare of mankind. The men who will live when the marble has crumbled and the brass has corroded are men who having caught the spirit of the man of Galilee, who wrought no miracle for himself, but day after day healed the sick, cast out devils, taught the ignorant and finally gave his life as a ransom for many.

"We must last of all, as well as first of all, have faith in God. The difficulties are too lofty in magnitude, the discouragements too multitudinous for any human spirit to brave alone, except he have faith in God. Kepler died without having received from men any proper recognition for his discoveries of the laws of the universe. Near his end he said to a friend: 'God waited for five thousand years for one of his creatures to discover the laws which he has given the stars, and I can until justice is done to me.'

"When Morrison was alone upon the deck of the vessel that bore him to China, the captain asked him if he believed he could convert the four hundred millions of China, and he answered: 'No, but God can.'

"If we are to rank with a Leonidas at Thermopylae, a Horatius at the bridge, a Luther at Worms facing the pope and princes of Europe, a Phillips or Lincoln who believed that that the yoke of slaves would be splintered because they believed in God, we, too, must have courage:

"An independent spark from heaven's throne. By which the soul stands raised triumphant, high, alone.'

"We must have his faith in his Father who gave his life a ransom for many.

"While we study the great men of the past, let us believe:

"'Tis as easy to be heroes, as to sit the idle slaves
Of a legendary virtue, carved upon the father's graves.'

"Set your mark high. Be true to the principle that we are not here to live for ourselves. Then fear God and work hard. Never strike sail to a fear, come into port grandly or sail with God the seas. If great things come to you, accept them, if only little things, give them the fidelity of a great heart, consecrate yourselves to God, then burn to the socket.

"Young ladies and gentlemen of the class of '01: I count it both an honor and a privilige to have been selected to voice the congratulations of your friends on this high occasion. You should regard it a privilege to have lived in a community that puts so high an estimate on a diploma. Not many years ago, but when the genius of the author of 'David Harum' has spread a story on that paper it comes to be worth $50,000. Millet could buy a piece of canvas for a franc, and oils and brush for four francs more, but when his genius has spread the Angelus on that five-franc canvas only a millionaire can buy it. William Barney, a young man residing on Second street, was arrested on Saturday on a warrant charging him with cruelty to animals. He pleaded guilty to the charge before Justice Stono and was fined $15 and costs, amounting in all to $18. Barney is held on another warrant issued on the complaint of Harry Morgan charging him with obtaining a horse and carriage under false pretenses. Mr. Morgan has brought the latter suit in order to compel payment of damages done to his property. On Friday last it is alleged that Barney hired the rig from Morgan and with two or three companions drove to Cloquet, and returning the next day with the carriage badly broken up and the horse stiffened up in a manner to denote ill usage.

HEADLESS BODY

Of a Young Woman Found Near Chelmsford.

Lowell, Mass., June 10.—The headless and decomposed body of a young woman was found under a heap of brush in a patch of woodland in Chelmsford Sunday afternoon. Murder had been committed in a horrible fashion for the head had been separated from the trunk by a series of slashes with a dull weapon. The meagre clothing affords no clue to the identity of the unfortunate, and the circumstances offer a case of interest outside rather than in the direct community as the theory quickly set up is that the body had been taken into the woods and thrown in a spot that offered some seclusion.

A physician on viewing the body thought it had lain in the place where it was found four or five weeks. The entire neighborhood will be carefully looked over in the hope of finding the woman's head. Whether or not there were body wounds remains to be shown by examination. An abrasure near the heart may have been fatal. One of the men who assisted in removing the body concluded that the abrasion was from a bullet. The police know of no missing woman in Lowell or neighboring towns. They believe the body was taken into the woods.

CASHIER SUICIDED.

John Sears Jumped From Top of Windmill.

Monticello, Wis., June 10.—The body of John F. Sears, formerly cashier of the Bank of Monticello, was found June 2 at the foot of a windmill on a farm belonging to him about one mile north of this village. His sudden death brought to light the fact that he was financially embarrassed and that at the time of his death the directors of the bank were demanding explanations. It is also known that other creditors were growing uneasy. These facts furnish the basis for the belief that Sears committed suicide by jumping from the top of the windmill. Sears' bank books are in confusion, but the bank is amply protected against any possible loss. Those familiar with his affairs, however, place his liabilities in and outside the bank at about $40,000 and his assets at about $25,000. He was also executive officer of a ceramery company.

MORE RECOVERED.

Thirteen Thousand of Mineral Point Bank Found.

Mineral Point, Wis., June 10.—Thirteen thousand dollars more of the gold coin stolen from the First National bank on the morning of May 24 have been recovered. It was found in the earth vault of a commission house in the City hotel about a block from the looted bank, at which the prisoner, Steve Jelliffe boarded. It is believed that the detectives got information from the prisoner under the sweat box methods of the detectives. With the hope of lightening his sentence it is believed he gave out where the coin was hidden. Detective Shipley, of St. Louis, went into the vault and dragged the treasure from its hiding place. The gold, when found, was in five bags, one containing $9000 and the others $1000 each. This find and the $8000 before recovered comprises all the gold missing from the bank. The balance, $2500, is in currency and the detectives hope to recover it later.

A SECRET MARRIAGE.

Revealed By Settlement of an Estate.

Owensboro, Ky., June 10.—In the circuit court a sensational answer has been filed in a suit setting up a marriage between Miss Josie Dryer, of this city, and Max Schneider, in Cincinnati, in 1898, that has been kept a secret to this day.

On July 7, 1897, Margaret Dryer died, leaving an estate worth $20,000. She left a will making her daughter Joele executrix of the estate and trustee for Andrew and Isaac Dryer, two improvident sons.

A few weeks ago Josie, as executrix, filed a suit to settle the estate, and the two sons filed an answer setting up the secret marriage of their sister in Cincinnati by a magistrate, and then, because they were Catholics, a subsequent marriage by a priest in Bardstown.

President Explodes Third Term Rumors.

Would Not Accept Another Nomination.

Washington, June 11.—The following statement has been given out at the White House:

"I regret that the suggestion of a third term has been made. I doubt whether I am called upon to give it notice. But there are now questions of the gravest importance before the administration and the country, and their just consideration should not be prejudiced in the public mind by even the suspicion of thought of a third term. In view, therefore, of the reiteration of the suggestion of it, I will say now, once for all, expressing a long-settled conviction, that I not only am not and will not be a candidate for a third term, but would not accept a nomination for it if it were tendered me.

"My only ambition is to serve through my second term to the acceptance of my countrymen, whose generous confidence I so deeply appreciate, and then with them to do my duty in the ranks of private citizenship.

"WILLIAM McKINLEY.

"Executive Mansion, Washington,
"June 10, 1901."

President McKinley's official announcement, disposing of the third term idea suggested by some of his admirers, created no great surprise among his friends, who have known of his deep convictions on the subject. When Senator Depew's suggestion that the president should be re-elected for a third term began to be seriously discussed, and when several of the president's friends felt called upon to endorse the idea, the president decided that the public mind should be instantly cleared of even the suspicion that he was seeking to break down the precedents of the presidency by becoming a candidate for another term. He broached the subject to Secretary Long late yesterday afternoon. He told him he believed that an announcement at the very inception of the discussion would be wise, and last night officially informed the members of the cabinet, who had been informally called together, of his decision. It met with hearty approval. There wwas unanimous concurrence in the belief that public discussion, if allowed to go on, would not only place the president in a false light, but would arouse antagonism and seriously embarrass the administration in the solution of the great questions before it. The brief announcement which the president had prepared was given out by Secretary Cortelyou at noon today.

TIME ADDS NEW HORROR

All Hope of Rescuing the Men Entombed In the Burning Mine at Port Royal Has Been Abandoned.

West Newton, Pa., June 11.—Time only adds horror to the disastrous mine explosion which occurred late last evening at No. 2 mine of the Pittsburg Coal company at Port Royal. Three men were rescued and seventeen others are imprisoned in the burning mine. Last night the mine was reported at the offices of the company here to be on fire, and Superintendent McCune and W. F. Allison, of this place, started for the scene. They entered the mine with Fire Boss John Keck, who carried an open lamp. Three explosions followed at intervals of a few moments, the large fan being inadequate to counteract the rush of fire damp. Many of the miners escaped, but latest reports state that McCune and Allison, with fifteen miners are beyond reach of rescue. Even were there a bare possibility of rescue, the men are located over a mile from the bottom of the pit. Since the effort of the the third rescuing party, which, like previous attempts, was disastrous, no effort has been made to reach the men, and no further attempt will be made until Mine Inspector Callaghan arrives from Connellsville. The wives and children of the missing are gathered about the mine shaft waiting for news and appealing to the men to rescue their loved ones.

William McCune was superintendent of the Port Royal district, comprising five mines. He was a large stockholder in the Pittsburg Coal company, and his family lives in a handsome residence on Vine street, West Newton. William Allison was a second cousin of President McKinley.

Early this morning Harry Beveridge and two miners, three of a rescuing party that went into the mine to bring out their mates who were entombed, were sent to the McKeesport hospital. Beveridge had both hands broken and the other two were badly burned. At 9:04 a. m. today an inspection party went down into the mine, through the shaft on the Baltimore & Ohio side of the river. It is their purpose to penetrate as far as possible to locate the dead bodies, with hardly hope of finding anyone alive. The fans in both shafts, No. 1 being on the north side of the river, were started up to clear the mine of smoke, fire-damp and after-damp remaining from the explosions last night. The explosions are supposed to have occurred between entries 20 and 25, 3000 feet back from the shaft. The disaster occurred about 6 o'clock last evening. An explosion was heard by men at shaft No. 2, and suddenly a cloud of smoke burst from the mouth of the shaft. It was known that Anthony Stickler, John Peebles, George Daly, Frank Davenport and James Settler were in the mine. A searching party composed of Superintendent Wm. McCune and nine others went down shaft No. 1. Just before they lowered the bell was rung from the foot of the shaft. The cage was alread down and it was brought up with Settler on it. The rescuing party then went down. Nothing was heard of them, and in an hour another rescuing force led by James Bailey and William Williams, fire bosses, were let down the shaft. They had groped their way about 200 feet, when two explosions were heard in rapid succession. The shaft lamps in the hands of Bailey and Williams were blown fifty feet away and they themselves were thrown violently to te ground. They arose to their feet and called for their comrades, but there was no answer. Both men hurried back to the shaft and were drawn up in the cage. From that moment until 9:40 a. m., not another soul went down in the shaft as it would have meant certain death from the after damp. The party that went in this morning was composed of Mine Inspector Bernard Callahan, General Superintendent John Rees, Fire Boss William McFee, Fire Boss Daniel McCulough, Fire Boss Peter Mcindon and Pit Boss Robert McKinney. All but Callahan were brought from the various mines of the company.

At 10 a. m. the body of Taylor Gunsauless, Sr., was brought to the surface by the party headed by Inspector Calahan. A big crowd surrounded the mouth of the shaft when the corpse was brought out, and the scene was pitiful. Many women were there looking for their husbands, fathers and brothers, and they wildly appealed for the rescuers to saved their loved ones.

The Port Royal mine has always been considered dangerous. There was a similar explosion in the mine seven years ago, by which one man was killed. The use of safety lamps has been made imperative in these mines by the district inspector of mines owing to the great danger that was known to exist, but careless miners sometimes use open lights because they can see better to mine by them, and this helps them to make a bigger day's wage. This is what probably caused the explosion, but the inquiry which will follow may develop a different cause.

Another explosion occurred at the Port Royal mine of the Pittsburg Coal and Coke company shortly before noon, and several of the rescuers were dangerously injured. Fire Inspector Callahan and Fire Boss McFee were the most dangerously hurt and may die. The last explosion, in many minds, settles the fate of the entombed men, and all hope of getting them out alive has been abandoned.

(Earlier reports of the disaster will be found on page 7.)

THE KENNEDY DEFENSE

Kansas City, June 11.—The defense today opened its side of the case of Lulu Prince-Kennedy, on trial for the murder of Phil H. Kennedy, her husband. The prisoner had taken particular care in making her toilet, and scanned each witness critically, listening intently to the testimony. Will Prince, the prisoner's brother, who is charged with being the principal character in the alleged conspiracy to kill Kennedy, was brought from his cell and placed on the stand. As he testified in defense of his sister, Mrs. C. W. Prince, the mother, burst into tears, which broke forth afresh as he detailed the different chapters in the affair.

Thomas H. Ridge, the first witness, told of the scene in the Ridge building at the time of the murder. He had come upon the scene soon after a policeman arrived. Mrs. Kennedy had requested the officer to let loose his hold on her hands, the doctor had said Kennedy was dead, and then Mrs. Kennedy, stepping to the prostrate form, had kicked him in the side of the head and remarked: "You'll never seduce another girl."

Through T. J. Noble, the defense endeavored to prove that the time of the murder as set by the state's witnesses was incorrect, but his statements in this respect did not differ materially from the evidence already adduced. The witness said the defendant appeared very excited and blue, but on cross-examination admitted that she had requested the officer to release her hands so she might arrange her hair, and that she had remarked she was not going to run away. The state's witnesses testified that the prisoner acted perfectly cool when arrested, and when led away remarked that the murder had not caused much excitement. During the cross-questioning the prisoner kept patting the floor with her foot constantly and was nervous.

Then Will Prince took the stand. Prince, according to a theory of the prosecution, was a professional mesmerist, and in nerving her up to commit the murdor of Kennedy, exercised his hypnotic power over Mrs. Kennedy. Prince denied that he was a mesmerist, or that he ever mesmerized a person, and said he had never been a prize fighter, as had been alleged. Prince detailed his whereabouts on the day of the murder. He denied having accompanied Mrs. Kennedy to town a few hours before the murder, when she was supposed to have been en route to Kennedy's office.

The state tried to show that Prince left home with his sister on the afternoon of the murder, furnishing her with a revolver en route, and instructing her on what she should do when she went to her husband's office.

MODERN WOODMEN

Twelfth Biennial Convention Opened at St. Paul.

Prominent Men Present From All Over the Country.

Reports of the Officers Show a Most Rapid Growth.

St. Paul, June 11.—The twelfth biennial camp or national convention of the Modern Woodmen of America, was called to order today at 10 o'clock in the Auditorium, an immense audience crowding the great convention hall. Welcomes and responses and preliminary routine in the appointment of committees filled the morning session. Governor Van Sant of Minnesota, Lieutenant Governor Northcott of Illinois, Mayor Smith of St. Paul and others participated in the opening greetings. The reports of the Woodmen head officers show a net gain of 211,370 in new members since the meeting of two years ago, carrying a total insurance or $348,500,000. During the two years 3,362 new local lodges were organized. Head Consul Northcott says:

"This rapid growth has never been equalled by any fraternal society or life insurance company in the world's history. We now have 630,000 members and 9700 local lodges. We are maintaining insurance on lives of members today in the aggregate sum of $1,025,000,000 and we have more policy holders than the largest regular insurance company in the United States."

Motion for appointment of a committee of ten to revise the ritual to receive same compensation as delegates was voted down, and a substitute carried providing for the appointment of a committee, consisting of delegates, to receive no extra compensation.

Th report of the head clerk, Charles W. Hawes, for the biennial term, Jan. 1, 1899, to Dec. 31, 1900, contained the following:

The total number of benefit certificates issued was 309,135, representing 278,508 certificates to new members and 30,627 on account of changes.

There were 5948 camps in good standing Dec. 31, 1898; chartered during the term, 3362; surrendered, 220; leaving 8990 camps in good standing Dec. 31, 1900—a net gain of 3032 camps. The states having over 100 are:

Illinois, 1479; Iowa, 1608; Missouri, 906; Kansas, 814; Wisconsin, 744; Minnesota, 666; Nebraska, 595; Michigan, 498; Ohio, 281; South Dakota, 260; Pennsylvania, 191; North Dakota, 186; Oklahoma, 175; Washington, 158.

The receipts of the benefit fund were $7,570,898 and the disbursements $7,630,914, the balance being $294,83. The receipts of the general fund were $1,064,922 and the disbursements $1,005,604, the balance being $303,315. The expenses of management for the two years were $717,402, per capita for 1899, 77 cents, and for 1900, 79 cents. The increase in per capita expenses was due to the addition of fourteen states to the society's jurisdiction. Last term the head office was handling the business in only nineteen states; now it is handling the business in thirty-one states. One of the society's total membership of 537,858, there were but 291 expulsions. The total insurance carried is $965,153,500. The claims reported in 1899-1900 aggregated $7,884,560, and those reinstated amounted to $6000. The claims paid during the period footed up $7,630,914, compromised $37,650; discontinued $37,000. Within five years there has been a falling off in contributions to the benefit fund of 11.84 cents per capita, notwithstanding the fact that the liabilities have enormously increased by gains in membership; and the average amount of death claims has decreased from $2035 in 1895 to $1794 in 1900.

The report of the grand secretary shows that up to June 1, the society had paid a total of 11,340 death claims, the aggregate disbursements for such purpose being $22,000,000. The average annual cost to members for their insurance has been $4.95 per thousand. At the close of the biennial term 72.6 per cent of the members were paying more than the cost of their insurance in the average amount of 6 cents per assessment, while 27.4 per cent were paying 36 cents per assessment less than cost, indicating a need of revision of rates of assessment. The receipts from all sources during the term aggregated $8635,930.68. Of this amount $7,570,985.25 was received in the mortuary fund and $1,064,942.43 in the general fund.

Other official reports submitted were those of the board of directors, head banker, medical department, general attorney, board of auditors, appeals and grievances committee, committee on ritual and editor of the official paper.

Adjourned to 2 p. m. Judge R. H. Lovett of Peoria, the only opponent to the re-election of Head Consul W. A. Northcott, this morning announced his withdrawal. This makes the re-election of Maj. Northcott a certainty.

UPSET TOWN

A Tornado Plays Wild Pranks at Adrian.

Damage Will Aggregate Many Thousands.

Adrian, Minn., June 11.—About 1 o'clock this morning a tornado struck this town and swept a strip about 3000 feet wide. Charles Abbottts' house was turned around, and all the fences and sidewalks in the block carried away. The cupola on the Jones' residence was torn off, the roof carried away and the barns and outbuildings blown to pieces. William Morris' house was wrecked, and Sam Jones' barn was blown over and a valuable horse killed. The barns of Faragher Bros., W. Kilpatrick and W. H. Osidehaus were destroyed. The Klondike barn was moved from its foundation. The furniture store of George Legros, the restaurant of Mrs. Peterson, hardware store of C. A. Sands, the Esser meat market and Roenig's jewelry store were smashed to pieces. Telephone and electric light fires are scattered over the streets, and hundreds of fine shade trees are prostrate. The damage will aggregate many thousands. There were no fatalities.

OPPOSED TO THIRD TERM

Speaker Henderson Says So But Diplomatically Announces That Conditions May Arise Which Would Demand It.

New York, June 11.—Hon. D. B. Henderson, speaker of the house of representatives, is quoted by the Paris correspondent of the Journal and Advertiser on the third presidential term as follows:

'Regarding the third term, I will say first that I am opposed to it, as a rule. "Secondly, there may arise conditions demanding it, and therefore the hands of the country should not be tied up.

"Thirdly, as to President McKinley the time has not arrived for discussing a third term. Continuity in office might dull the minds of the people and prevent them from perceiving the difference between election and life tenure.

"After twelve years in office, even people cursed with Boeotian dullness will ask 'Quo Vadis?' The people invariably rectify our tendency to error."

RUSSIA HAS THE FIELD

Senator Beveridge Who Seeks Concessions Finds That the Russians Have Already Ordered Ships For Route He Proposed.

New York, June 11.—A dispatch to the World from St. Petersburg gives additional information regarding the attempts of Senator Beveridge to secure from the Russian foreign ministry concessions for steamship service between Vladivostock or Port Arthur and some port on Pacific coast of the United States and the plans of the Russians in this connection. He found the Russian government already prepared to open up this route by starting a line of steamers between Vladivostock and San Francisco for carrying the trans-Pacific mail in connection with the trans-Siberian railroad, which will be completed by the end of this year, it is thought.

Two steamers, the Manchuria and the Mongolia, each 345 feet long, of 5000 tons burden, 4075 horse power and 16 knots speed, are building at Trieste, Austria, for the East China Railroad company, which railroad already has a fleet of twenty-eight steamers for the Yellow sea traffic.

The Manchuria has already been launched, and will be delivered to the Russian commissioners in July. The Mongolia will be finished in the autumn. The opening of the new service has been fixed for December. The passage between Vladivostock and San Francisco will occupy twenty-two days. The Trieste Shipbuilding company has just signed a further contract with commissioners of the Russian government for the construction of two other steamers of 6000 tons and 400 feet long for the same service.

SHRINERS IN SESSION

The Nobles Begin Business of Their Twenty-Seventh Annual Meeting at the Standard Theater, Kansas City.

Kansas City, June 11.—Beautiful weather favored the Shriners for the second day of their twenty-seventh annual meeting. The official ceremonies began when the nobles were accorded a military escort from their headquarters to the Standard theater, where the business of the order was to be transacted. The imperial officers, headed by Lou B. Winsor, of Reed City, Mich., imperial potentate, and Philip C. Shaffer, of Philadelphia, deputy imperial potentate, rode in carriages, each drawn by four white horses. The grand marshal, E. F. Allen, and his aides were mounted, as was the patrol of the Almas temple, of Washington, D. C., and a patrol of Ararat temple, of Kansas City. Patrols of from a half hundred cities followed on foot. The nobles from Washington, in their Bedoin costumes, was singled out for the heartiest greetings.

At the Standard their followed, at 10:30 a. m., an exchange of greetings and an address from the imperial potentate. Then came a secret meeting of the officers of the order.

The visitors were driven about the city during the afternoon. Tonight will occur probably the greatest feature of the meeting, the grand parade through the streets, in which all the Shriners are expeceed to take part. An elaborate pyrotechnic display and a grand concert, review and drill in convention hall are on the program.

IN EXCELLENT HEALTH

Rumors of Pope's Illness Without Foundation---As a Matter of Fact He Is Enjoying Exceptional Health.

Rome, June 11.—The report cabled to the United States that the pope is again ill is without foundation. He is well, and yesterday granted audience to the Belgium dominican visitors. The statement circulated in America shows that annual reports of the pope's illness, critical condition and fainting spells have already commenced, and as the summer wanes he, no doubt, as usual will be at death's door. The truth is, his holiness at present is in exceptionally good health, is enjoying his daily drive and walk, and the heavy cares of state seem to bear lightly on his old age. Mounting to a higher point of the garden than usual the other day, the pope stood gazing at the yellow strip of sunlit Mediterranean, and turning with a sigh to his nephew, the pontiff used for the first time since his "imprisonment" a phrase which might have been construed as impatience at his "captivity."

"Ah," he said, "how I wish I could go to sea again. It would really renew my youth. The last time I really was at sea was about fifty-five years ago, when I was nuncio at Brussels. I then went near Antwerp, on the advice of a physician, and can remember even now how cool the water was, how invigorating, and what pleasure I took in swimming. I found the cure much beneficial."

FORCIBLE ENTRY.

Police Break Into St. Croix House.

Officers from police headquarters had an odd experience this morning while serving a writ of ejectment on Ack Mitchell, of 124 St. Croix avenue. The house has long been under suspicion as an opium joint, and recently the owner instituted unlawful detainer proceedings. When the officers went to put the furniture out on the street they found the door locked. One of them borrowed an ax and forced it open. Tied to a bedpost, within a few feet of the door, was a ferocious looking bull dog. The officers paused. Finally the ax was again brought into use and the chain was broken. The dog ran out of the building, and the officers sent part of the furniture after him. No opium was found, though the place smelled strongly of the drug.

He Pulled the Foot.

Breezy was the assault and battery suit of Mrs. Anna Kutz against Charles Undine, which was tried before a municipal court jury today. They live in the same house, at 510 East Superior street. The assault occurred on May 20. Mr. Undine said that he remonstrated with Mrs. Kutz for receiving "friends" in her home without the knowledge of her husband. It was one of those spiral stairway scenes. She stood on the stairs and he in the hallway below. The testimony was that she put her foot over the banister and endeavored to kick him. He admitted pulling the foot. At a late hour this afternoon the case was still in the hands of the jury.

ENDORSES IT.

M. S. Burrows Approves of Excursion Scheme ---Eastern Trip.

M. S. Burrows returned from the East this morning, where he has been for some time concluding the purchases of the fall lines of clothing for the Great Eastern, and arranging for the manufacture of his own idea of ready-made clothing to be called "The Burrows form-fitting, hand-made clothing," and which will be made for him by one of the leading New York wholesale tailors.

"My trip was entirely successful," said Mr. Burrows, "and the wholesalers and manufacturers are all enjoying prosperity to the very limit, but some complaint is made by the retailers in the Eastern cities, caused by the very unseasonable weather. It is very cold and the rains have been almost incessant. At Buffalo this has greatly interfered with and embarrassed the promoters of the Pan-American exposition, but of course clear skies will soon come and all will then be lovely at this worthy successor of the Chicago World's fair.

"Prices of all woolen goods are advancing and we will see higher prices next year than we have been accustomed to.

"Duluth is now considered the gilt-edge city of the Northwest. The loading here of the offices of the United States steel company and the immense amount of money this corporation has invested in Northern Minnesota has given the impression in some circles in New York that the day is not far distant when they will undertake the manufacture of iron here. One of the most successful and shrewdest business men I know remarked to me on this trip that he believed real estate in Duluth bought at present prices was as good an investment as was to be found in this country. The rapidity with which North Dakota and Northern Minnesota is being filled with settlers convinced him that we would have a big city at the head of the lakes.

"I am pleased to learn that efforts are being made to bring in more excursions this summer. It has always been my idea that if proper efforts were made we could have hundreds and hundreds of people here from the South and East for the entire summer season. There is no better spot in the United States to spend the heated spell, and the more people we get in here the better it is for all. To have excursions from the nearby towns is a good idea, and I believe can be successfully brought about, but I also believe a great deal of good could be done if the railroad people could be influenced to change the time of the trains to and from the iron ranges. The train from Tower now reaches here at noon and leaves on its return at 3, hardly giving the people who desire to shop three hours. Now, why could that train not arrive an hour or more earlier and depart about 6? Then, if the same conditions existed on the Missabe railroad, it would increase our trade to a great extent. It is the same way as to Cloquet and other good prosperous towns tributary to us. Our busy suburb, Proctor-knott, might as well be hundreds of miles away with the chances its people have now of spending an evening in the city. A good live business men's club could do a world of good, but it is to be regretted that what one tries to do for the city another is always at hand to dash cold water upon."

Charge Still Good.

Robert McConvill was arrested on the Bowery last night on an old charge. Nov. 22 last he passed a forged check for $44.75 in Wheaton's saloon. The check was one of the John Reeve series which caused Mr. Reeve to be sentenced to St. Cloud. McConvill, after cashing this check, left the city and did not return till yesterday. He figured that the police had forgotten the incident. He made his calculations without taking the memory of Detective Irvine into consideration. When the detective saw him he was drinking beer in the "Bottling House" and on the way to the station, McConvill admitted all. His examination will take place next Monday.

MAINTAIN SECRECY

Distinguished Canadian Citizens Are Visiting In Duluth.

They Decline Absolutely to Make Their Purposes Known.

View Terminals Under the Escort of Capt. Wolvin.

A large party of distinguished-looking Montreal men arrived in the city this morning over the South Shore road and were met by Commodore A. B. Wolvin, of the Pittsburg Steamship company, who acted as their escort today in a tour of inspection of terminals in Duluth, West Superior and Superior. The party visited all the points of interest, the elevators, coal and ore docks, and looked over a number of the large manufacturing plants on either side of the bay. This noon they returned from the visit across the bay and lunched at the Kitchi Gammi club.

When asked this noon for information regarding the party and the object of the visit, Mr. Wolvin said:

"I know and would be glad to have it known, but it is the express wish of the gentlemen in the party that it be not known, and anything be said of their visit, and I am thus placed under obligations to say nothing."

None of the gentlemen in the party would say anything of themselves or why they came, though several expressed surprise at the magnitude of the interests that they find represented at the head of the lake. When arriving in the city this morning the party registered at the Spalding hotel, and the following names are found there:

Hon. Robert Mackay, R. Bickerdike, M. P., Alphonse Racine, John Torrance, Joseph Conant, John Kennedy, David Seath, H. D. Metcalfe, Joseph R. Roy.

All of the party, with the exception of Mr. Roy, registered from Montreal, and he gave Ottawa as his home.

There are various rumors afloat as to the identity of the visitors, and their object, interest being all the more aroused because of the secrecy that they wish attached to their presence in the city. As indicated by the hotel register, one of the gentlemen, at least, Mr. Bickerdike, is a member of the Canadian parliament, and it is thought that other members of the party enjoy the same distinction. One rumor is that the party is made up of members of the Canadian parliament, of the Montreal harbor commission, and men with whom Capt. Wolvin is interested in his elevator scheme at Montreal, and the party has come to this city to inspect and learn something of the American elevator system and manner of operation.

AN OPTION.

St. Cloud Papers Report Another On Western Mesaba.

The St. Cloud Journal Press reports another option of mineral lands on the Western Mesaba having been given by St. Cloud people. It says:

"It has been learned here that the Hayward heirs, Mesdames Coates Freemen, Holden and McClure, have just given another option and mining lease on valuable iron ore lands in Northern Minnesota. The lands on which the option and the mining lease are effective are 56-24 and 56-23 in Itasca county and some 300 acres are included in the property. The lands upon which these developments are to be made are not far from the Arcturus property which was leased some weeks ago, and they are thought to be valuable in the extreme. The option runs ten months and the lease is a 50-year royalty lease, the lessees paying a certain amount per ton for all iron ore taken from the land. It is understood that the latest deal was engineered successfully by W. C. Gaforth, the St. Paul attorney prominent in the Arcturus deal of recent date. At the time the first option was sold it as intimated in some quarters that Mr. Goforth was representative of James J. Hill's interests, but it now develops that this was an error, for the Arcturus property has passed to the control of Corrigan & Kinney, the big iron ore operators, for whom George W. Wallace, of Duluth, is general manager, and he it appears has charge of developing the Arcturus. The latest lases are understood to run to James G. Vivian, of Duluth, who is said to be a business partner of Mr. Wallace."

Initiate New Tribe.

The local tribe of Red Men was notified last night that a new tribe would be instituted at Twentieth avenue west on the evening of June 24, and with that hospitality ever characteristic of the noble red man of the ancient forest, they immediately extended an invitation to the great chief who is to institute the tribe to take the trail to their wigwam immediately after the institution. A bountiful supply of corn and venison will be served and the proper ceremonies performed to make the new brothers fullfledged redskins. An invitation will be extended to all surrounding tribes within reach of the smoke signals, and as this is to be the last pow-wow before the great sun's council to be held at Walker in August, an immense gathering is expected. The tribe of Duluth will leave for Walker on special cars to attend the great council.

MEETINGS.

Fourth of July and Business Men's Excursions Committees.

Two meetings of importance are scheduled for the city hall this evening. Fourth of July boomers will meet in the council chamber, and boomers in general will meet in the municipal court room.

The meeting in the council chamber is called by the executive committee of the Fourth celebration. Matters of great importance to the monster demonstration will be taken up and it is important that every member of the executive committee should attend.

The municipal court room meeting will consist of business men and others interested in the idea of having excursions run from nearby towns to Duluth during the summer months.

Within the past week or so the business men of Duluth have become convinced that better business relations should be established between this city and the iron range towns, as well as towns west and south of here, and to this end they propose to give the smaller towns and the villages of Northern Minnesota, the benefit of excursion rates, which, it is said, will be exceedingly low.

On this matter of transportation the business men will be enlightened by the various transportation companies, at this evening's meetings.

Reports from the range towns and Cloquet indicate that the excursion idea will be favorably received and that many merchants and others will take advantage of the low rates, to visit this city.

EXCURSIONS.

Several Large Ones Going Out of the City.

This has and will be a great excursion day out of the city. This morning excursion trains left the head of the lakes over the Northern Pacific, the Omaha and the Great Northern roads with crowds of excursionists for the Woodmen convention at St. Paul. The number of people that went down this morning was not nearly so large as had been expected, and it is believed that the cooler and damper weather has had the effect of causing many to postpone their visit to the Saintly City.

At 7 o'clock this evening, the Duluth, South Shore & Atlantic Railway company will start its third annual excursion to Detroit, from the Union depot. Gen. Agent Adson has been for days receiving hundreds of letters from all over the Northwest tributary to the head of the lake, relative to the time and cost of the trip, and today the local ticket force has been very busy filling out the tickets. The excursion will be the largest that the South Shore road has ever sent out to Detroit. The train made up of special sleepers, will leave the depot at 7 o'clock this evening and the excursionists will catch a steamer over the Detroit & Cleveland line for Detroit. The tickets are limited to June 26.

THE COOK COOKED

Sensational Tragedy That Occurred on Schooner J. A. Campbell.

Chinese Cook Killed the Mate and Terrorized the Whole Crew.

Steam Process Tried to Bring Him Out of Galley.

Honolulu, June 5, via San Francisco, June 11.—(Correspondence of the Associated Press.)—Details of the most sensational tragedy at sea that has been ever reported since the famous mutiny on the bark Hesper, some years ago, were brought last Sunday by the American schooner J. A. Campbell, Capt. A. E. Smith, from Port Blakely, with lumber. The mate of the vessel, Adam Huber, was murdered by the Chinese cook, and the latter, after terrorizing the whole crew by holding possession of the galley for nearly twenty-four hours, during which it was every moment feared he would set fire to the vessel, was subjected to a steaming process to bring him out, but shot himself rather than come forth and be captured, and when the crew finally entered the galley they found the Chinaman's body literally cooked by steam.

The Hawaiian Bar association, on the 29th ult., by a vote of 37 to 7, adopted a resolution asking for the removal of First Circuit Judge Humphreys. The resolution states that the judge has been conducting a partisan newspaper, that he has continued to be a political leader, that his conduct towards members of the bar has been such as to destroy their confidence in his administration of justice, and that it is necessary to the administration of justice that he be removed.

A committee was appointed to take depositions and submit the case to Washington. The grand jury investigating the charges of bribery in the legislature has submitted a partial report to Judge Humphreys, but it has not been made public. Judge Humphreys gave the jury a statement submitting to them, it is said, a new line of inquiry. The grand jury has made a very rigid inquiry into the matter, having examined more than fifty witnesses.

The battleship Oregon arrived here on May 30 on her way home from the Orient. As she was dropping her anchor off port, the chain broke, seriously mounding chief boatswain J. E. Murphy, one of the men who helped Lieut. Hobson to sink the Merrimac at the entrance to Santiago harbor. His leg was broken and he was dashed against some machinery, receiving a dangerous gash on the head.

The Oregon is taking coal here and is about ready to leave for San Francisco.

AS EXPECTED.

Hanna Thought the President Would Say What He Did.

Cleveland, June 11.—"It is just what I expected the president would say, if he said anything at all on the subject," was the comment of Senator Hanna today when he read President McKinley's statement in reference to a third term.

"I have never exchanged one word with the president concerning the matter," he continued, "and have considered all the talk bearing on the subject as premature. According to my judgment it is too early to discuss presidential candidates for the next term."

Asked if he was in favor of maintaining the precedent established by President Washington in reference to the number of years the chief executive should hold office. Mr. Hanna said: "I don't think the precedent set by Washington has a great deal to do with the matter. There is undoubtedly a strong sentiment among the people against such a proposition."

RUSHING IN.

The Kentucky Oil Fields Attracting Wide Attention.

Somerset, Ky., June 2.—The pipe line is already handling several hundred barrels of oil a day. Six new wells are drilling, one of which is to be sent down 2500 feet for a deep test. The state geologist of Kentucky says that oil underlies a district ninety miles long and eighty miles wide. Certain it is that oil is produced in paying quantities in several counties in Kentucky and Tennessee—for years condemned and ridiculed. They will, at least, come into their own, and take their places as profitable oil-producing states. Many oil men believe that the oil belt fields of Kentuck and Tennessee are but an extension of the oil belt that runs from Allegheny county in New York down through Pennsylvania and West Virginia and crops out far down in Alabama. Enough wells have been drilled in the Cumberland mountain country to convince the oil man that somewhere in that region lies a great, rich oil field, and the completion of the new pipe line by the Standard Oil company will hasten the opening of the new district.

It is just as well to add the fact that there are more people here than shelter or provisions and more coming. The nearest railroad station is Burnsides, which you must reach from Monticello by a 'bus. From Sunnybrook to Monticello you must go on horseback or mule back, if you can get a mule.

Another Explosion In Mine Injures Inspector and Fire Boss.

West Newton, Pa., June 11.—The last rescue party had been in the mine about an hour when the muffled report of another explosion was heard issuing from the depths of the shaft and a rush for the cage was made by the men above, who thought that these rescuers had met the fate of those who had gone before. A dozen men volunteered to go down and, try and rescue the party, but their services were not needed as the signal to hoist the cage was given from the bottom, and when it reached the top three unconscious forms were found lying on it. Fire Inspector Callaghan and Fire Boss McFee, of the Wyckhaven mines, were the most dangerously hurt of the party, and these men were taken to a hotel nearby, where two physicians worked with them almost an hour before they could be brought back to life. So far the bodies of J. Houcks, of Smithon, and Taylor Gunsauless, Sr., of Port Royal, have been recovered.

The living who have been rescued are H. Beveridge, F. Kreutzer and A. Smith. Calls have been sent out to all of the mines of the Pittsburg company for volunteers to aid in the work.

RASCALS.

Michael Shellman and Lieut. Delbert R. Jones. Welch refunded 1000 pesos, his share of the spoils. The president of Mabi (Leyte) has been arrested, charged with being implicated in the transactions. ## FORCIBLE ENTRY.

Police Break Into St. Croix House.

Officers from police headquarters had an odd experience this morning while serving a writ of ejectment on Ack Mitchell, of 124 St. Croix avenue. The house has long been under suspicion as an opium joint, and recently the owner instituted unlawful detainer proceedings. When the officers went to put the furniture out on the street they found the door locked. One of them borrowed an ax and forced it open. Tied to a bedpost, within a few feet of the door, was a ferocious looking bull dog. The officers paused. Finally the ax was again brought into use and the chain was broken. The dog ran out of the building, and the officers sent part of the furniture after him. No opium was found, though the place smelled strongly of the drug.

It was one of those spiral stairway scenes. She stood on the stairs and he in the hallway below. The testimony was that she put her foot over the banister and endeavored to kick him. He admitted pulling the foot. At a late hour this afternoon the case was still in the hands of the jury.

M. S. Burrows Approves of Excursion Scheme ---Eastern Trip.

M. S. Burrows returned from the East this morning, where he has been for some time concluding the purchases of the fall lines of clothing for the Great Eastern, and arranging for the manufacture of his own idea of ready-made clothing to be called "The Burrows form-fitting, hand-made clothing," and which will be made for him by one of the leading New York wholesale tailors.

"My trip was entirely successful," said Mr. Burrows, "and the wholesalers and manufacturers are all enjoying prosperity to the very limit, but some complaint is made by the retailers in the Eastern cities, caused by the very unseasonable weather. It is very cold and the rains have been almost incessant. At Buffalo this has greatly interfered with and embarrassed the promoters of the Pan-American exposition, but of course clear skies will soon come and all will then be lovely at this worthy successor of the Chicago World's fair.

"Prices of all woolen goods are advancing and we will see higher prices next year than we have been accustomed to.

"Duluth is now considered the gilt-edge city of the Northwest. The locating here of the offices of the United States steel company and the immense amount of money this corporation has invested in Northern Minnesota has given the impression in some circles in New York that the day is not far distant when they will undertake the manufacture of iron here. One of the most successful and shrewdest business men I know remarked to me on this trip that he believed real estate in Duluth bought at present prices was as good an investment as was to be found in this country. The rapidity with which North Dakota and Northern Minnesota is being filled with settlers convinced him that we would have a big city at the head of the lakes.

"I am pleased to learn that efforts are being made to bring in more excursions this summer. It has always been my idea that if proper efforts were made we could have hundreds and hundreds of people here from the South and East for the entire summer season. There is no better spot in the United States to spend the heated spell, and the more people we get in here the better it is for all. To have excursions from the nearby towns is a good idea, and I believe can be successfully brought about, but I also believe a great deal of good could be done if the railroad people could be influenced to change the time of the trains to and from the iron ranges. The train from Tower now reaches here at noon and leaves on its return at 3, hardly giving the people who desire to shop three hours. Now, why could that train not arrive an hour or more earlier and depart about 6? Then, if the same conditions existed on the Missabe railroad, it would increase our trade to a great extent. It is the same way as to Cloquet and other good prosperous towns tributary to us. Our busy suburb, Proctorknott, might as well be hundreds of miles away with the chances its people have now of spending an evening in the city. A good live business men's club could do a world of good, but it is to be regretted that what one tries to do for the city another is always at hand to dash cold water upon."

Charge Still Good.

Robert McConvill was arrested on the Bowery last night on an old charge. Nov. 22 last he passed a forged check for $44.75 in Wheaton's saloon. The check was one of the John Reeve series which caused Mr. Reeve to be sentenced to St. Cloud. McConvill, after cashing this check, left the city and did not return till yesterday. He figured that the police had forgotten the incident. He made his calculations without taking the memory of Detective Irvine into consideration. When the detective saw him he was drinking beer in the "Bottling House" and on the way to the station, McConvill admitted all. His examination will take place next Monday.

MAINTAIN SECRECY

Distinguished Canadian Citizens Are Visiting In Duluth.

They Decline Absolutely to Make Their Purposes Known.

View Terminals Under the Escort of Capt. Wolvin.

A large party of distinguished-looking Montreal men arrived in the city this morning over the South Shore road and were met by Commodore A. B. Wolvin, of the Pittsburg Steamship company, who acted as their escort today in a tour of inspection of terminals in Duluth, West Superior and Superior. The party visited all the points of interest, the elevators, coal and ore docks, and looked over a number of the large manufacturing plants on either side of the bay. This noon they returned from the visit across the bay and lunched at the Kitchi Gammi club.

When asked this noon for information regarding the party and the object of the visit, Mr. Wolvin said:

"I know and would be glad to have it known, but it is the express wish of the gentlemen in the party that they be not known, nor anything be said of their visit, and I am thus placed under obligations to say nothing."

None of the gentlemen in the party would say anything of themselves or why they came, though several expressed surprise at the magnitude of the interests that they find represented at the head of the lake. When arriving in the city this morning the party registered at the Spalding hotel, and the following names are found there:

Hon. Robert Mackay, R. Blekerdike, M. P., Alphonse Racine, John Torrance, Joseph Conant, John Kennedy, David Seath, H. D. Metcalfe, Joseph R. Roy.

All of the party, with the exception of Mr. Roy, registered from Montreal, and he gave Ottawa as his home.

There are various rumors afloat as to the identity of the visitors, and their object, interest being all the more aroused because of the secrecy that they wish attached to their presence in the city. As indicated by the hotel register, one of the gentlemen, at least, Mr. Blekerdike, is a member of the Canadian parliament, and it is thought that other members of the party enjoy the same distinction. One rumor is that the party is made up of members of the Canadian parliament, of the Montreal harbor commission, and men with whom Capt. Wolvin is interested in his elevator scheme at Montreal, and the party has come to this city to inspect and learn something of the American elevator system and manner of operation.

AN OPTION.

St. Cloud Papers Report Another On Western Mesaba.

The St. Cloud Journal Press reports another option of mineral lands on the Western Mesaba having been given by St. Cloud people. It says:

"It has been learned here that the Hayward heirs, Mesdames Coates Freemen, Holden and McClure, have just given another option and mining lease on valuable iron ore lands in Northern Minnesota. The lands on which the option and the mining lease are effective are 56-24 and 56-23 in Itasca county and some 300 acres are included in the property. The lands upon which these developments are to be made are not far from the Arcturus property which was leased some weeks ago, and they are thought to be valuable in the extreme. The option runs ten months and the lease is a 50-year royalty lease, the lessees paying a certain amount per ton for all iron ore taken from the land. It is understood that the latest deal was engineered successfully by W. C. Gaforth, the St. Paul attorney prominent in the Arcturus deal of recent date. At the time the first option was sold it as intimated in some quarters that Mr. Goforth was representative of James J. Hill's interests, but it now develops that this was an error, for the Arcturus property has passed to the control of Corrigan & Kinney, the big iron ore operators, for whom George W. Wallace, of Duluth, is general manager, and he it appears has charge of developing the Arcturus. The latest lases are understood to run to James G. Vivian, of Duluth, who is said to be a business partner of Mr. Wallace."

Initiate New Tribe.

The local tribe of Red Men was notified last night that a new tribe would be instituted at Twentieth avenue west on the evening of June 24, and with that hospitality ever characteristic of the noble red man of the ancient forest, they immediately extended an invitation to the great chief who is to institute the tribe to take the trail to their wigwam while attached to their presence in the city. As indicated by this hotel register, one of the gentlemen, at least, Mr. Blekerdike, is a member of the Canadian parliament, and it is thought that other members of the party enjoy the same distinction. One rumor is that the party is made up of members of the Canadian parliament, of the Montreal harbor commission, and men with whom Capt. Wolvin is interested in his elevator scheme at Montreal, and the party has come to this city to inspect and learn something of the American elevator system and manner of operation.

MEETINGS.

Fourth of July and Business Men's Excursions Committees.

Two meetings of importance are scheduled for the city hall this evening. Fourth of July boomers will meet in the council chamber, and boomers in general will meet in the municipal court room.

The meeting in the council chamber is called by the executive committee of the Fourth celebration. Matters of great importance to the monster demonstration will be taken up and it is important that every member of the executive committee should attend.

The municipal court room meeting will consist of business men and others interested in the idea of having excursions run from nearby towns to Duluth during the summer months.

Within the past week or so the business men of Duluth have become convinced that better business relations should be established between this city and the iron range towns, as well as towns west and south of here, and to this end they propose to give the smaller towns and the villages of Northern Minnesota, the benefit of excursion rates, which, it is said, will be exceedingly low.

On this matter of transportation the business men will be enlightened by the various transportation companies, at this evening's meetings.

Reports from the range towns and Cloquet indicate that the excursion idea will be favorably received and that many merchants and others will take advantage of the low rates, to visit this city.

EXCURSIONS.

Several Large Ones Going Out of the City.

This has and will be a great excursion day out of the city. This morning excursion trains left the head of the lakes over the Northern Pacific the Omaha and the Great Northern roads with crowds of excursionists for the Woodmen convention at St. Paul. The number of people that went down this morning was not nearly so large as had been expected, and it is believed that the cooler and damper weather has had the effect of causing many to postpone their visit to the Saintly City.

At 7 o'clock this evening, the Duluth, South Shore & Atlantic Railway company will start its third annual excursion to Detroit, from the Union depot. Gen. Agent Adson has been for days receiving hundreds of letters from all over the Northwest tributary to the head of the lake, relative to the time and cost of the trip, and today the local ticket force has been very busy filling out the tickets. The excursion will be the largest that the South Shore road has ever sent out to Detroit. The train made up of special sleepers, will leave the depot at 7 o'clock this evening and the excursionists will catch a steamer over the Detroit & Cleveland line for Detroit. The tickets are limited to June 26.

THE COOK COOKED

Sensational Tragedy That Occurred on Schooner J. A. Campbell.

Chinese Cook Killed the Mate and Terrorized the Whole Crew.

Steam Process Tried to Bring Him Out of Galley.

Honolulu, June 5, via San Francisco, June 11.—(Correspondence of the Associated Press.)—Details of the most sensational tragedy at sea that has been ever reported since the famous mutiny on the bark Hesper, some years ago, were brought last Sunday by the American schooner J. A. Campbell, Capt. A. E. Smith, from Port Blakely, with lumber. The mate of the vessel, Adam Huber, was murdered by the Chinese cook, and the latter, after terrorizing the whole crew by holding possession of the galley for nearly twenty-four hours, during which it was every moment feared he would set fire to the vessel, was subjected to a steaming process to bring him out, but shot himself rather than come forth and be captured, and when the crew finally entered the galley they found the Chinaman's body literally cooked by steam.

The Hawaiian Bar association, on the 29th ult., by a vote of 37 to 7, adopted a resolution asking for the removal of First Circuit Judge Humphreys. The resolution states that the judge has been conducting a partisan newspaper, that he has continued to be a political leader, that his conduct towards members of the bar has been such as to destroy their confidence in his administration of justice, and that it is necessary to the administration of justice that he be removed.

A committee was appointed to take depositions and submit the case to Washington. The grand jury investigating the charges of bribery in the legislature has submitted a partial report to Judge Humphreys, but it has not been made public. Judge Humphreys gave the jury a statement submitting to them, it is said, a new line of inquiry. The grand jury has made a very rigid inquiry into the matter, having examined more than fifty witnesses.

The battleship Oregon arrived here on May 20 on her way home from the Orient. As she was dropping her anchor off port, the chain broke, seriously wounding chief boatswain J. E. Murphy, one of the men who helped Lieut. Hobson to sink the Merrimac at the entrance to Santiago harbor. His leg was broken and he was dashed against some machinery, receiving a dangerous gash on the head.

The Oregon is taking coal here and is about ready to leave for San Francisco.

HER RIVALS.

Admiral Seymour Tells of the Competitors England Has.

Shanghai, June 11.—Admiral Edward H. Seymour, British commander in China, was the principal guest of the China association at its annual benefit last evening. In the course of a speech, the admiral said Great Britain had three powers as rivals in China—the United States, Russia and Germany. Of the three, the United States was the greatest of her trade rivals but the rivalry was not in conflict with Great Britain's policy of the open door. Germany was a keen competitor both as regards trade and sea power. Great Britain, some day, would have to reckon with the latter. Russia was not only extending her territory, but was repressing trade.

Admiral Seymour insisted on the importance of holding and defending Shanghai, in order to preserve the prestige of the foreign nations.

AS EXPECTED.

Hanna Thought the President Would Say What He Did.

Cleveland, June 11.—"It is just what I expected the president would say, if he said anything at all on the subject," was the comment of Senator Hanna today when he read President McKinley's statement in reference to a third term.

"I have never exchanged one word with the president concerning the matter," he continued, "and have considered all the talk bearing on the subject as premature. According to my judgment it is too early to discuss presidential candidates for the next term."

Asked if he was in favor of maintaining the precedent established by President Washington in reference to the number of years the chief executive should hold office. Mr. Hanna said: "I don't think the precedent set by Washington has a great deal to do with the matter. There is undoubtedly a strong sentiment among the people against such a proposition."

RUSHING IN.

The Kentucky Oil Fields Attracting Wide Attention.

Somerset, Ky., June 2.—The pipe line is already handling several hundred barrels of oil a day. Six new wells are drilling, one of which is to be sent down 2500 feet for a deep test. The state geologist of Kentucky says that oil underlies a district ninety miles long and eighty miles wide. Certain it is that oil is produced in paying quantities in several counties in Kentucky and Tennessee—for years condemned and ridiculed. They will, at least, come into their own, and take their places as profitable oil-producing states. Many oil men believe that the oil belt fields of Kentuck and Tennessee are but an extension of the oil belt that runs from Allegheny county in New York down through Pennsylvania and West Virginia and crops out far down in Alabama. Enough wells have been drilled in the Cumberland mountain country to convince the oil man that somewhere in that region lies a great, rich oil field, and the completion of the new pipe line by the Standard Oil company will hasten the opening of the new district.

It is just as well to add the fact that there are more people here than shelter or provisions and more coming. The nearest railroad station is Burnsides, which you must reach from Monticello by a 'bus. From Sunnybrook to Monticello you must go on horseback or mule back, if you can get a mule.

Another Explosion In Mine Injures Inspector and Fire Boss.

West Newton, Pa., June 11.—The last rescue party had been in the mine about an hour when the muffled report of another explosion was heard issuing from the depths of the shaft and a rush for the cage was made by the men above, who thought that these rescuers had met the fate of those who had gone before. A dozen men volunteered to go down and try and rescue the party, but their services were not needed as the signal to hoist the cage was given from the bottom, and when it reached the top three unconscious forms were found lying on it. Fire Inspector Callaghan and Fire Boss McFee, of the Wyckhaven mines, were the most dangerously hurt of the party, and these men were taken to a hotel nearby, where two physicians worked with them almost an hour before they could be brought back to life. So far the bodies of J. Houcks, of Smithon, and Taylor Gunsauless, Sr., of Port Royal, have been recovered.

The living who have been rescued are H. Beveridge, F. Kreutzer and A. Smith. Calls have been sent out to all of the mines of the Pittsburg company for volunteers to aid in the work.

NEW YORK DRUGGISTS INDORSE THE GREAT KIDNEY REMEDY, SWAMP-ROOT

WILSON'S PHARMACIES

One of New York's Leading Druggists Says the Sale of Swamp-Root Is Enormous.

William Wilson is one of the best-known druggists in the city. He has been in business on his own account since 1879 and has prosperous drug stores at 152 Broadway, Broadway and Wall street, in the heart of the financial market, and at Broadway and Thirty-fourth street, in the center of uptown life, the first of these being the supply store for all three.

Mr. Wilson said to a reporter:

The sale of Swamp-Root was never so great at it is today. It is one of the leading sellers. The sale at our Wall street store is particularly gratifying. If the trade handle as much as I do the sale must be simply enormous. These conditions indicate that it is used with wonderful results by a great many people.

Harlem, where he has been thirty-six years. He is the venerable Charles H. Klippert, whose store is in the ancient building of massive granite which another generation knew as Harlem Market at 119 East One Hundred and Twenty-fifth street.

Mr. Klippert still serves behind the prescription counter and is as hale and hearty and as alive to business as any of his younger competitors. He puts his estimate of Swamp-Root in these words:

Dr. Kilmer's preparation for kidney and liver troubles sells well in my trade, and those who use it speak in terms of satisfaction of its beneficial effects. Many people value Swamp-Root highly as a tonic, and the sale is always larger in the springtime.

125th Street and Eighteenth Avenue, New York City.

We feel very friendly toward Swamp-Root.

We have sold in our three stores during the last twelve months more than twenty thousand bottles of Swamp-Root; and never in a single case have we had a bottle returned; every bottle has been sold with our guarantee that if not exactly as represented we would refund the price paid.

Of all the kidney, liver and bladder remedies we have sold during a business experience of more than fifty years, we can conscientiously say that Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root has sold better and given more satisfaction than all others combined. There is something in it that "gets there," for all tell the same story of good and satisfactory results.

I know hundreds of cases of kidney and liver troubles that have been cured or permanently benefited by Dr. Kilmer's Sovereign Remedy, Swamp-Root.

We are always willing to answer any requests for information sent to us in regard to this wonderful remedy.

Cures Liver Complaint.

James Livson, of 2196 Eighth avenue, only repeats what his customers say:

The sale of Dr. Kilmer's kidney remedy, Swamp-Root, is large compared with that of other preparations, and its merit is attested by those who use it. As a rule I do not recommend any remedy, but when I am appealed to I repeat what my customers have said.

J. LIVSON.

Those who have tried Swamp-Root say that it proved satisfactory, relieving pain and restoring the kidneys to their normal functions. It is used largely also for liver complaint with good results, and is in much favor as a general tonic for debilitated systems.

Cured Two Customers.

Enabled Them to Resume Their Employments—Wouldn't Be Without It Now.

At the junction of Mott and Worth streets, Chatham Square, Matthew Kramer, Ph. G., has a model drug store. In an interview with a reporter he said:

We sell large quantities of Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root to those looking for a health-restorer, and the sale is larger than that of any other proprietary medicine. I have two customers who were cured of long-standing kidney complaint by it. They were enabled to resume their employments. One of them was obliged to use between two and three bottles a week for some time, and now he says he would not be without Swamp-Root on any consideration, and if setting out for a long journey out of the country, would take along a supply for the term of his intended absence.

Dr. Salodino's Word.

Dr. Salodino's office is in the pharmacy—the pioneer Italiano Farmacie in New York—at Broome and Mulberry streets. The doctor made the following statement to a reporter:

We have steady demand for Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root and our customers express great satisfaction with the results.

Salodino Chemist

Increasing Sale Best Testimonial.

We sell Swamp-Root very largely and our customers buy it over and over again. An increasing sale of any article is usually the best testimonial any preparation can have, and Swamp-Root has the endorsement under the test. It is the best selling article we have in that class.

Kalish Pharmacy Cor. Kelly St.

Sells Lots of It.

Dr. T. D. Williams, 5 Montgomery street, Jersey City, says:

We sell lots of Swamp-Root, and it gives universal satisfaction.

T. D. Williams

Speaks Well of It.

Clarence H. Platt, 191 Court street, Brooklyn, says:

I am glad to say that the great Kidney Remedy Swamp-Root has a large sale and an increasing sale, and that those who buy it speak well of it.

THREE LEADING YONKERS DRUGGISTS

Praise Swamp-Root, and One Says It Cured Him of Kidney Disease and Recommends It to all Sufferers.

Relieved Bright's Disease.

A. Van Houten, 135 Main street, Yonkers, where he has been for fourteen years, writes:

The best thing I can say of Swamp-Root is that we sell a lot of it. They tell me it is a sovereign remedy for kidney and bladder troubles, and is a splendid spring tonic, bracing up the weak and weary system. I know one man who had Bright's disease of the kidneys and who told me he had received great benefit from it.

A Van Houten

The Wray Drug Co. Speaks.

The George B. Wray Drug Company, in Getty Square, is the largest and oldest establishment of the kind in Yonkers. Its manager made the following statement to a reporter:

We find Swamp-Root one of the best-selling proprietary medicines. Those who buy it come again and speak highly of its curative powers in kidney troubles and kindred ailments.

J W Cameron MANAGER.

Druggist Stahl Cured Himself.

John Stahl, Jr., 13 North Broadway, Yonkers, writes enthusiastically in praise of Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, not only as a druggist handling it and hearing it discussed by others, but personally as one who owes restoration to health to it. He says:

Swamp-Root is the proprietary medicine I would personally recommend. I have used it myself, and I have had three or four customers who used it on my recommendation and who got grand results from it. In my own case I had severe pains in my back. I tried several things, but without relief. I had Swamp-Root in stock. I opened a sample bottle and took it. The pain entirely disappeared in a few days and it completely cured my kidneys.

John Stahl Jr.

A Russian Apothecary.

Schlossberg, the great Russian apothecary at 388 Grand street, in that great East Side where people of all nations of the earth have congregated and one seldom hears the language of America spoken, is a typical student from the land of the czar. He is a pharmacist and chemist, with his sheepskin from a Russian college.

He was 15 years in the drug business in Brooklyn before he opened his present store, and is President of the European Drug company. He said to a reporter:

The use of proprietary remedies is not so general among the people of Eastern and Southern Europe, such as make up the population about me, and even so sterling a remedy as that of Dr. Kilmer has yet to win its way among them. But Swamp-Root has a greater foothold than any other, and my sales of this meritorious remedy for kidney and liver troubles increase rapidly. If these people are slow to accept, they are quick to recognize in Swamp-Root a medicine of great value, and I predict that in another year it will be as popular with them as it now is with the great American public, who recognize in it a practical specific.

I Schlossberg

Customers Pleased.

The largest prescription trade in Harlem is claimed by the Zaigat Drug Company, of 2117 Eighth avenue, and the business has doubled in a year. Mendel Zaigat, the manager, has been twenty-two years in business. He made the following statement to a reporter:

We have a most satisfactory trade in Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root. The sales are large. Our customers are very much pleased with it. They have recommended it to one another, and that shows more forcibly than I could say it, how well they are satisfied with it. As a rule they require it for kidney and bladder trouble, though it is esteemed by many people as a good thing for liver complaints. The sale increases all the time.

The Zaigat Drug Co. per M. J.

THE WASSELF PHARMACIES

Strong Commendation of Swamp-Root From Mount Morris and Morningside—Remarkable Cures of Stubborn Cases.

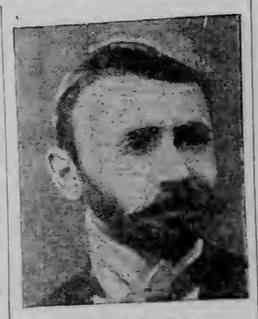
M. Louis Wasself owns two prosperous drug stores, one in the Cambridge, Madison avenue and 124th street, opposite Mount Morris park; the other at 261 Columbus avenue, corner of 167th street. The latter is under the management of his brother, H. M. Wasself.

The Wasself Pharmacy on Madison avenue began with the new century under the ownership and management of Louis Wasself.

Said Mr. Louis Wasself to a reporter:

Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root sells well. I sell more of it than any other spring medicine, which indicates that it is looked upon as of great value as a spring medicine, while its great virtue as a sovereign remedy for troubles of the urinary organs is well known.

L. Wasself



LOUIS WASSELF.

Manager H. M. Wasself tells of three conspicuous cases in which its power for the relief of the afflicted was manifested. He said to a reporter:

The sale of Swamp-Root in this neighborhood is large and on the increase. It is recognized as of great medical virtue in the treatment of Kidney and Liver troubles, and is recommended highly in every way.

I have two customers, one a woman who suffered intensely with pains in the back, due to kidney trouble, and she used Swamp-Root with great benefit.

A man who was laid up with grip was on his back, in fact with resultant trouble with the kidneys. He used Swamp-Root, and in five or six days was on his feet.

A father told me his son, who was completely run down, is now feeling like a new man, or, rather new boy, thanks to the use of Swamp-Root. These people recommended it enthusiastically. They swear by it, and on their statement I heartily endorse it.

L. Wasself for H. M. Wasself

CURED BRIGHT'S DISEASE.

Staten Island's Leading Druggist Says Swamp-Root Is of High Value.

For twenty-five years the writer of the subjoined letter has been President of the Happy Medicine Company, manufacturers of the Happy Pills. Mr. Kerr is also proprietor of the drug store at 20 Richmond Terrace, New Brighton, Staten Island, in the borough of Richmond. From that far corner of the great city, he writes:

"Swamp-Root is the best-selling proprietary medicine on the market. It is looked upon in the trade as of high value for diseases of the kidney, liver and bladder.

"One man in the borough after suffering for years with Bright's disease, was relieved and ultimately cured by Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root. I know of several cases in New Brighton who have been cured by its use."

James Kerr

DR. WILLIAM EDWARD JENNER

A Physician Who Has Prescribed Swamp-Root With Wonderful Results.

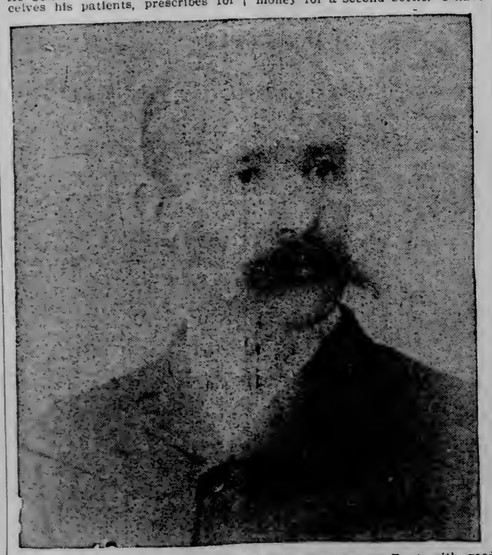
Dr. William E. Jenner, whose office is in his Walton Pharmacy, at 993 Columbus avenue, where he receives his patients, prescribes for their ails and fills the prescriptions all for one fee, is a graduate of the Long Island College Hospital, Brooklyn. He has had a rapidly growing practice in the city for three years, following a practice of five years in Walton, Delaware county, N. Y., and he writes that he has prescribed Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root in desperate cases of kidney trouble with wonderfully gratifying results.



Said Dr. Jenner to a reporter:

Those who buy Swamp-Root come again for it, and that speaks for itself. If they got no benefits from its use they wouldn't spend their money for a second bottle. I have prescribed Swamp-Root with good results. One patient who got much benefit from Dr. Kilmer's preparation suffered from an irritable condition of the bladder and he said that Swamp-Root gave him the relief he had had in a year or more.

THE CORPORATION HEGEMAN & CO.

Reports from the Three Great Pharmacies of This Famous Concern in the City, Harlem and Washington Heights, Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root Best of All.

The corporation of Hegeman & Co. is a conspicuous example of the application to the drug business of the recently developed tendency to combine great capital in a business enterprise.

Hegeman & Co. have two immense stores now in full blast at 196 Broadway and at One Hundred and Twenty-fifth street and Seventh avenue, while a third one, at Amsterdam avenue and One Hundred and Fifty-fifth street, Washington Heights, will be opened in a few weeks. George W. Ramsey is manager of the down-town store and W. J. Fraser of the Harlem store. The Washington Heights store will be managed by Egerton Hill.

FROM THE HARLEM HEGEMAN

Swamp-Root a Specific for Kidney Troubles.

We sell more of Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root than any similar remedy, which betokens its good repute. It is looked upon as a specific for troubles of the kidneys and bladder, and as a valuable preparation for the relief of liver complaints. Our customers speak well of it. Indeed, I do not recall a single complaint from any one who has used it.

W J Fraser

Down Town Hegeman's.

Manager Ramsey, in an interview with a reporter, said:

I have heard many good opinions expressed by our customers who used Swamp-Root. We have a greater call for it than for any other preparation for kidney troubles. It has a good reputation as a remedy for all kidney, liver and bladder troubles, and it sells better than any other of that class of preparations. Those who buy a bottle are sure to come again saying that it has benefited them.

Geo. Ramsey

Steady Demand for Swamp-Root.

As if to remind the wayfarer of the days of the middle of the last century, when the Bowery was the great commercial center of New York, the pharmacy of R. H. Luthin appears in the midst of its three-quarter mile stretch, at No. 191. It was established by G. A. Cassabeer in 1845, and has remained for fifty-six years with but a single change, when Mr. Luthin became its owner.

The business is now practically in the wholesale line, though Mr. Luthin's counter trade is still equal to that of most retail houses. Mr. Luthin says of the great specific for kidney ailments:

We find a steady demand for Swamp-Root, not only from our counter trade, but from retail dealers whom we supply. The sale of Dr. Kilmer's preparation is immense and it is superior to most of them.

R. H. Luthin

Brooklyn and Harlem Take Swamp-Root.

Ralph B. Robbins, whose pharmacy at Lenox avenue and 135th street is one of the most popular in Harlem, made the following statement to a reporter:

I have been in the drug business more than fifteen years, and I can say that in every case in which Swamp-Root was taken, it did good, and it has a host of firm friends who ascribe to it their recovery from diseases of the kidneys, bladder and liver. It has been a long time on the market. I was located in Brooklyn for several years, and while Swamp-Root was esteemed highly in that borough, I found it in as high regard in Harlem when I came five years ago. The sales of Swamp-Root are very large, especially in the spring time, when people emerge from winter, run down and in need of something to recuperate the liver and kidneys.

R. B. Robbins

INDORSES SWAMP-ROOT.

An Increasing Sale Speaks Volumes for Its Reputation and Its Worth.

J. H. CAAN.

J. H. Caan, dispensing chemist, at 2064 Eighth avenue, Manhattan, has an experience of fifteen years to draw upon, and he speaks highly of Swamp-Root.

Mr. Caan said to a reporter:

Swamp-Root is a staple article. It sells all the year round. If a customer asks my opinion I always indorse Dr. Kilmer's preparation as a kidney and liver remedy. Those who have tried it, recommend it, and, in short, it seems to give satisfactory results. The sale is constantly increasing, and that speaks volumes for the reputation of Swamp-Root.

J H Caan

"Strong Terms of Praise."

Charles J. Hoerle, who has a purely neighborhood trade at 1932 Lexington avenue, says:

Ours is only a family trade, but we sell about a dozen bottles of Swamp-Root a week, larger than the showing for any other proprietary preparation. Those who have used it speak in strong terms in its praise.

Chas J. Hoerle

Sale Simply Enormous.

Hartnett's, Warren and Montgomery street, is Jersey City's leading drug store.

The sale of Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root is simply enormous. One of the best sellers we have and increasing all the time. Those who have used it speak well of it.

POLICE PUZZLED

Confident That a Fire Bug Has Been Operating Lately.

Origin of Sunday's Fires Are Laid to That Source.

Boys Believed to Have Been Guilty at West End.

Fires of mysterious source, and which have every indication of incendiarism, are puzzling the fire and police authorities.

In the past month there have been about ten fires which seem to have been the work of the fire bug. A majority of these blazes have been between Lake avenue and Fifth avenue east and below Superior street. The destruction of the Troy laundry and the mysterious burning of McKay & Co.'s feed store last Sunday morning add fuel to the theory of incendiarism.

On Sunday evening a little frame building formerly used as a candy store, at the corner of Twenty-sixth avenue west and Superior street, was burned very mysteriously. The firemen of No. 2 engine company say that they smelled oil very strongly, when they responded to this alarm. Later it was found that a large pile of slab wood belonging to the Scott-Graff Lumber company, and located not far from this candy store, had been saturated with oil, and it was evident that some person intended setting it on fire.

The authorities are making every effort to apprehend the fire bugs, and when caught, as they surely will be if the pernicious practice continues, they will be given the full benefit of the law. In the case of the West End fires the indications are that young boys were responsible. Several are being closely watched and arrests may follow.

Oscar Lundquist, the 12-year-old boy who admits having caused the destruction of Anton Borgen's barn at the corner of Piedmont avenue and Third street Sunday afternoon, will have a hearing in the municipal court on Friday afternoon on the charge of arson in the third degree.

CONTINUES.

Receivership Hearing Still Under Way Before Judge Dibell.

The case of James C. Hunter against the Scott-Graff Lumber company is still on trial before Judge Dibell in district court today, and the defense is putting in testimony, claiming that the deals the company has undertaken have been all in the line of the company's business, that none of them have been hazardous, and that there has been no effort to injure the interests of the minority stockholders.

E. D. Graff was on the stand this morning, and he said that one reason he had used the company's horses on his farm in Dakota was that they would be more fit for their winter's work if they were kept at work during the summer. He said that if they were turned loose in the pastures their muscles relaxed and the horses became soft. So he thought it best to keep them at light work during the summer.

"Do you call breaking prairie light work?" asked John G. Williams.

"Oh, of course, we let them rest a good deal," said Mr. Graff.

The case was still on trial at noon, and it is expected to last until tomorrow.

EASY TO FIND.

No New Thing to Get Coal In Northern Woods.

"I notice that the morning paper makes quite a fuss over the finding of a bit of coal in the northern part of this county," said a man who has been out in the woods a good deal. "The fact that an Indian carried a lump of coal as ballast for his canoe, according to the story, excited a Pennsylvania man so much that he interested people to look for coal. The story is that the coal was so far from a railroad and so sharp around the edges that it was evident that it did not come from a mine, and this I can believe. The man that goes through the north part of this county and does not find some coal has not had his eyes open very wide, in my opinion. There is a large amount of float coal all through this section, and of course it means that there is coal somewhere. But the coal may have been brought with other debris in glaciers, and it may come from a very long distance from Duluth. If the deposit from which all this float coal comes could be found it would be a big thing if it was close enough to be of any service, but it is nothing at all new to find lumps of coal in this section. I have found coal in many localities all over the northern part of St. Louis, Lake and Cook counties, but I have never seen any outcroppings or any country that looked particularly as though it might contain coal. My belief is that this float coal comes from a long distance, and I am quite prepared to believe the story published by The Herald about a month ago to the effect that a Duluth explorer had found large deposits of coal up near Lake Winnipeg. If those deposits exist, it is very probable that glaciers have pushed chunks of it south to this section, and melting later, left these pieces of coal to excite gullible Eastern men.

"Jim Hill is the biggest coal looker in this section, and there are mighty few likely places in the northern part of this county that his men have not explored for coal, so far without result. He has fairly peppered the county with drill holes, and none of them have wound up in coal beds, so far as I have heard."

Park Pointers Joke.

Members of the Royal Order of Noble Sons of Rest went over to Minnesota Point Sunday evening to refresh themselves with the damp air and damp refreshments and to listen to the buzz of the young mosquito. They were guests at Charles Teska's camp and during the evening the members of the order were informed that their host had arranged a launching of his new boat.

The boat was an old affair with the bottom knocked out, but this was carefully concealed from the guests as they admired her lines from on the stocks. C. J. Fisher was finally persuaded to aboard the boat as it slid down the ways. Just as an empty champagne bottle was broken over the bow, Fisher made the jump. He went clear through the bottom of the craft and with a gurgling cry went beneath the darksome fluid of the bay. Members of the order rescued him just in time to prevent his rescuing himself.

Bridge Company Behind.

Several personal property tax warrants in large sums were filed this morning in the office of the clerk of district court by Sheriff Sargent, together with reports that he had been unable to collect them. The largest amount was against the Duluth-Superior Bridge company, of which G. G. Hartley is receiver. This sum is $3300. The others were as follows: East End Livery company, $98.83; Hiram Knox, $187.75; A. Snyder & Co., $166.69; West Duluth Electric company, $541.50.

POTTER SELLS OUT

Is Reported to Have Transferred His Large Interests.

The Sale Made to the Alger-Smith Company.

Consideration Is Said to Have Been About $170,000.

There is a rumor current and originating in very reliable sources that G. A. Potter, the well known timber and lumber dealer, has closed deals for the disposal of his interest at the head of the lake preparatory to leaving this part of the country for the Pacific coast, where he will turn his attention to pine stumpage in the state of Oregon. It is further understood that Mr. Potter already has a large force of timber cruisers out over the pine districts of the coast state locating timber for him.

Mr. Potter is said to have disposed of his one-third interest in what is known as the Wheelihan, Poter & Sargent tract of pine timber in towns 52, 53 and 54, ranges 10, 11, 12 and 13, the consideration being $150,000. The deal is on a cash basis, and is said to have been made to the Alger-Smith company. Mr. Potter is said, also, to have sold to the same company his one-half interest in 2,000,000 feet of logs banked last winter, near Silver Creek, thirty miles north of the city, on the shore of Lake Superior, and his half interest in the camp, outfit, booms, etc., the consideration in the later case being $20,000. The only remaining interest that Mr. Potter is said to have in this district is a half interest in 1,500,000 feet of lumber on the docks of the West Superior Lumber company, across the bay, sawed in 1900, and as yet unsold.

The deal, of which there seems to be little reason to doubt the truth, is for cash, and is one of the largest individual sales of the year in the local lumber and timber circles.

The timber included in this sale was bought during the years 1889 and 1890, and the Wheelihan, Potter & Sargent interests have been manufacturing since 1895. Mr. Potter came to Duluth in 1898 to give his personal attention to his interests in the timber and lumber.

Mr. Potter is also secretary of the Duluth Log Salvage association, and in his official capacity has done a great deal to make successful the efforts of the association against the people picking up the logs along the lake and bay shores that belong to the members of the association. It is understood that he will not leave for the West before next August or September, and until that time will devote his attention to the affairs of the association.

THE STAGE OF WATER.

Report For Lake Superior For May.

John H. Darling, assistant engineer of the United States engineer's office at Duluth, has made the following report as to the stage of water in Lake Superior in the month of May:

"The mean level of Lake Superior in May, 1901, by the United States gauge at Houghton, Mich., was 0.77 feet above low water datum. This is 0.23 feet higher than for the preceding month, showing that the lake was on the up grade, as is usual at this season, but the rate of rise is a little less than the normal, which is 0.30 for April to May.

"The stage of water last month was .22 feet higher than in May, 1900, a year ago, and is .55 higher than the average May stage for a period of twenty-six years. This is a very favorable condition for the opening of navigation, and this notwithstanding a deficiency of rainfall so far this year. This deficiency, according to United States Forecast Officer Richardson, was 2.53 inches for last month, and 4.12 inches for the period since Jan. 1.

"The present favorable stage is largely due to the high water during the latter portion of last season, the influence of which may be noticeable for months.

"J. H. DARLING,
"United States Assistant Engineer."

IT SLUGS,

Even Harder Than a Prize Fighter.

A newspaper man is subject to trials and tribulations the same as ordinary mortals. Coffee "slugs" a great many of them.

D. Beildleman, on the Wilkesbarre Record, says regarding his experience with coffee: "A little over two years ago I was on the verge of collapse superinduced by the steady grind of the newspaper office. For weeks I did not have a night's sound sleep and the wakeful nights were followed by despondency and a general breaking up of the constitution. I ran down in weight. My family physician insisted that I leave off coffee and take on Postum Food Coffee, but I would not hear to it.

"One day I was served with a cup of coffee, as I supposed, that had a peculiarly delicious flavor. I relished it, and when drinking the second cup I was told that it was not coffee but Postum Food Coffee. I was dumbfounded, and for a time thought I was the subject of a practical joke. However, I became a firm believer in, and a user of Postum from that time, and almost immediately I began to sleep nights and the irritableness disappeared, and in less than three months I was completely well, and in seven months my weight increased up to 198 pounds. I can now do the work of two ordinary newspaper men."

There is a great big lot of common sense in leaving off coffee and using Postum Food Coffee.

De Warde Kennedy Falls Into Evil Ways Once More.

While the police were searching for him in order to send him back to the state penitentiary, DeWarde Kennedy was paying a social visit to several convict friends behinds the bars of the Stillwater prison.

The prison officials, not knowing that he was wanted by the local authorities, permitted him to leave Stillwater, and he is still at large.

DeWarde Kennedy has been unfavorably known to the local police for many years. At one time he was sentenced to Stillwater for a term of ten years for forging a check on Superintendent Rebel of the Bethel.

Influential friends got him out of Stillwater on a conditional parole, and he was given employment at St. Luke's hospital as a sort of night attendant.

Last winter he stole a fur overcoat from one of the patients, and after pawning it for $15 went on a drunk. He was taken in custody, but through the influence of friends the matter was hushed up and he was given another opportunity to reform.

He was taken back to St. Luke's hospital, where he worked diligently for a few weeks long enough to pay off the pawn broker and for other indebtedness incurred during this period of relaxation.

Last Wednesday, however, he stole $60 from a patient and skipped town. The police notification of his escape did not reach Stillwater prison till late Saturday evening. He had been in the prison as late as 5 o'clock, visiting with old convict friends, but the prison officials, believing him to be a thoroughly reformed man, permitted him to go on his way.

A sumptuous dinner was served to the invited guests in the evening. The table was prettily decorated with natural flowers. Many presents were offered to the celebrants. Mrs. Dubreuil wore a silver crown and Mr. Dubreuil a silver flower, and these articles were brought from Germany for the occasion by their daughter, Mrs. G. Collatz. These were present at the silver wedding party: Rev. A. Leuret, Dr. Brunet, Mr. and Mrs. G. Collatz, Mr. and Mrs. L. Longtin, Mr. and Mrs. P. Tremblay, Mr. and Mrs. J. Petz, Mr. and Mrs. L. Spenard, Mr. and Mrs. A. Boisjoli, Mr. and Mrs. C. Kasted, Mesdames G Daoust, F. Lemoine and E. Bowden, Misses Anna, Laura, Leonila and Sophia Daoust, Louisa Lemoine, Cordelia Longtin, Rosa and Emily Nolet, Messrs. C. Broune, W. Daoust, F. W. Bowden, A. Lemoine, J. and H. Rioux.

Divorce For Desertion.

Judge Dibell yesterday afternoon granted Mrs. Margaret O'Hern, of Two Harbors, a divorce from James O'Hern, of some place in Canada. The case came up from Lake county. The divorce was granted on the ground of cruelty and desertion. Mrs. O'Hern asserted that her husband got into the habit of coming home drunk and that one time they had a little trouble over it, and O'Hern went out to look for the ax. Finally he left her and during the Boer war he enlisted in Lord Strathcona's horse and went to South Africa to fight for his country. He has come back since, but he has not been associating with her.

AT WEST DULUTH

Alderman L. A. Barnes, of the Seventh ward, introduced a new ordinance at the council meeting last evening that is designed to cut down the extent of the fire limits on Central avenue, the principal business street of West Duluth. The ordinance proposes to change the fire limit from between Main street and Cody street to Gosnold street and Cody street. This will shorten the limit by about three blocks and put outside of the district, hitherto included within the limit, a large amount of property that is a little too far away from the business portion to warrant the erection of store buildings, but which would be available for frame dwelling houses, such as cannot be constructed under the present ordinance.

Another provision of the ordinance that is a little out of the ordinary procedure in establishing the fire limits is a clause that relates specifically to the west side of Central avenue, or the properties in blocks 32 and 11. These blocks are bounded by Ramsey street on the north and Gosnold street on the south. The provision is that owners of property within these limits may erect frame buildings not to exceed two stories and with a frontage of not more than twenty-five feet, providing the building is located twenty-five feet from the nearest frame building on either side of it. The west side of Central avenue has not been recognized as the best business side of the street and for this reason there are a large number of vacant lots on that side of the street on which the owners have not seen their way clear to put up the more substantial business houses that would be required within the fire limits. Under the new ordinance half the property would be available for frame buildings that would not cost so much money and from which the owners could derive revenue on property that is not now paying one cent. It is understood that under the new ordinance if the owner of certain frontage in the district referred to erected a frame building, the owner of the adjoining lot could not build such a structure because the distance between the two buildings would not be twenty-five feet as required by the ordinance. It would be a case of first come first served. The person building a frame structure under these conditions would first have to be assured that the owner of the adjoining property had not taken out a building permit. The idea of having the frame structures twenty-five feet apart would lessen the danger from fire and the insurance rates would be kept down, while if a brick building should be put up at any time adjoining the frame building, the insurance rates would not be increased. The ordinance is intended to work relief to the property owners along the west side of Central avenue between Gosnold and Ramsey street, and also the owners of residence property between Main street and Gosnold street.

TO MEET MR. LOWRY.

For a long time past the citizens of that portion of West Duluth tributary to Grand avenue and West Third street, west of Oneota, have been working to get an extension of the street railway line on West Third street. Alderman Swenson has been urging its extension clear to the new Fairmount park. The matter has been referred to Director Mendenhall, of the street railway company, but he in turn referred the matter to Mr. Lowry. Now that the well known street railway man is at the head of the lakes, a meeting is being arranged between him and the West Duluth aldermen, also a number of the interested citizens. The matter will be laid before Mr. Lowry and the sentiment of the people along the proposed route will be expressed. It is expected that the meeting will be held some time this afternoon. An attempt was made to hold one yesterday at the Spalding, but when those interested reached the hotel, Mr. Lowry had gone to West Superior, where he was this morning.

WEST DULUTH BRIEFS.

A large number of West Duluthians left today for the Woodmen convention at St. Paul. Among those leaving on the morning train were W. B. Hartley, James Fobister, Lee Swingle, Herbert Spohn, W. C. Gray, James McDonald, Charles Berggren, Martin Salberg will go down this evening. Several members of the K. of P. band joined the Whaleback camp band, of West Superior, and will assist them in the music at the convention.

On Monday evening the Senate club will have an invitation party at Gilley's hall. It is expected that the event will be a very pleasant social function. The Columbia orchestra will furnish the music.

Andrew Myles and Frank Gottwald, Central avenue property owners, who have taken charge of the paving petitions, have called a meeting at the Republican club headquarters on Wednesday night to arrive at an understanding regarding the paving of the avenue. It is hoped that every resident property owner along the avenue, every agent and interested person will be present.

H. A. Schrick and family are entertaining relatives from Minneapolis.

Mrs. William Nelson returned this morning after a three months' visit with relatives in Canada.

Tomorrow morning the marriage of Miss Alice Brady, a popular young lady of West Duluth, and Christopher Fitzpatrick, of Delmar, Nev., will take place at the St. James church, Rev. Father Feehely officiating.

On Saturday afternoon Mrs. Sidney Hanchett, of Fifty-second avenue west, entertained a number of ladies at cards. A very enjoyable time was had. Pedro was played and Mrs. Hadley, of Superior, won the head prize, the second prize going to Mrs. York, also of Superior. Dainty refreshments were served later in the afternoon.

T. F. Wieland left yesterday for his home in Bayfield after a visit to his business interests here.

A son has been born to Mr. and Mrs. J. G. Reeves, of 331 Sixtieth avenue west.

The horse attached to the delivery wagon of Nilson & Evjen, the grocers, created a little excitement yesterday by running away. This was the animal's second trial, which also proved unsuccessful.

Alderman Cochrane has introduced in council an ordinance that has for its object the stopping of the dumping process now under way near the creek from the West Duluth park. The sand is taken up by the dredges on the government work, and if left at the mouth of the creek, will fill it up so that the plan of running small craft to the park in the future would be effectually checked.

"I am never without Peruna either in my home or in my travels. It is truly a great triumph of scientific medicine. I am constantly troubled with coughs, colds, etc., but thanks to your good medicine Peruna, I always find a prompt cure. I believe no medicine ever brought before the public has effected so many permanent cures as Peruna.—Mrs. F. E. Warren, 1848 Wyoming st., Washington, D. C.

Catching cold in the summer is a more frequent occurrence than is most generally supposed. Winter is generally supposed to be the time for colds. But cool nights alternating with hot days, sudden showers following sultry heat, profuse perspiration and cooling draughts, are all peculiar to summer, which causes a multitude of people to catch cold.

Summer colds require prompt treatment. They are always grave, and sometimes dangerous. The promptness and surety with which Peruna acts in these cases has saved many lives.

A large dose of Peruna should be taken at the rst appearance of a cold in summer, followed by small and oft-repeated doses. There is no other remedy that medical science can furnish, so reliable and quick in its action as Peruna.

If you do not derive prompt and satisfactory results from the use of Peruna, write at once to Dr. Hartman, giving a full statement of your case and he will be pleased to give you his valuable advice gratis.

A PARTIAL DIVISION

Commissioners Temporarily Settle the Road Money Dispute.

A Part of the Fund Remains Without Apportionment.

Services of the Chain Gang Are In Demand.

The board of county commissioners begged the question on the division of county road money, and put off the day of settlement by allotting to each road district a sum for immediate use, leaving a balance in the fund that will probably be the object of future animated discussions. It was found after a trial that an attempt to divide all of the money up between the road districts would involve a turbulent session, so it was decided to get out of the difficulty temporarily by each district taking a fair sum, leaving the balance to be drawn upon as needs arose.

The report that an agreement had been reached turned out to be a base fabrication, because the members when they met were exactly 1000 miles from any sort of an agreement. It was 5 o'clock in the afternoon, and after nearly three hours of labor, that the compromise settlement was finally reached.

Commissioner Kugler, at the meeting last Friday, had already been granted $2000 and the use of the county chain gang for sixty days. So he was out of the discussion when it came to a temporary distribution. Commissioner Kauppi thought $2500 would fix his district temporarily, but this was cut to $2700.

Commissioner Berdie got $3000 for the Hibbing and Mountain Iron road, which was not quite all he wanted. After the resolution was passed Commissioner Patterson jokingly suggested that the board ought not to hear anything more from Mr. Berdie this year. Commissioner McInnes received $1500 for the McKinley and Virginia road and $500 for the Eveleth and Iron Junction road. Commissioner Morcom was awarded $2100 for his district.

Commissioner Berg has no roads in his district, but he appeared as champion for the Miller Trunk road. He wanted $3000 to fix up the road between Nelson's stopping place and the Paleface river, a section of road that runs through a monotonous landscape of tamarack swamp. The road is in need of repairs, but Commissioner Berg's resolution did not meet with favor. Commissioners Kauppi and McInnes opposed it because they thought it was a waste of money for $10,000 would be needed to make any impression on the needs of that section. The resolution was laid on the table. It was suggested that the commissioners inspect the road in order to find out whether the expenditure of $3000 would do any good. Commissioner Berdie said that as the road extends through a large part of the county the regular levy should not be exceeded upon it, but a special levy should be made.

Commissioner Kugler got the best of the deal by a large margin in getting the chain gang for sixty days. This would represent a large sum, as it represents the labor of twenty or thirty men for two months.

John Jenswold, of the poor commission, appeared before the board to ask for the use of the gang at the poor farm. Since the county board got out of the business of caring for the poor the members have lost interest in the subject, however, and Commissioner Kugler's possession of the gang stuck. Commissioner Kauppi thought he would like to have the gang for ten days' work on the new West Duluth park, but the board did not take the suggestion favorably, and there was no second to the motion. Before the temporary division of the road money was made a resolution was passed setting aside $5000 of the sum for emergencies.

The petitions of the people of the proposed villages of Fall Lake and Chisholm were acted upon. An election was called for the village of Chisholm to be held July 23, with H. Thomas, W. Orr and W. Gerth as judges. The Fall Lake election was fixed for the same date, and N. M. Buffen, L. B. Hazen and J. Westlund were appointed judges.

The claims of the village of Hibbing and the towns of Stuntz and Mesaba for caring for smallpox patients were turned down. Suits against the county for these bills will follow.

Commissioners Berdie, Patterson, Kugler and McInnes were appointed as a committee to look over the Byrne road crossing of the St. Louis river. A request has come in for a bridge over the river, and the committee is to see if it is necessary and worth while. The county attorney was instructed to notify the Missabe road to repair crossings between mile posts 8 and 15, where the road's grade had been changed and the crossings left unrepaired.

The chairman was authorized to approve and recommend to the state auditor for payment the bill of John M. Lane for expenses incurred in burying Arthur L. Lane, a member of the hospital corps during the Spanish-American war, who died in this county.

At 6 o'clock the board adjourned, to meet again July 8.

Thomas Lowry and Superiorites Meet Today.

The long anticipated meeting between Mr. Lowry and the city officials of West Superior, that was to have taken place yesterday, for the purpose of reaching an amicable understanding about the Belknap street improvements, did not take place as Mr. Lowry was busy with matters relating to the Duluth lines on street car and wished the meeting postponed until today. During the afternoon, yesterday, Mr. Lowry and Mr. Goodrich drove out along the Belknap street line and today he will meet with the citizens of Old Superior at the Euclid hotel and a conference will be held. Mr. Lowry telling the citizens what he intends to do in the way of improvements. Mr. Lowry has said that the people may rest assured that the company will treat them fairly and that the recent improvement in cars is only the beginning of what the company intends to do in the nature of improvements.

SOME COMPLAINTS MADE.

Street Railway Feature That Raises Objections.

There is more or less complaint among street car patrons who patronize the hill lines because the East and West Fourth street lines seldom make transfer connections. The East Fourth street car bound west is supposed to meet the West Fourth street car at Sixth avenue east and Fourth street in time to allow transfers. The number made is few, it is true, but the cars meet about one time out of five. Sometimes the East Fourth street car will be only a block from the corner when the West Fourth street car reaches the transfer point, so it proceeds on its way without waiting. The cars on these lines run on such close schedules, that there is little time to space and make the round trip within the allotted half hour, but nevertheless it is rather exasperating to the persons who may wish to change to West Fourth street.

ARE GUILTY.

Unger and Brown Sentenced to the Illinois Penitentiary.

Chicago, June 11.—Dr. August M. Unger and F. Wayland Brown, on trial for conspiracy to defraud insurance companies through the death of Miss Marie Defenbach, were last evening found guilty and sentenced to the penitentiary under the indeterminate act. Frank H. Smiley, indicted with Unger and Brown, pleaded guilty and turned state's evidence. It is likely that he will escape with a light sentence.

The evidence in the case showed that Unger, Brown, Smiley and Miss Defenbach entered into a conspiracy by which Smiley was to appear as the affianced husband of the woman. She was then to be ill and apparently die, leaving the insurance, which included one policy in a stock company and two in fraternal organizations, the total aggregating $25,000. The woman in her will said that she desired her remains to be cremated, and it is supposed that it was the intention to hurry her away after her supposed death and cremate another body procured from a hospital.

The woman became ill according to program, but did not rally, and died. Her body was at once cremated. An inquest was held by Assistant Coroner John B. Weckler, without a jury, and Weckler returned to the coroner's office a verdict that the woman had died of natural cause. The death of the woman is shrouded in mystery, and physicians on the stand differed widely as to the cause of death. The state, however, declared that the woman was murdered, although it could not be positively proven. It was shown that all the insurance carried by the woman was assigned before her death, and that her will was drawn up after these assignments had been made. The will had no effect save in the clause touching cremation, and it is claimed by the state that the will was prepared only to facilitate the disposition of the body after death.

WAGES RAISED

City Laborers Get Increased Pay and Eight-Hour Day.

Lively Debate With Frequent Reference to Political Platform.

Employment Agency Protests Against a Free City Bureau.

The council last night:

Voluntarily increased wages of city's day laborers.

Protested against dredges obstructing West Duluth channels.

Did not confirm salary fixed for the new city electrician.

Introduced important amendment to fire limit ordinance.

Received protest against any employment bureau appropriation.

Received petition for the improvement of East First street.

While the city's day laborers slept, the council raised their wages. This action was taken without their knowledge or consent.

Political references and campaign conversation frisked through the proceedings while the raise was being made.

Alderman Haven of the Seventh ward reported a resolution fixing the wages of day laborers employed on sidewalk construction at $1.75 for 8-hours work, and $3.50 a day for men with teams.

Alderman Schaffer of the Sixth ward, who always has a sharp lookout for laboring men, promptly moved an amendment to have the new rate of wages apply to all day laborers employed by the city.

Alderman Cochrane of the Eighth ward objected. He said: "The idea of this city standing out as a philanthropist by paying men for what they do not ask and cutting the day's work two hours shorter than they want it, is not wise and I shall vote against it.

"If the idea is to give the laboring men more money, I am with the spirit of the resolution, but I think that the laborers should work ten hours instead of eight, and if possible would like to amend the 8-hour resolution, substituting a 10-hour day and making the rate of wages 20 cents an hour for ordinary labor, and 40 cents an hour for men with teams. That would make $2 and $4 a day."

After some further discussion Alderman Cochrane moved an amendment changing the 8-hour day resolution, so that the city's laborers could work ten hours if they desired or eight at their option.

Alderman Rothermel, of the First ward, said that would be impractical as part of the men would work one period and part the other.

Alderman Neff, of the Fourth ward, another strong friend of labor, opposed the amendment as follows:

"There is not the slightest doubt in my mind but that the amendment if submitted to the people of this city, would be turned down. The 8-hour day is a step in the right direction, and the planks urging this were in the political platforms of both parties till this council adopted the resolution declaring for an 8-hour day. The laboring men are entitled to it and I firmly believe that more work and better work can be returned from a man working eight hours than from a man working ten."

President Cromwell—Alderman Neff, you imply that as a general proposition, don't you? You don't mean it in regard to men holding a city job?

Alderman Rothermel—Say, Alderman Neff, did you ever see a plumber at work?

Alderman Neff—I am not talking from the observation of a boss plumber, and I don't think that laborers on city work are shirkers in any sense of the word. If you will lay this matter over for a week I'll demonstrate to you that a man working eight hours works more satisfactorily than a man working ten.

Alderman Cochrane—This is a splendid opportunity to make political speeches and talk to the grand stand. I, for one, will never be tied up by any political platform, if in my judgment it is against the interest of the city. I don't believe that the laboring men want eight hours, and by providing that they cannot work more than eight hours, you just give them so much time that is dead to them, and you make him more or less of a nuisance to the community.

Alderman Schaffer—We settled this eight-hour business about two years ago. We are now talking about raising the wages of the laboring men. Let's tend to the business before us.

Alderman Haven also spoke in favor of the 8-hour day.

Alderman Neff—I would like to reply to Alderman Cochrane's reference to my remarks about political platforms. I was elected on an 8-hour platform and I consider that I have a perfect right to make reference to it if I desire.

The vote was then taken on Alderman Cochrane's amendment, and it was defeated by a vote of 3 to 11. The yeas were: Cochrane, Moore and Wing—3. The nays were: Barnes, Haven, Johnson, Krumsieg, Neff, Olson, Rothermel, Schaffer, Swenson, Tischer and Trevillion. 11. Absent: Tessman and Cromwell—2.

The Schaffer amendment raising the wages of all day laborers was then adopted.

Under the old order of things, day laborers received $1.60, with $3 for men with teams.

Under the new arrangement the laborers get $1.75 and $3.50 for men and teams.

A resolution by Alderman Cochrane, protesting against the dumping of sand from dredges, so as to interfere with navigation and other conveniences at West Duluth, was adopted.

The dredges in the St. Louis river have been piling up sand at West Duluth in such a manner as to cut off navigation from the mouth of Kingsbury creek and elsewhere. In one of the little coves down near the foot of Sixty-first avenue west, there is a harbor for small pleasure craft, and the dredges are gradually cutting off the channel out to the main channel.

In another instance the filling in of the mouth of Kingsbury creek prevents the possibility of small craft getting up to the new West Duluth park. And in several other instances the sand from the dredges is piled up in such a manner as to obstruct streets if extended.

Alderman Barnes of the Seventh ward introduced an amendment to the fire limit ordinance, which is somewhat of a novelty. At present the fire limits of West Duluth extend on Central avenue from Cody street to Main. Alderman Barnes' idea is to cut this down two blocks, from Cody to Gosnold, and provide for the erection of frame buildings on the west side of Central avenue between Gosnold and Ramsey street, providing the frame buildings do not have a frontage of more than 25 feet, and also providing that such buildings will not be within 25 feet of each other. The object is to build up the west side of the street between Gosnold and Ramsey. The amendment went over to the ordinance committee.

Some time ago the board of fire commissioners engaged a city electrician and fixed his salary at $100 a month. Last night the council was asked to approve this salary limit, but declined to do so pending an investigation of the new electrician's ability.

Alderman Johnson introduced a resolution calling on the board of public works to make an estimate of the cost of improving Fourth avenue west from Superior street to Fifth street; Third avenue west from Third street to Fourth street, and Fifth avenue west from Third street to Fourth street.

A communication was received from the National Employment agency, protesting against the city's making an appropriation of $1500 to establish the free employment bureau. The company held that it was not just that the city should charge employment agents a license of $100 a year and then enter into competition with the agencies.

Petitions were received from the property owners of East First street petitioning for the narrowing of the street between Sixth and Twenty-Sixth avenues, in order to establish grass plots between the sidewalk and street, and also for the placing of a new combination cement gutter and curb. The petitions were referred to the board of public works.

A communication was received from the board of public works suggesting change in the Park Point ferry schedule so as to have the Minnesota Point cars and ferry meet.

A St. Paul cigar firm asked permission to erect a cigar stan between police headquarters and the city hall, offering to put in a telegraph clock at the top of the board.

DAM IS OUT.

One at the Mouth of Brule River Gives Way.

The large dam owned by the Brule River Improvement company, and located at the mouth of the Brule river, has broken away. It will take over a month to replace the structure. The dam was built about ten years ago and this is the first time that any trouble has been experienced with it. The exact cause of its destruction is not known, but it is thought by some that it may be the work of muskrats that have been digging holes in the dam and that the water has washed these larger until the structure was undermined. Very few logs were carried away by the breaking of the dam as the water was not high. The damage is estimated between $500 and $400. The breaking of the dam will mean the suspension of log driving on the Brule for some time.

Continued low water on the St. Croix river has caused the St. Croix Boom company to suspend operations for a time. The boom cannot be started until rains bring in some of the logs that have reached the St. Croix river, but are hung up. It is said that unless plenty of rain is had before long there will be a shortage of logs and some of the mills below Stillwater will be compelled to cease operations.

There are as yet no indications that the head of the lake sawmills will have any trouble this season on account of a shortage of logs. Immense numbers of logs are now being towed from both the north and south shores of Lake Superior.

AMUSEMENTS.

"SAG HARBOR."

Fresh from a really brilliant run of three months at the Theater Republic, New York city, and eight weeks return engagement at the Grand Opera house, Chicago, "Sag Harbor," James A. Herne's latest and most successful play, comes to Duluth next Monday, June 17, for two nights, at the Lyceum theater. So much has been said and written in extreme commendation of this new Herne play throughout the country that all theatergoers of Duluth have heard much of it. "Sag Harbor" has won its success quite as much by reason of its quaintly original characterizations as by the dramatic force and beauty of its idyllic love story. Added to this, the comedy is said to be simply irresistible. The new Herne play is universally declared to be better than "Shore Acres," and takes its title from a little Long Island seaport town at the extreme easterly end of of Long Island.

SIXTH AVENUE THEATER.

Last night the Sixth Avenue theater was packed to the doors with an enthusiastic audience to witness the first performance of the Myrkle & Harder company in that very pretty Southern comedy drama, "The Princess of Patches." The entire company is made up of finished artists and the piece bubbles with interest. Miss Myrkle gives promise of being a strong favorite. Her piquant beauty and quaint manner make her doubly welcome. The specialties between nets, especially the life motion pictures, are excellent and of the highest order. The play is beautifully mounted with special scenery and furnishings. The company will appear in the same bill tonight.

Governorship of New Mexico.

A warm fight is on at Washington over the position of territorial governor of New Mexico. It is of more than usual interest for the reason that some big officials are concerned in the appointment and those on both sides will leave no stone unturned to seat their man. Vice President Roosevelt is advocating the reappointment of Governor Manuel Otero, who is an old friend of his and has filled the position for four years. It seems the president selected him against the wishes of Capron and Fiske, the two Republican bosses of the territory. The young governor comes of an old Spanish family, and, his friends say, has administered the affairs of the territory in a most efficient manner while governor. He has certainly brought into line for the Republican ticket there a number of gold Democrats and voters of Spanish extraction who have heretofore always voted with the Democrats. The territory was carried last year by the Republicans, who elected their entire ticket. Ever since the president appointed Otero's man as attorney general of the territory the old bosses, Capron and Fiske, have been after him. Otero has been entirely too independent to suit them and has declined during the past four years to take orders from them. Governor Otero is now in Washington, and he has with him a number of prominent citizens of New Mexico, including the Republican national committeeman. He is strongly indorsed for reappointment by the large railroad interests, business men and ranch owners of the territory. It is understood, however, that Secretary Hitchcock, who has the general supervision of territories, is not in favor of Otero's reappointment and that he has selected a man of his own for the place. If this is the case Vice President Roosevelt will not have an easy task. These territorial appointments are always much sought after by politicians, and, as the president has not a great deal of patronage at his disposal at this time, he has probably received a number of applications for the New Mexico governorship. A really lively scrap between high officials from a place for a friend would be very interesting.

The Illiteracy of Immigrants.

It is evident to the close observer that a large proportion of the immense number of immigrants attracted to the United States by the prosperity of this country is but little loss to Europe and small gain to this country. The Immigration Restriction league in its review of the progress of immigration in the last three years reports that while the movement shows rapid increase in numbers, it also shows deterioration in the quality of immigrants. Thus the total immigration for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1900, was 448,572, an increase of 44 per cent over the corresponding year, while the number of illiterates rose from 61,468 to 95,673. The percentage of illiterates over fourteen years of age went up from 19.7 to 24.3. The average of money brought in by immigrants per capita, sank from $17 to $15. This of itself is a revelation as to the poverty of the masses of immigrants as showing that they are not even the reasonably skilled laborers of the more prosperous countries of Europe. Indeed almost half the total number of immigrants or 216,029 are credited to Eastern Europe, the racial composition of which for the purpose of this enumeration is Magyar, Greek, Slovak, Polish, Lithuanian, Italian and Portuguese. The average of illiteracy in the immigrants of these races was 39.8 per cent last year. The Portuguese were the most illiterate of this group, their percentage of illiteracy being 59.9. This percentage was exceeded in 1899, when it was 65.5. Illiteracy of Western Europe peoples landing here averaged but 4.2 per cent. The lowest percentage of illiteracy was with the English 0.2, the highest with the Dutch and Flemish, 9.6. The gravest suggestion of the league's data is found in the fact that while immigration from Eastern Europe increased from 137,555 to 216,029, that from Western Europe rose only from 130,160 to 149,442. There is one source of comfort, however, and that is the strict rules that is being enforced in regard to immigrants and which at least will keep out the very worst.

"DON'T KNOCK."

Several months ago The Herald referred to the organization at Buffalo of the order of "Don't Knock." The society has grown rapidly. It is not a joke, but has a serious purpose. Among other things its constitution states:

"We believe that in most instances 'knocking' is done thoughtlessly, and even those who knock maliciously and with evil intent would refrain if they would but give a thought to the possible consequences of the act.

"We believe that a smiple little knock, unthinkingly made sometimes, grows to such proportions as to be more cruel and dangerous than the plunging of a sharp knife into the vitals of the victim.

"We believe that many people judge others by their own standard, and that because they are not tempted or are able to resist doing some particular thing that they consider wrong, they feel themselves warranted in despising and criticising those who are weaker than themselves or whose opinions differ with their own."

The order applies its rules not only to individuals but to communities. Members are pledged to speak well, not only of others, but also of the city or community in which they live, and in Buffalo, where there are a number of lodges, the member who speaks ill of that city forfeits his membership in the order.

There is room in Duluth for one or more lodges of the order of "Don't Knock." If its principles were generally adopted, and its chief rule closely followed, Duluth would be greatly benefited. The number of "knockers" is much less now than a few years ago, but there are still too many people engaged thoughtlessly or maliciously in injuring the city by "knocking." Perhaps membership in this order might cure them of the habit.

MR. MORLEY'S VIEWS.

The report that the German emperor is about to take steps to bring the South African war to a close seems dubious. Yet there may be some foundation for the story—the kaiser is always doing the unexpected. Certainly a settlement of the trouble would be welcome to the British people as well as to the Boers. In a dispatch from Pretoria, dated June 10, Lord Kitchener reported that during the previous month 2640 Boers were killed, imprisoned or surrendered. The British casualty list for the month of May—the nineteenth month of the war—included twenty-five officers and 709 men who died either from military operations or disease. The returns for May 1 showed 249,416 British officers and men serving in South Africa, of whom 4183 officers and 133,819 men belong to the regular army. There are 58,821 "Colonials," 23,104 "Imperial Yeomanry," 9385 volunteers and 20,104 militia. Up to April 30, the casualties of the war had been: Killed, 4022; wounded, 17,200; died of disease or wounds, 10,956. On March 15, there were 13,797 sick in hospital.

From a parliamentary paper setting forth the war expenditure, and the provisions thus far made for meeting it, it appears that the South African and Chinese wars have cost Great Britain £153,317,000, two-thirds of it met by borrowing, nearly £10,000,0000 raised by suspending payments to the sinking fund, and as much more by using the surplus of 1899-1900. The remainder is to be met out of the proceeds of additional taxation. This additional taxation has been estimated to produce £37,404,960, but the ordinary revenues would have been insufficient to meet ordinary expenditures in 1900-02 nearly £11,000,000, so that the increased taxation will provide only £60,000,000 a year, the prospect is for yet another increase of taxation. In this connection a speech delivered by John Morley recently is of interest. On the evening of May 23, Mr. Morley returned to his seat in parliament, and made a speech after a long silence. He had been stating his view of a certain phase of the struggle, and then turned on the ministerial benches, saying:

"I know the gentlemen opposite think all this picture of mine is a dream. (Ministerial cheers.) You prove by your cheer that I am right in imputing to you that view. But who tells you so? Those who tell you so are the same men who told you even at the eleventh hour there would be no war—the same men who, when the war broke out, said: 'It will be over in a few months;' the same men who said the war will cost £10,000,000 and it has cost £150,000,000; the same men who said the Boers had lost their old heart and spirit for a fight, when they have been as brave as our own brave men. Well, then, when I am told that my view or our view of all this policy is a dream, I say: 'Who tells me it is a dream? Were not your advisers and inspirers dreaming when they launched you on this business?' (Cheers.) The expenditure of this £150,000,000 has brought not what British statesmen wanted, but precisely what they did not want. It has brought about havoc and ruin, material havoc and material ruin, unspeakable, unquenched, and for long unquenchable racial animosity, a task of incomparable difficulty. All the other consequences I need not dwell upon of this war, which you must let me call, as I think it, a hateful war, a war insensate and infatuated—(cheers)—a war of uncompensated mischief and irreparable wrong. (Loud cheers.)"

And who is the "little Englander?" Mr. Morley answered in his conclusion: "I quote again a sentence from a great divine: 'Things are what they are, and their consequences will be what they will be. Why then seek to deceive ourselves?' Wear out your coal, pile up your debt, multiply and magnify your responsibilities in every part of the globe, starve social reforms among your people at home, and then, indeed, you will have a little England, a dilapidated heritage to hand on to your children and your children's children. (Loud cheers.)"

It was a speech worthy of Burke at the time of the American war, and it was listened to by crowded benches on both sides of the house—listened to intently because even the supporters of the government respect John Morley. He represents the views of a very large section of the British people who anxiously yearn for peace and would welcome it, even if some concessions were necessary.

WHO ARE AMERICAN CITIZENS?

When a disagreeable fact presents itself, it is well to look it square in the face. It will be but a few days until the country will be treated to the customary Fourth of July orations, wherein the great dignity of our American citizenship will be duly magnified. Before being carried away with our own importance, it might be well to examine this American citizenship to see what it contains of which the average American ought to be proud.

"In that older day to be a Roman was greater than a king." Let us ask ourselves if to be an American citizen means half as much as we try to make ourselves believe it does. Do the nations and peoples of the earth pay especial attention to American citizenship? Let us see.

Very recently the state department has sent out to all foreign born citizens of the United States, or so many of them as indicate a desire to go abroad a circular giving the status of naturalized citizens beyond the jurisdiction of the United States. This official document reveals the fact that certain foreign powers do not recognize our naturalized citizens when their own laws are concerned. That is to say, they all, with the exception of Great Britain, adhere to the theory, "once a citizen always a citizen." The continental nations, notably Germany, France, Austria, Italy and Russia, have certain rigid military laws to which all native-born citizens are subject. They owe this service to the state as a sort of recompense for the privilege of being born under the flag. This service can be demanded at any time, and if a man within the age limit leave the country to take up his residence in the United States, he still remains a subject of his native land, howsoever often he renounces his allegiance and swears fealty to Uncle Sam.

The state department has advised all such that they leave the United States and enter the land of their birth at their peril. That is to say, if any such person, having become a citizen of the United States, should go to any of the above named countries, and was there arrested for the crime of abjuring his native country to escape the military exaction, he could and would be punished without any protest from the United States. Uncle Sam has no treaty stipulations with these powers whereby their citizens can become citizens in the fullest sense of the word. True, they have no extra territorial jurisdiction over a man who has expatriated himself, but the moment he touches his native soil the power of his adopted country ceases. Of course the United States could demand the delivery of all such adopted citizens, but it will not do it, lest it lead to war, as it did in 1812.

Thus it will be seen that we have three classes of citizens—First, native born, who are entitled to our protection even to the calling out of the army and navy; second, the citizen limited, who is entitled to all the rights of native citizens at home and abroad in every country except the one abjured; third, citizens extra-limited, such as now inhabit the Philippines and Porto Rico, and, perhaps, Hawaii, who owe no allegiance to any king, queen, potentate or any earthly power whatsoever. They are protected in their rights so far as this country sees fit to extend its favors. They are styled residents of the place where they happen to be found. They cannot take the oath of allegiance to support the constitution, because they have no status to begin with.

This experiment which we are trying, this masquerading as a world power is bringing to light many weaknesses in our armor which our sublime isolation covered up. There is no doubt that the circular above referred to was thought necessary owing to the strained relations that are becoming apparent between the United States and Europe on account of our land-grabbing propensity, in which we indulge, while denying the same right to the rest of the world. The nations of Europe have never acquiesced in our bluster about the Monroe doctrine, neither have they, with the exception of England, ever admitted our power to take citizens of this or that nation and make them over into simon-pure citizens of the republic, entitled to the protection of the republic at all times. These concessions can be made only by comity or treaty stipulations. So far there has been no serious difficulty, but that point will no longer be allowed to pass unraised.

It may be well for all imperialistic Fourth of July orators to steer clear of the question of our glorious citizenship. It is a question that leads to many entanglements.

If Dr. Metchnikoff, who recently delivered a lecture on the subject, is to be believed, the human body is the home of a very large and enterprising colony of different breeds of microbes who thrive and grow fat in various sections of the individual. The child, he said, is born microbe-free, but within a few hours even the intestine is infested. The digestive organs continue the favorite homes, although the hair-follicles and mucous membranes are also thickly inhabited. Something like thirty species are found in the mouth, thirty or more in the stomach, and forty-five in large intestine. Many, of course, are beneficial in function, and as an example Dr. Metchnikoff explained that the fact that wounds of the mouth heal more quickly than those of the skin, is due to the presence of microbes which by their secretions attack the white blood-corpuscles, "the scavengers of the body." In the small intestine, also, certain bacterial acids prevent the development of other injurious bacterial types. The lecturer appeared to think the large intestine is a useless organ, and seemed to suggest that the appendicitis specialist, in lessening the number of useless and atrophying organs, "propitious to the growth of microbes," might encourage the rise of another-ectomy man.

Just retribution has been meted out to the baggage smasher. Reports from Atlantic Highlands tell of the maiming of three husky trunk tossers and the souls of three victims rejoice. A trunk receving the customary hanging at the hands of the baggage crusher exploded and blew out the side of the car, a bullet went through the leg of the chief smasher, while two of his assistants were so badly bruised as to need the services of a surgeon. It was through sheer accident that the public was avenged. It was a combination of a revolver and a can of powder carried in the tray of a very ordinary looking trunk. Carefully handled it would have been harmless, but it was not to be so. With fiendish glee the juggler of baggage seized it and flung it from the platform half way through the other side of the baggage car. Then there arose much smoke, flames and noise and the baggage-man fell with a bullet in his leg and his helpers burned and blistered by the explosion. Had the whole thing been designed it could not have worked better.

The Cincinnati Commersial Tribune assumes the responsibility for the following figures on the apple growing industry: "The apple crop of the United States is more valuable than its harvest of wheat. The total yield of apples in 1900 was about 215,000,000 barrels. At an average price of $2 a barrel, the total value of the crop was $430,000,000, while the average annual value of the wheat crop is but a little more than $300,000,000. The apple crop is thus worth about 50 per cent more than the wheat. Our export of apples now reaches 4,000,000 barrels, and this trade is rapidly expanding. American apples abroad bring from $2 to $4 a barrel, most of the fruit bringing a sum nearer the larger figure. There is no reason why our export of apples should not, in a comparatively short time, reach 100,000,000 barrels. We produce the finest apples in the whole world, and no fruit is more nutritive and healthful."

The present constitution of New Jersey, adopted in 1844, has remained unchanged for fifty years and remains practically the same as when first adopted. ### Passing of Ragtime.

Sit still,
Oh, throbbing heart,
Oh, surging soul,
Oh, gentle Art,
That makes the whole
World gather to its breast
The dearest and the tenderest;
Sit still,
Oh, all of you, sit still,
The while the cruel hand,
That cannot understand,
Lops off
The measure
And the melody,
The rapture
And the rapsody
That stirred
The millions
As the deep-chested winds
Stir oceans to their depths
And roll the bursting billows
Upon the sanded shore
In cadences that cry their pain.
Sit still
And coldly, calmly wait
The crushing blow of fate;
Or,
If you can't sit still,
And will
Raise a row and a rucus
Jump right up
In a hurry,
Trot out the ragtime band,
And let her go
For a ragtime show
In a one-time ragtime land;
Turn on the coons and the kickers,
The baby Loos and the lot,
And make of
The last-time ragtime,
A ragtime time,
And hot.

IN MICHIGAN.

Sault Ste. Marie—R. J. Cram, a well known dredge man of Detroit, has been in the city accompanied by Marine Architect Logam, through whose instrumentality a fresh water dredge trust is being developed. These gentlemen, as experts, are estimating the values of all the dredging plants on the lakes. At the lowest calculations the value will reach the enormous sum of $15,000,000 or $20,000,000. The proposition, it is said, is to form a single big dredging company on the lakes. Where owners of plants will not come in, a liberal price will be offered to sell outright. Hicker Bros., of this city, have a big plant which they say will not go into the amalgamation unless on the basis of an out-and-out purchase. It is thought the scheme is one which will fall by its own weight soon after its inauguration.

Calumet—The streets of the village of Laurium present a scene of great activity with the construction of the street car line and a sewer system under way. About 500 men are at work at present. The village employs 160 men at an expense of nearly $10,000 per month.

The village council of Laurium has decided that the wires of the Michigan Bell Telephone company strung along Hecla street and Lake Linden avenue must be placed underground and the work has been ordered done. The action was deemed necessary because the two thoroughfares will be macadamized this summer, the work on which will soon commence. It is almost impossible to make a good macadamized street with proper gutters while the poles are in the way. It has been the intention of the telephone people to place the wires in underground conduits, but they will now have to commence the work sooner than expected because of the decision of the council.

Two hundred laborers were set to work in Red Jacket, on the line of the Houghton County Street Railway company. Cars commenced making regular trips between Houghton and Laurium Monday morning.

Houghton—Early Saturday morning, about 3 o'clock, Sheriff Wills made the rounds of the saloons at Houghton to see whether his orders native to closing at the hours prescribed by law and as to gambling had been heeded. All but one were found closed, with no signs of the game going on. At this one place however—Edward Gallagher's—everything was running the same as before, and the sheriff raided the place, arresting the proprietor, bartender and five "gams" who were present. They agreed to appear before Judge Brand, at 11 o'clock in the morning, which they did. The judge fined each one to the fullest extent of the village ordinance that relates to gambling, and received the promise that no more of it should be done.

Hancock—A. J. Scott and A. D. Pettit, members of the committee in charge of Hancock's three-day "Fourth" of July celebration, got back from Chicago yesterday afternoon. They secured five of the best street attractions in the country from the same agency that managed the attractions for the Houghton street fair last year. The entertainments will be given from stands erected at intervals on the main thoroughfare.

THE DAKOTAS.

NORTH DAKOTA.

Fargo—Bishop Edsall, of the Protestant Episcopal church, returned last night from a trip over the state. When asked this morning whether he would accept the coadjutor bishopric of Minnesota, to which he was elected last week, he said: "I will not announce my decision in the matter until after the conclusion of the convocation which assembles here Saturday."

The annual convocation of the Episcopal church of North Dakota, which begins here Saturday, will be a more important meeting than was anticipated when it was called, as there will be something definite about Bishop Edsall's future. Discussion is rife already as to who will be his successor.

Contractor Kennedy put a large force of men to work this morning laying the 45,000 feet of gas mains for the Fargo Gas and Electric company. The mains are to be put in at a rate of 1000 feet daily and will cover the principal residence and business portion. They are being laid through the alleys and will not disturb street traffic or tear up the paving to any serious extent.

The May term of the United States court has been adjourned. Several trespass cases were disposed of by sentences.

Capt. Wilder, who is in charge of the temporary recruiting station, reports a quartet of soldiers for the first week.

Grand Forks—The board of county commissioners held a four days' session. Several bills were presented arising out of smallpox cases. Dr. Dugan, the county health officer, presented a bill amounting to $811, but the board cut it down to $480. Dr. Irwin, ex-health officer, presented his bill for $1043, but was reduced to $560.

During the absence of the head of the household in Lead, the couple went to Spearfish and stopped at Thayer's lodging house. When Clear returned home and discovered what had happened, he walked to Spearfish and had no trouble in finding his erring wife and her paramour. Clear swore out a warrant for the man and then took his young wife back to Hell Gate. ## DAILY STORY.

A CARGO OF ARMS.

BY HENRY ELWOOD.

(Copyright, 1901, William R. Miller.)

The Cuban junta in New York had been ready with their gold for a week or more, and the boxes of rifles, revolvers and cartridges had been waiting for several days, when the old tramp steamer Vixen came limping into port. She had degenerated into a tub. Her engines were rickety, her hull full of dry rot, and nothing but luck kept her afloat when she started on a trip. The Cubans wanted arms, and the firm of Davis & Co. wanted money, and it was decided that the Vixen should turn filibusterer. If she reached Cuba with her cargo, all right; if she foundered in the gulf or was captured, and her crew shot out of hand, all right again.

A telephone message brought a dapper little man around to the office half an hour after the decision. He was only two inches over 5 feet in height, and his weight in his fighting togs was not above the bantam class. He wore eye-glasses and carried a cane; he had a puff tie, a high collar and patent leather shoes.

"I'll take the job," he said when the adventure had been explained to him and a figure set for his services. "Yes, by John, I'll run your old tub down to Cuba and land every box high and dry or know the reason why."

"I'm Capt. Bell," he said to the chief engineer as he went aboard the steamer an hour later, "and I'm going to run this craft for the next few days. How's her engines?"

"They may hold out to get her across the river, but I won't guarantee it."

"You must be blind! They've got a matter of a thousand miles in 'em yet. Do you want to earn $500 in the next two weeks?"

"Not down here among the flying crank pins."

"Then get ashore and peddle lemons."

The old crew were kicked off and a new one kicked on. That was a matter of only twenty-four hours. Almost any sort of man who offered himself was taken, though the new engineer was a man who thought he knew his business. He looked the boilers and engines over and reported to Capt. Bell:

"There isn't an engineer on earth who can carry this old coffin up to Boston and back."

"You are wrong," replied the captain. "Her boilers are as sound as dollars, her engines in beautiful order, and she can be taken clear around the world without a dollar's worth of repairs."

"Yes, I see that I was mistaken," mused the engineer after a long look at the captain, and he went to work with pins and wedges and packing.

The Vixen cleared for Porto Rico and St. Thomas in ballast, and it was reported that she had been sold. The ballast at first meant the water in her hold, but after the bilge pumps had coughed and wheezed and groaned for a day it was found that their capacity was just about equal to the inflow from a hundred leaks. The mate and chief engineer were astonished at this discovery, but the little captain wasn't.

"By John, but you fellers had better turn farmers," he exclaimed as they talked it over. "What are leaks for except to let in water to sweaten the hold? What are bilge pumps for except to throw the water out again after it has soured? If I hear another word about it there'll be a row."

The Vixen left her pier an hour before dark. An hour after dark she came to anchor in the mouth of Princess Bay and a schooner crawled up to her on the evening breeze and made fast. Then the real ballast was taken in. As the boxes began to come over the side and go down into the hold the crew began to guess and wonder. They were too heavy to contain breakfast foods, and not heavy enough to contain grindstones. The men were a scurvy lot, but when they had settled it that the boxes contained rifles and ammunition they had brains enough to connect the cargo with Cuba. They went further. Arms and Cuba meant a filibustering expedition, and when filibusterers were overhauled by a Spanish gunboat more or less of them stood up against a wall to be shot at. All hands suddenly quit work.

"What's the matter here?" asked Capt. Bell as he suddenly appeared among them.

"We don't want to be shot," was the laconic reply.

"Oh, I see! Rather have it some other way, eh? Now, by John, but I'm the one to accommodate you. I didn't think you'd want it quite so soon, but as a matter of fact I've been ready for the last two hours."

He had a baseball bat in his hands. He sailed in. He had a cigarette between his teeth as he cracked heads right and left, and the intervals between puffs were as regular as clockwork. There were fifteen roustabouts in the revolt, and he had them licked in ten minutes, and long before morning the Vixen had passed out to sea with her cargo. With engines wheezing, propeller wabbling and boilers leaking, the old relic wallowed along down the coast until the southern point of Florida was reached. By that time the fear of death had become so monotonous to all on board that a deeper dive or a louder groan than usual brought no chill. The engineer couldn't possibly figure out why his engines didn't fall apart and his boilers burst under a head of 40 pounds of steam, but finding that the problem gave him a headache he finally let it slide.

One night the steamer headed in for a bay, which had been named as the spot to meet the Cubans and deliver the arms. Most of her coal was gone, and the leaking boilers kept the fires and the steam low. The mate and the engineer exchanged ideas. By the greatest good luck the old tub might wallow along for two or three hours more, but they wouldn't give her a minute over three.

"You are old women!" exclaimed Capt. Bell when they reported to him and humbly inquired what he proposed to do in the matter. "This craft is as staunch as a house and as safe as a church, and if it wasn't for that Spanish gunboat coming up from Iceward I'd clap you both under the hatches for croaking."

The hour was midnight and a searchlight was playing over the sea. In half an hour the Vixen was full under the light. In another thirty minutes she was under the guns of a Spanish scout. She was ordered to heave to, but she squattered along. Then a solid shot was fired across her bows, and a dozen of her crew yelled out in terror.

"By John, but I've arms to deliver, and delivered they shall be," said Capt. Bell as he walked the bridge, and men flung themselves down on the decks and cursed and growled and wept.

Shot and shell screamed over them and whizzed after them, and a broadside almost lifted the old sub out of water, but her engines were not rung off. While the gunboat was making a half-circle to follow her she ran into a fogbank, and the Spaniard hunted for her in vain. By and by the Vixen stopped without the aid of a signal, and with the propeller still lazily revolving. There were shouts of terror from the crew, but the little captain cried out from the bridge:

"By John, but what a pack of fools! Can't you tell the difference between going to the bottom and running ashore?"

The Vixen had reached her destination. Her nose was on the beach of the bay and the Cubans were waiting. When daylight broke the last box had been unloaded and her crew were ready to put to sea in her small boats.

"Senor," said the commander of the patriots, "what about the steamer? Is she to be left behind?"

"She's yours," was the reply. "In the name of American liberty I make you a present of her for the Cuban navy."

"In the name of Cuban liberty I accept, and with her we will smash the tyrant afloat."

"By John, but you will, and now, men give way and let's go home."

CAESARISM IMPOSSIBLE.

Chicago Record-Herald: The Democratic party is not so dead that a nomination of Mr. McKinley for a third term would not galvanize it to a life that would relegate Bryan and Populism to the rear and rehabilitate the old party on an anti-third-term platform. If the Republican party should confess that it had only one man worthy to preside in the White House the Democratic party would find itself embarrassed with available candidates.

We agree with Senator Depew that a Cesar for this republic is impossible, but only because the American people will not tolerate the idea that in 77,000,000 people there is only one man fit for the role of Caesar. It is because a third term squints in the direction of a Caesar that it is so obnoxious to American ideas.

Nothing that lends color to the charge that American commercialism consibires to convert the White House into the seat of indefinite imperial power will be accepted by the American voters. A third term for Mr. McKinley would be something more than a squint at imperialism.

In the early history of the republic presidents declined to accept third terms which the people urged on them.

In our day the people forbid their seeking a third term.

Frightful Explosion Kills Many Miners.

Brave Rescuers Also Lose Their Lives.

Port Royal, Pa., June 11.—By the explosion of gas in shaft No. 2 of the Pittsburg Coal and Coke company's mine, about 6 o'clock last night, seven men are supposed to have been killed and thirty miners entombed.

Smoke arose from the mouth of the shaft in volumes during the night. Great excitement prevailed, and the entire population of the town remained all night at the mine, eagerly awaiting some news from those thought to be either buried under tons of slate, or slowly awaiting either death from flames, or relief from the outside, with small chance favoring the former.

The supposed dead:

The available list of those supposed to have lost their lives is unobtainable at this hour, and this is a partial list of the supposed dead:

WILLIAM McCUNE, general superintendent of this district, who resided at West Newton.

DENNIS WORTLEY, pit boss of the mine.

MICHAEL ROY, one of the foremen.

MICHAEL DALY, who entered the mine for the first time this morning.

FRANK DAVENPORT, married and residing here.

ANTHONY STICKLES, married, who lived here with his wife and child.

JOCK PEOPLES, who has a wife and two small children here.

About thirty other miners.

The rescued: Lawrence Settler, John Stakes.

In the attempt to rescue the men known to be in the mine, other lives were placed in jeopardy and may be lost.

From what can be learned here, last night, about 6 o'clock, there was a low, rumbling sound, followed by a roar which sounded like a cyclone, then three sharp and short reports. Immediately the mine was on fire.

When the first excitement had subsided a little, it was decided to try and rescue at least a part of those known to be entombed. As quickly as possible a messenger was dispatched on horseback to West Newton, which is five miles away, and while awaiting the arrival of appliances necessary to enter a burning mine, a temporary rescue party, composed of the men who had knocked off earlier in the day, was formed.

Fearlessly these men entered the shaft and started toward the spot where it was thought some of the entombed men may be found. Lying at the bottom of the shaft were Lawrence Settler and John Stakes. Unconscious and covered with dirt, the men were quickly taken to the top of the mine. They could give no information as to what had caused the fire, and told the rescue party that four other men were entombed.

About 7 o'clock, William McCune, of West Newton, general superintendent of this district; Dennis Wortley, pit boss; Michael Roy, foreman, and several other bosses, with about twenty men, went down shaft No. 1, which is just opposite, on the Baltimore and Ohio side of the river, and they are probably lost.

About three hours after the rescue party had been in the mine two more explosions were heard. Meantime the crowd around the opening of the shaft had increased, the crowd including mothers, wives and sisters of the many men entombed. All sorts of plans were suggested for the rescue. Some talk of turning the Youghiogheny river into the mines, but many are opposed to this idea for fear of drowning the men. All that would be necessary to let a deluge of water into the mines would be to pull a plug, which was placed in the mines after the explosion of seven years ago, and the water would rush into the mines at a rapid rate.

At 11 o'clock, four men volunteered to go down in shafts No. 2 and No. 3 and one man down No. 1, but up to this time it is not known whether they have succeeded in making any rescue.

The fan is now working, but until the flames are extinguished or news comes from one of the rescue parties, no further particulars are obtainable.

The Port Royal mines are situated on the Youghiogheny river, thirty-seven miles from Pittsburg. They are owned by the Pittsburg Coal company. District Superintendent McCune, who is reported killed at the head of a brave band of volunteers, was one of the most experienced and best known miners in Western Pennsylvania. The Port Royal mines are located in a thick vein coal belt and are for that reason extremely gaseous and dangerous. The state mining officials have made their management the object of repeated caution.

At 3 o'clock, W. A. Sweeney and Frank Stratton came to the surface, bringing Harry Beveridge in an unconscious condition with both arms and a leg broken and badly bruised. He cannot live. All three men succumbed shortly after reaching the surface. Sweeney, who was mainly instrumental in saving Beveridge, was able to tell that he climbed over the bodies of at least three men on his way out.

The explosion occurred at the time when the shifts were changing from day to night turn and it is impossible to tell how many were in the mine at the time, but certainly no less than thirty are entombed.

At 4 o'clock this morning Superintendent McCune's hat and a couple of his letters have been found, the hat being blown to fragments. There is no trace of him or any of the rescuing party. Those now known to be in the burning mine are James Bailey, Jock Keck, Dan Allsop, Roy Allison, Tom Gleason, Harry Hough, John Stock, Joe Buckle, Peter McCullough, John Burke, William McCune, Wiliam Wardley, Ed Sweeney, David Wringe, Chris Howell and several others.

All the rescuing parties have come from the mine. They say the black damp made rescue work impossible and they give up hope of finding any of the missing alive.

Twelve men are now known to be missing and are supposed to be dead. They are:

Frank Davenport.
Antonio Stickle.
John Peebles.
J. Daily.
William McCune.
William Allison, superintendent of several mines below West Newton.
Dennis Wardley, pit boss.
Michael Roy, pit boss.
John Keck, pit boss.
Peter McCanto, boss driver.
Bernard Ball, an unknown.
Injured men brought out are:
Arthur Smith, pit boss, will die.
Fritz Kreuter, miner, will die.
Harry Beveridge, machinist, will die.

RECOGNIZE GOD AGAIN.

The Italian Masons Return to First Principles.

Rome, June 11.—Every Free Mason in the United States will be interested to learn that the Italian Free Masons, after having for nearly three decades followed the example of the French branches of the craft in eliminating all reference to the Creator from their rites, and in barring the use of the words, "A. G. D. G. A. D. U." which stand for the Latin words, "To the glory of the great architect of the universe,' have now restored this mystic device, and have returned to the Masonic recognition of the divinity.

This will have the effect of bringing about a recognition between the Italian lodges and those of the United States, of Great Britain, of Germany and of Scandinavia, which have boycotted all those Masons of the Latin countries who have denied allegiance to the great architect of the universe.

MONEY VALUE

Of "Old Love Letters" Stored In a Connecticut Attic.

New Haven, Conn., June 11.—Old love letters of his father, as he thought them, have turned out to represent a fortune of $200,000 in New York, New Haven and Hartford bonds for William H. Warner, of New Haven, a drummer for coffin trimmings, who has had a hard time to keep the wolf from the door.

Warner's father was stricken with paralysis in 1887, and became childish. Warner, who had married, took his father away from the old place to his home, and brought all the effects from the old home to the new. The elder Warner soon died, and the son kept so busy earning a living for his increasing family that he never found time to examine all the heirlooms brought from the old homestead.

Recently he planned to move into another house, and told his family to throw away what appeared to be useless of the stuff stored in the attic. He packed his sample case and started away on a business trip. There was one box of letters that his mind kept averting to. This contained a lot of missives written by his father to his mother in the days of his parent's courtship. He feared that his wife might throw them away, and he wished to keep them for sentimental reasons, and sent a telegram to his wife, telling her to wait until his arrival home before disposing of the articles in the attic.

The husband, with an interest that was as totally inexplicable to him as to his wife, delved into the boxes and trunks that never had been opened since his father's death. He found several packages of letters in an old hair cloth trunk, and among them the bundle he particularly desired. He thrust them into his pocket and told his wife she could now go ahead with the disposal of the heirlooms, and resumed his business trip.

He took an early morning train from New Haven to Hartford, the old package of leters tied carfully with a faded blue ribbon, just as his father had done them up in his coat pocket. Then he took out the package of faded yellow papers. He undid the ancient ribbon. The first bit of paper that was released, when unfolded, proved to be a lot of bonds of an early issue of the New York, New Haven & Harlem Railroad company. Brokers told him that the bond coupons called for $48,000 of accrued interest, and had a face valuation of $250,000. They said that the total value of the bonds was probably more than $300,000 at the present price of the securities.

There were in addition, among the "old love letters" a number of bonds of the Adams and United States Express companies.

WOMAN HELD.

Suspected of Murder of Neighbor Who Was Found Dead.

St. Louis, Mich., June 11.—Mrs. Charles Yates, wife of a well-known farmer living near here, was placed under arrest yesterday afternoon by order of Prosecuting Attorney Kirby, charged with murder. Sunday the dead body of Jasper Wright, a neighbor of Mr. and Mrs. Yates, was found in a thicket near their home. While a coroner's jury was investigating the cause of death, Mrs. Yates testified that while in the woods gathering flowers she discovered the body of the man, and called her husband and another man who were near by. Mrs. Yates while on the witness stand disclaimed an intimate acquaintance with Wright, but later admitted that she had been alone with him. She then became hysterical and was excused. Mr. Yates followed her on the stand and stated that he was not acquainted with his neighbor, but admitted that he had heard rumors of intimacy between his wife and Wright. Mrs. Yates, on being recalled, confessed that she had been accustomed to meeting Wright, and that when she went into the thicket Sunday she saw Wright kneeling on the ground. He complained of being sick and then rolled over and died. When Mrs. Yates concluded her statement the prosecutor ordered her under arrest on a charge of murder, and the inquest was adjourned until June 13.

Great excitement prevails here over the affair.

ANCIENT CHURCH BURNED.

Old Catholic Church at La Pointe Destroyed.

Bayfield, Wis., June 11.—The old Catholic church at La Pointe, Madaline island, was totally destroyed by fire early yesterday morning. This church was an ancient landmark and has been visited by hundreds of tourists annually. The original church was built in 1835 by Father Baraga and rebuilt at a later date.

It contained an ancient painting, "The Descent From the Cross," which Indian tradition says was a gift to the La Pointe mission in 1669 by Father Marquette. It is the opinion of some that the picture was stolen and the church set on fire to cover up the loss. There is no insurance.

HE GOT GAY

And She Opened Fire With a Winchester.

New Orleans, June 11.—Mrs. Pierce Simon, a handsome young married woman of Lafayette, La., gave evidence that she is well able to take care of herself. When Albert Whittington, a young man of amorous proclivities, got gay with her, she got out her Winchester rifle and opened fire on him, scaring him so badly that he stopped running he told the authorities of the lady's rifle practice and they placed Mrs. Simon under arrest. She immediately gave bail and swore out a warrant against Whittington for insulting her. The affair has excited great interest in the community.

MARRIED YOUNG CLERK.

Elderly But Wealthy Woman Infatuated With Him.

Springfield, Ohio, June 11.—A decided sensation was created here upon receipt of the news that Mrs. Clara G. Farmer and Will F. Cody, of this city, were married Tuesday in Canada. She is 54 years old, a former society leader, very wealthy, and the divorced wife of Fred Farmer, a prominent manufacturer. Cody is only 26, and a clerk in a dry goods store. They are now in Detroit, where they will reside for the present.

Every effort has been made to keep the marriage a secret, but it leaked out through a letter received by Everett Cody, father of the groom. Mr. Cody, Sr., was so angry that he threatens to punish the youth when they meet.

Mrs. Farmer became infatuated with Cody the first time he waited on her in the store, a year ago, and they have been meeting since. She is an attractive woman, dresses elegantly and has been greatly admired.

The guests are gone the smile slips from the face of the hostess and she gives up to the pain which racks her body. Many a woman entertains and wears a smile while her back aches and her nerves quiver with pain. Surely any medicine which offers relief to women would be worth a trial under such conditions. But when the woman's medicine, Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, is offered with the proof of efficacy in thousands of well attested cures, what excuse can then be offered for suffering longer?

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription makes weak women strong and sick women well. It dries enfeebling drains, heals inflammation and ulceration and cures female weakness.

"It is with the greatest pleasure I write you the benefit my mother has received from your 'Favorite Prescription' and 'Golden Medical Discovery,'" says Miss Carrie Johnson, of Lowesville, Amherst Co., Va. "She suffered untold misery with uterine disease and nervousness, and had a constant roaring and ringing noise in her head. After taking six bottles of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription and 'Golden Medical Discovery,' she was entirely cured."

BOTH DEAD.

Man and Wife Found In Room In Chicago Hotel.

Chicago, June 11.—Side by side, each with a bullet wound in the temple, the dead bodies of L. Hartman and his wife were found in their bed at the Great Northern hotel last evening. The room showed no evidence of a struggle, both lifeless forms were composed, the covering of the bed well tucked about them, but the revolver clutched in the right hand of the husband told the story of the double tragedy.

Of the pair that courted death so successfully nothing is known by the managers of the hotel beyond a report that the man has wealthy connections in New York and that the woman apparently was once an actress under the stage name of Rose Violet. From information given by a woman who inquired for them this morning, it is supposed that the case is one of a runaway marriage, with death as the result of despondency over the obduracy of an unforgiving father.

Hartman and his wife registered at the hotel June 6, giving their address New York. Both were stylishly dressed, and appeared to be persons of means. They did not mingle with the other guests and spent most of the time in their rooms. They were reserved in manner, but from the evidences of affection they displayed it was surmised by the attaches of the hotel that they were on their wedding trip.

Early Sunday night they retired to their apartments, and nothing was seen of them until last evening, when they were found dead in bed. The chambermaid tried to gain entrance to the room in the forenoon, but was unable to do so. Later in the day she repeated the attempt with the same result. Repeated knocking failed to obtain an answer and the hotel office being notified the room was broken into last night and the discovery was made of the double tragedy.

TUBBS SAYS

That He Is Not a Heretic, and Challenges Proof.

Saline, Kan., June 11.—Professor Frank D. Tubbs, recently removed from the chair of natural sciences in the Wesleyan university for alleged heresy, said of his case:

"I knew nothing of the movement to oust me until the thing was done. It is usual to give notice of a month or so before action of that kind is taken. I am not a heretic. I challenge any member of the board of trustees, any preacher in the Northwest Kansas conference, or any one else, to point out a single utterance of mine that he has heard that is in opposition to the doctrines of the Methodist church.

"I am a consistent believer in evolution as the method which God has employed to bring things about in this world. I do not believe God has gone about his work in a haphazard manner, but has had a distinct method. Evolution is the only theory of this method adopted and taught by prominent scientists of the world today. I have abundant letters from professors in the leading universities of America and England all testifying to the truth of the theory of evolution.

"I believe in the right of every man to inquire where the Bible came from, who wrote it and what its purposes are. The ideas which result from such investigations are naturally various and while I am not a teacher on this subject, I hold no opinions that are not taught in the regular authorized theological schools of the Methodist church, whose teachers are elected by the bishops of the church.

"Before I left South America Bishop Vincent fully questioned my beliefs, approved them and reappointed to the seminary."

The opponents of Dr. Tubbs refuse to make any direct charge against him other than that his teachings are not in accord with the doctrines of the church. The orthodox and liberal elements of the Northwest Kansas conference of the M. E. church apparently are lining up for a struggle as a result of the dismissal of Professor Tubbs. The trouble it appears has been growing for more than a year, and the dismissal of Dr. Tubbs brought the crisis. Some of the younger ministers claim that the ones who are making the charges against Dr. Tubbs are going out of their way to make trouble and they dub them "heresy hunters."

Nearly all the Methodist theological schools are represented in the conference and the most of them are supporters of Dr. Tubbs, but the older and more orthodox ministers are in the majority and control the Kansas Wesleyan universities.

A SHARP DECLINE

Bears Have Things Their Own Way In Wheat.

Bearish Government Report, Lower Cables and Favorable Weather.

Extensive Rains In the Northwest and Southwest Reported.

Duluth Board of Trade, June 11.—The wheat market started out weaker and lower this morning and prices declined further during most of the session, with a large amount of trading. The bullish government report issued late yesterday did not appear to have any marked effect being just about what was anticipated. The chief factors producing the weakness were lower cables, Liverpool wheat showing a decline of 1s6½d, and the prospect of more rain, following extensive rains throughout the Northwest and Southwest, which are regarded as highly favorable for the growing wheat. There was a good demand for wheat at the seaboard, New York reporting 50 loads taken. Chicago reported heavy liquidation and also a large amount of short selling. There are said to be some large short lines out in the market. Bradstreet reported a decrease of 3,360,000 bus in the world's visible supply. Clearances of wheat and flour were 544,000 bus. Primary receipts were 622,088 bus, last year 405,488 bus.

Receipts at Duluth and Minneapolis, 330 cars, against 323 last week and 478 last year. Chicago receipts, 112 cars, none of contract grade.

There was unusually active trading on the Duluth board today. July wheat opened ⅝c down at 71⅝c, sold at 72c at 9:35 and declined steadily to 70⅝c at 10:42. At that point it held practically without change until just before the close when it stiffened and closed at 70⅞c, a decline of 1½c. Chicago declined 1½c and Minneapolis 1⅜@1½c.

Cash sales were very light, aggregating about 7000 bus at July price.

Trading in flax futures was very active. September closed 4c off and October 3c off. Oats went off ¼c and other coarse grains were unchanged in price. Bradstreet reported an increase of 664,000 bus, last year 512,454 bus. Clearances of corn were 96,479 bus. New York reported 56 loads worked for export.

Following are the closing prices:

Wheat—No. 1 hard—Cash, 73½c; to arrive and July, 73⅜c; September, 69¼c. No. 1 northern—Cash, 70½c; to arrive and July, 70⅝c; September, 68¼c. No. 2 northern, 66¾c. No. 3 spring, 62½c. Oats, 27⅝@27½c. Rye, 50c. Flax—Cash and to arrive, $1.65; September, $1.57; September Northwestern, $1.28; October, $1.25.

Car inspection—Wheat, 162; corn, 20; rye, 4; flax, 1. Receipts—Wheat, 85,033; corn, 12,202; rye, 550. Shipments—Wheat, 32,000; corn, 60,000; rye, 172; flax, 3966.

THE CHICAGO MARKET.

Much Weakness Was Apparent In Wheat.

Chicago, June 11.—In spite of the bullish government report there was much weakness in the wheat market today. This condition was due particularly to extensive rains in the Northwest and Southwest. There was a considerable volume of trade. July wheat opened ½c to ⅝c lower at 72¾c to 72⅝c and under liberal offerings by commission houses declined within the first hour to 71⅝@71¾. Lower cables had much to do with the selling, as did the prospect for further rain. Minneapolis and Duluth reported 350 cars against 323 last week and 478 a year ago. Local receipts were 112 cars, none of contract grade.

July wheat declined to 71⅝c and recovered to 71¾c. Subsequently there was another decline to 71⅝c and the close was weak and 1¼c lower at 71¼c.

In the corn market there seemed to be a general desire to sell and apparently the only buyers were profit takers. July opened ⅝@¾c to ⅞@1c lower at 43⅝@43½c and under free offerings with selling from the outside constituting the feature, sold down to 42⅞c before the end of the first hour of trading. It looked like the whole pit was long and frightened on account of the approved weather conditions. Local receipts were 505 cars, 108 of contract.

The corn close was weak, July ¾@⅞c lower at 42¾c.

Rains in the West had a bearish effect too in oats, the July option opening ½@⅝c lower at 27⅝@¾c. Large country offerings and weakness in other grains did not break the price very much, however, and the market steadied around 27⅝c. Local receipts were 242 cars.

Higher prices for hogs caused improvement in provisions, but these prices eased off soon after the beginning of the session. July pork opened 2½c higher at $14.82½ and declined to $14.75. July lard opened 5@7½c up at $8.60@8.62½ and sold down to $8.50. July ribs opened 2½@3c to 5@7½c improved at $8.10@8.12 and sold down to $8.05.

Close, wheat, June, 70⅝c; July, 71¼c; September, 68⅝@68¾c. Corn, June, 41⅝c; July, 42¾c; September, 43¾c. Oats, June, 27c; July, 27¾c; September, 28⅜c. Pork, June, $14.77½; July, $14.77½; September, $14.95. Lard, June, $8.55; July, $8.55; September, $8.65; October, $8.65; November, $8.52½; December, $8.35; January, $8.27½. Ribs, June, $8.05; July, $8.05; September, $8.07½. Flax, cash, Northwestern, $1.70; No. 1, $1.70; September, $1.28; October, $1.25. Cash wheat, No. 2 red, 71¼@72c; No. 3 red, 70@71¼c; No. 2 hard winter, 70½c; No. 3 hard winter, 69@70¼c; No. 1 northern spring, 72¼@73½c; No. 2 northern spring, 71½@73¼c; No. 3 spring, 66¾@71½c. Corn, No. 2, 42@43½c; No. 3, 41@43c. Oats, No. 2, 27¾@28¼c; No. 3, 27¾@28c. Rye, July, 50c; September, 48c. Barley, cash, 40@53c. Timothy, September, $3.62½@3.72. Clover, cash, $9.50.

MARKET GOSSIP.

Received over private wire of B. E. Baker, grain and stock broker, 307 Board of Trade, Duluth, Minn.:

Chicago, June 11.—Wheat—The government report was what had been expected. It reduced the winter wheat crop about 6 points. The feeling, however, is that the favorable weather since the reports on which it was based were made, has materially improved the outlook. The tone of the market continues heavy and the prices drag. There is a good export business at the decline, but speculative support is not of an encouraging character. The weather continues favorable everywhere for harvesting maturing the crop. We still see nothing to make a bull market and wheat should be sold on hard spots.

Corn—The weather is favorable for the growing crop. The situation in corn looks weak. Liberal stocks, good receipts and poor demand. We think the selling pressure is unimportant and the holdings are scattered. Price is certainly not low and we are inclined to think corn should be sold.

Oats—The government report indicates a crop of about 700,000,000 bus against 809,000,000 last year. The weather, however, has been much more favorable since these reports were compiled and with continued favorable conditions the outlook should improve during the current month. Demand is not urgent and stocks are liberal. On these conditions we expect lower prices.

Provisions were steady and unchanged, receipts of hogs are hardly coming up to expectation and the market holds the advance in consequence. Lard is much stronger of the products and the statistical position in lard is very strong. Cash demand continues good.

DECLINE IN STOCKS

More Cheerful Tone In London Had a Favorable Effect.

Trading Broader and Many Stocks Made Gains.

Later In Day Prices Dropped and Close Was Heavy.

New York, June 11.—A more cheerful tone in London this morning and a favorable interpretation of the government crop report helped prices to a higher level at the opening. There were 3000-share blocks of Missouri Pacific and Atchison and 5000 shares of Southern Pacific taken at wide openings, the range extending from ¾ to 1⅝; St. Paul rose 1½ and Wheeling & Lake Erie first preferred as much. American Linseed preferred advanced 2¼ on the entry of Standard Oil interestas to the company.

Additional advances were made by the stocks which were conspicuously strong at the opening, excepting Missouri Pacific, which declined to 118¾. Trading became broader and many stocks made substantial gains, although trading was rather quiet. The properties which were liquidated yesterday and were in demand late were foremost in the rise today, especially Sugar, Atchison, St. Paul, Southern Pacific and Union Pacific which were 1@2% up. In addition there were improvements to 1 to 3 points in American Car, American Linseed, Chicago Terminal preferred, Lackawanna, Western Union, Norfolk & Western, Denver & Rio Grands preferred, General Electric, Pressed Steel Car, Illinois Central, Tennessee Coal, Louisville, Rock Island and Wabash, reflecting a varied demand. Railroads traversing Texas, Missouri and Kansas showed less proportionate strength than other grain carrying roads, owing to the damage reported in those sections by the government crop report. At 11 o'clock the prices were below the best owing to the continued pressure against Missouri Pacific. Declines reached a point or over in Union Pacific, Louisville, Sugar, Rock Island, Amalgamated Copper and in Texas & Pacific 2¾.

Buying by the short interest to cover caused some good rallies on light transactions. Missouri Pacific got back to 120½ and Texas Pacific recovered 2¾. Otherwise the variations in the leading stocks were slight and trade was light. Mexican Central was unusually active and gained 2 points. American Express advanced 6 over the last sale on one transaction and National Lead preferred and Lackawanna 4. Bonds were strong but quiet.

There were gains of 2¼ in General Electric, 2¾ in Virginia-Carolina Chemical and 2½ in Delaware & Hudson, but a constant dribble of realizing sales carried prices downward in the general list. Many leading stocks touched the lowest of the day. There was a drop of 13 points in Northwestern preferred under the last sale. Rock Island lost 3⅜ and St. Paul 2¼. The general level of prices fell below last night's level. The closing was dull and heavy at the decline.

STOCK GOSSIP.

New York—The theory that the substantial interests of Wall street are buying their specialties on the scale down finds more general belief every day. They bought stocks heavily in the panic, took profits on large lines in the bulge of a week ago and are now recouping their holdings preparatory to moving the market upward again. Such at least is the reasoning of brokers who believe that the good stocks are a purchase on all recessions, notably so Pacifics, Atchisons, Southern Railway, Erie, Reading, American Foundry and the Steel stocks. The short interest is increasing steadily and is now of very considerable proportions, the result of the constant hammering and persistent selling by the professional speculators, the great majority of whom are very pessimistic arguing that the range of prices is high, that business is on the decline and the crop outlook poor. On the other hand steady absorption of stocks by the large interests and by investors is daily reducing the floating supply a great aid to bull manipulators when ever the latter see fit to make a fresh start on the long side. As regards money, increasing ease abroad and the belief that the surrender of the Boers is near, thus hastening exports of gold from there, it is believed that much of the buying of railroad stocks in the opening of the week was on the confident belief of a good crop report.

• • •

New York up-town gossip to Jones & Co.—It was pretty generally conceded last night that the crop report issued by the government furnished a good, sound basis for the stock market. There will be no gold shipments this week. The short interest in this market is likely to be stampeded at any time. Rock Island and St. Paul were freely bought both on Western and local account on the decline yesterday. There is talk of an increase on the dividend on St. Paul. An analysis of the projected plans of the Rock Island have made the stock with rights particularly attractive to investors. There has been steady buying in Southwestern shares and Pacific Mail, both look like doing better. The M. K. and T.'s attractive on their dividend prospects. Tips are numerous that Wisconsin Central preferred will sell in the 70's.

THE COTTON MARKET.

New York, June 11.—Cotton opened with prices 1 point higher to 1 point lower, but strengthened on a good Western demand. This and local covering sent prices up 6 to 9 points, July to 8.88, and 5 to 7 points higher thereafter the market was excited and irregular. Liverpool was weak early, but this was reversed later by the sudden rise here. Crop news was too mixed to have much weight either way. Trading was active in a spasmodic way, the feeling being nervous over the government report due at noon today.

Cotton spot closed 1-15c higher; middling uplands, 8 5-16; middling gulf, 8 9-16. Sales, 570 bales. Cotton futurcs closed steady. June, 8.15; July, 8.19; August, 7.81; September, 7.23; October, 7.18; November, 7.15; December, 7.17; January, 7.21; February, 7.21; March, 7.24.

BUNCODED.

But the Sheriff Captured Gypsy and Secures Part of Money.

St. Cloud, Minn., June 11.—Sheriff Schilpin has made an important capture at Villard. He took into custody a gypsy woman who, it is claimed, last Thursday, at Melrose, victimized Mrs. Michael Atkinson out of a cool $1000. The gypsy pretended to treat Mrs. Atkinson's little girl for serious illness and after some days claimed that her cure would not work unless Mrs. Atkinson would dispose of money on deposit in the Bank of North America, Melrose. Her claim was that the money was cursed, and upon her statement the mother drew her money from the bank and in some manner not explained it got into the hands of the fakir. The sheriff was notified and has arrested the woman, finding $780 of the amount in her possession. She will be brought back to answer to the charge.

JESSIE MORRISON.

Alleged Murderess Again Placed on Trial.

Eldorado, Kans., June 11.—The case of Jessie Morrison, charged with killing her rival, Clara Wiley Castle, in June, 1900, by cutting her throat with a razor after a struggle between the two women, was called here today. Miss Morrison had been on bond since last December, when her first trial ended in a hung jury. Today she was accompanied by her aged father, an ex-probate judge of the county. She looked well and expressed the belief that she would be acquitted.

LABOR ANNUAL

Nineteenth Convention of Minnesota Federation of Labor.

Held at Mankato With Over Sixty Unions Represented.

Reports of Officers Show a More Satisfactory Condition.

Mankato, Minn., June 11.—The nineteenth annual convention of the Minnesota Federation of Labor opened in this city yesterday and will continue through today. Some sixty unions are represented and the Twin Cities have especially large delegations. The Minneapolis contingent, seventy-five strong, came on a special train. The convention was welcomed by Mayor Petersen and President M. E. Neary, of Minneapolis, responded. The credentials committee reported in favor of admitting two representatives from Minneapolis of the Retail Liquor Dealers' association only as fraternal delegates without votes. The recommendation was sustained after a discussion. The afternoon session was largely devoted to reports of state officers. President Neary, in his annual report, said that the past year in membership, new councils organized and financially has been the best since the federation was started. Minnesota, he said, is classed as one of the best organized states in the Union and has a membership of nearly 30,000. He suggested that organizers be appointed through the state. He recommended that an arbitration law be enacted at the next session of the legislature and spoke favorably of the Johnson arbitration bill. On this subject he said that "it is not necessary for us to again state that we are in favor of arbitration. Organized labor has always stood for arbitration, but in my judgment arbitration should be voluntary on the part of all parties concerned."

He recommended the appointment of a committee to take action on this matter. He complimented the work of the committee on legislation and gave Labor Commissioner O'Donnell credit for assisting to secure the passage of the eight-hour law which, though not what was expected, is a good start. He said that organized trades can bring about a reduction of the working hours without the necessity of legislation.

The Eight Hour league was commended for its good work. The convict labor problem is no nearer a solution. Since the prison has been placed under the control of the state board President Neary recommends that the federation request that board to label all goods made in the penitentiary as "prison made."

Secretary-Treasurer McEwen, of Duluth, made a lengthy report. He considered as remarkable the work done in the smaller cities during the past year. Since his last report eighteen unions have become affiliated with the Federation of Labor. He recommended that a committee be appointed to draft bylaws and legislation for federal unions in smaller cities. The union label came in for good words. Mr. McEwen regarded this emblem as one of the most potent factors in the existence of organized labor. Mr. McEwen called upon all union men in the state to assist in organizing the non-union men. The watchword of the convention should be "Organization."

A mass meeting was held at the Opera house last night and was addressed by several prominent labor officials and citizens of Mankato, the purpose being to explain the true aims of organized labor.

FACTIONS IN HAWAII

The Old Residents Want to Hold All the Offices.

Resent Official Plums Being Given to the Newcomers.

Reports Being Obtained on Effect of Anti-Canteen Law.

From The Herald Washington Bureau.

Washington, June 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Baltimore Sun says editorially that our American brethren in Hawaii are not dwelling together in unity or wasting much affection upon each other. The "old residents" of this Pacific territory "appurtenant to the United States" want to hold on to all the offices and not share them with the pushing gentlemen from this country who have gone to the island in search of official plums. The consequence is that Hawaii has a "carpetbagger problem" on its hands, and the island, as far as its American population is concerned is divided into factions, each having a newspaper organ and each reviling the other with exceptional vigor and bitterness. In the Hawaiian language, the "carpetbagger" is designated as "Malihini," whereas the white man whose father was born on the island is termed "Kamaaina." Between the "Malihini" and the "Kamaaina" there is now war to the knife and the knife to the hilt. The feud began shortly after the annexation of the island to the United States in July, 1898.

The Honolulu Advertiser is the organ of the "Kamaainas." In a recent issue it roasts the "Malihinis" brown. "No 'carpetbaggers' the Hawaiians have ever known," it avers, "came here to do them good—not one wanted to make money for them, to elevate them to high places, to guide them toward useful franchises and into the avenues of corporate wealth, least of all to build them up in morals or religion. The gifts they have had from the 'carpetbaggers' are those of flattery and empty promises; the gifts they have returned are money and power. Strangers have been imported to take offices that may be created or become vacant. Are the Hawaiians to be cat's paws forever, that men who have done nothing for them or for the islands and care nothing for either may fatten on the spoils of politics?" To these pertinent observations the Sunday Volcano, of Honolulu, which seems to have a warm place in its heart for "carpetbaggers," makes a racy reply. It affirms that the "good and self-sacrificing men" who came to the Hawaiian islands early in the nineteenth century to improve the condition of the natives by establishing the Christian religion were as much "carpetbaggers" as the men who have landed in Hawaii since its annexation by the United States. The crusade against newcomers, in the opinion of the Volcano, is due to the desire of the old inhabitants to monopolize all the offices. It refers to the "old residents" in irreverent terms in this connection, intimating that "they hold on to office with a tenacity which threatens to loosen their teeth."

Apparently the Americans in Hawaii who were instrumental in bringing about the annexation of the island to the United States regret the part which they had in that transaction. After the Hawaiian monarchy was overthrown and the republic was established by the oligarchy which obtained control, there were enough offices for the leaders of the revolution, and everybody except the natives were content. If the oligarchy had known what was good for it, Hawaii would today be an independent republic under the protection of the United States. Unfortunately, the men who wanted to hold offices for the rest of their lives urged that the island be annexed to the United States. It is impossible to feel much sympathy for the "old residents" of Hawaii; they had a good thing, but not enough wisdom to keep it. They ought to have stuck to their "oligarchy," kept up their pretense of a republic and remained outside of the political and geographical limits of the United States. Since their territory became "appurtenant" to the United States, the offices have likewise become an "appurtenance" of Uncle Sam's, as they find to their sorrow. It looks as if the "carpetbagger" will get all that is worth having in the island of Hawaii. The Hawaiian "old residents" may get even by becoming "carpetbaggers" themselves and emigrating to the Philippines.

The effect of the anti-canteen law upon the moral and physical condition of the army is to be the subject of investigation and report to the war department.

Commanding officers at posts and garrisons have been instructed to examine the records of court-martials for minor offenses resulting from an abandonment of the canteen, and to give in detail the causes leading to recent riots at several stations and disorderly conduct reported by large numbers of troops at the Presidio, Fort Sheridan and other places where the soldiers have been visiting the low liquor resorts beyond the garrison limits. These reports are to be filed with the department by July 1 and will serve as a basis of representation by Secretary Root on the effect of the existing law. He expects, it is said, to present evidence to substantiate the claim that the behavior of the enlisted men has been to a marked degree worse within the past few months than at any period for years.

Preliminary reports are being received now of the alleged evil effect of the present law, which army men at every post heard from unanimously condemn in round terms. The army chaplains have not found favor with the civil ministers in their denunciation of the act abolishing the canteen.

Adjt. Gen. Corbin, who is probably more responsible than any other army officer for the canteen, has directed that reports be submitted and a careful analysis presented of the conditions prevailing prior to the abolition of the law and those existing now. The endorsement given the canteen at a recent meeting of army surgeons held at St. Paul is regarded by its advocates as a strong factor in its favor and should go far to convince those opposed to it that for physical condition the soldier is better off with the mild wines and beer supplied than with the harder liquors which he purchases at rum shops in garrison towns and cities.

War department officials are daily in receipt of large numbers of communications relating to the canteen, in which both sides present their views on the question. The number of advocates of the present law are said to be infinitesimal as compared with those favoring a return to old conditions.

The prices at which the bonds of the United States now sell indicate that the credit of this government is exceptionally good. No government bond outstanding at this time nets the holder as much as 2 per cent. The 2 per cents, due in 1930, sell for 106.42, netting the holder 1.717 per cent. The 3 per cents, due in 1918, sell at 109.25, netting the holder 1.62 per cent. The fours due in 1925 bring the best return to the holder, selling for 138.54, at which figure they have for the holder an investment value of 1.96 per cent. The fours due in 1907 net the holder 1.72 per cent, and the fives of 1904 bring him 1.60 per cent. This high price of the bonds of the United States is due in large part, no doubt, to their legal position as the basis of the issue of national bank notes and as a species of investment favored by the courts and by ultra-conservative trustees. The twos would hardly be at par, but for the use made of them by banks issuing currency. But when all allowances are made the prices of our bonds compare well with British 2½ per cents at 94¼, French 3 per cents at 101¼ and German 3 per cents at 88. Careful investors nowadays hardly expect to get a "gilt-edged" security that will net them over 3½ or 4 per cent.

The navy department has removed from the rolls of the navy the name of the receiving ship Minnesota. This vessel is at the present time tied up at the Boston navy yard, gradually going to decay. She is probably destined to share the fate of many a good vessel of the old navy cruising along the coast in company with coal barges and refuse dumps for the larger cities.

The Tennessee, at one time the most stupendous naval craft of the old service; the Powahatan, Iroquois and Swatara all shared this ignominious fate and are yet in active service of a coal company. The Minnesota belongs to the list of old vessels that were unequalled by the navies of the world in their day, but she long ago passed the meridian of her usefulness, and for years has laid in the mud of Boston harbor roofed over and unseaworthy. A board has appraised her value and she will be sold to the highest bidder. Her place at Boston will be taken by some other vessel, possibly by the Constellation, now at Newport, another of the high class ships of the old service. Secretary Long will act on the report soon after he reaches the city.

Schlitz

For fifty years Schlitz beer has been brewed at Milwaukee. From this city it goes to the remotest parts of the earth. The sun never sets on Schlitz agencies. Civilized men do not live where Schlitz beer is not standard.

Schlitz beer has made Milwaukee famous. It has given Milwaukee beer the distinction of purity, and purity is everything, but all Milwaukee beer is not Schlitz beer. People now demand a beer that is healthful, and that demand calls for Schlitz.

Schlitz purity is absolute. Every process is cleanly. Every drop of the product is cooled in filtered air. Every barrel is filtered—every bottle is sterilized.

A beer that is aged and pure is healthful. That is Schlitz.

Horrible Tragedy on Board a Crowded Atchison Train.

Women Fainted and Men Were Shocked By the Sight.

Discharged Soldier Leaps Through a Window In a Frenzy.

Albuquerque, N. M., June 11.—While passenger train No. 8, on the Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe, was making ready to leave Winslow, a wild-looking stranger stepped through the front door of the crowded chair car and stood facing the passengers. After a few minutes of scrutiny of the faces before him, he opened a small package he held in his hand and took out a new razor. He opened the razor and stroked his stubby beard for a moment.

The passengers thought he meant to shave himself before them, and were amused as he raised the shining razor. There was a little titter, which changed to a cry of horror when he suddenly swept the keen blade across his throat. Blood spouted from the wound, but throwing back his head the stranger slashed and hacked his throat with short, nervous strokes, until weakened by loss of blood, his fingers could no longer grasp the razor, and it dropped from his hand. He stood staring at the passengers for an instant, then pitched forward on his face in a pool of his own blood, dead.

The minute while the tragedy was being enacted was full of horror for the passengers. Half a dozen women fainted and the men fell back in horror as they watched the suicide. A soldier, recently discharged from the service in the Philippines and weak from illness, was so greatly shocked that he leaped through a window in a frenzy of horror and ran over the sand hills opposite the station. He was not found until after the train had left.

A card bearing the name Herman S. Johnston, St. Louis, Mo., found in the pocket of the suicide, is the only evidence of the stranger's identity. The passengers in the chair car crowded into the forward cars, refusing to ride in the blood-stained coach in which the tragedy occurred.

Pan-American Exposition

THE Pan-American, to be held at Buffalo, N. Y., May 1 to Nov. 1, will be one of the greatest and most beautiful expositions the world has known. To enjoy its beauties will be worth any effort. The question of traveling to and from Buffalo is one to be carefully considered. You will desire to travel by the route affording the most comfort and interest. The return trip, too, must be considered, as after you have done the Exposition, Buffalo, Niagara Falls and vicinity, you'll be tired and wish to reach home quickly.

The Lake Shore and Michigan Southern Railway

as the leading line to Buffalo by reason of the frequency of its trains and the certainty and punctuality of their movement will best meet this requirement. It is the only double track line, and the completeness of its service—eight through trains daily among them the only daylight train, places it at the forefront among Eastern roads. The country traversed is the fairest and richest of the Middle States—the most interesting on the way to Buffalo.

All tickets over this route afford use of steamers either way between Cleveland and Buffalo, also stop at Chautauqua on return trip within limit of ticket. Our "Book of Trains" contains full information. Sent free on request. Look it through carefully.
